Brother John was asked whether, in view of all the diplomatic shoptalk the students must hear at home, any international frictions are carried into the classroom. For instance, might not an Indonesian student, bitter over Malaysia, take the national grudge to school?

"Definitely not," said Brother John. "All these students have travelled. They are broad-minded right away, and it makes a big difference."

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Way back in 1888 a Philadelphia doctor wrote an essay on "Hygiene for Baseball Players."

A large part of the story is given over to a description of the human skeleton and the multitude of muscles which it carries around.

The doc says the principal muscles employed by a pitcher throwing a curve are: shoulder extensorum supinators, deltoid, tergs major, biceps, brachialus anticus, pectoralis major, serratus magnus and latissimi dori. It doesn't mention the head bones.

Angry athletes, the doc says, generally play better than placid ones. (Father Bauer, note). He suggests "do not eat while laboring under excitement whether it be joy, sorrow or anger for all alike affect the heart so as to retard or prevent digestion."

(Comment:—a lot of athletes we know would starve to death under this regulation.)

The doc says athletes should sleep on horsehair mattresses to keep one side of their heads from getting hot. Never sleep with the mouth open. Don't drink, it takes ninety-thirty years off a man's life. (Comment: We know old athlete topers who drank all their lives. They are still going at 70.)

Now here it comes—and remember this was written back in 1888 before cancer of the lungs through cigarette smoking was thought of.

"Note, for instance," the doctor writes, "the repose and extreme satisfaction with which a previously-wearied individual will sit down and smoke a cigarette!"

"Note, also," he goes on, "how indifferently the tobacco chewer as a rule, regards matters around him as compared with himself when not smoking or chewing. Why look down upon an opium-smoking celestial? If you are a tobacco user yourself. . . Because of tobacco's sedative or depressing effect upon the mind, it inclines one to avoid as much exertion as possible. In other words it tends to laziness."

(Comment—The boss is thinking of an order to cut down smoking here. Funny thing, the guys that go to work at 8.30 a.m. are the two heaviest smokers in the news caravan.)

The doc insists that the same stuff a baseball player wads into his mouth when applied as a poultice to parts of the body often makes patients "deathly sick." "It's a fact," the doc maintains, "that many ballplayers but poorly because of tobacco eyes."

"Compel every man," he suggests, "to wash or rinse his feet in a bucket of water after each game. Insist upon every man taking a bath at least once a month under penalty of fine and make him do it under your eyes at the hotel or club grounds."

"Strictly enforce a rule requiring all players to have their uniforms washed once a week. Never permit the unhealthy and foul, disgusting custom of leaving damp uniforms on the floor."

The doc specifies, when he speaks of bathing, the use of a tub. Shower baths, he says, are dangerous and useless.

"Shower baths," he announces, "do me good but a great deal of harm. It is seldom safe to use one except under the direction of a competent physician.

(Comment: I object. Our family doc happens to be a woman.)

Canada Drops 3-1 Toughie To Czechs

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Sports Editor

INNSBRUCK, Austria (CP)—Canadian coach Rev. David Bauer seems convinced his young Cinderella hockey team still can fit its foot into the Olympic slipper.

"We'll beat the Russians," the Canadian coach said Friday. "We really will. We'll beat the Russians."

SETH MARTIN

That will take some doing against the sharp Soviet squad, which scored its sixth-straight victory in the Olympic hockey championships Friday by defeating Sweden 4-2 and now needs only a tie with Canada in today's big game to win the title.

A Canadian victory over Russia is essential if Canada is to maintain any hope of getting its first Olympic hockey gold medal since 1952. But even that is not quite enough to win it.

The Canadians, giving up three goals after goalie Seth Martin was knocked out of action in the third period, were beaten 3-1 by Czechoslovakia Friday night.

NEED SWEDEN'S HELP

They need a victory over the Russians and an assist from Sweden in the final match of the seven - game, round robin tournament to grab the championship.

The Swedes meet the Czechs a few hours after the Russia-Canada clash starts.

If the Soviets tie or beat Canada, the final game will go only toward determing the second-place silver and third-place bronze medals.

But if Canada beats Russia to gain a first-place tie and the Swedes tie or beat the Czechs to keep them from making it a three-way affair at the top, the Canadians will go home Olympic champions by virtue of their victory over Russia.

If Canada and the Czechs tie Russia in the standings, the Soviets would take the championship on the basis of goal spread and the Czechs would win the silver medal because they have beaten Canada.

	G	W	L	T	F	A	Pt
Russia	6	6	0	0	51	8	12
Czech.	6	5	1	0	35	11	10
Canada	6	5	1	0	30	14	10
Sweden	6	4	2	0	39	13	8

The Swedes have a big stake in their match against the Czechs. They can grab third place if the Canadians win and possibly take the silver if the Canadians lose.

SOLUTION FOR TIES

The International Ice Hockey Federation has ruled that in the event of a points tie between two teams the club beating the other involved in the deadlock goes ahead. If a three-way tie develops, the decision will be made on goal spread. If that doesn't settle it, the goal average, computed by dividing the goals scored by the goals allowed, will decide things.

Father Bauer maintained confidence in his squad even after its loss to the Czechs.

"They played all right," he said of his players. "They're not dead yet. We are still playing to win the gold medal."

Only Martin, 30-year-old native of Trail, B.C., who played in the 1961 and 1963 world championships, and forward Bob Forhan of Newmarket, Ont., who competed in the 1960 Olympics when Canada was second only to the 1963 world championships when Canada finished fourth, had previous international experience.

The Canadians outplayed the Czechs by a good margin in the scoreless first period and went ahead 1-0 in the second on a goal by Rod Seiling, 19, of Ezmira, Ont., who deflected the puck into the net on a hard shot by defencemen John MacKenzie of Weston, Ont.

Martin blocked 14 shots in the first period and 8 more in the second. He kicked out another eight during the first seven minutes of the third before he was injured.

Czech forward Jaroslav Jirik slid into the Canadian netminder, who went to the bench for repairs and then played until his right knee gave out when he blocked a hard shot by Jirik.

Father Bauer said Martin suffered "torn or strained ligaments in the right knee" when the Czech forward crashed into him.

Ken Broderick, 20, of Toronto went into the Canadian nets and was the victim of the three Czech goals—scored by Jan Klapac and Jiri Holik about two minutes apart midway in the period and by Josef Cerny at 19:01 of the third.

STAR HURT

The Czechs lost Vlastimil Bubnik, their fine veteran of international competition, with a three-stitch cut on his left eyelid in the first period when he was checked by Hank Akervall of Fort Arthur. Akervall got a five-minute penalty for boarding, the only penalty of the hard-fought game.

Earlier, Leonid Volkov and Victor Yakushev had scored two third-period goals less than two minutes apart to break up a 2-2 tie with the Swedes and give Russia its victory.

Alexander Ragulin sent the Russians into the lead in the first period and Edward Iwano put them ahead again in the second after Uno Ohrlund had tied it before the first period ended. Ohrlund tied it again after 51 seconds of the third, but the Swedes ran out of steam.

CFL Clubs Pluck College Plums

EDMONTON (CP) — Barry Mitchelson, a defensive end from the University of Western Ontario, was the No. 1 choice of the Canadian Football League's annual draft of college players Friday.

Edmonton Eskimos, last-place finishers in the Western Conference last season, picked Mitchelson, the first of 36 college graduates selected in 10 rounds of drafting. Only two of the nine CFL clubs — Montreal Alouettes and Toronto Argonauts — selected players in every round.

Other first-round choices:

Toronto — Bill Watters, fullback, University of Toronto; Winnipeg — Jack Cowin, tackle, Western Ontario; Calgary—Mike Holtet, end, Toronto (choice traded from Saskatchewan); Ottawa — Peter Martin, fullback, Western; British Columbia — Dick Aldridge, halfback, Waterloo; Hamilton—Paul Desjardins, guard, Ottawa.

Of the 36 choices, 21 came from the Senior Intercollegiate Conference, 15 from the Western Intercollegiate, 16 from Ontario and Quebec and three, all members of the unbeaten St. Francis Xavier X-Men, from Maritime Intercollegiate ranks.

THREE X-MEN

The three X-Men were end John Shaw, second choice of the Argonauts, and end Joel Lamorre and tackle Jim Burke, picked by Ottawa Rough Rid-

Hockey Gold Today?

INNSBRUCK, Austria (CP)— Thirty gold medals have been awarded so far at the ninth Winter Olympics and Canada has received just one.

That's not much when stacked against the unprecedented 10 taken by the Soviet Union, which still may add the hockey championship to its trophy bag.

But there's something special about that single Canadian victory—and a good many of the Canadians here were still celebrating it in the wee hours today.

Leading the celebrations, of course, were the Canadian bobsledders.

And that was only right because it was the four-man bobsled crew of Vic Emery, Doug Anakin, John Emery and Peter Kirby that won Canada's only gold medal in the first 10 days of the 12-day Olympic competitions.

DECIDED TODAY

The hockey championship will be decided today when Canada meets Russia and Sweden goes against Czechoslovakia in the decisive games of the seven-game round-robin tournament.

The Soviets, after a 4-3 victory over Sweden Friday, were favored because with six straight victories they need only a tie with Canada to win the gold medal.

The Canadians, now tied with Czechoslovakia with a 5-1 record after the Czechs beat them 5-1 Friday night, must beat Russia and get an assist from the Swedes—by way of a tie or a Swedish victory against the Czechs—to win the championship.

Canada expects no medals in the men's 40-kilometre cross-country ski relay and the men's special jump race today but not in the special ski jumping Sunday which brings the 1964 Games to an end.

But thanks to the bobbers, Canada will not be shut out of the gold as it was in 1936 and again 30 years later.

VIC AN EMERY

Intrepid Vic Emery, the 30-year-old Montreal aircraft company sales executive remised as the world's best sheerman on the bobsled chute, steered the half-ton Mark I Canadian four-man bob to the Olympic championship Friday.

Hitting behind him on the sled were Anakin, a 23-year-old Montrealer Vic's 22-year-old brother, Allan, a Toronto plastic surgeon; and Kirby, 25-year-old geologist from St. Jovite, Que., who is the sled's brakeman.

Their victory, in four hair-raising runs down the metric mile bobsleigh run, bobsled chute, was special on so many accounts that it was discussed here as probably Canada's most exciting sports success story of modern times.

It was the first time Canadians had ever entered the Olympic bobsledding competition.

They won in a sport that has been dominated for years by the Europeans and especially the Italians, from whom the Canadians learned their technique.

HAD TO SELL IT

They triumphed after convincing the Canadian Olympic Association they should be included among Canada's team here with a full complement.

They did it in spite of the fact that Canada has no bobsled run.

And they did it after five years of hard work and expensive efforts that drew little public support back home.

Little wonder that team manager Chuck Rathgeb of Toronto shouted when the victory was assured Friday:

"Nobody is going to skunk Canada now. We were the orphans of the Canadian Olympic team. Yes sir, we were the guys who were using up extra beds in the athletes' village."

VIC COMMENTS

Op that Vic Emery said to no one in particular among the throng of 25,000 watching at the finish:

"Imagine. Britain wins the two-man bob and we get the gold in this!" — and indicated a country bob has a bob run. This is the Commonwealth's year all right."

The British pair of Tony Nash and Robin Dixon won the two-man event last week with Vic Emery and Kirby fourth.

Further plus for the Canadians sped down the dangerous and sometimes treacherously-curved ice chute twice Wednesday, once Thursday and once Friday for an aggregate time of four minutes, 14.46 seconds in the four-man event.

That was 1.29 seconds ahead of Austria's No. 1 sled, steered by Erwin Thaler, and a fantastic margin in this sport where sleds frequently reach 70 and 80 miles an hour as they race through 14 turns en route to the bottom of the ice-coated run.

MONTY LUND

Italy's eight-time world champion, Eugenio Monti, piloted his sled to third place and made the final run of the day Friday to the shouts of Vic Emery yelling: "Hey—Come on, Monti, go man go."

Monti, at 36 showing indications that he will retire from the sport, has been both teacher and friend to the Canadians.

"I'm glad we won," Vic Emery told Monti as the Canadians were hoisted high on the shoulders of fellow bobbers. "But if we had had to lose there's no one I'd rather lose to than you."

After the race Friday, the Canadians crated their second-hand pale-blue bob, purchased five years ago in Italy for $800, and had it shipped to Lake Placid, N.Y., for the North American championships Feb. 21-23.

Then they all headed for the Sport Hotel in downtown Igls favorite meeting place of the sledders for big celebration. The Canadians had ordered kegs of wine and barrels of champagne in anticipation of victory.

WIN WORLD TITLE

Their triumph also carried with it the world championship for four-man bobsledding, and they had to interrupt their party for an appearance at this little in another Igls hotel and then the Olympic gold medal presentation in the ice stadium before the Canada-Czechoslovakia hockey game.

When they got back on the sled at Lake Placid, they'll be racing down the only bobsled chute in North America—and they have fresh hope now that a chute will be built in Canada.

"With all the publicity the sledders have given us," said Allan Eaton of Toronto, president of the Canadian Olympic Association, "I certainly hope that the teams to and money can be found to build one in Canada."

Rathgeb said a run would cost about $250,000. "Maintenance costs are high, but I don't know whether we'll be able to take up the sport. A new sled costs up to $2,000—it's an expensive sport."

The 10 Canadian bobsledders who came here have spent nearly $100,000 in five years as they paid their own way to competitions and practices in Europe to the bulldup for this-triumph.

HOLD THREE

Canada, which won the hockey gold medals in 1924, 1932, 1948 and 1952, the women's figure skating gold medal in 1948, and the pairs figure skating and women's speed skating titles at world championships in the last games in 1960, had three medals here after the bobsled victories.

Elsewhere at the Olympics Friday:

Claudia Boyarskikh, a 24-year-old teacher who had won the women's 15- and five-kilometre cross-country gold medals earlier, led the Russian team to victory in the three-member 10-kilometre women's cross-country relay to bring Russia its 10th gold medal. Alevtina Kolchina and Eudokia Mekshilo were the other team members.

Jonny Nilsson of Sweden, the world record holder, got away to a favorable early start and raced to victory in the 15-kilometre (9¼-mile) men's speed-skating final, finishing in 15:50.1 to beat Norway's Fred Anton Maier and Knut Johannesen who took the silver and bronze medals, respectively.

NHL Has Busy Weekend

Abel Experiments With 'Football Book'

By MARVEN MOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

As a hockey tactician, Sid Abel has developed an out-of-the-ordinary approach this season.

Not in any discernible manner has it aroused his Detroit Red Wings.

Going into the weekend they clung to the No. 4 spot in the National Hockey League.

None of it has rubbed off elsewhere around the league. But that's understandable.

For years the NHL has been largely characterized by a certain reluctance to change.

Take, for example, the protective face mask for goaltenders pioneered by Jacques Plante. The device drew a tepid reception. Now it's virtually standard equipment.

MAY FOLLOW SUIT

So if Sid's ideas are any good, it might be that others in time will follow suit—eventually.

Abel seems to have borrowed liberally from football for his hockey innovations.

He introduced the stratagem in a Dec. 8 game at Montreal to contain a Canadiens' star Jean Beliveau that was giving the Red Wings cause for grief.

Under the play, Abel sent team captain Alex Delvecchio back with instructions to remain behind the Detroit blueline even when his mates carried the puck into the zone.

His job: To prevent Montreal from dumping the puck into the Detroit zone and racing in to take control.

"WE STOPPED 'EM'

The Wings used it on previous games, they beat us to the puck all the time. But we stopped 'em."

The game wound up a 1-1 tie. Sid turned the club over to his assistant coach, defenseman Bill Gadsby, for a game against the Black Hawks in Chicago that night and went into the stands to watch things.

They hooked up a telephone link to the bench for him.

"I had a feeling our defencemen were backing into our goalies instead of going out to intercept the opposing players. I couldn't see much from the bench. I sure did see a lot from up there, though."

BRINGS IN SCOUT

Abel devised a system then to have a scout sit in the stands well above ice level with a telephone line to the bench. The scout relays information to him on the pattern of play, just like football coaches do that.

Abel's non-conformity comes as a surprise. He was always considered a conventional-type coach.

But the Red Wings have fluctuated from first to third since he took over from Jimmy Skinner part way through the 1957-58 season.

It could be he feels now that maybe the front office is getting impatient.

In sodden touch smacking of foothill, the Wings appointed three assistant coaches before the start of the season.

They are given responsibility for the defence and the incomparable Gordie Howe was named offensive tutor. No other club has anything like that.

OTHER DUTIES

The two are hands, incidentally, form a players' committee along with Delvecchio and Marcel Pronovost.

Abel set it up last season

City Secondary School Athletes

BOB RIDLEY (B.C.I.)

By Robert Williams

Bob Ridley is a 5' 5" tall 156 lb. bundle of athletic ability. He has developed his natural ability in his chosen sports to a high degree of proficiency.

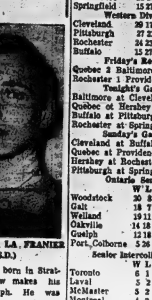
Bob has taken his place on the C.O.S.S.A. championship football teams as the fleety half-back that swept the ends. He has been a noted Kampus Kapers athletic performer since Grade 10 and may be seen in this year's production at B.C.I. Bob has also played basketball, placed well in many gymnastic meets and been the three interform championship teams.

Track and field has also appealed to Bob and he has dedicated himself to it. He has taken part in many meets and has had many firsts such as his 1st in the 100-yard dash as early as Grade 9.

Bob has been a member of the Boys' Athletic Society and Boys Hi-Y and was the vice-president of the latter in Grade 13.

After completing Grade 13 he plans to go to Queen's and take a physical education course in order to become a P.E. teacher.

BOB SINASAC (Albert College)



Bob Sinasac, since he came to Albert College last school term in Grade 11, has contributed immeasurably to Albert School athletics.

Bob's major sports are track and field and wrestling.

In track and field Bob won the Albert College cross country meet last year and placed second in the annual Ken Colling run. He won all the distance events in the school track and field meet. Due to an unfortunate automobile accident Bob was unable to compete in cross country this autumn but he did an excellent job as assistant coach of the team.

Since beginning to wrestle last year Bob has won many bouts and this year is an excellent wrestler and captain of the team. Bob also competes in all intramural athletics and was a defensive halfback on last year's senior football team.

Bob is 18 years old and a Grade 13 student. He stands 5' 9" tall and weighs 138 lbs.

MICHAEL DE LA. FRANIER (O.S.D.)

Michael was born in Stratford and now makes his home in Guelph. He was born deaf of an unknown cause. He entered O.S.D. in 1946 and will graduate this year.

Michael participates in all sports. He plays everything well and loves to play. On the football team he plays line and is a determined, hard worker. He takes whatever is handed out and hands back a little extra. What he lacks in ability he makes up for in desire.

Basketball is another game which he enjoys. He has a good shot and averages between 13 and 20 points per game. Here again his desire shines. Michael was also on the junior championship team of 1959.

In track and field Michael is a good high jumper and fair track man. He won the school field day broom last year, and was chosen athlete of the year in 1963.

Toronto Peewees 'Investigated'

Lie Detector Test Next Step?

By TED BLACKMAN

QUEBEC (CP) — Not even private detectives could stop Toronto Leaside.

They were headed for the championship in the class B section of the International Peewee Hockey Tournament even before the private eyes started knocking on doors in the Toronto suburb to verify ages and addresses.

The investigation, paid for by unidentified Quebec team, touched off a controversy at the tournament Friday and left organizer Gerard Boldue a trifle peeved.

"The team that did this will apply to play next year," he said, "and I can assure you the application will be considered very carefully, that is a 'fool' competition, not life or death."

Officials of the Leaside team were also annoyed that private detectives had interrogated parents of team members to determine whether they actually lived in Leaside or in surrounding Metro Toronto.

"Every player on this team is legitimate," said coach Dr. Jim Murray. "Why, we even had to drop a good player because he lived one block out of Leaside."

Despite the third degree, Leaside advanced to the playoffs for the grand championship of this event after edging Asbestos, Que., 2-1 to capture the class B title.

They meet Toronto Torrids, class A winners, while Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., clashes with Thurso, Que. The Sault won the class A title with a 3-0 victory over Montreal Mount Royal and Thurso defeated Amos, Que., 4-1 to capture class C honors.

The winners of the two semi-finals will meet later today for the grand championship, which Sault Ste. Marie won last year to an upset over Toronto North York.

The Torrids, who began practising last summer with an eye on this tournament, rallied for two goals in the third period to defeat a stubborn Toronto Shopsy's team 2-1.

Leaside took a 2-0 lead into third period and successfully withstood Asbestos' challenge as they scored late in the final period and strived desperately for the tie-maker with the puck out in the final minute.

TV Plans Discussed

Football Pot Sweetened

EDMONTON (CP) — The Canadian Football League sweetened the pot for its players Friday by approving a $9,500,000 gift life insurance scheme and increasing the pay for players in the Grey Cup final.

It also launched talks with at least two American groups interested in carrying telecasts of 1964 CFL league and playoff games.

The insurance plan will provide every player under contract to a CFL club with a $20,000 life insurance policy, which includes a year-around disability clause.

Players on the winning Grey Cup team will receive $1,250 each while those on the losing club will be given $800, the clubs decided. The old salary schedule provided each winning player with $200 and those on the losing side $200.

SHOWS INTEREST

Two American Broadcasting Company, which has carried the Grey Cup final the last two years, expressed interest in expanding its coverage to league and playoff games. Its bid and those from an independent network will be considered by league officials.

Commissioner Sydney Halter said while the insurance plan might one day be expanded into some form of pension plan, there currently was no need for such a scheme in the CFL.

Most players have a full-time job in Canada which provides a pension plan, said Halter. There also is the proposed federal pension plan which could fill any gaps that might arise in future.

APPROVES GRANT

The league approved a $50,000 grant to the Canadian Rugby Union and a special $2,000 grant to help defray CRU expenses in staging the first annual minor football week in Canada. It will be held Sept. 20 to 26 and spotlight activities of 100,000 youngsters in pee wee to junior leagues.

Nov. 28 was confirmed as the date for the 52nd Canadian final at Toronto and delegates agreed the 1965 final also will be played in the east but no date or site was selected.

"NAPLES" RECEIVES RAVE REVIEWS!

Not since such "greats" of post-war Italian film-making as "La Dolce Vita," "Open City" and "Bicycle Thief" has a motion picture received the accolades given to the new Titanus - Metro production, "The Four Days of Naples," depicting the final days of the Italian Resistance against the Nazis during World War II.

Such famous figures of the Italian picture industry as William Wyler, Sam Goldwyn, Fred Zinnemann and Billy Wilder have all hailed it as a powerful film, directed by Nanni Loy, to be one of the finest ever made.

William Wyler said: "I consider it to be a major cinematic achievement — an exciting and thought provoking film — it proves that the thousand year Reich will indeed live for one thousand years — but not quite in the way it was planned."

From Sam Goldwyn: — "The Four Days of Naples' will long be remembered. I urge everyone to see it."

Fred Zinnemann stated: "This is the work of a great master. "I love a woman" is the can hardly wait to see it again."

Said Billy Wilder: "As stirring as 'Potemkin,' as touching as 'Bicycle Thief.' Absolute tops in picture making."

Other accolades include the following:

Time Magazine: " . . . the best battle movie made in Italy since 'Open City' and 'Paisan' . . . Director Nanni Loy carried out to record a mass movement, and he has done so with stunning force and skill."

Saturday Review: " . . . stirring, graphic stuff, all of it done in Naples . . . Loy's direction is highly effective . . . Here we have yet another Italian director of distinction."

KEEPS LICENCE

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) —Race driver Rodger Ward will be allowed to keep his driver's licence but will be on probation until next July 24, a state racing commissioner said Friday. Ward, twice winner of the Indianapolis 500-mile race, had 14 penalty points on his Indiana driver's licence after two speeding convictions within a year. A driver accumulates 12 or more points is required to show cause why his licence should not be suspended.

What About Soviets?

Amateur Status Questioned

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Sports Editor

INNSBRUCK, Austria (CP)— The International Olympic Committee has questioned the amateur status of players on the Swedish, United States and Czechoslovakia hockey teams in the Olympic championship round-robin.

A letter signed by Mydio Zanchi, general secretary of the IOC and dated Feb 6, was sent to the national Olympic committee presidents of the three countries.

Ahearne said early today the "Russian thing is pathetic."

WHY DELAY?

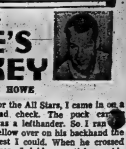
"It is peculiar to me why they would wait until just before the tournament ends to bring up this matter," he said.

The tournament, in which the Soviet Union is in first place with six straight victories and Canada and Czechoslovakia are tied for second with 5-1 records, ends today.

The letter to the three countries' committee presidents said in part:

"The question of the eligibility of your hockey team has been raised because of the weeks of preliminary training and intercontinental travel involved.

"Since you have signed the entry blank, you no doubt have information on the basic occupation of all your (hockey) contestants.



"How long has this basic occupation been maintained, who have paid these contestants during this period and how much?"

Ahearne said he had no idea who raised the question with the International Olympic Committee, governing body of the games.

GUARD BLUENOSE

PUNTARENAS (CP)— Bluenose II, replica of the famous Canadian racing - fishing schooner, will have six Costa Rican soldiers aboard to protect her from hijackers and pirates when she leaves here within a few days. The vessel is en route to a treasure hunt on Cocos Island. The soldiers will protect the treasure if any is found and also will look out for the interests of Costa Rica, which governs the island, officials said Friday. The schooner arrived here Friday from Lunenburg, N.S.

GORDIE HOWE'S HOCKEY
By GORDIE HOWE

One of hockey's most spectacular plays is the breakaway. However, there are a few occasions on which a back checker can nullify the breakaway, spoil his shot.

If there's any chance at all of catching up with him to the point you can make him go on his backhand to shoot, then you're going to cut down his chances of beating the goalie nearly 50 per cent.

His forehand shot naturally is his stronger shot. But if you're close enough to force him over on his backhand, he may get in so close to the goaltender that he doesn't have the opportunity for a good shot.

The goaltender realizes the only move the puck carrier can possibly make is to try to pull him. The goalie can stop this by crying about protecting the angles and play him for the backhand shot.

In one of the All Star games, when Glenn Hall was in the net for the All Stars, I came in on a bad check. The puck carrier was a lefthander. So I ran behind him on his backhand the best I could. When he crossed over, I laid my stick on his wrist the best I could.

When Glenn saw me do that, he dropped to the ice, sprawled across the goalmouth and he smothered the puck in his pads.

When I fell into Glenn, I said "Gee, sorry Glenn, that's all I could do."

He replied, "I knew you had him," he replied. That's why I laid down. He couldn't do a thing with the puck."

Goaltenders have a great knowledge of all the players in the league. They study their opposition, just as every other player should.

So if you manoeuver a play in a certain position in backchecking, it helps him, because he's got a certain move he should make, too, simplifies his problems.

Montreal Wins

Marlies Whip Hawks 9-0

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

It's getting to be monotonous the way Yvan Cournoyer carries on for Montreal Junior Canadiens.

The little right winger popped in two goals in the fourth outing in a row Friday night, boosting his league-leading total to 32 and keeping Canadiens on the tail of the leaders in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series at their downed Kitchener Rangers 6-3.

The victory kept the gap between Montreal and the league-leading Toronto Marlboros at five points as Marlboros romped St. Catharines Black Hawks' nine - game unbeaten streak with a resounding 9-0 decision. Niagara Falls Flyers edged the Hawks out of third place by edging Oshawa Generals 4-3.

The Flyers got off to a fast 3-0 lead in the first eight minutes of play but had to hang on to salvage the win. Derek Sanderson, Guy Lawrence, John Arbor and Ron Schock shared in scoring for the victors. Danny O'Shea, Bill Little and Tom Buchanan replied for the Generals.

How About Talking Permit?

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Cassius Clay, who is supposed to be in training for his heavyweight title match with Sonny Liston, took another day off Friday and drove to the champion's headquarters intending to work out.

Clay, who also took Thursday off, arrived in a bus crowded with newsmen and training camp and festooned with placards that proclaimed:

"Bear season opens Feb. 25."

"If Liston keeps up this jive, I'm cutting it to five."

And the inevitable, "Cassius Clay, I'm the greatest."

However, the police chief of Surfside, a community north of Miami Beach, barred Clay's entrance to the training camp. He told Clay he would have to get a permit to picket.

Liston was annoyed by the incident, according to one of the fight press agents, Al Taylor. He said Liston's sparring partner, Leotis Martin, was able to knock the champ down.

After the workout, Taylor said, Liston didn't even bother to shower, just toweled off, walked out the back door, leaving a couple of reporters without anyone to interview.

Muskegon Moves Up; Blades Win

By The Canadian Press

Muskegon Zephyrs, buried so deep in the International Hockey League cellar earlier this season that they were given little hope of ever proving a contender, have emerged into fourth place in the seven-team league.

The Zephyrs snapped a tie with Windsor Bulldogs Friday night by trouncing Fort Huron Flags 5-3 in Muskegon. The Bulldogs helped Muskegon's cause by losing the short end of an 8-0 shutout at the hands of Toledo Blades.

Rally Boys Happy With Snowfall

TORONTO (CP)—Most traffic officials cringe at the thought of eight inches of snow and colder temperatures. Not the officials of the Winter Carnival Rally.

As about 140 driving teams sped off the ramp of Toronto's Golden Mile on Sunday, kicking up 1,250-mile rally, officials were beaming over the heavy snow that hit Ontario Thursday.

That eight-inch snowfall was just what the rally needed, said organizer Jim Plumley, shortly before Grant Clark of Toronto and Craig Hill of London led the parade that will take the drivers into eastern Ontario and then to North Bay in a roundabout fashion by tonight.

"If this weather holds, it's going to be a lot more difficult this year," said Plumley. "With conditions like this maybe only about 50 per cent of the entries will finish."

As cars of every shape and size—sports, compact, foreign and standard models — edged into the dark at two-minute intervals, most appeared rigged for a two-month safari. All were prepared for any emergency, with their special extra load of gear including a shovel and alarm clock — the shovel for drifts and the alarm to wake them Sunday morning.

Leafs Buy Del Greco

NEW YORK (AP)—The 1964 International League baseball season will open April 22 and close Sept. 11.

Last year, when the IL operated with 8 clubs, the campaign closed Labor Day. Playoffs and Little Rock since have moved into the Pacific Coast League.

The 1964 openers match Toronto at Columbus, Buffalo at Richmond, Syracuse at Atlanta and Rochester at Jacksonville.

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Maple Leafs of baseball's International League announced Friday the purchase of outfielder Bobby Del Greco from Kansas City Athletics of the American League.

Del Greco, a 14-year-veteran of professional baseball, played with Toronto in 1952 and 1953. The 30 - year - old pull hitter batted .313 last year in 120 games with Kansas City.

He has been coaching Lachine Maroons of the Montreal Metro League as well as working at a regular job in Montreal.

Game Ends In Riot; Aces Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Another 85 seconds and it would have been a peaceful Friday night in the American Hockey League as Providence Reds upended Rochester Americans 5-1 and Quebec Aces blanked Baltimore Clippers 3-0.

Just before the end of the Providence-Rochester game Ed Mayer of the Reds and Dick Cherry of the Americans staged a wild high-sticking duel that ended in a near riot and the assessment of a total of $300 in fines.

Both benches emptied as players charged on to the ice, leading to private battles and a mass tugging and hauling session. Referee Ken McLeod assessed automatic fines of $25 on all 20 players leaving the bench.

The Reds dominated play in scoring their third straight victory. Stan Baluk, Jim Bartlett, Ed Mazur, Harry Ottenbreit and Howard Lynch shared in scoring for the winners. Rochester's lone tally came from Wally Boyer.

In Baltimore, Quebec's veteran goalie Lorne (Gump) Worsley turned back 32 Baltimore drives in helping the Aces to a four-point lead in the Eastern Division standings.

Wayne Hicks provided the margin of victory at the 36-second mark of the second period. Cleland Morrison added the insurance goal with only four seconds remaining. He fired the puck into a net which had been vacated by Baltimore's Gilles Villemure in favor of an extra attacker.

CALL TENDERS

Young has since gone to an indefinite status with Chicago. But the committee remains as a kind of liaison between the front office and rank-and-file.

Abel's Red Wings were to meet the Bruins in Boston today and take on New York Rangers in Detroit Sunday night. The Rangers and Canadiens were set to clash at New York today in another afternoon game and tonight the Black Hawks go against the Maple Leafs in Toronto.

McGill Ties U. of T. 2-2

By The Canadian Press

Laval University thumped McMaster University 6-1 and McGill University and University of Toronto battled to a 2-2 tie in Senior Intercollegiate Hockey League action Friday night.

All the goals were scored in the last period at Toronto as the tie enabled the Toronto Blues to maintain their hold on first place in the standings.

Laval overwhelmed the Hamilton squad at Quebec. Harold Martel and Pierre Lachance each got two for the winners with Marcelin Tremblay and Gerard Guy adding singles. Bob Pond got the McMaster tally.

Toronto's New City Hall Now Year Behind Schedule

By JOHN LeBLANC

TORONTO (CP) — Disputes and dilemmas swirl like the snowflakes—and about as effectively — around Toronto's new and unorthodox city hall as its concave towers crawl upwards toward a place in the city's downtown skyline.

There has been little unanimity over anything connected with the 27-storey (or 30, depending on the viewpoint) building, since a Finn won the design contest with a twin-tower and "clamshell" concept, and the pattern continues.

A couple of city fathers speaking:

Alderman Horace Brown: "The new city hall will usher in a golden age of architecture for Toronto, possibly rivalling ancient Athens."

Whatever its merits, its two concrete towers have pushed up 13 storeys since start of construction in late 1962 and it is expected to be ready for full occupancy by the fall of 1965—about a year behind the original schedule.

HOCKSHOPS OUSTED

It will be the showpiece of a cluster of civic and private re development projects in and around a civic square running into many millions of dollars. Already, an ancient fortress-like armories to the west has been levelled—to the screams of tradition-lovers — and a new 11,360,000 Metropolitan Toronto courthouse is to be erected there.

Properties on he Bowery, like south side of Queen Street facing the new city hall are being demolished to make way for a $3,000,000 office building. Another developer is working on plans for a multi-million-dollar skyscraper in the same burlesque and mockango block.

Chinatown to the immediate rear of the new edifice presents a problem for civic politicians. The Toronto Planning Board wants to remove the rundown district from the showcase. But belief is it will take about 30 years to pull up its ancient roots.

FUTURE IN DOUBT

What to do with the old city hall is another puzzle. Now a dowdy dowager of 65 years, it was the second-largest in North America on its completion—exceeded only in Philadelphia—and its 275-foot clock tower reared its 13,000 tons of New Brunswick redstone majestically over the neighborhood.

Now it is an anachronism. City officials have the pigeons, spokreaches and rats under control, but the building appears to have little future except as something to be tossed in with the $12,000,000 piece of real estate on which it sits.

Private developers have been eyeing the site expectantly. Just before he died in November, Mayor Donald Summerville launched a "save the city hall" campaign on rumors that a department store wanted to buy the land. Now its fate is a question mark.

Despite the concurrent spasms of controversy and puzzlement, the physical aspects of the new structure have been taking shape at a good clip. By mid-summer, the 20-storey west tower is due for completion. The east one of 27 storeys, 320 feet high, will be at its full height by the end of the year.

WON'T TWIST

The parabolic towers facing inwards toward each other, designed by Finnish architect Viljo Rewell, aroused a brief flurry back in 1961 on a claim that a high wind would cause one of them to twist on its axis. But that was quickly put down by then Mayor Nathan Phillips as "sabotage."

Between the towers is the clamshell—a saucer-shaped bottom and dome-like top of poured concrete enclosing the council chamber with seats where taxpayers, 400 at a time, can observe the functioning of the facility that is to cost them $2 a head per year for the next 30 years. Its concrete has been poured.

All is not smooth going for the construction crews. In the old city hall's courts, justice is not deaf to the sound of jackhammers. One morning recently a deputy sheriff appeared and threatened contempt of court unless they were silenced. The law won out and the jackhammer job was done outside court hours.

Bulletins From Birdland

By WINIFRED E. WILSON

FIRST NESTING

We all know that eggs must be kept warm in order to hatch; yet there are several kinds of birds which make a habit of laying when winter is still with us. The very earliest nester is the great horned owl.

Birds' eggs are always camouflaged to match their surroundings. A killdeer's, for instance, are pale buff blotched with almost black scrawls so as to be inconspicuous on a beach or bar. even ground where they are most often laid. But a Savannah sparrow's are blue-green with reddish brown marks to match the dense vegetation where they lie. The eggs of woodpeckers and owls are always white because these birds nest in holes, so that their eggs need not be camouflaged.

ENEMY BEWARE

However, the great horned owl generally uses the discarded, exposed nest of some other larger bird, such as a hawk, eagle, crow, or heron, and occasionally lays its two white eggs right on bare ground. That almost seems like an invitation to an enemy. But only a very brave enemy would tackle a great horned owl. It is a ferocious bird when angered, and a person would do well to keep away from its home when it has eggs or young. Of course white eggs are quite suitable in snowy surroundings, and February is a favorite month for the great horned owl to lay. But mother owl must sit very tight to keep them warm.

Owl babies (of all kinds) are covered with white down. For some reason or other, the eggs are never laid on consecutive days, as are the eggs of other birds. So owlets in one nest often vary considerably in age.

ODD SHAPE

Another oddity in the shape of owl eggs. Mother Nature has made them nearly spherical because, ordinarily being in a cavity, they are in no danger of rolling away, yet they can be moved about easily when incubation is in progress. Very different is the single egg of a murre. Laid on the edge of a cliff, it is in great danger of rolling off. But Mother Nature has tapered it very much at one end, so that when touched it simply spins around.

Owls regurgitate all indigestible matter in the form of little pellets. From these, found under the family tree, we learn that great horned owls eat rabbits, all sorts of rodents, even opossums and domestic cats as well as birds, including grouse.

Navy's Newest Recruit Is 3-Months-Old Rabbit

HALIFAX (CP)—The navy's newest recruit is a three-month-old bunny rabbit, snatched from the jaws of a cat.

Peter the rabbit is the most pampered little long-eared rascal ever to escape from a warren into the arms of the navy, and like all good seamen he's partial to rum.

The rabbit is a lot more friendly than the other pet—an alligator — aboard the Granby, the navy's East Coast diving unit depot ship. Albert the alligator is six months old and 18 inches long.

"Albert still has a nasty habit of trying to tear off fingers from the hands that feed him," said Lieut. Alan Sagar.

Lieut. Sagar, senior diving officer, is custodian of both the alligator and her rabbit that he rescued from the cat.

Peter Rabbit is partial to the Granby's wardroom life, where he has acquired a taste for rum, and mastered the trick of standing at attention.

A naval mission would seem to be the next step for Peter, and he may be aboard the next diving tender.

"After all, as a member of the unit, he must learn all the ropes," says Sagar.

Longshoremen May Boycott Red Wheat

WASSINGTON (AP)—The export of about $70,000,000 worth of U.S. wheat to Russia faces the threat of being bogged down on U.S. docks by a longshoremen's boycott.

President Thomas W. Gleason of the AFL-CIO International Longshoremen's Association made the threat at a frequently stormy maritime administration hearing Thursday.

Charging that foreign flag vessels that had been "dealing with the enemy" were being given precedence over U.S. ships in the wheat deal, Gleason said:

"Let the Russians go to hell — let them starve. Tell them to take it the way we sent it or don't send it at all."

Gleason said he would recommend to the union's executive council that the 55,000 longshoremen refuse to load any of the wheat being exported by Continental Grain Company unless more U.S. ships are used.

Pearson, Home to Discuss Commonwealth Peace Force

OTTAWA (CP)Prime Minister Pearson and Sir Alec Douglas-Home are expected to discuss today possible formation of a Commonwealth police force for Cyprus.

Britain has received a formal request from Archbishop Makarios, president of Cyprus, for a Commonwealth force to try to avert a civil war.

A British spokesman said British responsibilities in the Cyprus situation would not be decreased even with creation of [illegible] a Commonwealth unit.

Canada is not enthusiastic about any participation in a Cyprus force, whether under NATO, the United Nations or the Commonwealth. But Canada would take part if necessary, informants said.

The Canadian and British prime ministers opened their talks shortly after 10 a.m. in Mr. Pearson's office in the East Block of the Parliament Build-

Lawyer Urges Greater Protection for the Public

TORONTO (CP)— The public needs greater protection from government and government-controlled bodies, Ontario lawyers were told Saturday.

Arguments for more protection came from members of a civil liberties panel at the mid-winter meeting of the Ontario section of the Canadian Bar Association.

Toronto lawyer Glen How deplored a system under which an appeal tribunal is appointed to review revised last year, permitted the commission chairman to refuse registration of a company. An appeal was permitted but the appeal body was headed by the same official who originally refused the application.

While the administrative and judicial functions of the commission now have been separated, Mr. How said, there were other cases where the separation had not occurred. He did not elaborate.

"If they (the appeal board) rule in your favor," the lawyer explained, "they are being asked to rule that their own administration system is inadequate."

Other panelists expounded on the theme of public protection.

Prof. Edward McWhinney of the University of Toronto law school suggested that cabinet ministers, civil servants or police officers could be held liable for damages if they acted arbitrarily against the public.

Andrew Brewin, NDP member of Parliament for Toronto Greenwood, said applicants are not given a proper hearing by immigration officials.

John J . Robinette, Toronto lawyer, reminded the meeting that individuals called to inquests were there for the purpose of determining the cause of death and not to act as juries as some coroners might presume.

Mr. Robinette claimed some Ontario coroners were forgetting the original purpose of an inquest was to determine the cause of death, not to conduct a trial.

A man's reputation can be ruined when he has no right to counsel and the coroner won't recognize a right to counsel," he said.

Prof. McWhinney hinted these examples of action against the public which could be liable:

Two U.S. Military Men Die

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—Two bombs planted by terrorists destroyed a stadium bleachers during a softball game Sunday night. Two U.S. military men were killed and 23 other Americans injured.

An entire American family was taken to hospital. The father was kept in the hospital but his wife and their young daughter were released after treatment. Three other women also were wounded slightly.

Vietnamese police reported they had arrested three suspects in the bombing.

The bombs had been planted under six inches of earth about 20 feet apart beneath the bleachers and presumably were set off electrically by Communist Viet Cong terrorists from some distance away.

In Washington the state department issued a statement saying:

"This is the most serious of the series of incidents which the Viet Cong have perpetrated against the Americans, starting in 1957. We are resolved to continue to give full assistance to the government and people of Viet Nam in their struggle to put an end to such Communist terrorism."

The carefully prepared bombing brought to 16 the toll of U.S. servicemen's deaths and to more than 27 the number of Americans wounded by Viet Cong guerrilla action in the Saigon area in a week.

It was feared more such bombings would be directed against Americans in a campaign of terror.

The scene of the bombing was Pershing Field, an athletic field near Saigon Airport used exclusively by U.S. service teams.

The explosion left three dead in the Maritimes and widespread damage in Newfoundland.

The storm hit the Maritimes Saturday with snow, causing dozens of traffic accidents before picking up speed and slamming into Newfoundland with 120-mile-an-hour winds which ripped off roofs, tore down communication wires and blocked west coast roads.

At sea, two Nova Scotia longliners fought-mountainous seas and a Newfoundland vessel was driven from her mooring.

A ferry truck collision near Summerside, P.E.I. claimed the lives of three persons and injured four others. More than a dozen persons were injured throughout the Maritimes in traffic accidents blamed on snow, poor visibility and slippery roads.

There were reports of damage caused by the hurricane-force winds that ripped across Newfoundland after reaching St. John's late Sunday.

But it was expected to be up most of the day before reports from the more isolated outports came in. Heavy damage was reported to fishing boats and shipping in the province's west and south coasts.

On the east coast, winds accompanied by scattered snow and heavy rain tore roofs from several buildings and blew in

Destroyer Lost After Hitting Aircraft Carrier

Casualties Suffered But Number Not Known

CANBERRA (Reuters(The Australian destroyer Voyager sank today with 300 men aboard, the navy department reported.

"There are casualties," the navy spokesman said. "We are still determining how many."

The sinking occurred after colliding with the 19,800-ton aircraft carrier Melbourne Sunday night off the coast of New South Wales.

Seas were calm at the time of the collision.

Three hours elapsed between the first report of the collision and the sinking.

The Voyager, a 2,800-ton ship, was one of three Daring class destroyers operated by Australia. The ship went into service in 1957.

WERE ON EXERCISES

The two ships were on exercises after refitting when they collided off Jervis Bay, about 125 miles south of Sydney.

A first brief message from the Melbourne said the Voyager was badly damaged and the carrier was damaged about the bows. The message did not mention casualties.

Then came a message saying the Voyager was in difficulties and—while other ships raced to the scene—the news came she had sunk.

The Voyager was the first prefabricated, all-welded warship built in Australia and cost £6,500,000.

They have automatic radar steering.

BOY DIES

French health authorities have called his treatment useless.

Expert Defects To West

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) An expert with the Soviet disarmament delegation apparently has defected to the West, Russian officials reported today.

Yuri Nosenko, 36, vanished last Tuesday but chief Soviet negotiator Semyon K. Tsarapkin did not notify Swiss police until Saturday.

"We do not believe he has met with an accident, "and it is beginning to look as though he may have defected," a Soviet delegation source said.

As one of a score of advisers with the Soviet delegation, Nosenko presumably had access to classified documents.

It seemed likely that if Nosenko defected, Western intelligence agencies would try to get him out of the country as quickly as possible.

PROFESS IGNORANCE

Officials of Western delegations professed to know nothing of Nosenko's disappearance. Police in Geneva and in Bern, the Swiss capital, said they had no knowledge of the Russian's whereabouts.

Swiss police asked Interpol International Police Organization—to try to trace him. The Swiss declined comment but seemed convinced Nosenko left Geneva of his own accord.

Nosenko is known to have had a yiss to France, a few miles away. He could easily have crossed one of the many border points around Geneva without being noticed.

This was the first time Nosenko had attended the Geneva conference. He arrived Jan. 20.

Conference documents listed Nosenko as an expert without saying in which of the many disarmament fields he was qualified. But his disappearance apparently caused considerable concern in the Soviet delegation. Unusual activity was noticed in Soviet headquarters throughout the weekend.

Princess Beatrix Backs PM, Makes Sister Renounce Throne

THE HAGUE (AP) — Crown Princess Beatrix and Premier Victor Marijnen emerged today from Princess Irene's love problem as a new and powerful pair in Dutch politics.

Palace informants said it was Beatrix who finally prevailed on Irene, 24, to renounce her rights to the throne or drop her Catholic fiance, Prince Carlos de Borbon y Parma. Irene, who was second in line of succession, chose Carlos.

She backed up Marijnen, telling Irene bluntly she would not tolerate any jeopardy to the throne she will inherit, informants said.

The threat to the throne was implied. The premier reminded the royal family that the Constitution forbids any member of the royal family, including in-laws, to engage in "foreign politics."

Parliament couldn't approve such a marriage, Marijnen said. Therefore Carlos and Irene would have to quit. Queen Juliana would have to ask for formation of a new government in an atmosphere charged with tension.

The premier took on added stature even among his opposition Socialists in a Roman Catholic. By rallying against Irene, a recent convert to Catholicism, the premier put his country ahead of his religion, parliamentary circles noted.

By a dignified but firm stand, Marijnen also had shown that romance for the royal family had to come second to Dutch law.

The combination appeared to have hardened a lot of errors in Marijnen's political foundation.

Nehru Slumps in His Seat As Indian Parliament Meets

NEW DELHI (AP)The Indian parliament met today faced by a leadership crisis and mounting problems at home and abroad.

Prime Minister Nehru, who suffered a stroke last month, sat slumped in the front row—a shadow of the man who was led India since independence in 1947.

Nehru, 74, spends most of his time in his residence, watched over by his daughter, Mrs. Indira Gandhi. Subordinates handle most governmental affairs.

In a speech to a combined session of both houses, Vice-President Zakir Hussain outlined India's major problems.

He said the Chinese, who hurled troops across the Himalayas into India in 1962, are continuing a "military buildup along our borders."

India's own defence buildup, a serious drain on an over-strained economy, had been helped by the United States, Britain and Russia "and further assistance is on its way," he said.

Hussain declared India's relations with neighboring Pakistan are worse than ever, with continual border friction in the disputed state of Kashmir and conflicts between the Hindus of India and the Moslems of Pakistan.

Two party workers sleeping in the office were unharmed.

Jammu, Kashmir's winter capital, was paralyzed Sunday by a general strike in protest against the theft a month ago of two statues from a local Hindu temple.

Oswald's Mother Hopes to Prove Her Son Did Not Kill Kennedy

WASHINGTON (AP) Mrs. Marguerite Oswald takes "new evidence" before the Warren commission today. She says it will prove that her son, Lee Harvey Oswald, did not fire the shots that killed John F. Kennedy.

The 56 - year - old practical nurse, who asked for a chance to appear before the presidential tribunal investigating the Kennedy assassination, is expected to contradict testimony last week by Oswald's 22-year-old widow.

Marina Oswald told the commission, and later a press conference, that she did not like to believe that her husband killed President Kennedy last November in Dallas but the facts would not permit her to reach any other conclusion.

Sessions of the commission, headed by Chief Justice Earl Warren, are closed, but Mrs. Marguerite Oswald told reporters Sunday night:

"I think my son is innocent, and I think I can produce evidence that he is innocent. I have documents, letters and other evidence. I think I can present a good case."

Mrs. Oswald said neither the secret service nor the FBI ever had questioned her and she wanted to give the commission information it didn't have about her son, shot down two days after Kennedy's death by Jack Ruby, a Dallas night club operator.

Officials Here and in Dallas meanwhile denied a report that a witness is being held in protective custody who could identify Oswald as Kennedy's assassin.

The report, appeared in the Fort Worth (Tex.) Star - Telegram, which said an informed source had identified the witness as a Negro porter employed in the building where the assassin fired the fatal shots.

Derailment Work Of Saboteurs

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Investigators sought today to track down saboteurs who dynamited a 91-car freight train and a work train derrick of the strike-harassed Florida East Coast Railway.

No one was injured in the blasts Sunday—10 miles apart—which caused damage estimated by W. L. Thornton, the carrier's chief operating officer, at more than $250,000.

"It was definitely 'sabotage,'" Thornton said. "I not implying the unions are to blame. No one knows at this time who did this."

George Leighty, chief negotiator for the 11 striking unions, said: "We know absolutely nothing about it." He said union members had been warned not to resort to violence.

The first blast came at 1:37 a.m. Sunday as a southbound freight crossed a 15-foot-high wood-and-steel trestle over a river in north Miami Beach.

The 250-ton diesel unit cleared the bridge then plowed up track for 200 feet. Four cars plunged across a highway and smashed through a rock wall into a park.

CARS BURN

Freight cars tumbled into the river. Thirty-three piled up behind the locomotive. One of these was a tank car carrying 20,000 gallons of volatile methane gas. Firemen said the methane tank apparently ruptured and sparks touched off leaking gas, starting a fire that destroyed most of the 33 cars.

But the locomotive came off the tracks to the east, it would have torn through a tavern crowded with 200 patrons.

The train was travelling about 45 miles an hour and was preceded by a station wagon modified to travel on rails. This security measure was instituted because of the rash of violence.

The station wagon didn't detonate the dynamite.

The second blast occurred at 5 a.m. in the railway's Hialeah yards, where the derrick was being stoked to assist in clearing wreckage caused by the first blast. The explosion ruptured the boiler of the work train, the line's only derrick car in south Florida.

The sabotage was the worst directed against the 377 - mile railroad, which operates between Jacksonville and Florida City, south of Miami, since the [illegible] War.

'Fanny Hill' Ruled Obscene In Britain

LONDON (AP) — A judge ruled today that Fanny Hill, the fictional memoirs of an 18th-century pleasure girl, is obscene, but a free picture of life in the 18th-century London of lavish brothels.

Mr. Justice Lawton indicated he planned to appeal.

Hutchinson, who recently defended that famed pleasure girl of the 1960s, Christine Keeler—argued that Fanny Hill was not obscene, but a true picture of life in the 18th-century London of lavish brothels.

Hutchinson asked whether it was right to sell the book openly in a high-priced edition but ban the cheap reprint.

And he said his country not one single person qualified to read it has come forward to go into the witness box and say that this book is not literature," Hutchinson declared.

Magistrate Blundell said:

"I have come to my decision on what I have heard in the witness box and such evidence as I have seen. . . . Doing the best I can in the circumstances I have no alternative but to say that the order (for forfiture) should be made."

Drunken Elephants Terrorize South African Rail Workers

JOHANNESBURG (AP) — Drunken elephants are terrorizing railroad workers based at a small station in South Africa's Kruger National Park, a large game reserve.

At this time of year some elephants get drunk after eating fermented berries which have dropped from the marcels trees growing in the park. Soon the drunk pickled pachyderms become extremely aggressive and unpredictable.

Until recently the 36 railwaymen were willing to risk the danger from behind a seven-foot barbed wire fence enclosing their living quarters. But after two men provoked attacks they are feeling jittery.

One worker was returning from a party with friends when a drunken bull elephant loosed him off his bicycle and stamped the machine into the ground. The worker suffered two broken ribs and cuts on his face, but escaped.

Another worker was sitting on his veranda when he heard a crack in the backyard.

"An old outcast bull elephant we call 'Patrolman' was tearing a 4-inch fruit tree apart," he said. "Suddenly the wind changed and he came for me. I shut the kitchen door just in time.

"He ran around the cottage for about five minutes, trumpeting and flapping his ears, then left me be. Then he stormed off into the bush."

The railwaymen are asking the National Parks Board for protection.

THE WEATHER

Synopsis: An area of high pressure drifting slowly eastward across the Great Lakes is producing seasonably pleasant weather over Ontario.

A.N.A.F. Weekly News

The ANAF Chibroom was bursting at the seams with one of the largest crowds of members with some guests that has been seen for quite awhile. Over 180 were present at the start off to the new entertainment chairman's first event with a bang. It was a very good natured gathering and certainly were enjoying themselves. Through an error from the shipping, the flints originally planned for the evening did not arrive. However the chairman and his committee produced the fine films in the nick of time. Some movies filmed on hockey, fishing and Judo. Comrade Bill Salter was the projectionist and also did a fine job as M.C.

Another setback occurred when the pianist was unable to be there but the popular Immediate Past-President Cec Brown stepped into the breach in the surprise of the comrades, who knew nothing of this accomplishment of his. The big hit of the evening was the accordionist, George Gulliver, who almost brought the house down with his fine selections. He received a tremendous ovation and it was well deserved. The Ladies Auxiliary also excelled themselves with the delicious lunch they provided during the film. The expected large crowd, some of the last served comrades had to be content with that, as the Auxiliary President Bessie Buckley and her fine group of willing and able helpers certainly deserve a very hearty vote of thanks for their splendid efforts that were greatly appreciated by everyone. With this party as a criterion, I promise you all for the calendar of social events for the coming year.

GALA DANCE COMING

The next event on the entertainment calendar is the Gala St. Valentine's Dance to be held next Saturday evening, February 15th which Comrade Les Hopper will be the start of semi-monthly dances. Entertainment will be one exerting every effort to make these events, that is, social evenings and dances as entertaining and enjoyable as possible and all they ask in return is a goodly gathering of members and guests to take advantage of these functions by attending them for evenings of comradeship, fun and frivolity. Also to remember that the success of these events go to help pay for the children's summer and winter parties, donations to worthy causes, bursaries to veterans' children and the upkeep of the club house. Tickets for the dance are now available from the stewards and as he has limited the number to prevent the hall from being overcrowded, better get yours early and avoid being disappointed. They are having that popular dance orchestra, The Modernaires to supply the music in their own inimitable manner.

The sick chairman reports that Comrade Jack Winstanley had a minor operation and will be home for a few days. So the best of luck, Jack, and here is hoping that the operation was completely successful in the wish of all the members. The following comrades are out of hospital, convalescing at home: H. J. Sayers, and Joe Boyle, while Comrade G. H. is 4th Brenton, Room 236 and Art Franklin, Room 249 and they would appreciate it if any comrade is up that way and would drop in for a chat. Word has been received that Warren O'Brien is responding to treatments very well but has to continue them for awhile yet at the Kingston General.

Owing to the regretable resignation of Comrade Bill Ford ordered from this doctor, Cdr. Tom Nickle has taken over as publicity chairman while Comrade Ford is away in the House chairmanship. The new member to the executive, first appointment as publicity chairman becomes sick chairman. Comrade Ford will remain the entertainment chairman.

President Jamie Boyle, accompanied by Dominion President Ford and Lindberg, is attending the Provincial Command meeting in Hamilton over the week-end and all matters of interest to comrades will be reported in the next weekly news.

Membership chairman Pat Boyle, in co-operation with the entertainment chairman announces that there will be an initiation ceremony and social evening held on Friday, April 3rd and it is hoped that all members who as yet have not been initiated will take advantage of this occasion. There will be a social evening after the ceremony is over.

Band manager George Christopher gave a comprehensive report on the activities and financial statement of the Band and a copy of the statement has been placed on the notice board for the perusal of any interested comrades. He was thanked for this report by Frat. J. Boyle.

Park Dale Area Residents to Get Walkway

Park Dale area residents are to get a ten-foot-wide pedestrian walkway between Gilbert and Lemoine Street instead of the 60-foot roadway recommended by city council.

A ten-foot walkway for the convenience of school children would have been originally suggested but last year council felt that a vehicle roadway would better suit the purpose and directed expropriation proceedings to acquire the necessary property.

But a roadway width of 60 feet was decided on as the minimum roadway width of 66 feet would have reduced the frontage of two building lots to less than the minimum frontage width of 50 feet.

But the Ontario Municipal Board would not give approval after the 60-foot road allowance and refused the city's application.

So the city had decided to go ahead with the originally planned 10-foot walkway and has directed purchase of the required property.

Judge Discounts Story, Finds Accused Guilty of Bigamy

A man charged with bigamy told a Belleville court today he was so intoxicated he could not remember his illegal marriage with a hotel waitress.

Following a recess at the wedding ceremony however, said he appeared normal at the time.

He deferred sentence until March 16.

The charge dated back to December 1961 when Sinclair still living with his wife and teenage son in Guelph,contracted the bigamous marriage with Sara Hansen, employed at the Gilbert Hotel, Trenton, where he was staying.

"How did it come about that you and Miss Hansen went through this form of marriage?" defence counsel Robert Temple asked.

"It is still beyond me," answered Sinclair.

"Do you think you recall of this marriage ceremony?"

"I recall being up in the room drinking with a lot of people after. It was a small room — you could hardly move around in there.

Sinclair told the court he arrived in Belleville around June 1961, to take over as manager of Griffiths lumber yard. Shortly after he left Belleville to because he said "I knew things were going to work out there. Things were in a pretty full muddle."

They started drinking during about November 22 and recalled he consumed two bottles of rum, a case of beer daily" . . . and sometimes a wood by the beverage room.

BORROWED MONEY

Queried by the judge on his expenses, Sinclair said at one time he borrowed $1,000 and drove home to Guelph and borrowed $300.

"But did you come back for?" "

"I was still drunk — and I don't know."

"Who got the wedding license?" asked crown attorney John Pringle.

"I guess I must have."

"You had to go to the city hall or the court hall to get that?"

"I guess I must have."

Mrs. Ann Sinclair said she first became aware of the bigamous marriage when her husband returned to Guelph shortly after the incident and informed her he had married. They had been living together since and she affirmed her husband was a "good provider."

Rev. J. T. Irwin, said St United Church, Trenton, who performed the ceremony, said he noticed nothing unusual about the accused's behavior. He said he was told by the minister, he would not have gone through with the ceremony.

SEEMED NORMAL, CLAIM

Another witness, Mrs. Martha Plummer, Ottawa, who witnessed the ceremony with her husband, said Sinclair seemed normal at the time.

"He was not violentaly intoxicated," asked Mr. Pringle.

"Oh, no."

Mr. Temple asked the judge for a suspended sentence.

"Mr. Sinclair has said I don't think he would be a danger to society or any other spinsters if your honor saw fit to release him."

Judge Anderson said he disagreed with Sinclair's testimony "almost entirely. He can drive a car; go and get a license, go through an interview (with the minister), make responses at a wedding ceremony and so on and on."

Two Byelections Hold Attention Of Que. Voters

MONTREAL (CP)—Voters go to the polls here in Montreal ridings today to elect successors to a pair of former Liberal cabinet members now retired from the House of Commons.

A total of 60,863 are eligible to vote in the predominantly French - speaking ridings of Laurier and St. Denis, both up for grabs by Liberal strongholds.

Besides showing how Liberal strength has stood up in recent months, the byelections could also show whether the stock of Creditiste Leader Real Caouette is going up or down in Quebec as a result of his split with the Soviet Credit party.

The two former cabinet members whose resignations created the vacancies in the ridings are Maurice (Moe) Lamontagne Laurier and Lionel Chevrier, who had sat in the Commons for Laurier, and former postmaster-general Aurilien Denis, previously the member for St. Denis.

Mr. Chevrier left the 265-member House last month to become high commissioner to the United Kingdom while Mr. Denis was appointed to the Senate.

SEEK SEATS

Seeking to hold the two seats for prime ministerial Pearson's minority government have been Marcel Prud'homme, 39, a political scientist, in St. Denis, and Fernand Leblanc, 46, a chartered accountant, in Laurier.

Mr. Caouette, 44, and Mrs. Yvon Dupuis, 34, an industrial designer, is the Creditiste candidate in Laurier, and Henri Gratton, 34, an auto parts dealer, in St. Denis.

The Creditistes finished second in the Social Credit party manner in both ridings in the federal general election last April 8.

But their Quebec strength dropped to 20 from the 26 seats they had won in 1962, as did their first electoral test since last year's races.

Robert Thompson's Social Credit party, from which the Creditistes broke away last year, has seven federal members from Alberta but did not enter candidates in the current contests.

The NDP has entered Mrs. Rejeanne Dinelle, 43, a mother of two and veteran labor organizer, in St. Denis, and Gerard Picard, 57, the party's Quebec leader, in Laurier.

A new group called the Rhinoceros Party also is on the ballots in both ridings, with Dr. Stevens, 37, a physician, in St. Denis, and Andrew Cooke, 27 a printer, in Laurier, as candidates.

LOSING MARKET

LONDON (CP)—Lord Amulree told the House of Lords that the increase in magazine postal rates to Canada, announced last July, will mean the virtual loss of the Canadian market in magazines. He said it would also encourage publishers in the Netherlands and France, where postal rates to Canada are cheaper.

Macmillan Will Not Run in Next Election

LONDON (Reuters) — Former prime minister Harold Macmillan marked his 70th birthday today by announcing his imminent retirement from parliamentary politics.

Macmillan disclosed he will not seek re-election for the House of Commons in the forthcoming British general election which must be held by mid-1965. The date has not been set yet.

The former Conservative party leader will keep the premiership after undergoing a gruelling stand operation in October. He was succeeded by Sir Alec Douglas-Home.

In a letter to the chairman of his local Conservative party association in nearby Bromley, Kent, Macmillan said he "really cannot undertake the full duties of a conscientious member."

Another former Conservative prime minister, Sir Winston Churchill, 90 next November, said last May he would not seek re-election in the next general election.

He became prime minister after Sir Anthony Eden's sudden resignation because of ill health at the time of the Suez crisis in 1957.

LADY FROM INDIA

"Asia . . . is a continent where more than half the population of the world lives, where history is buried five thousand years deep."—Santha Rama Rau.

"Life in India is — what you say — easier for women. Life there for a woman is gentle, there are great demands on her. " says Mrs. Rathindra Kar, with whom we're chatting here at her home, 371 William Street. Here and there lie silver and gold momentoes from such personages as Prime Minister Nehru, Ethiopia's Emperor Selassie and the Shah of Iran, given her Squadron Leader husband as a member of the VIP squadron of India (1956-63).

When we noted this slim young lady dressed in a colorful sari 'neath her winter coat downtown the other day, (which instantly gave Belleville quite a cosmopolitan atmosphere) we asked if she were really from India.

We were told that she, her husband, now with the engineering staff of the Northern Electric Company, and their little five year old daughter were from India, here to live. So we called today, that we might hear the whole story — first hand Mrs. Kar speaks beautiful English, ("...we all learn to speak English in school. It's compulsory.") and is not only a graduate from the University of Calcutta, but an actress in her own right, having appeared in films directed by Ajoy Kar, her brother - in - law, one of India's leading movie producers. As for hobbies, she enjoys arranging flowers, Japanese style. Her parents live in New Delhi, where her father, Mr. Majumder, M.A. B.L., is Advocate of the Supreme Court.

"Do you feel, then, that women should stay in; that their place is in the home?" we ask her.

"Good gracious no! I love going out, being among others. When my husband was in the Indian Air Force, we were stationed at various places in India, one being in the same town as the Taj Mahal; you've heard of it?

"Then, we were in England for a year where my husband studied, both in London and Joborough. I loved it, so much to see, and regret being lazy and not take advantage of such an opportunity to study something — make good use of my time. But being just married our cares were few. Our baby came a year or so later.

"But I nearly froze in England! Oh, the weather that year was awful. Terrible and no central heating. If you sat in a corner away from the fire-place you just perished. Nor could I cook! Everything I tried, burned!

"Until, at last, my husband suggested we stay at a pension, since the time was so short, and just be paying guests. Which we did. Oh, I did enjoy cooking in other people's kitchens, boiling eggs, then clean and neatly dressed, watching the budget is well kept, for they do most of the purchasing of food.

"However, in India the girls do not have any study abroad as frequently let's say, as the boys do. Many of our best young students in science or medicine do post-graduate work in England, Europe or Canada and the United States (such as New York where we have ever so many friends whom we love to visit sometime) and India loses many of these students.

Often they marry abroad and their wives do not wish to leave their homeland. One family who are family friends of first two sons went abroad to finish their education and did not return, their mother refused to let the third son go abroad until he married first. Then she said, he'd be sure to return, since India was the homeland of his wife too!

"As for us, already we like it here in Belleville; the people are so friendly — we're glad we've come . ."

BELLEVIGNITE: We saw a sprig of Forsythia in full bloom this week at a friend's home, who said: "Just being in a branch" (this she did in January), "and put it in water."— and lo, a touch of bright yellow spring in February.

Soft-Hearted Police Again Nab 'Old Mac'

Constable Davis Mondreon found Mac McNamara brewing a cup of tea Sunday outside his rebuilt lean-to and took the 81-year-old man into custody on a vagrancy charge.

City crews had broken up McNamara's home when he was in jail for three months the last time he was arrested.

The constable said McNamara told him he didn't get and had not applied for welfare because "the government can't afford to pay for everybody."

"It's not too pleasant when it rains—it gets a little cold—but its my home.

The constable said the house was rebuilt to the "old design, made of slabs of paving shaped into a lean-to.

"He had a rag for a mattress, some bread and cheese to eat, and was making tea in an old pot.

When McNamara was first arrested in January, 1963, a city prosecutor told the court that it bothered police to see the old man out in the cold.

CHARGE DISMISSED

Magistrate Les Bewley dismissed the charge, describing McNamara as a hermit who had a right not to conform to other peoples notions of housing.

But in July, police made the charge stick. McNamara had gone back to his "home and was sent to jail for trespassing on a city lot. Free only four days, he was jailed again in August.

He was jailed a third time for 10 days in September and two weeks later was sentenced to three months. He had been free since Christmas.

Caouette Says Liberals Try To Buy Votes

MONTREAL (CP) - Creditiste Leader Real Caouette said Sunday night the Liberals may be preparing to "steal" federal byelections in the Montreal ridings of Laurier and St. Denis.

Mr. Caouette claimed he had heard the Liberals "are trying to mobilize an entire taxi crew in Quebec and buy votes at $5 each."

He made the charge in an address to Creditiste rallies in favor of his son Gilles in Laurier and Henri Paquet in St. Denis.

The charges were denied by Marcel Chaput-Rolland, Liberal candidate in St. Denis.

Shells Hit Munitions Dump Killing 350

MOGADISHU, Somalia (Reuters) — Somali troops lobbed mortar shells into a Ethiopian ammunition dump, blowing it up and killing an estimated 350 Ethiopians in border fighting Sunday, officials, sources here said today.

The same sources said Somali units destroyed eight Ethiopian tanks and an unknown quantity of arms and ammunition.

They listed Somali casualties as 14 dead and 36 wounded and said a number of heavy Somali guns had been destroyed.

The sources here said Ethiopian and Somali troops were dug in less than 100 yards apart on both sides of the border village of Tug Wajaleh.

College Hill United Church Dedicated to God's Service

Almost 12 years from its foundation College Hill United Church congregation finally has realized a basic spiritual ambition — its own place of worship.

Since its constitution in April 1952, the community has been conducting services and church activities in a building deeded it by Alberta College. As the little congregation grew, the need for new quarters became imperative for a building committee set to work.

Yesterday the results of its work was signified with the dedication of a new church by clergy of the United Church's Bay of Quinte Conference.

The project incidentally gave the congregation ample room. It now fronts the original building granted by the college, and both have been joined togethe, into a single unit.

The interior of the church itself has been constructed by architect Paul Wiegand in Canadian oak with the chancel dominated by a slim stained-glass cross. The design is simple and traditional — a fact noted by at least one visiting clergyman.

Rev. C. W. Coleman, Holloway Street United Church, representing the Belleville Presbytery, told the congregation he was glad "you didn't have any of this architecture that's modern — which one is in a church."

The symbolic dominance of the cross in the design also was noted by the presiding minister Rev. Albert E. Larke, president of the United Church Bay of Quinte Conference.

"Christians," he said in the keynote sermon of the service, must be more mindful of the true meaning of the cross "and what that cross symbolizes every time we worship."

The service — which filled the church and its small rear gallery — was conducted by the congregation's pastor, Rev. Roy E. Vessey.

Graham Estate Barn on Trent Road Burns

Fire—its cause still unknown —gutted a Trent Road barn Saturday night, but the loss could have been more serious.

The barn — over 75 years old, on the Graham estate west of the Quinte Country Club — was rented by local drover and auctioneer Cameron Bunnett.

Mr. Bunnett keeps a 30-steer herd on the property. Saturday night the steers had been fed from the barn's barn, then taken to an adjacent building.

"But," said Mr. Bunnett, "the loss could have been worse."

The fire was spotted shortly after 8 p.m. by OPP constable Larry Davis as he patrolled Highway 2. It was burning out of control when Belleville firefighters arrived.

Car Hits House, Driver Charged

A 40-year-old Belleville man was charged with careless driving Sunday after his automobile skidded into the side of a house at Dundas and Church Streets.

Harvey Clarence Dunn, 17 Sixth Street, had a minor nose injury after the accident — which caused $300 damage to his 1957 auto and $150 damage to the frame building.

Former Brighton Man Named OPP Inspector

TRENTON — A well-known Trenton and Brighton area man, Sam Whitehouse, has been promoted from Staff Sergeant with the OPP detachment at Sudbury to the rank of Inspector for the Sudbury district.

As staff sergeant, Inspector Whitehouse has been in charge of the Sudbury detachment for the past 13 years.

Born in Brighton in 1911, Inspector Whitehouse is the son of Mrs. John Whitehouse, Sr. of R.R. No. 3, Brighton and the late Mr. Whitehouse. Following his graduation from Brighton High School, Inspector Whitehouse went to work for the Brighton Ensign as an apprentice printer. He worked at this trade in Kirkland Lake for three years. He was married in Kirkland Lake in 1937 and two years later joined the police force in that town where he remained until 1942 when he joined the provincial force.

In 1942, Whitehouse was transferred to Cochrane and then to Larder Lake where he remained until 1946. His next move was to Englehart and then back to Kirkland Lake where he was made corporal.

In 1953, Whitehouse was sent to Pembroke as a sergeant and six months later he was transferred to Sudbury, where he became a staff sergeant in 1957. When Inspector Whitehouse came to Sudbury there were only 58 OPP men in the entire district. Today, there are 106 officers and men serving in the Sudbury district under Whitehouse.

Defective Relay Box Causes Power Shortage

TRENTON — The west side of the town was plunged into darkness last night and remained in darkness for a half-hour while hydro workmen replaced a defective relay box at the Sidney transformer station north of the town. Hydro PRO officer Bill Hollister at Belleville said today that it was a matter of a "fuse blowing," on a larger scale. For the part of the west Trenton residents was a great scrounging around for candles and a search to keep them in a more accessible place in the future. Saved from a possible lynching by infuriated teen-agers were the hydro officials, who obligingly got the power restored before the Beatles made their debut with Ed Sullivan.

BEATLES TAKE OVER

A hurried survey today of teen-age friends revealed that favorite TV programs of Mom and Dad went by the board last night as the Beatles and their new beat from England filled local living rooms. Comment of any teen-age local girls needing medical treatment from a state of screams, fainting and comment on the squealing from their offsprings as the rag-mop sometimes held forth on the Sullivan show.

RANKS SECOND

A German Brewers Association survey says West Germany ranks second only to Ireland in the amount of beer exported—20,900,000 gallons in 1962.

Plan Batawa 'Blitz'

TRENTON — Tonight Marching Mothers will carry out a blitz in Batawa, under the direction of March of Dimes area chairman Elmer Bonter. Mr. Bonter said today that results from last Monday's blitz in Trenton, Middleton Park, Mobile Village and the Skyview Trailer Camp were good, but that figures would not be released until later in the week, when all canvassers had returned their canisters.

March of Dimes funds collected locally this year will be used to enlarge the Smithfield workshop "Operation Recovery," where costume jewellery is manufactured. The staff of two at the workshop will be increased to five handicapped persons.

STRIKES HYDRANT

Early today, Keith Robert Brown of 64 Delaney Street, Trenton, damaged the front end of his car extensively when he lost control of the vehicles on Front Street North and struck a fire hydrant near O'Malley's store. Mr. Brown, who was not injured, told police he was blinded by the sun as he turned the corner near the store.

DRIVER INJURED

Norbert Meissner, 27, of RR 1, Trenton, was taken to Trenton hospital by Rushnell Ambulance early Sunday following an accident on Highway 33, near the Murray Canal bridge. Provincial police at Brighton say that Mr. Meissner lost control of his car and struck the bridge. He was said to be suffering from a broken rib, a fractured hand and lacerations. Damage to the car was set at $1,000.

Money Will Be Used to Erect Peace Gates

TRENTON — The members of Trenton I.O.O.F. Lodge, No. 113 are raising funds to contribute towards the erection of Entrance Gates at the world's one and only garden, dedicated to peace, in the beautiful Turtle Mountains on the border of North Dakota and Manitoba. The I.O.O.F. organization has spent $30,000 towards the gates, but an additional $10,000 is needed for the project. Authorized collectors in the Trenton area will be calling on area residents for contributions. The gates must be ready for the dedication ceremony, July 26, 1964.

The original idea of a Peace Garden was conceived by Henry Moore of Islington, Ont., in 1928. Mr. Moore was a graduate of the world famous Academy of Canadian Forestry at Kew Gardens ,England.

The International Peace Garden, situated midway between the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans, and totalling more than 2,500 acres partly in Manitoba and partly in North Dakota, have thrown thousands of tourists into the Border area each July 1932. Close to two million dollars have been spent by the U.S. and Canadian governments on roads, trails, cabins and bridges in the gardens.

Near the entrance to the gardens is a cairn on which is mounted a stone tablet bearing the inscription, "To God in His Glory. We two Nations dedicate this Garden and pledge ourselves that as long as men shall live, we will not take up arms against one another."

Too Optimistic

President L. B. Johnson said at New York the other day "we shall conquer mental retardation, and mental illness, and poverty, and every other foe."

He was speaking at the annual awards dinner of the Joseph P. Kennedy Foundation, set up in 1946 to fight mental illness. This dinner was a $100-a-plate society outing, with Prime Minister Lester Pearson amongst the celebrities in attendance. Mr. Pearson appears to have been more realistic than President Johnson. He referred to "man's up-hill struggle" against poverty, misery, ignorance and disease. Despite the gigantic strides made as the result of scientific discoveries in recent years, it remains that, Millions are still half-starved. More millions are miserable. Ignorance consists of more than lack of information; it is also the product of misinformation. Man's life span has increased, but disease always wins in the end, and this will likely continue to be true until the sunset of the race.

Meanwhile, there will be those who will argue that man would make faster progress in the up-hill struggle if it were not necessary to hold $100-a-plate dinners to promote the fight.

In short, worthy, philanthropic institutions like the Joseph P. Kennedy Foundation are of inestimable value, because they help fill a crying need. But their very existence is proof that we are a long way from winning the fight in which they are engaged. The task is too big, and too important, to be left even partially to private charity. The battle can be won at all, it will only be won by total mobilization, by making the struggle for victory a first charge on our resources. The affluent society has reached the stage where such an approach is possible, for the first time in man's history.

Double Blow

The Joseph Schlitz Brewing Co. Ltd. of Milwaukee has acquired the controlling interest of John Labatt Ltd. Earlier Hon. Stanley Randall, Ontario's Minister of Economics, said there should be no attempt by legislation to prevent such takeovers. We say there should.

We are not so sure.

Mr. Randall can present many sound arguments to back his opinion.

None of them, though, will alter the fact that take-overs of this nature reduce Canadian control of the home economy, which in the least enlarging the scope of this economy.

When a foreign firm invests money to start a new enterprise here, it at least expands the productive capacity of the country. If this expansion reduces the percentage of our economic capacities which are controlled by Canadians, a good case is no reduction in the output of Canadian-controlled industries.

When a foreign firm buys an already established Canadian firm, on the other hand, something is not only added to the foreign-controlled sector of our economy but something is also taken away from the Canadian-controlled sector. It is a double blow.

Perhaps legislation against such take-overs would be justified, as a last resort. But only as a last resort. Surely there is enough enterprising capital in Canada to permit the formation of some group which would specialize in "rescuing" firms from foreign take-over bids, by matching these bids.

Reuther Speaks Out

Walter Reuther, international president of the United Automobile Workers of America, called Hal Banks "a disgrace to the labor movement" at a meeting of some 600 UAW workers in St. Catharines.

Some in the labor movement will regard Reuther's criticism as an instance of a bird fouling its own nest.

It is nothing of the sort. No movement can be strong if there are not within it people who are courageous enough to criticize weaknesses and errors. Organized labor can ill afford the attitude that no labor man should criticize anything done in labor's name. A man like Reuther, who is willing to recognize errors and to speak out against them, is worth dozens of the "hear-no-evil, see-no-evil, speak-no-evil" type.

Mr. Reuther capped his St. Catharines performance by remarking that the Canadian Labor Congress, which backs the federal trusteeship established over five Canadian maritime unions, is entitled to handle its own affairs without interference from the United States.

This is additional evidence, if any were needed, of why Reuthen is frequently referred to as a "labor statesman."

Mask of Harmony Cracks

By Mary de Villiers in the Toronto Telegram

Tanganyika's image as the Gentleman of Africa dissolved in a few short savage hours of army revolt in sleepy little Dar-es-Salaam.

Blotting troops in the palm-lined streets decided the nose of the most respected regime in Africa and cracked the mask the country has been wearing.

In three brief years of independence, Julius Nyerere's Tanganyika establishment has been purring on a happy face for the world: it smiled racial tolerance, prospered and lived in harmony; beamed orderly progression from colonial status to co-operative independence.

Dar-es-Salaam, the capital, an idyllic city of sparkling buildings amid lagoons and magnificent beaches, radiated the same good will.

But the mutinous army, apparently bitter over low wages, and the slow pace of Africanization, showed the image to be a gross over-simplification.

It took at least 17 deaths to do it.

The huge African majority, still primitive and desperately poor, is becoming increasingly angry over the gap between what it fought by a group of their former colonial masters. The Africans want to own the land and they're applying pressure.

The Asian group — Hindus and Moslems — is the big individious middleman position.

Hated by the formerly voiceless Africans, they're resented, if they have clawed their way up to a solidly middle-class affluence in almost three centuries of effort.

Now they control a healthy segment of the business and economy, doing the small commercial jobs the African was not equipped to handle. The white man scorned to do himself.

The white man ignored or despised them. They existed in the shadows against the fury of African retaliation. Now, with independence, the protecting protective envelope of white patronage has been withdrawn.

Of the white settlers themselves, most have adjusted to the new Africa. But enough are pushing their bags in readiness to leave the country to deepen African suspicions and resentful.

Yet Tanganyika's problems are less explosive than those in Kenya, its northern neighbor, if only because the non-African population is smaller. Whites and Asians form a negligible 1.5 percent of the population.

The situation is under control in Tanganyika now; President Nyerere is back in control and chances of serious trouble are diminishing.

Nyerere must start his immense job once again: to rebuild his country's image and to try to turn the facade into the reality. He can do it.

There is danger in this revolt: the danger that the Western powers, faced with what they believe to be Communist activity in Africa, will step up their own pressure. And in today's Africa, even old without strings is often seen as "neo-colonialism." Nothing could be better calculated to drive the African away from the Western system.

Following hard on the hysteria in the jeweled Arabian state of Zanzibar, where "Castro-type" guerillas were blamed for the revolt, and a Communist takeover by every conceivable claimant to power, fear of a Communist brotherhood in Africa was widespread and predictable.

Zanzibar may well turn Communist. But may Tanganyika, though it is unlikely, for this would be an African Communism, generated by peculiarly African grievances to solve typically African problems.

It may be sympathetic to Russia or China, but it would not be Russian or Chinese. It would be African. For the memory of generations of colonial rule is far too recent and bitter for Africans again to invite foreign domination — of any complexion.

It would be better for the West to remember this — and stay out.

Says Virus Made Hitler

By STEFAN STIPEL in Hamburg Die Zeit

Johann Recktenwald's book What is Genius? (Was ist Genius? (Worsn hat Adolf Hitler Gelitten?) is written by a medical specialist for other specialists. But its revelations are of much wider interest.

The author has carefully studied the literature about his subject and he has knowledge by questioning eye-witnesses. The result it was obvious to him that Hitler suffered from an organic sickness.

He brushes aside all the other medical explanations about Hitler's state of health. He rejects the theory that Hitler had a brain tumor, or that he was a syphilis. He is convinced that he could not have suffered from Parkinson's disease paralysis or mental sickness.

His parents and grandparents were in perfect health. In his early years Hitler was perfectly normal.

His character changed abruptly when he started to attend secondary school. He was no longer restrained himself, he was obstinate, irascible and also lazy. And yet his teacher attested that he had exceptional talents, he had to repeat the first grade in secondary school.

In the following years his character deteriorated more and more obvious — his viciousness, harshness, his ability to lie and twist the truth unscrupulously, the absence of any feeling for the sufferings of other people.

Recktenwald is convinced he has found the explanation for the sudden change in Hitler's character.

• • •

In 1900, when Hitler started in secondary school his brother Gerald, then 12, fell from the measles. As the measles often are accompanied by encephalitis (changing a brain infection (a fact that was not known at ay time), Beckenwald concludes that Gerald suffered from encephalitis and infected his brother Adolf.

He suffered from insomnia and was very active at night, tormenting his timid colleagues and guests with long monologues which often stopped only in the early hours of the morning.

There were the sudden and vicious fits of rage, the trouble with his voice, the changes in the color of his skin to a sick paleness, his lack of salt and his serious indigestion, from which he suffered extremely, his protruding eyes, his underdeveloped sex drive, the shaking of his head.

• • •

Recktenwald argues that those are symptoms of this organic disease and not of a simple hysteria, as frequently interpreted. This was not acting. It was genuine and serious, often deadly serious.

The book really makes you think. Two generations ago a virus changed a normal boy into a monster who has let almost the world into chaos and war responsible for the death of millions and the destruction of the German Reich.

If the virus had not reached young Adolf Hitler's brain, the whole world would have been different.

This really makes it hard to believe that history is something else besides the attempt to make sense out of senselessness.

Do Not Like Defectors

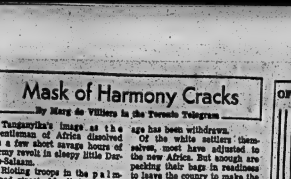
New York Times

While breaking the cigarette habit, the breaker must be sure that nobody knows what is going on, for whenever the word gets out that some miserable fire-sniffer is trying to relearn to exist, cigarette users everywhere organize to make sure he fails.

The cigarette users of the world form a dark brotherhood which, like the Mafia, hates a defector. When the brotherhood hears that a member has started laughing about the fumes in their nose and saying, "no thanks," to the weed, it proceeds to make his life miserable until he comes back to smoke.

They send crackling morale destroyers, people as malevolent as old blind Pew come to slip Billy Bones the black spot: "Quit smoking, eh? I tried once. Went two weeks, but now I'm back to three packs a day. Let me know how long you last."

Sometimes the brotherhood agent comes at lunch wearing the face of an old friend. He will ask as he lights his fifth of the day and puffs it in your face, "This doesn't bother you, does it? What made you decide to give it up?"



Usually the habit is quickly and easily forgotten after four or five days, and, of course a11 those pleasant new sensations occur, just as the squares and doctors always said they would. The next begins to function again. The lungs make it to the top of the stairs without a pardonable pause. The breath is also again as it used to taste 300,000 cigarettes ago.

After four or five months, when it can no longer be concealed that the habit has indeed been shaken, the brotherhood attack will take on vicious new overtones. The reformed smoker will notice nothing but nonetheless ugly changes of attitudes among his old cigarette-user associates.

They may subject him to emotional outbursts: "How can you sit there like that without smoking?" Or bully him. "If you had any breeding at all, you'd light up with me just for old time's sake."

The most trying of all are the dear old friends from the brotherhood, who wait until the reformed smoker's guard is down, perhaps a transport of emotion or an excess of reverence, and then try to get the old fire relit under his nose. The motive is decent enough. These people feel that the reformed friend has lost the courage to live dangerously or that he has "the fear," as they say it in bullfight movies — and they want to help him find it again.

All cigarette smokers by this time have learned to contemplate the dying embers with equanimity, but they hate to think of leaving their friends behind.

CLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

30 YEARS AGO

Canada is proud of her navy, the third most powerful among the United Nations' sea forces. Its growth has been phenomenal from infancy over 1,700 at the start of the present war to over 80,000. In the first war with Germany the navy began with 336 in personnel and at the close of that struggle had 3,826 officers and men.

Now the Royal Canadian Navy is to man with officers and men two escort aircraft carriers of the Royal Navy. Britain has made the gift of two British cruisers and two destroyers to the Canadian fleet.

Canada's ships have performed a ceaseless vigil on the seas in the war against enemy U-boats and they have been in faraway waters. The work on the protection of convoys has been of the greatest value. In this work the Canadian Corvettes are to see more of the fruits of the majestic sea forces which has been developed since the outbreak of war.

Belleville and this district have a large number of young men serving in the Canadian Navy and therefore maintain a deep interest in the service.

Merchants are requesting customers not to slam the door when leaving, as owing to the extreme cold the glass in the doors and show windows is very brittle and many breaking of glass has occurred.

Mayor Geo. O. Tice is considering installing telephone connection made with Zwick's Island, where about two hundred men are engaged on relief work, if the expected further grant from the government is received. Owing to the necessity of quick action following possible accidents, telephone connection with the city hall is necessary. This was found to be the case when an accident occurred on the job a short time ago.

There is quite a strong agitation in the city to change the name of Zwick's Island and name it affe, one of the previous legislators of the city or district. Mr. Ed. H. Tickell has taken exception to any change being made. He claims that Mr. Zwick was one of the original settlers of the front section around here and he believes that in opening up that section he did as much to deserve the honor of having the island named after him as after anyone else.

Canada formally passed under British control 201 years ago today—in 1763. The occasion was the signing of the Treaty of Paris, formally ending the Seven Years' War. The war effectually had ended four years earlier with the capture of Quebec in 1759. The reality of the self-governing members of the British Commonwealth was established by the Statute of Westminster in 1931.

1346—Upper and Lower Canada were united.

Easy to Holler Wisdom Is Hard

It is all too easy for private enterprise to holler about government intervention. But, before it does, it should always ask itself why governments feel impelled to intervene. The reasons almost always will be found the failure of private enterprise to do what must be done, or to do it in a satisfactory manner.

To Your Good Health
Not Unusual to Gain Weight During Pregnancy

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am two months pregnant. I have already gained 13 pounds. Ordinarily I do not have any tendency to gain excess weight.

My doctor says: "Fine. You're eating for two." But I don't agree; it's too much. With seven months to go, can you imagine what I'll look like?

There is nothing physically wrong with me, only a tremendous appetite. I am sure I can control this, but will the baby be harmed if I stay on a low calorie diet — say 2,000?

A gain of 18 to 20 pounds in pregnancy is regarded as normal; your 13 pounds in two months is, as you think, too much.

Odd quirks can accompany pregnancy. Occasionally overweight is the result of too much fluid accumulating in the tissues, but most women would be better off not to look for excuses, but to do something to face the plain facts. Sometimes the appetite starts to run away — the only answer is call a halt to it.

You are "eating for two," but when you start gaining too much weight, you are eating more than the two of you need — one adult and one very tiny embryo.

I've known of young women to gain huge amounts, 50 pounds or more, in pregnancy. They had to get maternity clothes anyway, of course, and some of them found that their feet swelled and they had to buy new shoes.

So much weight often makes difficulties at the time of delivery. It imperils the baby. It also undermines the mother's health, not to mention the task of trying to shed it afterward.

The unborn baby doesn't need a large amount of food. And when the mother gets fat, the baby isn't getting that extra food anyway. It is just turning into "mama fat."

The essential needs of the baby are protein, vitamins, calcium and iron. Lean meat and eggs take care of the first, protein. A quart of milk a day amply provides calcium plus some protein and a supply of fat — if weight is a problem, skim milk can be substituted. It is quite common to give pregnant women vitamins and iron — and sometimes calcium (if they won't drink milk) to stay on the safe side.

Look after these essentials in your diet and you can keep your weight under control without least risk to the baby.

The baby does not need any important sustenance from such fattening items as candy and fried foods.

By all means start curbing the appetite. You'll be better off. So will the baby. The birth will be easier and safer, and you won't have the problem of reducing afterward when your pregnancy can be more profitably spent enjoying the new child.

Dear Dr. Molner: My daughter, 22, has two babies and she smokes cigarettes incessantly. I am worried sick over her. Is there anything I can do to stop her from smoking, as I am so scared of lung cancer. She says she just can't stop. Please don't print my name as my daughter would be mad at me . . . A.

I gave you some different ini-

No, you can't force people to stop smoking, short of locking them up. I'm sure she could quit if she really wanted to. Anybody can. But she doesn't want to enough.

For your own peace of mind, though, why not let her worry? Lung cancer doesn't ordinarily appear until people have been smoking for quite a number of years.

Note to Mrs. J. D. H.: No, I don't think that the chewing of gum has anything to do with acne. There may well be other reasons but not chewing it all the time, but this isn't one of them.

Don't quit Because of Arthritis" is the title of my leaflet designed to help all who suffer the aches and pains of arthritis. Box 158, Dundee, Ill., enclosing a long, self-addressed unstamped envelope and 25 cents in coin to cover cost of handling.

Strictly Personal
Revolution Feared Return of The Repressed

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

There seems to be a vast and vague confusion in the public mind about the relationship between "violence" and "hate." Those who deplore the recent rise of violence in our country — one adult and one very tiny embryo. — often speak with the recent rise of violence in our country — one adult and one very tiny embryo. — once to him who denies such instincts within himself.

Violence is entirely another matter. The task of society is to find effective ways of draining these forces of hate into less destructive channels — and not to shut up the symptoms. Hate that is able to come out in the open, to express itself verbally, becomes at least partially harmless, and germs exposed to strong sunlight.

It is in the countries like England, which allow full and direct expression of speech, that violence is at a minimum. Anyone who has watched the rabid crackpots ranting in Hyde Park, while the police stand by unconcernedly, cannot help but admire the British attitude toward verbal aggressiveness.

Violence, as it did in Germany, when the people are denied access to expression, when the social order does not provide safety valves for strong feelings of resentment, when people are not allowed to talk, but told, that a revolution is truly a "return of the repressed."

Despicable as the fascist fringe (and it is more than a fringe) may be in this country, it is unfair to blame our recent rise of violence upon them or upon any single group that has spewed words of hatred at Kennedy. It is more freedom of expression we must guarantee against the more dangerous forms of law. And that freedom should be virtually unlimited.

A foreign correspondent once told me about a fanatical group in Germany which met in London and were goaded by the speaker to march on Buckingham Palace and overthrow the government. As the audience became agitated, a nearby policeman stepped in the door and, marching to the Palace to overthrow the government, please disperse and go home at once!" they ordered. They did.

If society had made mistakes of omission or commission, or was to silence the voices of hate, obnoxious as they might be. It would be a society repressed, and the consequences of their actions made plain; but hate leads to violence only when it is compounded by suppression and not counteracted by the strong sunlight of public argument.

14 RCAF Men at Station Take Pictures of Satellites

By ALLEN SACKMANN

EDMONTON (CP) — The RCAF has 14 men looking for the proverbial needle in the haystack at its Cold Lake station 140 miles northwest of Edmonton. The needles are satellites and the haystack is the heavens.

Aiding them in their nightly search is a $120,000 Baker-Nunn camera, a three-ton device so sensitive it can track not only satellites but flotsam—foreign objects in space as well.

The men work in two shifts, shooting 300 to 400 feet of film. It's immediately processed and the course of flying objects is plotted.

The data is forwarded to North American Air Defence headquarters in Colorado Springs, Colo., where it is correlated with information gleaned from other cameras located in California, Chile and Norway.

The cameras enable NORAD to keep a detailed, up-to-date inventory of the hundreds of items now in space, says Flt. Lt. Roy Thompson, who has been in charge of the Cold Lake operation for more than a year.

The camera's $30,000 lens—which can be cleaned only with a low-pressure vacuum cleaner—is so sensitive it can photograph a .303 rifle bullet at 30 miles. It photographed the six-to-guard I satellite, a six - inch sphere, at 2,000 miles.

TRAIL IS CURVED

Spotting the satellites and other objects in the photographs is not difficult, says Flt. Lt. Thompson. Satellites show up on a curved trail while stars follow what appears to be a straight path.

The satellites are identified by examination of time exposures and their location is plotted by checking where they are in relation to known stars.

Flt. Lt. Thompson says determining the course of a satellite is somewhat more difficult, at least until a spotter is up on his astrology. All the plotting is done by him and two other officers. The balance of the two crews is made up of photographers and technicians.

None of the men had special training in operating the camera prior to being assigned to the tracking project — "we train them on the job."

The camera is on an elevated platform inside a building that is set up to slide away from the camera to expose it for use. Processed film is read within an hour after the officers receive it. The processing plant and plotting room are located in the same building.

Formerly such tracking had to be done by radar but now the two systems complement each other, Flt. Lt. Thompson says. And when the weather is cloudy and the camera cannot be used, radar takes over the whole job for NORAD.

Young Girls Bug-Eyed as Beatles Sing

NEW YORK (AP)The Beatles—four British lads who sing when they are not busy running away from barbers—made their United States television debut Sunday night—and some things may never be the same.

The seats in the Columbia Broadcasting System studio where they appeared live on the Ed Sullivan variety show were given more of a workout by jumping and squirming teen-aged girls than were the singers in their fast-moving routine.

Throughout their two appearances during the show, the 721 members of the audience—mostly young girls—kept up a steady stream of squeals, sighs and yells.

Camera crews were lavish in their shots of the audience, showing young girls leaping from their seats, throwing their arms into the air and staring bug-eyed. Some appeared as if on the verge of coma, staring open-mouthed.

Guided Military Rockets Being Produced in West Germany for Three Years

By JOHN WETLAND

BONN (AP)The West German production of guided military rockets, the subject of diplomatic notes from the Soviet Union last week, is carried out with the full approval of the organization which controls the nation's rearmament—the Western European Union.

After being long forbidden, West German rocket production was allowed to start three years ago. The weapons involved are the Cobra, Sidewinder and Hawk.

The Cobra, developed by West German scientists, is an anti-tank rocket. The U.S.-designed Sidewinder and Hawk are built in West Germany under license. They are for use in bringing down enemy planes.

The three rockets all carry conventional, not nuclear, warheads.

CLAIM TENSION

The Soviet Union claimed West Germany's rocket activity is intensifying tension in Europe and last Monday delivered notes about it to Washington, London, Paris and Bonn. The Western governments paid little attention, dismissing the notes as propaganda, and the West German rocket program will continue.

This program started late because in the immediate post-war period the United States, Britain and France worried about the possible development of the new West German army. The memory of Hitler's first jets, the V-2 rockets and other technical innovations was fresh. In the 1954 Brussels treaty the three Western allies laid down controls to apply to the new West German armed forces. The resuscitation of atomic, biological and chemical weapons made by the then chancellor Konrad Adenauer was formalized and limits were set on the size and effectiveness of many types of armaments. Rockets were banned altogether.

The ban and the limits were made subject to amendment by a two-thirds vote of the members of he Western European Union. These members are Britain, France, Italy, Holland, Belgium, Luxembourg and West Germany.

CHANGES MADE

The changes in the treaty for the West German rockets were granted after the Adenauer government established a reputation for being a loyal member of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Today the official NATO position is that the West German armed forces should be provided with weapons as advanced as those with which NATO troops in Europe are equipped. What West Germany still cannot produce itself it buys from its allies.

Under the treaty, an amendment would be possible to give West Germany permission to manufacture rockets capable of carrying nuclear warheads, though those warheads themselves would have to remain under U.S. control.

No such amendment has been sought.

Compass-Stabbing Co-ed Must Curb Hot Temper

DEAR DORIS — I have always read your column with interest and have had considerable respect for your wisdom and sincerity. Yesterday, however, I read your reply to a girl who signed herself Jhony, and decided that you are beginning to abandon your own distinctive style to pattern yourself after the cheap "quip" style of some others.

You are a professional social worker and that should assure that you take the business of advice-giving fairly seriously. Would you tell clients who came to see you in your professional capacity that they should "Start cooking on the front burner" to find someone who could "changa the whole flavor of things?" — VANCOUVER READER.

DORIS CLARK

DEAR VANCOUVER READER — Honestly now, if I were to talk in social work jargon, who would read me?

Advice-giving is serious business, when it touches private lives. I simply will not give anyone the brush-off. But I reserve the right to stay readable and to use a little humor when indicated.

Incidentally, my private replies are always more comprehensive than the brief replies which appear, for lack of space, in the column.

Comments like yours are thoughtful and would have been even more appreciated if you had had the good faith to identify yourself with name and address.

DEAR DORIS — I am a boy 16 years old. I live with my mother and my brother. My brother is 19 and acts like a bully. He likes to think he's big and brave and strong.

I want to have a talk with him but he won't listen to me or anyone else. He's always saying "Come out in the back yard." Of course he means he wants to fight.

My mother tells me I've got a hole in my heart and I am afraid to fight. Not that I am afraid of him or anyone else. Since I've got a bad heart, would it hurt me to fight? — NOT AFRAID.

• • •

DEAR NOT AFRAID — I'm suspecting that big brother knows about the hole and knows you dare not fight. Sometimes it takes more courage to be in your position and hold yourself back from fighting.

When he is really grown up he won't have to show off. One day he'll want your friendship. Meanwhile, be patient with him. You are the brave one if you can control yourself enough to protect your health, which might indeed suffer if you fought.

DEAR DORIS — I am 58 years of age and never married. Do you think at my age I should consider marriage? There is more to marriage than the fact that it gives a man a legitimate outlet for his sex needs. (While sex is necessary for the procreation of the human race, it is not absolutely necessary for the individual. Many single women live virtuous lives as do many single men).

I love cultural conversation and companionship. And I believe you will agree as a social worker, that perhaps God created woman not only to bring children into this world, but also to help relieve physical and mental tension in man within the married state. — BACHELOR.

DEAR BACHELOR — In other words, to help man to cope with what is otherwise beyond him? What about the female claim to just as central a spot?

(a) Do you live alone and like it? Or (b) has some loving family member — of the weaker sex — kept you mallow? If (a), No. If (b), Marriage could be beautiful, even now.

• • •

DEAR DORIS — Thank you so much for your letters. You have been most helpful. Like you said, it's frustrated ladies like my sister-in-laws that lead a man to drink and make a nervous wreck out of everybody concerned. What gets my goat is they don't seem to think they do anything wrong.

I have tried so hard to get along with them for my husband's sake because I know they have bullied him all his life, but like you said, the pressure got so bad I just couldn't take any more. Anyway, I will take your advice and try to tolerate them. — DISGUSTED.

DEAR DISGUSTED — Don't get me wrong. "Tolerate" doesn't mean "Capitulate." Your first explosion was merely the Distant Early Warning signal. They'll rally their forces for a come-back. Gently, but firmly, maintain your position even if you have to memorize your strategy in front of a mirror!

Serve traditional pancakes on Shrove Tuesday with Sausages. Mary Moore gives you the all time favorite recipe that proves popular every year.

Pancakes For Tuesday

by Mary Moore

It is very hard to beat the standard recipe for pancakes. I gave here in 1961 and twice in Februarys before that. So at the risk of re-re-re-repeating myself and because common sense tells me to, here it is again today for you to try tomorrow.

MONDAY

Dinner Menu

Devilled Veal Kidneys on Toast; Broccoli; Kernel Corn; Tomato and Head Lettuce Salad; Roquefort Dressing; Lemon Sponge Pudding; Coffee.

FAVORITE PANCAKES:

1½ cups sifted all-purpose flour, 3½ teaspoons baking powder, ¾ teaspoon salt, 2 or 3 tablespoons sugar, 1 egg, beaten, 1¼ cups milk, 3 tablespoons melted shortening.

Sift flour once, measure, then sift again with baking powder, salt and sugar. Combine egg, milk, shortening and add to dry ingredients. Stir until smooth. Drop by tablespoonfuls onto hot griddle. Cook on one side until puffed and full of bubbles. Turn and cook on other side.

A reader asked me to give her guidance in preparing a pancake supper for a Sunday School group. These could be served with baked sausages. One pound of sausages serves 6 people, so she would need approximately 12 lbs. to serve 50.

PANCAKES TO SERVE 50 PEOPLE:

6 lbs. sifted pastry flour, 6 oz. baking powder, 1¼ tablespoons salt, 8 eggs (approximately 1½ cups), 1½ lbs. sugar, 2 qts. plus 3¾ cups milk, 2 teaspoons vanilla, 1 lb. melted shortening.

Sift together, the sifted flour, baking powder and salt. Beat eggs slightly and beat sugar, milk and vanilla into them, mixing well. Gradually add dry ingredients and beat until perfectly smooth. Add melted fat and mix again. Select a measure or ladle that holds 2½ oz. of better. Drop on greased hot griddle (or one that is so well impregnated with fat that grease is not necessary.) Cook until firm around edges and bubbles break on upper surface. Turn and "bake" other side until pale gold. Serve with maple or pancake or corn syrup and butter and baked sausages.

BAKED SAUSAGES:

The simplest way I know to cook sausages is to bake them, especially for a large quantity. If you don't want to you do not even have to turn them. Bake them on a shallow pan in a single layer at 350 deg. Fahr. about 25 minutes. It is a simple matter to tip off the excess fat just before serving them on a hot platter.

U.C.W. Meeting

FRANKFORD — The general meeting of Frankford United Church Women was held on Tuesday, February 4th, in Rose Lowery hall. The president, Mrs. C. Bennett, opened with a poem, and the purpose of the U.C.W.

The U.C.W. have approved the idea of a fashion show to be held in the spring. The proposed budget was given and programs for the year were outlined.

Mrs. R. Rowe opened the program. Mrs. D. Montgomery read the Scripture reading, and Mrs. H. Richards led in prayer. Mrs. J. K. Beech outlined the mission study for the year and explained the maps to the ladies.

An interesting film, "Passport to Dehra Dun" was shown. This film, set in India, accents the role of the missionaries as they work as colleagues with their fellow Christians. This film features medical care and research in Vellore, showing missionaries and their Indian colleagues together solving some of India's dramatic problems.

The meeting closed with the singing of a hymn.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. R. Rowe, Mrs. H. Richards, Mrs. D. Montgomery, Mrs. J. Beech, Mrs. R. Rumney and Mrs. C. Bennett.

SPEAKING OF MANNERS

BY PATRICIA LEWIS

MAIL CALL

Question: Is it correct to put R.S.V.P. on informal invitations? I usually do for large parties, just so I'll know how many people to expect and prepare for. Often, though, we've received invitations which do not request an answer, so I've begun to think I may be wrong in asking for a reply on my invitation. Would you please settle this question for me? — Mrs. V. M., Pleasantville, N. Y.

Answer: At your mind at ease. It's correct to use R.S.V.P. on invitations to assure an accurate head count. When no response is requested, the unwritten rule is that the hostess expects you to show up if you can and assumes you're coming unless she receives your regrets in the meantime.

Question: I'm new in this neighborhood and have just received an invitation to a "coffee." It's at ten in the morning and I assume is some sort of a breakfast. Since I'm not familiar with the custom, how should I dress for it? I usually wear slacks and sweater in the morning. Do guests dress up for such an occasion, or simply wear what they ordinarily do? — Mrs. B. F., Cranford, N. J.

Answer: A "coffee" is an informal get-together at which coffee is served along with rolls and pastry. Dress is casual, but instead of slacks, it would be more appropriate to wear a skirt and sweater or a sports suit or dress. A hat may or may not be worn, depending on individual preference and custome.

Mr. and Mrs. Siegfried R. Quickert of Scarborough are pictured following their recent marriage in Thornhill Presbyterian Church, Thornhill. The bride is the former Cornelia Heydens, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Franciscus Heydens, Ottawa. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur E. Quickert, Belleville.

QUICKERT—HEYDENS

Thornhill - Presbyterian Church, Thornhill, Ontario, was the setting for a recent wedding when Cornelia Heydens, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Franciscus Heydens, Ottawa, became the bride of Siegfried R. Quickert, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur E. Quickert, Belleville.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Best man was Mr. Klaus (Nick) Quickert, brother of the bridegroom. Mr. Armin Quickert, Kingston, and Mr. Norman Terry, Richmond Hill, ushered the guests. The bride was attended by Mrs. Norman Terry, her sister, as matron of honor. Mrs. Armin Quickert of Kingston, and Mrs. Mark Kirby of Toronto, were bridesmaids, and little Miss Theresa Heydens, niece of the bride, was flower girl.

Rev. Rudolf Heydens, Orillia, brother of the bride, presided at the organ and Mrs. Ada Rowe of Ottawa was guest soloist.

The reception was held in the church parlors, where the mother of the bride, assisted by the bridegroom's mother, received the guests. Mr. Colin Farrer of Ottawa, friend of the bridegroom, was master of ceremonies.

After the return from a honeymoon in Montreal the young couple are now residing in Scarborough.

Variety Show At Quinte Much Enjoyed

BY NANCY LOU MIDDLETON

For the last three weeks the bands and glee club of Quinte Secondary School have been busy preparing for the Quinte Variety Review held February 6, and by 8:30 over half the show was comprised of musical entertainment.

Starting things off successfully the Quinte Senior Band and choir under the direction of Mr. A. Harland played excerpts from "The Music Man." Saxophones played by Richard Hamilton and Carl Walsh then accompanied the glee club in their rendition of "What Ever Happened to Vaudeville." To add variety to the show Darwin Gaskin sang "Tango Trio" and Tiger Rag on his accordion. The dance band led by Mr. Harland then got out of the highlights of the evening. Their numbers, "The Preacher" and "It's the Talk of the Town," were reminiscent of the big band sounds in the 40's. Rose of Ottawa was guest soloist.

The first part of the show had four expert violinists in the school, Jim Kormos, Jerry Wilson, Jeanette and Jane Rabel, forming the Quinte String Quartet played by Don Hamilton. Also played Trio Sonatina for Band. Stephen Flindall then played several Honky Tonk piano pieces. The Junior Band, led by Dwayne Ellis showed great promise. They played "March of the Moppets," which was quite an ambitious undertaking for beginning musicians. An outstanding performance was given by the Quinte Jazz Trio with Carl Walsh on alto saxophone, John Beach on piano and Darwin Gaskin on percussion. At the last minute the trio lost their music and the band had to sketch it. Their composition was appropriately named Instant Notes. The singing Sophisticates, Linda Gardner, Marlene Jenkinson, Valerie Burnell, Lindy Fairman and Betty Ellis sang "We're a Couple of Swells." The Finale, consisted of "Give My Regards to Broadway" "Seventy-Six Trombones" was played by the Senior Band and sung by the entire cast on stage.

The success of the show was shown by the response of the audience and the smiles of the cast. We hope the Quinte Band for Band will be as successful in their trip to Toronto for the Kiwanis Festival on Saturday as they were in the Variety Review.

Reports Given At Argyll Ch. Annual Meet

The regular monthly meeting of the Argyll Chapter, I.O.D.E., was held in the Officers' Mess, Belleville Armouries, last Wednesday. The regent, Mrs. E. F. Smith, declared the meeting open for business and the flag being brought forward the Prayer of the Order was said in unison.

The result of the Winter Fantasy dance was most gratifying and both the conveners and the regent expressed their thanks to all who had helped make this project a success, both socially and financially.

Further business was held over until after the annual reports were received.

Interesting reports were given by the different conveners covering their year's work. Mrs. F. M. Burtt, convener of Services at Home and Abroad, gave figures showing amount of work done by the members. A total of 116 articles were shipped to Toronto, including quilts, pillow slips, knitted baby jackets, boxers, soakers, hospital gowns, Korean socks, knitted sets and other knitted articles. The chapter provided Christmas cheer in food and clothing to veterans' families and children. A total of 16 families in need, a total of 26 children, received help and children. A total of 165 hours were given in service to the Blood Donor Clinic and a number of members assisted at two cancer clinics, in making dressings.

The educational secretary, Mrs. R. G. Birkenshaw, gave a detailed report on the year's work in the educational field. Of particular interest was the gift of a $50 grant to Cadet Camp and a gift to a student entering high school. Pictures of the Queen and Royal Family were placed in schools where needed. The special project on school and teachers are assisted in various way by the chapter.

A party was held last June and in December members presented a gift and a Christmas stocking to both patients attending everyone happy.

Annual reports from the Regent secretary and treasurer all showed a busy and worthwhile year.

Mrs. F. M. Burtt presented the slate of officers for the year 1964 as follow: Regent — Mrs. E. F. Smith; 1st vice-Regent — Mrs. K. D. H. Willcocks; 2nd vice-Regent — Mrs. W. G. The meeting was adjourned and refreshments were served.

ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS — The grimmest thing happened at school yesterday and I am getting the worst of it through no fault of my own.

My girl friend and I were walking out of the cafeteria when we heard these two creeps behind us. They were saying some very crude things. We kept on walking and paid no attention.

Suddenly one of the guys slammed me across the backside with a book. I was so shocked I swallowed my gum. When I heard these wild roars of laughter I turned around and jabbed one of the guys with the point of the compass I happened to have in my hand at the time.

He screamed as if he had been stabbed. Two teachers came running out of study hall. Frankly I was surprised at how much blood could come from a little tiny pin prick.

Now it's all over school that I stabbed this kid and they are making me sound like a maniac. Nobody says a word about him hitting me across the rear first.

All my school privileges have been taken away for one month. The principal called my mother and I am grounded at home, too. You might say I have been sentenced to solitary confinement for 30 days. Is this fair? — PERSECUTED.

• • •

DEAR PERSECUTED — What do you mean, "He screamed as if he had been stabbed?" He was stabbed — and you got what you deserve. Cupcake.

The boy should not have bellied you with the book, but you had no license to attack him with the sharp end of a compass. You could have been a catastrophe. Sweat out your punishment and learn to control your temper.

• • •

DEAR ANN LANDERS — I am concerned about my behavior when I am invited to a party.

I am never content to sit and enjoy myself, as a guest. I always feel much more comfortable when I work in the kitchen, empty ashtrays, freshen drinks and so on.

My parents are in my motivation. What appears to be a desire to help is really a compulsion to keep busy. It makes me feel "needed" and therefore "wanted." Can you explain this to me? — PERPETUAL MOTION.

• • •

DEAR PERPETUAL — You've just explained it to yourself but here is some elaboration:

Your feelings of being unwanted and unneeded have trailed you from childhood into adulthood. You feel inferior so you attempt to "serve" in order to justify having been invited to the party.

Many established and successful people have the same problem. In spite of overwhelming evidence to the contrary they still feel inadequate and unworthy.

• • •

DEAR ANN LANDERS — I am a married man with a problem. Some time ago while on an assignment at one of our company's midwest branch offices I developed a warm friendship — not a romance — with a young married woman I will call Portia.

Several of my colleagues know Portia and her husband. They come through this city several times a year on business. I'm afraid Portia may be offended if she does not see her gift on my desk when she drops by. Yet I can't bring myself to display her photograph. May I have your advice? — PERPLEXED.

• • •

DEAR PLEX — Portia must have oatmeal where her brain belongs. Her gift was an abominable taste.

Throw the picture out — frame and all.

I.O.D.E. Ch. Will Sponsor Orchestra

At the annual meeting of the St. Julien Chapter, I.O.D.E., held at the home of Mrs. J. Farrott, plans were made to sponsor a concert by the Eastern Ontario Concert Orchestra under the direction of Mr. Steve Chomos, with guest artists Robert and Hezelanne Reid. This will be held at the Belleville Collegiate in April, and will be the main fund-raising event this year for the work of the chapter.

Mention was made of Founder's Day which will be celebrated on February 13, and also of the charter of this chapter, dated September 2, 1915. St. Julien Chapter will be celebrating its 50th anniversary in 1965.

Reports of the various secretaries and conveners showed a busy and active year. The educational secretary reported over $400 spent on Red Cross equipment, the greater proportion being sent to help local students and schools.

The immigration and citizenship convener reported that certificates and Canadian pins had been presented to over 90 new Canadians on receiving their citizenship papers, and that members of the basic English classes had been entertained twice during the year. The services at home and abroad secretary stated that articles over the year had been made by members and sent to headquarters, members assisted at blood donors' clinics and two cancer clinics. Christmas baskets were delivered to needy war veterans families, parcels of books were sent to service men overseas, and magazines, games and toys to the local nursing station, N.W.T.

New members received into the chapter at the meeting were: Mrs. M. McCaw, Mrs. Charles Sheean and Mrs. R. Whiteman.

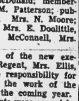
Whittemore; Echoes secretary, Mrs. H. Moffatt; services at home and abroad, Mrs. J. Robbins; assistants, Mrs. F. Hracho and Mrs. J. Gajdicar; standard bearer, Mrs. D. Kvarda.

Conveners are:—Commonwealth relations, Mrs. C. Empire and world affairs, Mrs. G. Hume; Mrs. R. Carscallen; hospitality, Mrs. J. Tkachbein and Mrs. B. Safe; immigration and citizenship, Mrs. K. MacDonald; membership, Mrs. M. Patterson; publicity, Mrs. M. Mooney; councillors, Mrs. E. Doolittle, Mrs. G. A. McConnell, Mrs. F. Cale.

On behalf of the new executive the Regent, Mrs. Ellis, accepted the responsibility of carrying on the work of the chapter for the coming year.

Refreshments were served by the retiring hospitality conveners, Mrs. Hrachovec and Mrs. Gajdicar.

Noted Soprano To Sing At Collegiate



Margaret Tynes, the American soprano who appears here on February 13 at the Belleville Collegiate auditorium under the auspices of the Belleville Community Concert Association, is a new star on the international music stage. Her overnight sensation after singing the title role in Strauss' "Salome" in Italy in 1963, Margaret Tynes has filled engagements in Europe and the United States in a wide variety of operatic roles.

Following her Town Hall debut, the glamorous singer was featured with the New York City Opera Company and appeared with the NBC-TV Opera Company in "Amahl and the Night Visitors." She has made numerous recordings with Duke Ellington and Harry Belafonte. She sang in Russia, one of a group of American artists assembled by Mr. Ed Sullivan under the sponsorship of the U.S. State Department for the opening of the American Exhibition in Moscow in 1959.

Miss Tynes is a graduate of A and T College in Greensboro, N.C., and holds a master's degree in music education from Columbia University. She has done graduate work at the Juilliard School of Music.

'Cocktail Bars Far More Insidious Than Saloons' Says WCTU Secretary

BY JACK MORRIS

VANCOUVER (CP)—The old corner saloon was bad enough, says the Women's Christian Temperance Union, but now it's fighting a far more insidious enemy"—the cocktail bar.

"Cocktail bars are far more insidious than the old saloon ever was," says Mrs. William Watson of Vancouver, world recording secretary for the WCTU. "More people are drinking socially today, especially the women, and these bars springing up everywhere in Canada are worse than

But if the enemy has changed its shape, so has the WCTU's approach to the fight.

"Hatchetations" — as Carry Nation called her hatchet attacks on the old saloons in the United States—have long been supplanted by the WCTU weapony by something the organization considers more effective.

"Our education program, particularly among the young, is the best answer," says Mrs. Watson, whose organization in Canada distributes films, pamphlets and other publications in an attempt to curb drinking.

CAN'T HALT DRINKING

"There is no doubt that social drinking is on the increase. It has become acceptable among many Canadian women. These people just don't realize that alcohol is a narcotic that is potentially habit-forming."

Mrs. Watson says the WCTU motto still is abstinence ("all of our members stick to this pledge") but the organization does realize that drinking is here, probably to stay.

"We aren't fanatics; we're quite reasonable people. We have to be realistic. There always has been alcohol and perhaps there always will be. But drinking can and should be greatly lessened."

She says the WCTU has never wavered in its 90-year battle against liquor. But membership in Canada has dropped to a hard-core of about 6,000 "which is less than it was 25 or 30 years ago."

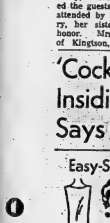
The WCTU estimates there are more than 200,000 alcoholics in Canada, and about 4,000 more are being added every year. Ontario, Quebec and British Columbia have the highest rate of alcoholism.

WANT PRICE BOOST

"In Ontario, for example, there are 2,400 alcoholics per 100,000 population," says Mrs. Watson. "The lowest rate is in the Maritimes, and this is because there are fewer cocktail bars and other liquor outlets there."

Mrs. Watson believes provincial governments should move to close down some of the cocktail bars and other liquor outlets and at the same time increase the price of liquor.

She describes cocktail bars as "meeting places for many women," and says the appearance of barmaids in Winnipeg is a "terrible thing—would you want your daughter to be a barmaid?"



Campaigns against smoking "obviously a menace to health"), gambling and crime comics are continuing but the WCTU emphasis always has been and always will be on drinking.

"Many people don't realize that alcoholics are found not just on Skid Road but every where, in business and industry, the professions — everywhere," says Mrs. Watson.

"It is no exaggeration to say that alcohol in many cases has become a part of our daily menu."

DESERONTO

School Board Rejects Motion To Meet Council

DESERONTO — For Caesar it was the Ides of March. But for the Board of Education for the town of Deseronto it is any month.

Once again the beleaguered board found itself in conflict with the town council, this time at its general meeting held Wednesday night in the local public school.

Subject of debate was the proposed meeting with the council that never came off.

Instead, two letters from town council concerning the meeting they had echoed the January 29th, trustee Dellor noted that "since the council had already determined that course that nothing could be gained."

Town council two nights previously had set motions seeking the attachment of the Deseronto high school to the Napanee High School District. These motions were in the form of requests to the Counties of Hastings and Lennox and Addington to discontinue the Deseronto high school and join it to Napanee.

In the same meeting council had suggested to the county representative on the board that he discuss with them the possibility of meeting with council.

In actioning the discussion representative Armitage expressed the needs for the two organizations to come together amicably.

One of the trustees wondered if this could be done since the council was on a number of occasions with the board and had been poorly treated.

Trustee Keech said that he had no desire to meet with council and be insulted as he had before, or engage in bickerings that some meetings had become. Reid said he was willing to go if there was a definite agenda.

In speaking to the Trustee Schell raised the question of keeping the high school building in Deseronto open as being an item that could be discussed. He questioned the board's decision to do this, stating that it would be impossible to provide proper education for Deseronto students under the present provincial plan.

WON'T OPEN SCHOOL

The chairman of the Board replied that "it was not the intention of the present board or any other board to open the local high school."

He indicated that it was only wise to find out what the exact costs of locations would be before committing the town to another area. Since the students of Deseronto are receiving full benefits of the Roberts Plan through the Board's purchase of education in Napanee he felt it only right to continue in that arrangement.

"Let us buy education for a year and find out what is costs us," said trustee Dellor.

During the discussion it was pointed out by Trustee Schell that the board was investing itself in expenditures it could well have avoided. He referred particularly to the legal fees contracted at the time of an injunction against a member of the Board.

The Chairman stated that the legal fees had been incurred in an act of duty, and that it was generally known that a private individual had served an injunction on the board member but not known that the Corporation of the Town of Deseronto had served a writ as well legalize the same member. He said that it was in regard to the latter that the fees were incurred.

The Board members agreed that there were many things involved in the conflict between the Town Council and the Board that were not known or had been falsely represented.

The motion that "the Board meet with Council at a date decided by the Board" was lost on the premise that it did not properly express the wishes of the Board.

ADMINISTERS FUNDS

Britain's Medical Research Council, 30 years old in 1960, administers funds of some $20,000,000 from government sources alone.

Chou En-lai's seven-week, 10-country African safari scored some gains for Communist China and took some losses but it underlined one thing: Diplomacy on the African continent will never be quite the same again.

The premier of Communist China served notice, in his stiff and aloof way, that his country is on the African scene to stay. To wit: with the United States, the Soviet Union and other nations for influence on that vast land mass. The main thing about Chou that impressed his Afrca hosts was his doggfo determination.

To Africans, in the Tokyo view, the dominant impression was that Chou was a pretty smooth salesman for Chinese — African said and trade," saying in effect: China provides economic aid in the form of interest-free or low-interest loans to help developing nations stand on their own feet—and contributes to peace.

In Washington, the first view was that Chou made some headway in presenting himself to Africa as a peace-loving and law-abiding citizen of the world, ready to fight the remnants of colonialism and develop newly independent countries. The overall feeling in the U.S. capital, pending full evaluation, was that Chou sought to polish up Communist China's tarnished image and that the over-all impact was small.

IMPRESSED HOSTS

There is some doubt that he impressed his African hosts, and mystified them, too. That may have been just what he intended. The tour—which began before Christmas in Cairo and proceeded through Algeria, Morocco, Tunisia, Ghana, Mali, Guinea, Sudan, Ethiopia and Somalia—was a feat of endurance. It obviously left the 65-yearold Chinese leader weary. But he was there just long enough in at his final stop, in moonsoon-swept Somalia, to hold a news conference at which he answered two hours and went on past midnight, though his face was deeply lined and his smile wilted.

This determination, linked with the Chinese involvement in the Zanzibar revolt, which Chou denied, plus the army mutinies in Kenya, Tanganyika and Uganda, seemed to shock some Africans will from now on take China seriously.

These mutinies resulted in cancellations of trips to Kenya and Tanganyika and cost Chou social standing with some African leaders. At the same time they showed the unmistakable influence of China.

The revolts contrasted sharply with Chou's peaceful demeanor and seemed to heighten the air of mystery surrounding him. On a continent where political life is highly personal, he made almost no outward effort to project himself as "a man of the people."

The Chinese attitude of aloofness and stiffness in meeting African officials and expansive people—considerably reduced the immediate impact of Chou.

Members of Chou's 80-man party were obviously embarrassed when invited to participate in the African custom of dancing. Such stand - offishness rankled friendly Africans, who gamely like nothing better than to talk.

Chinese insistence on close security dampened receptions almost everywhere. But in private, Chou evidently made considerable impact.

He had set out, most diplomats believe, to convince Africans of his reasonable nature. They concede that in substantial measure he succeeded. He also set out to undermine the United States in particular and Russia to a lesser extent. In this he largely failed.

Clay Owns Three Cadillacs, Bus and an Expensive House

By GEORGE W. HACKETT

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Cassius Marcellus Clay, who is 22, owns three Cadillacs, a bus and an expensive house.

He has another rent-free luxury house for his use in Florida. He is generous in his family and is considered "a soft touch for a buck" by some members of the entourage that usually surrounds such a celebrity.

It has taken the Negro boxer nearly four years to come this far, and he still isn't really wealthy. But he is on threshhold of big money, strictly in spite of himself.

"Cassius hasn't had the time or the inclination for a hard course in economics," said Gordon Davidson, lawyer and business manager for the syndicate of 11 businessmen who put young Clay under a unique contract in 1960.

Davidson reviewed Clay's balance sheet, started after he won the Olympic light-heavyweight crown.

PUT UP $2,000 EACH

The syndicate, all Louisville men but one, and all wealthy, put up $2,000 apiece. They weren't entirely altruistic, but a main purpose was to help a promising Louisville boy avoid the financial chaos a lot of other prizefighters have gotten into.

With their original $20,000, the business group paid Clay a $10,000 bonus when he turned professional and underwrote the first costs of training and promotion.

They pick up the tab for all training expenses, provide Clay with the year-round home in Florida and share his income on a 50-50 basis. Next October, this will be changed to 60-40 in Clay's favor.

Many of the disagreements between Clay and his backers have developed over how they fund they set up for their protege. The trust gets 15 per cent of Clay's earning after taxes, an arrangement Clay never has liked. It now contains $10,000 tax-free, invested in stocks and bonds.

Davidson estimated that Clay has nearly $25,000 tied up "in his greatest weakness—autos. He's crazy about them and has a problem with him. He's too interested in his career and we feel that he has rejuvenated boxing."

As for family and friends, "Cassius is extremely liberal with both. He has been most considerate, perhaps to a fault. He even pays part of the expenses of two or three people who move around with him." Cassius' parents and brother, Rudy, live in the home he bought here, and one or more of the Cadillacs are usually at their disposal.

Clay's ring history—19 consecutive victories—has helped increase his income from other sources such as movies, television and record albums.

son - operating unions struck Jan. 23, 1963. Railroad officials said there have been 146 incidents.

About 1,300 union employees went on strike, making about 900 others idle. They demanded the 10.28 cents-an-hour pay increase agreed to by nearly all class I railroads on a national level. The Florida East Coast line, not a party to the negotiations, said it couldn't afford the rise and wanted to bargain separately.

There has been no passenger service since the strike, but freight service has been built up to four trains each way daily, using supervisory personnel and non-union workers. The railroad now has a work force of about 700.

Blinding Rays Of Sun Said Cause of Crash

PICTON (Staff) — Blinding rays from a late afternoon sun were blamed for a head-on two-vehicle crash on the Demorestville Road on Sunday afternoon.

Occupants of the two cars escaped injuries but damage to the older model car was estimated at about $400.

Leningrad Remembers When

History Hinged on a City's Hunger

By PRESTON GROVER

LENINGRAD (AP) — At the time the Japanese bombed Pearl Harbor, people of this city were eating hides, dogs, cats, rats, grass, glue, plus nearly anything at all to remain alive in one of the worst sieges of modern history.

Twenty-two years after it ended, the city commemorates the hour that the German blockade was lifted — by attacks from within and from outside.

Before the blockade ended, a third of the population had starved to death, 632,253 people by official count. Disease had little part in it. They starved. Dying cold and alone in bed, felled by sight in the snow in the street, or on the threshold of the factories they tried to reach to perform their daily tasks and earn their ration cards. To the people who survived, it seems incredible now that they did it.

The Germans, aided by the Finns, threw a blockade around Leningrad in the late fall of 1941 and twisted it so tight that within two months all but the tiniest trickle of food was shut off.

SIGN OF SUFFERING

Finally a thin dribble of food, gasoline and other supplies began coming in over a road across the ice of Lake Ladoga, where the Russians held a narrow beach head. The story of suffering itself is a epic of suffering, disaster and sheer determination. Trucks loaded with supplies broke through the ice. Thousands of people being evacuated across the lake in the winter hanged through hidden shell holes, dumping scores of people into icy water from which they were too weak to scramble. Survivors found them were too weak to pull out.

That is how it was.

I came here to talk to some of the survivors of those years through it. The story of that siege, known to every Russian, hardly knew the end of the war in the West during the war. A certain amount was written about it. But the Russians had it to make the front pages of the world's newspapers against the drumbeat of the Nazi propaganda striking of the American fleet in Hawaii, the entry of the United States into the war.

Not since the German siege of Paris in 1870 had a great European city been so mid-September, 1941. At the last minute, the plan was changed.

There is controversy about that. Soviet authorities insist Hitler was beaten at Leningrad, that it was the strength in city, and set about starving it. Such evidence points in another direction. Hitler was ready in September, after their lightning sweep across Russia, German troops pressing on every side of the city. Its onlookdomed Moscow, a more important target.

But the hunger siege tightened, until . . .

Leningrad was totally unprepared for siege, and apparently Soviet authorities feared for a time the city was lost. They shipped out much vital machinery ahead of the German armies finally closed in, in mid-September, 1941, the city had supplies of food for hardly a month for its 2,000,000 people.

very good. At least it seemed so then.

"Every morning when we went out, there were dead people in the streets," he said. Other survivors told the same story.

Finally a truck route across the ice of Lake Ladoga was worked out, but it was a constant hazard. The Germans shelled the road and bombed it. The route had to be changed often, and it was not easy, for huge snowdrifts had to be moved. It was almost impossible to find people with strength enough to stay out on the ice to shovel away the snow.

Among the relics of the Leningrad siege is a tiny diary of a 10-year-old girl, Tanya Savitch. Under Anna Frank diary. It records only deaths.

The little notebook had an elaborate cover, like a small dictionary. Under the Russian letter for I was a report of the death of a sister. It was written with a thick blue crayon.

Under B was Babushka, grandmother, who died Jan. 25, 1942.

Then went an uncle, another sister. Under the M was:

"Mama, 13 May at 7:30 morning, dead, 1942."

Under T came a page saying simply:

"All dead."

ALL ALONE

Finally, under the letter O was "Odna," for alone, in Russian. Her cold hand had scribbled:

"All alone, Tanya." There was no date.

Neighbors found her later, starving. She died crossing the ice in an evacuation convoy.

Despite their suffering, the Leningraders managed to send help to the front and support them with munitions.

In 1943, the German planned one more attack on Leningrad, but it was broken up by a preventive attack by the Russians. In 1943 a Russian breakout attack was launched from Leningrad itself, supported by an attack from outside, south of Lake Ladoga.

The Germans were sent reeling back and the first relief troops broke into the city Jan. 18, 1944, to a wildly exulting population.

The city acquired one thing—Negro troops, Germans, and When I reminded one veteran that Russians were supposed to like East Germans at least, she replied, with a cold smile:

"We are told that we like them."

CANCEL JAMBOREE

EDMONTON (CP) — There will be no national Boy Scout jamboree in Canada in 1963 because of an increase in provincial jamborees. This was decided Friday by executive members of the National Council of Boy Scouts in Canada. Normally, a national jamboree is held every four years. The last one was in Ottawa in 1961. Lack of time for preparation also was cited as a reason for not holding a jamboree in 1963.

Fight Over Girl Starts Train Brawl

QUEBEC (CP) — Two men fighting over a girl touched off a brawl aboard a special CPR train carrying merrymakers to the Quebec winter carnival Saturday.

Bottles were thrown and windows smashed at the height of the tussling, and some of the participants suffered minor cuts and bruises. None required hospital treatment.

CPR officials viewed the damage philosophically.

"These things are apt to happen on special trains bound for the winter carnival or the Grey Cup," said investigator Jean Louis McKay.

"Damage was not too extensive—about $50 or $60."

The investigator said seven or eight passengers had been questioned about the brawl and released.

Four of the 41 coaches on the train, which brought 1,200 passengers from Montreal, were damaged. The fight started soon after the train passed Trois Rivieres, about half-way between Montreal and Quebec.

The train made an unscheduled stop in suburban Ancienne Lorette, where six military policemen clambered board to restore order.

Under-Secretary Meets With Ambassador

CP from Reuters-AP

ATHENS Greece—U.S. Undersecretary of State George Ball, who flew to Greece from London early today for emergency talks on the Cyprus crisis, met this morning with the U.S. ambassadors to Cyprus and Turkey.

Fraser Wilkins, the U.S. ambassador to Cyprus, and Raymond Hare, the ambassador to Turkey, came to Athens specially to meet with Ball. The U.S. ambassador to Greece, Henry Labouisse, attended the conference.

There was no official statement about the meeting, after which Ball and Labouisse called on Greek Foreign Minister Christos Xanthopoulos - Palamas.

(In Nicosia, a U.S. embassy spokesman said that George Ball was a possibility Ball would fly to Cyprus Tuesday to meet leaders of the Greek- and Turkish- Cypriot communities.)

Ball's aim is to win general acceptance for Cyprus proposals for an international peace force, dominated by British and American troops, to keep the peace on Cyprus. The island republic has been torn by fighting between Greek- and Turkish-Cypriots.

TURKEY STALLS

Diplomatic sources said Greece and Turkey have agreed but Turkey has some reservations. The chief stumbling block is Archbishop Makarios, the Greek Cypriot president of Cyprus, who wants any international force answerable to the United Nations Security Council.

Ball was racing Wednesday deadline with Prime Minister Johnson and Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home at Britain's meet in Washington to review the situation.

Reports from Ottawa said Douglas-Home, in his current Ottawa visit, was expected to discuss Canadian participation in the Cyprus force in talks with Prime Minister Pearson.

Car Production Remains Ahead Of Last Year

TORONTO (CP)—Vehicle production in 1964 continues to remain ahead of the record-setting pace of last year, with 72,811 cars and trucks produced last month compared with 58,916, in January, 1963, the Canadian Automobile Chamber of Commerce reported.

Production last month was made up of 62,174 cars and 10,637 trucks, compared with 20,765 cars and 8,151 trucks a year ago.

Industry sources said indications are that last year's record production of more than 630,000 vehicles likely will be surpassed by a wide margin.

Car production by company last month, with January, 1963, figures in brackets: American Motors 2,720 (2,303), Chrysler 8,333 (4,583), Ford 18,758 (9,824), General Motors 33,386 (27,478), Studebaker 576 (562), Volvo 197 (no comparable figure).

Choke May Require Helping Hand

By EUGENE B. MILMOE

Cold engine starting troubles, caused by the fuel system, can be boiled down to just two basic conditions — too much or too little gas is reaching the engine.

Too much gas is often the driver's fault. When the engine doesn't turn over immediately, there's a tendency to over - pump the gas pedal and flooding results. In the case of an actual fuel system malfunction, however, flooding is most frequently caused by a binding automatic choke plate — one which sticks in the closed position and therefore permits too much raw fuel to reach the cylinders. In such a case, the engine starts all right but quickly becomes flooded, stalls out, and won't restart.

A temporary cure can be effected by pumping the carburetor for air cleaner and reaching inside the carburetor throat to open the choke plate by hand. The same applies if the plate is stuck in the open position, thus providing too lean a mixture for cold engine starting.

These headaches involving a sticking choke system are frequently due to nothing more than a gummy shaft, and easily remedied.

From H. C.: "Oil pressure on my '57 sedan is quite low. My service station says it's due to worn bearings. Does it pay to install the main bearings?"

If he is guessing — and he probably is since you say he did not look or even start up the engine — then he didn't indicate to be specific. Low oil pressure can be due to worn main bearings, crankshaft bearings or rod bearings.

F.G. writes: "After checking out the carburetor, fuel pump, fuel lines, plugs, points and rotor and almost everything else, the dealer now suggests that a failing ignition coil is the reason my engine cuts out at high speed. What do you think?"

He may be right. If not, have him check out the distributor points. Faulty breaker arm spring tension can cause this trouble.

M. T. asks: "I've tried just about everything to correct engine miss on my 1958 wagon. At high speed, or when accelerating to reach high speed, the engine misfires badly. What do I do about this?"

How about looking for sticky valves, or a partly clogged exhaust?

From N. N.: "Does the rust inhibitor in anti-freeze do anything to dissolve rust already present in the cooling system? I say no, but a clerk at an auto supply chain store says yes."

He's wrong. An inhibitor is designed to prevent rust formation. It does not dissolve rust which is already in the system.

South Vietnamese Reds No 1 Shooting Enemy of U.S. In Less Than Five Years

By MALCOLM BROWNE

SAIGON (AP)—In less than five years, a shadowy political organization called the South Viet Nam National Liberation Front has expanded from a handful of members to a position as the No. 1 shooting enemy of the United States.

The front has grown since 1959 from its original few thousand organizers to an estimated 300,000 active members. Occasional front supporters may number between 4,000,000 and 5,000,000.

To U.S. helicopter pilot, it is a farmer who suddenly turns into a battle-wise Viet Cong regular dealing death with a heavy machine gun from a camouflaged bunker.

To a remote hamlet resident, the front may be a pretty young girl who brings medicines for sick and wounded villagers and an engaging way of talking to them.

To another hamlet resident, the front may be a self-assured young man who tells how communes around once a month demanding his rice tax payment.

To the man in the street it is known as the Viet Cong—the South Vietnamese Communists.

Interviews with members of the front are Communists although Communist members are the undisputed leaders.

NOMINAL CHAIRMAN

The nominal chairman of the front, Nguyen Huu Tho, is himself regarded as a Communist. Tho, a lawyer with a reputation as a lady's man, has never been seen outside Asia.

The secretary-general of the front, former mathematics teacher Nguyen Van Hieu, probably has more power. Hieu has made frequent trips throughout the Communist bloc over the last two years. Another top leader is Tran Bon Kim, a former executive of the old democratic party.

The front's 35-member permanent central committee includes Roman Catholic and Buddhist priests, labor leaders, farmers, peasants, townsfolk, intellectuals, and so on.

The real strength in the organization is in its tightly knit, interlocking cells. The hardcore organizers are about 4,000 agents organized into "Agit Prop" teams. A four of five men each that carry the word through the country.

A typical Agit Prop (propaganda) team, armed to the teeth, generally enters a village at about dusk to begin its work. The general slogan of all the teams is so simple as to be virtually meaningless — "independence, freedom, peace and unification."

GIVE LECTURES

The team gathers peasants together — and lectures on five basic themes:

Enthusiasm for the revolution, the certainty of Viet Cong victory, the need for negotiated settlement of the war with a coalition government, the alleged atrocities of government troops, and the assertion that "all the world is on our side."

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Dame Fortune, Lady Luck—or something—pulled a big squeeze play at Innsbruck in the wind-up of the hockey jousting and when the smoke of battle and juggling had lifted, Father Bauer's boys found the gold medal snatched from their grasp and Canada relegated to the sidelines when the medals were handed out.

We didn't have what it takes in the stretch run in the big games. We had the Czechs watching the clock desperately with ten minutes to go in the final frame when our side got the bad break when Martin was injured.

We led twice in the Russian game and it was another ballgame going into the final session at two-all. Martin came back to play a magnificent game in that frame but he didn't have enough up front to get past the tight Russian defence.

Even at that we had the chance to finish in the medal money. Then came one of the big surprises when the Swedes almost slaughtered the Czechs by a totally unexpected 8-3 score.

That was the money-wrench that upset our chances in the medal machinery. Canada's record in the won-lost column was as good as the Czechs and Swedes, but we were weakness in the scoring department finally told the tale.

Rinkside observers and hockey men from all countries looked for a tough battle between the Czechs and the Swedes since there is little love lost there. Perhaps a goal or so difference one way or the other with the Swedes hitting more at stake.

But when the Swedes romped up with that big margin of victory it was up to the sidelines to decide who got what medal other than the gold.

However, Father Bauer and his "Whiz Kids" while not bringing home any medal bacon made a good showing under conditions and circumstances. Perhaps the only criticism that can be offered is their scoring slump against weaker teams when a better goals average might have gained for them a bronze medal.

The good Father proved himself a fine coach and leader of a bevy of youngsters untried in international hockey warfare. His quietness proved themselves in one or two suggestions and his actions and conduct reglected a lot of our prestige on European puck battlefronts.

But we've got something to crow about. And more than one of us. I'm sure we're entitled to the magnificent victory of our four-man bobsled team which snatched the only Canadian gold medal from a field of experienced European foemen.

In this book it is perhaps the most sensational performance given by a Canadian team in Olympics and other international competition.

First, it was the first time Canada had ever entered bobsled competition. Second, it was like training and racing a horse with no stable or track. We have no sled run in Canada and they train after five years of expensive trials and training.

Unheralded and unsung at home, intrepid Vic Emory, brother Jack, Peter Kirby and Doug Anakin, paid their own way, bought their own equipment, trained themselves and went on to win in sensational fashion.

And in one Avery Brundage and more of these Olympic officials who look on the slightest hint of professionalism the Canadians paid $1,500 for their sled and dug into the personal jeans for $1,000 expense money, each that it.

Canadian sports experts should not hesitate, come next December, when they are asked to select the country's outstanding 1964 sports effort, its top team and the upset of the year.

With U.S. Network
CFL Signs TV Contract

By BOB TRIBBEE

EDMONTON (CP) — The Canadian Football League launched a modest but calculated move to extend its sphere of influence at its annual meeting which ended here Saturday.

It signed an agreement with Fourth Network Inc. of Los Angeles to handle the United States television at least 13 league games, agreed to establish a $6,500,000 gift life insurance plan for its players and boosted playoff and Grey Cup bonuses.

However, two key topics were set over for three months. They are a British Columbia proposal to establish a central league office and provide commissioner Sydney Halter with an assistant and the future status of naturalized Canadians in football.

The next meeting, which will be called by newly-elected CFL president Sam Berger of Ottawa, will study a second B.C. proposal involving a draft of game rights to Canadian and American Football Conference players. The CFL is an independent league with no connection to the National Football League player cuts by CFL teams.

Halter said the CFL received a nominal sum for its U.S. television rights in comparison with record NFL and AFL TV contracts. But the CFL's desire was to obtain exposure on the American market. The contract did not include Grey Cup rights.

BIG INVESTMENT

John Wyhe, Fourth Network president, said the agreement represents a $4,000,000 net investment, exclusive of rights paid the CFL, to his group. He hoped to attract an audience of 9,000,000 to the once-a-week telecast, to be carried each week-end.

Fourth Network bids for broadcasting rights to various sports attractions, obtains a sponsor and sells its product to network and independent television stations in the United States. Delayed telecasts will be arranged from border stations to prevent interference with regular Canadian telecasts and to ensure the game cannot be viewed by Canadians living in blacked out areas around cities where CFL games are played.

We Finished Fourth In 'Figures' ★★★★★
But Missed Gold By Only Two Goals

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Sports Editor

INNSBRUCK, Austria (CP)—The Olympic hockey gold medal is back in Russia for the second time in eight years.

The silver medal went to Sweden, the bronze to Czechoslovakia.

Canada finished fourth in the final standings of the eight-nation Olympic hockey championships, missing the medals for the first time in the history of the Winter Games.

The controversy that swirled over mathematics that put the Canadians there won't change it, although it might appear to do so. The fact Canada missed the gold medal by just two goals.

That was the difference between victory and defeat in Canada's 3-2 loss to the strong Soviet Union team Saturday night.

And that was the difference between outright and questionable success in Canada's bid to recover Olympic hockey glory with a truly national and truly amateur team.

FIGURES HE'S RIGHT

Rev. David Bauer, the Canadian coach who came up with the idea to assemble a team of young amateur players from across the country and prepare them for the Olympics, still believes the idea is right.

"I hope the Canadian will co-operate from now on in this venture of playing true amateurs," he said. "That's what I wanted to make a contribution to this ideal. Now we have made it."

Whether the experiment is continued remains to be seen, but Jim Proudfoot, president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association which determined the team, said Father Bauer's project "may sow the seed for something."

"It could well be the way we adopt in the future."

On the last full day Olympic hockey competition which ended Saturday night, the Soviet Union proved itself the best.

UNTAINTED RECORD

Russia's 3-2 victory over Canada gave the Russian unbeaten record in the seven-game, round-robin tournament, 14 points in the final standings and a four-point margin over Sweden, Czechoslovakia and Canada.

It gave Russia its second Olympic hockey gold medal, the first having come in 1956 when Russia entered the Winter Games for the first time.

Canada had to five times through 1952, losing it only to Britain in 1936 when the Canadians finished second. Canada was third behind Russia and the U.S. in 1956 and second in the last Games in 1960 when the United States won. The U.S. finished fifth here with a 2-5 record.

Sweden rapped the Czechs 8-3 in the last game of the championships, the win by Sweden, Czechs and Canadians tied with 5-1 records.

But on the basis of goal spread—the difference between goals scored and goals allowed —the Swedes were awarded the silver medal and the Czechs the bronze.

ENDED UP FOURTH

Canada, with a chance to win the gold medal until beaten by the Soviets, finished fourth.

Sweden scored 26 goals and allowed 16 for a differente of 31. The Czechs got 30-19 for a spread of 19 and the Canadians 32-17 and 15.

The mathematical formula set out by the governing International Ice Hockey Federation, brought a protest by Fetter that Canada was "robbed" of the bronze medal and an embarrassing incident for Father Bauer and his players.

Canadian officials had worked out their calculations on the basis of scores in games among only the top four teams—a calculation that placed Canada ahead of the Czechs.

Father Bauer and his player, believing they had won the bronze medal, arrived at the Ice Stadium for the presentation ceremonies to learn that they were fourth.

"Come on, fellas," Father Bauer shouted to his players. "Let's get out of here. We're not getting anything so let's get out."

FLICKER OF HOPE

When the Canadians took the ice against Russia, they still had a slim chance to win the gold medal. It required a Canadian victory over the Russians and a tie or win by the Swedes against the Czechs.

Canada then would have tied Russia atop the standings and won the championship by virtue of beating the Soviets—a regulation also set out by the IIHF.

But when Canada lost, Sweden's victory dropped the Canadians to fourth place.

Father Bauer was disappointed that his team lost to Russia after twice leading the Soviets in the first and second periods. But he was proud of his players, whose conduct on and off the ice won praise here.

"I am proud of my guys," the coach said. "I thought they played a tremendous game and that's all that matters."

Father Bauer declined comment on the officiating.

"The Russians played a good game, too," he said. "Now they have the gold medal and no talk can take it away from them."

The Russians earned the victory—by the smallest margin of any of their games—after they outshot the Canadians 43-19, winning on a goal at 1:26 of the third period by Victor Yemalianov, a veteran with the Soviet team since 1957.

Thirty sight goals were scored in a weekend of wild National Hockey League action, but now that the dust has cleared things look pretty much the same.

Montreal and Chicago each picked up three of the possible four points and remained deadlocked for the NHL leadership with 65 each.

Detroit, only team to win twice, strengthened its hold on the fourth and last playoff spot while the rest of the league lost ground.

The Red Wings edged Boston 3-2 Saturday and New York 4-2 Sunday.

Toronto Maple Leafs, last year's NHL champions, are slumped still deeper into third place. They scrambled to a 3-3 tie with the Hawks Saturday and lost Sunday's rematch 3-1, a performance that leaves them 10 points behind the leaders.

Montreal meanwhile thumped New York 6-2 Saturday and then gave up a 4-4 tie to Boston Sunday.

Canadiens' resounding victory Saturday afternoon gave them sole possession of the league leadership for a little more than 24 hours.

BALON SCORES TWO

The other Montreal scorers were Gilles Tremblay, Bernie Geoffrion, Claude Provost, Billy Hicke, Henri Richard and Red Berenson.

Veteran right - winger Andy Bathgate kept the Rangers in the game briefly when he scored three minutes behind Geoffrion for a 1-1 count in the opening period.

But Provost made it 3-1 before the period ended and the contest was soon out of the Rangers' reach as Balon, Tremblay, Hicke and Richard scored in the second. Balon notched his second goal and Berenson added another in the third period before Don McKenney closed out the scoring for New York.

That was the third straight loss for the Rangers since they took over fourth place briefly a week ago. Their fourth consecutive disaster came Sunday night in Detroit.

Trailing 3-2 in the last minute of play, they pulled goalie Jacques Plante for a sixth attacker and Detroit's Bruce Bucyk hit the goal post.

Gordie Howe and Norm Ullman scored in the first period, the Rangers pulled within striking distance twice.

ULLMAN GETS WINNER

Phil Goyette scored the New Yorkers' first goal at 1:47 of the second period and they stayed within tying range until 17:25, when Ullman netted another.

Bathgate made it 3-3 half-way through the third period and the hapless Rangers struggled for the equalizer until MacGregor put the game away with seconds to go.

It was Detroit's third victory in a row—their best winning streak of the season—and gave the Wings a five-point margin over New York.

Most of the action was confined to the first period, when Leo Boivin opened the scoring for the Bruins in the third minute of play. Andy Bathgate tied it up for Detroit at 12:34 and rookie Gary Dornhoefer put Boston ahead at 16:31.

Floyd Smith netted the only goal of the middle period to tie the count 2-2.

It was Dornhoefer who engineered the Bruins' 4-4 tie on home ice Sunday when he batted the puck past Canadiens goalie Charlie Hodge from a goalmouth scramble with two minutes to play.

The tying goal capped a comeback drive that saw the NHL cellar dwellers overcome a 2-0 deficit with three breaking goals in the second period.

PENALTY-BOX FIGHT

Also in the second period, Bobby Rivin and Hicks got involved in a penalty box pummelling match that netted each a 10-minute misconduct penalty and automatic $25 fine.

While they simmered down in the dressing room, Ralph Backstrom's play got Montreal an equalizer and at 1:30 of the third period Claude Provost put Canadiens in front 4-3.

Montreal's two-goal lead was rolled up in less than a minute as Hicks in the first period. Then came the Boston breakaways—three goals in 2:27. Forbes Kennedy at 3:03 and Murray Oliver at 12:41.

Hodge had to stop four other breakaways in that hectic second period before Tremblay evened the count. One shot by

Europeans Win 32-34 Gold Medals

Canada, U.S. One Each

By ROD CURRIE

INNSBRUCK, Austria (CP) — The boisterous ninth Winter Olympic Games, almost wholly European show and predominantly Russian in the winners' circle, have ended.

The Olympic flame, which burned for 12 hectic days in this mountain valley, was extinguished Sunday night and the starr of 36 countries began dispersing—some to other international competitions, others bound for home.

Europeans carried away 32 of the 34 gold medals, with 11 of them going to Russian athletes. The other two went to North America—one to Canada and one to the United States.

For the Russians, who entered the Winter Olympics for the first time in 1956, these were the most successful Games. They won five gold medals in 1956 and seven in 1960.

HOST IN DIFFICULTY

Host Austria, host for the Games, there was success in competition, difficulty with the weather that brought no snow for months and much criticism about the officiousness of its police and other security officers.

Austrians won four gold medals—second only to Russia—and took the most prized of all when Egon Zimmermann won the glamorous men's downhill skiing.

For the French, who will be hosts at the next Winter Games in Grenoble in 1968, there also was success on the ski slopes as they won three alpine championships, including the double-barrelled triumph by the Gottschel sisters.

For Canada, there was deep disappointment at the beginning and at the end, but there was cause for joy in between.

Canada made a determined bid to have the 1968 Winter Olympics staged at Banff, Alta., but on the eve of the ninth Games the International Olympic Committee voted 27 to 34 to have the 10th Winter Games staged in France.

BEATEN BY RUSSIA

Canada's young national hockey team also made a spirited bid to regain the Olympic hockey glory the country enjoyed through 1952. But the Canadians lost 3-2 Saturday night to the unbeaten Soviet Union, saw the gold medal go to Russia and finished fourth — the first time Canada has missed a medal in Olympic hockey history.

In between, Canadians made their Olympic history of a more pleasant nature as four daring bobsledders from the Montreal and Toronto areas sped to victory in the four-man bobsled event.

It was Canada's first appearance in Olympic bobsledding, a sport long dominated by Europeans, and the victory was even sweeter because Canada has no bobsled run.

The champions—and the only ones Canada had at the Games—are Vic Emery of Montreal, Doug Anakin of Montreal, Dr. John Emery of Toronto and Peter Kirby of St. Jovite, Que.

Canada got two other medals, both bronze, as Petra Burka of Toronto finished third in women's figure skating and Debbie Wilkes of Unionville, Ont., and Guy Revell of Newmarket, Ont., placed third in pairs figure skating.

RUSSIA ALSO LOST

There were disappointments for Russia, too, as it lost two of the men's speed-skating championships it won in 1960, but it more than made up for these slumbers.

In the final accounting, the Russians had 11 gold medals, including the hockey championship it had lost to the United States in 1960, eight silver and six bronze.

Two Russian women brought them gold championships — Lidia Skovlikova winning an unprecedented four gold medals as she swept the women's speed-skating events and Claudia Boyarskikh winning the five- and 10-kilometre cross-country skiing, then anchoring the winning Soviet team in the 15-kilometre cross-country relay.

The Russians won the pairs figure-skating title for the first time, won the biathlon, which combines cross-country skiing and shooting, and retained one men's speed-skating crown.

In the unofficial team standings, not recognized by the IOC, the Soviets were dominant as never before, piling up 1,965½ points on the basis of a 10-8-6-4-2-1 scoring system for the first six places in each final. That was 30 points higher than in 1960.

NORWAY SECOND

Norway, which won the last gold medal of the Games when 77-year-old Toralf Engan triumphed in the 90-metre special ski jumping Sunday, was second in the team standing with 26 points and Austria third with 21.

Canada was tied with Italy in ninth place with 34 points.

Says Officials 100 Per Cent Honest

Campbell Denies Ref. Charges

TORONTO (CP)—The president of the National Hockey League said Sunday night officials of the league are "100-per-cent honest."

Clarence Campbell denied accusations by Toronto Maple Leafs coach Punch Imlach that referees that penalty-calling is slanted in favor of certain teams on orders of league officials.

Interviewed on the CBC program Big Question Mark, Campbell referred to statements by Red Storey and Dalton McArthur as "inaccurate," "tendentious," "typical McCarthy tactics" and "untruths."

On the same program two weeks ago McArthur and Storey said league officials dictated how they were to call penalties. McArthur said rule enforcement was for the benefit of the box office rather than the good of the game.

Campbell, who appeared Sunday night with referee-in-chief Carl Voss, said he would defend himself and the league "out of the mouths of the accusers" by quoting later statements by the two referees.

QUOTES STOREY

Campbell quoted Storey as saying after the show two weeks ago that "no referee ever tried to alter the outcome of any game and no one ever attempted to influence me."

He said Storey added: "... But you can't fight the scars." The NHL president said Storey was referring to tape-cutting by the CBC which reduced a three-hour interview to 30 minutes of air time and therefore deleted qualifying statements and presented Storey's statements out of full context.

Campbell quoted McArthur as saying he did not have "enough guts" to speak up about what he has been irregularities in the league during the time he was a referee.

"This is not true," said Campbell. "Dalton McArthur has lots of courage. His shortcoming is that he has never learned to accept the responsibility for his own failure."

McArthur, fired by the NHL prior to this season, works for a Toronto hardware firm as a salesman. Storey, who quit refereeing in 1959 after he was criticized by Campbell, works for a distillery.

Set Fine Standard As Coach

Gold Medal Tribute Paid Father Bauer

INNSBRUCK, Austria (CP)—A special gold medal was presented Sunday to Rev. David Bauer, coach of Canada's young Olympic hockey team, for the way he controlled him and his players when he was struck in the face by a stick during an Olympics championship game.

The award was made by the International Ice Hockey Federation at a reception in the Innsbruck town hall.

The Canadian team players boycotted the reception in the wake of a bitter dispute that swirled here over the deat that gave Canada fourth place instead of third in the final standings of the championships.

The medal to Father Bauer, a Roman Catholic priest, was given for his control of the situation when he was struck in the face by a broken stick flung by the Canadian players' coach during the game in which Canada defeated Sweden 3-1.

DREW SUSPENSION

At the time, the Canadian coach ordered his players to sit down and kept them from trying to retaliate.

"For me," Ahearne said, "he set the finest standard of behaviour. He was generous in his thoughts, he was magnanimous in his actions. The standard he set will be rarely exceeded."

Father Bauer had gone to the stage earlier to receive a cup awarded to Canadian goalie Seth Martin of Trail, B.C., as the outstanding goalkeeper of the Olympic championships.

Martin allowed only five goals and kicked out 150 shots in playing slightly more than 12 periods.

Peewee Championship

Toronto Blanks Soo 3-0

QUEBEC (CP)—Toronto Torfids, sniffing bottled oxygen to offset the fatigue of back-to-back games, clipped the defending champion Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., All-Stars 3-0 Saturday and won the peewee championship in Quebec's International Peewee Hockey Tournament.

The week - long competition drew crowds totalling 137,802.

Each player on action in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series.

The charge was laid against Bob Merwell of Welland Burlcoks after a goal judge was speared by Bill Gerrard's 5-3 victory over Oakville Oaks.

The incident turned up early in the second period when the Oakland players left their bench to dispute the Oaks' first goal by Carl Rymers. All but two of the Burlcak players were on the ice when goal judge Wally Bishop was struck in the throat.

He was taken to hospital and his condition was reported as "not serious" by hospital officials.

In other games during the weekend, Woodstock Athletics dumped Port Colborne Sailors 9-4 in Peel Juvenile series and Saturday Galt Hornets shaded Guelph Regals 4-3 on the latter's home ice.

Bitter Controversy Rages

Canadians Thought They Had 'Bronze'

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Sports Editor

INNSBRUCK, Austria (CP)—A bitter controversy over the deal that gave Canada fourth place instead of third in the eight - nation Olympic hockey championships won by Russia swirled around this Tyrolean town Sunday as the ninth Winter Olympic Games ended.

Cries of "phoney," "whooling" and "robbed" were heard after the Canadians, Sweden and Czechoslovakia tied for second and the silver and bronze medals went to Sweden and the Czechs.

The Russians won the gold outright, finishing with seven straight victories, including their 3-3 win over Canada Saturday night, and a four-point margin over the other three in the final standings.

Innocent victims of an unbelievable chain of circumstances were Rev. David Bauer, the Canadian hockey coach, and his young players.

They came here determined to avoid incidents of any kind and had gone so until Saturday night when they bashed each other in the middle of a rumpus that probably is most incongruous in the 40-year history of the Games.

CALLS-IT POLITICS

"These games are all political."

And on Sunday, the Canadian players boycotted an international gathering in town hall where hockey world championship medals were awarded and the hotel room of the Olympic placings and other awards were handed out.

Art Potter of Edmonton, president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association who attended this gathering along with Father Bauer and the team trainer, John Owen, said:

"The boys felt it was unfair to be an anti-climax after the disappointment they suffered Saturday night. So they decided to stay away."

LEARNED AT RINK

The players and Father Bauer had arrived at the ice stadium Saturday night for the medal presentations only to learn then that they had finished fourth, not third.

The Canadian players once were persuaded to stay at home and compete in the Allan Cup playoffs for the senior championship Canada rather than have their coach subject to any controversy in Europe.

They were adamant about this that they caused two high-level closed-door meetings in a Swedish hotel room Jan. 5 on the eve of their departure for Europe.

They thought everything had been straightened out there.

HOLD MEETING

Directors of the International Ice Hockey Federation met in the stadium office while the final game of the tournament was going on to argue about the method of determining final placings.

The Canadian players had been led to believe they had won the bronze right up to the time they arrived at the stadium for the ceremonies.

Sweden had beaten the Czechs 5-3 and created a three-way tie for second place. The tie was broken on the basis of goal spread—the difference between goals scored and goals allowed.

Canadian officials had calculated the tie-breaking system on the basis of games involving only the top four teams. The IIHF final decision 30 minutes before the Swedes had completed their 5-3 victory over the Czechs Saturday night, was to count all seven games in the calculations.

On the former basis, Canada would have finished third. But as it was, Sweden won the all-

Beatlemania Now Even More Of Mystery to Old Viewers

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Anyone who is not a teen-age girl obviously is unqualified to comment on the sight of the Beatles in action.

Heaven knows we've heard them enough. It has been impossible to get a radio weather bulletin or time signal without running into I Want to Hold Your Hand.

And now, having seen the four performers on Ed Sullivan's CBS show Sunday night, Beatlemania is even more of a mystery to an elderly viewer.

They sing close harmony, stomp their feet and play electric guitars, but so do a lot of crew - cut American boys in slacks and sweaters, and they cause no riots.

Judy Garland did a brilliant one-woman show Sunday night. Her show may be one of the season's casualties, but not for her lack of effort, or of talent.

Sunday night's show was taped in Hollywood. Miss Garland is in New York, where she spent Saturday night in a hospital for treatment of minor injuries suffered in a fall.

BREAKING UP THE ACT? — Johnnny Wayne (left) seems to have some doubts about the way partner Frank Shuster has arranged this match as the Toronto comedians ham it up for the camera. Actually, they have been a comedy team since writing their first script together as 14-year-old Boy Scouts. Despite success on United States television, they have decided to stay in Canada, with occasional, well-timed forays abroad. (CP Photo)

'Being Normal Our Gimmick' So Wayne and Shuster Stay In Their Native Country

By DAVE PIKE

TORONTO (CP) — "I guess you could call being normal our show business gimmick," says Johnny Wayne.

"I think we've finally persuaded people that we really want to stay here," says Frank Shuster.

Wayne and Shuster, the biggest names in Canadian comedy in the last five years have logged thousands of miles flying to New York, Hollywood and London in establishing an international reputation.

They're still in Canada for a number of reasons: They're not ulcer types; the big buck that lures so many Canadians to the U.S. entertainment capitals, they're family men and as such find living in Toronto, their home town, less frenetic, and more rewarding; and a move southward would affect the quality of their comedy, a blend forged from tastes and easy fun.

"We make a good living doing what we want to do," they agreed. It is scheduled for 7 p.m. EST Feb. 9 and includes Canadian jazz pianist Oscar Peterson playing parts of six movements from his Canadiana Suite for the first time on Canadian television.

SUCCESS WITH ED

The reason they aren't seen on the Ed Sullivan Show these days is not because Sullivan no longer finds them funny—on the contrary, he's been after them unsuccessfully.

They first appeared on the show in 1958, captivated U.S. TV audiences and received Sullivan's cable blanche—the only time he's given it—to do anything they wanted. Up to last September, they had done 50 sketches, reaping a bountiful green harvest for them.

But their sketches lasted anywhere from 12 to 20 minutes and, with the new Sullivan format of a commercial every eight minutes, they don't want to break up their pieces or shorten them.

In 1959, on the strength of their Sullivan success, CBS-TV offered them $600,000 to do a weekly comedy series. The question of quality endurance decided them to reject it.

About the same time CBC-TV argued to a five year contract the longest W and S had ever signed with the corporation. They're due for contract renewal negotiations about now.

NEW PROJECT

Their latest project is a labor of laughter-filled love for MCA, the U.S. TV production complex. In six hour long programs, they'll talk about six different comedians, including Bob Hope, Jack Benny, W. C. Fields and the teams of the Marx brothers and Abbott and Costello. Arthur Knight, Saturday Review's cinema critic, is doing the research in Hollywood. They film their first program here Feb. 15.

Several seasons back, W and S finally took the plunge in a weekly TV series. It was Holiday Lodge, a Hollywood - produced, machine-tooled situation-type comedy series.

"We got good ratings," they recall, but the series was unoriginal garbage. It lasted the normal 13 summer replacement weeks.

They remember Hollywood as a strange, weird, unreal place inhabited by some of the most supremely talented people in the business. It was a Fulbright fellowship in learning the motion picture business technique and an acting.

They took their families with them and Wayne recalls that, with expenses as high as $1,000 a month rent, "after two months, we just escaped by the skin of our teeth."

HARD WORKERS

W and S, who live only a block away from each other, are office-bound workers.

They work hard, and Wayne says he'd "never met anyone in the business who approaches as much as we do."

Fit we do satire, we haven't got the knife out. We deliver no message. We just try to be funny.

Wayne has three boys, aged 12 to 16, and Shuster a daughter, 17, and a son, 14.

They first met in high school. Their first script was written as 14-year-old Boy Scouts for their troop. They've been a team since.

While attending the University of Toronto, they wrote for and acted in university shows and wrote for the campus newspaper. After graduation, they failed to land jobs as newspaper men, so they did a household hints program on radio while taking post - graduate studies. Halfway through their MA courses, they enlisted in the army in 1942, eventually joining the Canadian Army Show. They toured Canada and were members of one of the first entertainment units to enter Normandy after D-Day.

More radio work followed demobilization in Toronto in 1945, and in 1951, they signed a four-year contract for a national CBC radio show. They launched a monthly CBC-TV show in 1954.

They've appeared occasionally on British TV in the last few years. In 1952 they wrote the book, lyrics and music for a stage version of Mother Goose that became a Christmas TV classic that has been seen in Canada, Britain and Australia. Last summer, they departed from comedy to star in a "fairy tale for children and adults," James Thurber's Many Moons. It marked their first appearance on TV as straight actors.

Training Co. Wins Over Trenton 'A'

They say RSM Howard Kotsch was the hero of the fray. He tooted a whistle fearlessly without regard to personal danger.

It was an inter-company hockey duel between Training Company Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, Belleville and "A" Company of Trenton.

When the whistles had ceased and the smoke cleared, Training Company had racked up ten goals to the foemen's four. The tilt was played at Trenton.

Rutherford and Britton were the top producers for the winners each getting three goals. Other scorers were Abercrombie (2), Sergeant Topp, Corporal Miller and Weaver.

Counting for the host company's team were Coward (3), Major Riordan and Dugre.

In a post-game session the Training Company again beat their opponents in a hotdog chumping contest.

AT THE PARK — Lea Massari and Frank Wolff comfort a dying Luigi De Filippo in this scene from the gripping Titanus-Metro production, "The Four Days of Naples" opening tonight at the Park Theatre. Depicting the final days of the Italian resistance against Nazi occupation during World War II, the new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer release is hailed as the greatest post-war film since "Open City" and "Bicycle Thief." On the same program Broderick Crawford has one of the most exciting roles of his acting career in MGM's suspense-filled drama "Square of Violence". One complete show starts at 7.30 p.m. "Square of Violence" at 7.40. "The Four Days of Naples" at 9.25 p.m.

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — How goes it with the United States' best-selling authors?

With notable exceptions, most are hard at work at their craft. So it appears from an Associated Press survey of noted novelists. They were asked:

What are you writing, and how is it going?

Nobel Laureate John Steinbeck replied from New York:

"I am charmed with the simplicity of your questions and am pleased to answer them with equal directness." To the first part of the question he wrote "nothing," to the second, "lousy."

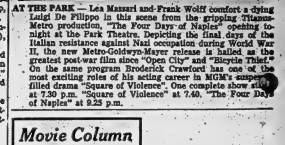
Others appeared more industrious, if guarded:



Herman Wouk, Virgin Islands —"I am writing a new novel which I hope to complete and possibly to publish in 1964."

John O'Hara, Princeton, N.J. —"I am continuing work on a long novel, and writing short stories."

Erskine Caldwell, Rheem Valley, Calif. — "Am finishing a book about the means and extremes of contemporary life in the United States. This is to be personal impressions of people and things after 25,000 miles of travel from end to end and west from side to side of the country. Title: Around About America. Don't forget to put it in, it's looking good on paper."

John Updike, Ipswich, Mass. — "Am not going to say; but I make it a rule never to discuss work in progress. It ruins my fate."

Leon Uris, Aspen, Colo.—"I am recovering from a 214-year start on my next novel. The novel is called Armageddon and will be published by Doubleday in time for the next Literary Guild selection. It is about postwar Germany from the time of the American occupation through the four-power occupation of Berlin and the airlift in 1949. Both Doubleday and I feel this is my most important work, for it is a genesis of the cold war and a primer of the great political clash between the Soviet Union and the United States. Moreover, it tells why Berlin is the most important place on earth."

Oliver has 50 points, Gilbert 51.

Fall Costs Crothers Win At LA

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Bill Crothers of Toronto's East York Track Club fell during a 1,000-yard run here Saturday night then scrambled to his feet and barely lost to Jim Dupree of the Southern California Striders.

Both Dupree and Crothers were timed in 2:11.9, a tremendous feat for the Canadian.

With a little more than two laps to go, Crothers moved from the middle of the pack towards second place but suddenly missed his footing and sprawled on the track.

When he got up, he was at least 20 yards back of everyone else.

The 23-year-old runner, who had won 19 straight races at 1,000 or 880 yards, said:

"I was jolted. I don't know who did it."

He was asked if he got up merely to finish the race and answered:

Admiral Vic, with Mickey Solomone riding, closed fast in the stretch. He came from fourth in the final turn while Top Gallant sprinted from far back to gain the tie.

Admiral Vic returned $6, $3.50 and $4.20. Top Gallant paid Steve Brooks riding, returned $48, $34.60 and $15. Sunrise Flight paid $4.80.

The colt, who picked up $10,675 for his victory, came from fifth at the top of the stretch to overhaul Dinoponge and take it all.

Track 10 yards. The winner covered the 1 1-16 miles in 1:46 3-5 over a glazed course.

Race Close In College Puck Loop

With only a quarter of a 12-game schedule left to play in the Senior Intercollegiate Hockey League, any of the top four teams has a good chance to wind up in first place.

Saturday, University of Montreal Carabins dumped McMaster Marlins 5-3 in Montreal to create a three-way deadlock for second place. Laval, University of Quebec, Montreal and McMaster each have 11 points, three back of the idle University of Toronto Blues.

McMaster carried a 2-0 lead into the second period only to have Montreal come back with straight goals to wrap up over McGill Redmen.

In the 1960 Winter Games at Squaw Valley, Calif., Canada finished eighth in the team standing with 32 points. Thirty countries competed. Toronto Duo Wins Winter Car Rally

TORONTO (CP) — Lou Lalonde and John Jones of Toronto drove their 1964 Corvair over a 1,300-mile course to win the three-day 12th annual Canadian Winter Car Rally.

The veteran team covered the rally route in 36½ hours of driving and arrived at the finish line here Sunday night with only two penalty points.

Another Toronto team, Klaus Bartels and Bruce Simpson, driving a Volkswagen, also hit the finish line with two penalties and only 36½ hours of driving but resort to a tie-breaking rule to decide the winner.

Lalonde and Jones were two seconds late in reporting to one of about 50 checkpoints in the rally. Bartels and Simpson missed a check-point by four minutes and was placed in second spot. Bartels requested a recheck and after the judges met behind closed doors their decision was declared final.

Dick Doyen and Clay Gibbs, both from Wilcomin, were tied at the finish with Jones and Lalonde of Detroit and Harry Ward of Ann Arbor, Mich., both coming in with three penalties.

ver with a goal spread of 31, the Czechs were third with a spread of 19 and Canada fourth with 15.

WALKED OUT

The Canadian players, who had left a celebration party in a downtown hotel, walked out of the rink in disgust before the Russians, Sweden and Czechs lined up at centre ice to receive their medals.

Father Bauer, informed of the Canadian placings, turned to his players and said: "Well, that's that. Let's get out of here."

Team manager Dr. Robert Hindmarch of Vancouver said he was "too disgusted and too fed up to talk about it."

They went back to the hotel party. On Sunday, lounging around their quarters, the players showed reporters the scrolls they had received for the fourth-place finish. Some said they felt like throwing them away.

Art Potter of Edmonton, president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, declared Sunday that Canada was "robbed" of the bronze.

"POTTER ANGER"

"I may have told an IIHF director after Saturday night's meeting that Canada would never join Europe," he said. "I was so mad I could have said anything.

"In my estimation we were beaten out of a medal. People at home may think this is an alibi. It isn't.

We went down in a lot of glory. Many times the players could have scored a goalbreak out there with terribly inefficient refereeing, but they held their temper.

"I think Canada should be flattered proud of these boys. Every game and every set a sportsmanlike performance and they proved they are a bunch of gentlemen. They certainly captured imagination of the people in Europe. They projected a good image of the people over here."

Potter said he made a motion at the IIHF meeting, called by President John F. (Bunny) Ahearne between first and second periods of the Czech-Swede game, when IIHF officials talked about the goal spread and "Ahearne mentioned it was calculated on all eight games but not to be raised among the top four."

MADE PROTEST

"I protested immediately," Potter said, "and when I made a motion saying if the goal spread) was calculated on games involving only the top four teams, Czechoslovakia and Russia supported me. Even the United States voted against Canada.

"Six voted against the motion and Finland abstained.

ESSEX ELECTRONICS

Sale of Ortho Industries, of Paterson, N.J., to Nytronics Inc. of Berkeley Heights, N.J. may be the best news in a long time for Trenton, Ont. Ortho Industries makes electronic filters, and because of the sale those filters will be distributed through Nytronics' subsidiary, Essex Electronics, in Trenton. If the filters sell as well as the firm expects they will be manufactured in Trenton, and the additional line could triple employment at Essex Electronics, according to J. E. Kalfus, manager of the Trenton firm. One of two major electronic components manufacturers in Trenton, Essex makes various miniaturized items for stock, and some sub-assemblies such as control panels and delay lines. The firm is always looking for new lines of components to manufacture, Mr. Kalfus says, but has no plans to make complete assemblies.

AT ESSEX ELECTRONICS Miss Linda Walker of Trenton wires an assembly panel for an electronic computer. Purchase of another electronics firm in the U.S., by Essex's U.S.-based parent firm, may mean new business for Trenton.

LAKE ONTARIO PORTLAND CEMENT

Production continues at the Lake Ontario Portland Cement plant near Picton, but machinery is being closed down, one unit at a time, for the annual winter checkover. Purpose of the program is to make sure nothing goes wrong during the peak of the production year, after April.

First and biggest job was replacement, two weeks ago, of the heat-resisting castings holding the end on number two kiln. The castings hold the fire-brick in place, but are exposed to so much heat themselves they must be replaced every few years. A crew from Central Bridge handled the replacement. The kiln was shut down for a total of three days, including cooling and reheating time, for the job.

All other maintenance work will be handled by the cement company's own employees, according to W. T. Barron, the firm's operations manager.

TRENT COTTON CO.

New laboratory quarters for the Trent Cotton Co. are finished now, and some equipment from the old lab was moved in last week. New equipment is on order now, for more precise quality control than was possible before, and should be installed about mid-March.

Lab technician Ann Baker will be going to the Hamilton Cotton Co., (parent firm of Trent Cotton), about the beginning of March, for training on electronic equipment of the type on order. A new laboratory assistant, hired last week, will carry on in her absence with the visual testing equipment from the old lab. The electronic equipment, when installed, will give more accurate indications of the quality of yarn samples than the visual checks, according to company manager C. A. Baker.

WILSON CONCRETE PRODUCTS

Busier than last year at this time, Wilson Concrete Products is trying to find some time to call equipment in for overhauls. Normally the winter season is slack enough to allow trucks, cranes and the like to be laid up for complete servicing, but this winter's construction boom is keeping them on the road. Local contracts for Wilson's include a roof for the Union Carbide warehouse, a roof for the Edgar Bell building being built on Harriett St. and a precast floor for a building at the air station.

CANADIAN FLIGHT EQUIPMENT

Air Force inspectors — number 1207 Technical Service Detachment — moved in last week with Canadian Flight Equipment, in Trenton. The two-man detachment, is part of number 12 Technical Service Unit of Toronto, will inspect all goods made by Canadian Flight for the Air Force.

A new ultra-precision lathe delivered to the firm last week will swing 16-inch diameter stock between centres 36 inches apart. Machinist Michael Kolaric of Trenton is running the machine. Mr. Kolaric, incidentally, is one of several Canadian Flight employees who lived in Trenton while the firm was still in Campbellford, and for whom the move means a shorter trip to work in the morning.

INTERNATIONAL HARDWARE

International Hardware's Ruswin catalogue is off the press now — a total of two-and-a-quarter million pages, printed on ten tons of paper. It replaces the last catalogue, issued in 1957. The new catalogue is being bound in vinyl plastic loose-leaf binders. New pages will be issued from time to time to keep it up to date, according to advertising manager Clive Ryan.

K. J. COUCH

K. J. Couch, retired dry-goods retailer and ex-mayor, is getting a big kick out of the plans for an "industrial place" in Trenton. He's been telling people for more than ten years now that the only way to attract industry to the town is to have accommodation ready and waiting for it. Acting on his belief, he has built industrial buildings in several sections of town, seen them filled by industry and sold, allowing him to build more. One of his latest buildings is the new Essex Electronics plant, a year old now, one of three buildings Mr. Couch owns in that immediate area.

CORBY'S

Trial runs are being made on Corby's new bottling line, but no regular production yet. The semi-automatic line will be tested long enough to make sure there are no kinks before it is opened for business purposes, according to company manager George MacDonald.

VAGDEN MILLS

Old equipment is making new products at the Vagden Mills, and new equipment ordered to make old products is not yet delivered.

Company manager John Denton found the old equipment — two heavy-yarn knitting machines — gathering dust in another part of the province. Back in Belleville now, they are making athletic socks for Vagden. The machines can produce about 150 dozen pairs of socks per week, equal to about six percent of Vagden's previous capacity.

Still on order and late being delivered are two new machines to increase Vagden's capacity to make the dress socks that are the firm's staple product. Transportation difficulties may be delaying delivery of the made-in-England machines.

AT CANADIAN FLIGHT EQUIPMENT, Michael Kolaric of Trenton is working on the firm's new high precision engine-lathe. The machine can swing 15-inch diameter stock between 36-inch centres.

"Good! I'll send you my cheque today!"

Most people today pay for goods or services by cheque — because most people have a bank account. It's the simple, safe way to transfer money to any person at any time.

The next cheque you put in the mail, or cash at any branch of a chartered bank, will be one of one billion that pass through the banking system each year. These familiar slips of paper represent 90 percent of all financial payments made today, and their fast, efficient handling by the chartered banks is essential to bank customers, indeed to the whole economy of the nation.

To handle the ever-increasing flow of cheques — and to maintain standards of efficiency in the clearings — the chartered banks have introduced magnetic ink encoding to be used in high-speed electronic sorting. This new method, called MICR, makes possible a faster, more accurate service to customers, and maintains your chequing account as one of the cheapest, most convenient basic banking services.

Watutsis of Rwanda Face Threat of Extermination By Bahutus, Once Slaves

By DENNIS NEKLD

KIGALE, Rwanda (AP)—The towering Watutsis of Rwanda face the threat of extermination by Bahutu tribesmen, who for centuries were their slaves.

The stocky Bahutus are half the size of the Watutsis — many of whom stand seven feet tall — but 10 times their number.

Thousands of Watutsis were driven out of Rwanda by a Bahutu revolt four years ago. Now fanatical Watusi warriors — so called by enemies invent, or cockroaches — are raiding the frontier in a desperate effort to retake the country from its new rulers.

Their attacks touched off a massacre of Watutsi families remaining in Rwanda. It may never be known how many died in the Bahutu reprisals. Missionaries here estimate the number between 10,000 and 30,000.

SHOT IN BUSH

Missionaries' accounts say Bahutus, backed by Rwanda's Belgian-officered army of some 1,200 men, drove truckloads of Watutsi men, women and children into the bush, made them dig their own graves, then shot them.

One Watutsi priest was dragged from his church during a Christmas Day service and hacked to pieces. His blood-stained robes were tossed among the congregation. Then his wife and children were hexed. Their heads were tied to their knees and they were thrown in the river to drown.

The servant of a British missionary saw her father, brother and bridegroom, a teacher, slaughtered on her wedding day. She was raped.

A truck driver told how he had been forced to take 20 Watutsis into the bush for execution. One, he said, conducted a last service for the victims and they were shot as they knelt to pray.

FEAR REPRISALS

Missionaries who tell of the carnage refuse to permit their names to be published for fear of reprisals against Negro members of their congregations.

Rwanda's prisons are reported jammed with Watutsis.

Several churchmen here accuse President Gregoire Kayibanda's government of using the Watusi raids as an excuse for genocide.

"You have a republican regime here based on racialism," said one. "They know they are not strong and they are afraid. They look on every Watusi as a potential enemy.

"Many of these Watutsis are educated and cultured people and the educated ones have suffered most. It seems the Bahutus are trying to eliminate every potential Watutsi leader."

Bahutu fear and hatred of the Watutsis go back a long way. The Watutsis, brown - skinned aristocrats said by some to be descended from Egypt's Pharoahs, conquered the Bahutu—a pure-blooded Negro tribe—five centuries ago and became the masters, often being carried about on litters by Bahutu slaves, who did all the work on farms.

The Watutsis, who wore spotless white togas, refused to work at all. Even so, they were formidable athletes and there are written records to show that some, running and jumping from a foot-high mound, could clear heights over eight feet.

Churchmen here would like to see some form of international intervention stabling surviving Watutsis in Rwanda to leave the country.

Rwanda government officials acknowledge privately that many Watutsis have been killed but declare that if Watutsi attacks from outside the country ceased there would be no more trouble.

Britain Wants Canadian Force For Cyprus

Canadian Officials Surprised at Request

By DAVE McINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP)—British Foreign Secretary Butler has embarrassed Canadian officials with his surprise announcement that Britain wants 1,000 Canadian infantrymen for the proposed international police force in Cyprus.

Mr. Butler let his political cat out of the bag at a press conference Monday only seconds after External Affairs Minister Martin had said he couldn't be specific about subjects discussed at the two ministers' 90-minute meeting.

Mr. Martin said the preservation of order in Cyprus would cause the Canadian government to give sympathetic consideration to a request for a Canadian contribution to an international force.

Later, he said Canada is interested in helping to establish order on Cyprus where Greeks and Turks are at each others' throats, but that any peacekeep-

OTTAWA (CP)—The British government appears to have served up a potentially sizzling political issue for the Canadian government.

It took British Foreign Secretary Butler about six words to set the stage:

"We'd like about a thousand Canadians," he told reporters Monday, referring to Britain's request for Canadian participation in a Commonwealth peacekeeping force for Cyprus.

First, a Canadian refusal to participate or a delay in reaching a decision is almost certain to provoke an outburst from the opposition Progressive Conservatives.

The Conservatives have always tried, with an occasional exception, to be the party of Empire and later of Commonwealth in Canadian politics.

With Parliament scheduled to meet a week hence, the Butler bid for Canadian troops is a made-to-order issue for the Conservatives unless the Liberal government gives quick assent.

And, if the government does agree to making up a substantial part of a Commonwealth force, a new political problem is raised.

Acceptance would probably mean sending the Van Doos, the crack French-Canadian unit of the Canadian Army and its only emergency standby force, overseas.

At a time when separatist feeling in French Canada is running high, such a step might give the separatist-leading Rallyement des Creditistes a ready-made political opportunity.

The Creditistes wouldn't fail to note that Britain has much to lose—military bases in Cyprus—if some way cannot be found to end strife there.

It's only 10 days since Creditiste Leader Real Caouette referred to Second World War conscription as "stealing our young people to send them to the butcher."

The Liberals, lacking a Commons majority, cannot afford to overlook anything which may help their political fortunes in Quebec if they hope to build successfully toward the next election.

85 Crew Members Of Destroyer Still Missing

Collides With Carrier Off Jervis Bay Station

CP from AP-Reuters

SYDNEY, Australia — Prime Minister Sir Robert Menzies today ordered a public investigation into the sinking of Australia's first pushbutton destroyer, the Voyager, after a collision with the carrier Melbourne Monday.

The navy said an air and sea search is continuing off the Australian coast for 85 missing crew members of the 3,500-ton destroyer. There were fears many went down with their ship. Nine of the Voyager's 17 officers were among the missing.

Calling the disaster shocking and unparalleled in Australia's peacetime naval history, Menzies said a normal navy inquiry would be inadequate, he said he would appoint a judge to investigate.

The 20,000-ton Melbourne, the Australian Navy's flagship, smashed into the Voyager amidship, slicing the destroyer in two. The voyager's bow section sank within minutes in 75 fathoms (450 feet) of water. Its after section remained afloat for nearly three hours.

The Voyager carried 324 officers and men. At least 239 were rescued.

HAD RADAR

Both ships were equipped with radar-controlled steering and their modern equipment was a source of pride to the Australian Navy.

The Voyager, launched in 1957, was the largest destroyer built in Australia. With her anti-aircraft guns as well as steering controlled by radar, the electronically guided vessel could go into action with all hands below deck.

The collision occurred at about 9 p.m. while night-flight exercises were under way aboard the Melbourne about 20 miles off Jervis Bay naval station, site of the Royal Australian Naval College.

Navy Minister James Forbes said the Voyager was on standby rescue duty in case any planes from the Melbourne came down in the sea.

"Voyager was roughly half a mile astern of Melbourne so that when the carrier reversed her course, it was necessary for her escort to reverse her position . . .

On the Melbourne, its speed cut to three knots, limped toward Sydney today with a gaping hole in its bows.

No casualties were reported on the Melbourne, a sister ship

Patient Care Concern

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Hospital Services Commission was concerned with patient care, not strike-breaking, during a dispute at Trenton Memorial Hospital, Health Minister Dymond said Monday.

He denied "emphatically and with all vigor" that the commission had supplied the hospital with money for strike-breaking.

He was replying in the legislature to charges by James Trotter (L—Toronto Parkdale) who said last Thursday the commission had promised the hospital enough money to break a strike which began Oct. 21, 1963, and ended last week. Thirty-eight striking employees of the Building Service Employees International Union (CLC) were replaced with other workers during the strike.

GET SEVERANCE PAY

Severance pay amounting to about 17 days each was being paid to the workers being replaced by union employees.

"Little if any additional salaries and wages would result to those who were engaged to work in the hospital over the salaries and wages that would have been paid to the employees who went on strike," Mr. Dymond said.

In other business, R. A. H. Taylor (L—Timiskaming) urged the government to adopt a plan to reverse the flow of the Haricanaw River to replenish diminishing water supplies in southern Ontario.

He referred to a plan by Thomas Kierans of Sudbury concerning the river that flows north into James Bay.

The north holds the answer to serious water shortages in the Great Lakes and to replacing the billions of gallons of water being diverted by United States cities and being consumed by their industrial development, he said.

AUTOMATION CONSIDERED

Economics Minister Randall said the government was concerned with the channelling of workers freed by automation into useful employment.

But automation cannot be held back merely to keep workers from losing out of their jobs, he said. Some workers would lose jobs because of automation but this could not be helped.

Students And Police In Clashes

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — A clash between police and thousands of Greek students planning to march on the U.S. and British embassies greeted Undersecretary of State George Ball on his Cyprus peace mission Monday.

Demanding union of Cyprus with Greece, the students demonstrated to underscore their opposition to the London-Washington plan for a NATO national peace force to police Cyprus.

Ball was reported to have run into an unexpected check in trying to win Greek approval of the plan.

Informed sources said Greece approved the peace force plan provided it first got approval of the United Nations Security Council. The Soviet Union, which opposes the peace force, could veto it in the council.

Government sources in Nicosia said Cypriot President Archbishop Makarios was certain to reject the plan, unless the proposed force was placed under Security Council control. Makarios was said to have conferred with advisers on the best way to bring the Cyprus issue before the Security Council.

Liberals Breeze To Wins

By RUSSELL PEDEN

MONTREAL (CP)—Two Liberal candidates breezed to victory in federal byelections Monday, retaining Montreal St. Denis and Montreal Laurier constituencies for Prime Minister Pearson's minority government.

Marcel Prud'homme, a 29-year-old lawyer, won St. Denis and Raymond Lebianc, 46-year-old chartered accountant, took Laurier by substantial margins in the first byelections since the government took office last April. Both men were making their first bid for office.

Their election left the party standing in the 265-seat House of Commons as it was last month—before Justice Minister Chevrier resigned Laurier to become Canadian high commissioner in London and Postmaster — General Denis resigned St. Denis and accepted a Senate appointment.

QUIET CAMPAIGN

Election campaigning was quiet in the two ridings that have voted Liberal ever since they were established—St. Denis in 1914, Laurier in 1933—and voting was light.

Fewer than 44 per cent of the 35,402 eligible voters in St. Denis brave near-zero weather to vote and fewer than 40 per cent of the 25,985 registered in Laurier.

The Liberal margin of victory was smaller than in last year's general elections, but it was convincing. The only one of nine unsuccessful candidates to save his deposit by drawing half as many votes as the winner was Progressive Conservative Rodolphe Sauve in St. Denis.

The vote in the predominantly Liberal ridings would be a good indication of the popularity, or unpopularity, of Liberal government policies. It also was the first test of Real Caouette's Ralliement des Creditiste since it split with Robert Thompson's Social Credit party.

Both Creditistes—Gilles Caouette, son of the party leader, in Laurier and auto parts dealer Henri Paquet in St. Denis—finished second in federal general

Indonesia Refuses to Pull Guerrillas Out of Malaysia

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP)—Indonesia and Malaysia pledged Monday a continued ceasefire along their Borneo frontier. Indonesia refused to pull its guerrillas out of Malaysian territory.

Thus six days of bargaining on the Malaysia crisis brought only a promise to try to preserve the truce arranged by Attorney - General Robert Kennedy last month and a plan to meet again later to discuss the real issues.

A communique issued by Indonesian Foreign Minister Subandrio, Malaysian Deputy Prime Minister Tun Abdul Razak and Philippine Foreign Secretary Salvador P. Lopez dealt only with preserving the ceasefire in the Borneo guerrilla war. Malaysia made no apparent progress here in winning diplomatic recognition from its two hostile neighbors, but there was hope that might result from talks begun in Phnom Penh, Cambodia, Monday by Prime Minister Tunku Abdul Rahman of Malaysia and Philippine President Diosdado Macapagal.

The foreign ministers communique gave no indication that President Sukarno of Indonesia will change his stand to keep Indonesian guerrillas in their present positions on Borneo—no matter on which side of the Indonesian-Malaysian border they are fighting in.

Indonesia's refusal to withdraw guerrillas from Malaysian territory deadlocked the conference most of the last day and finally led Razak of Malaysia to express doubt the cease-fire will be effective.

Main political issues are in Philippine territorial claim to Sabah and Sukarno's threats to smash the new Commonwealth federation, which he calls an extension of British colonialism. British troops are helping Malaysia patrol the border with Indonesia in Borneo.

Success of the Rahman-Macapagal talks in Phnom Penh would narrow the issues to Sukarno's armed confrontation policy, by far the most explosive factor in the crisis.

Rahman and Macapagal conferred for more than an hour Monday and agreed that "we are well on the way to understanding" in settling their differences.

Rahman was reported willing to consider the Philippines' claim to the Borneo state if Macapagal would first extend recognition to his country, thus isolating Sukarno's position.

No Major Changes In Taxes

By ALAN DONNELLY

OTTAWA (CP)—Finance Minister Gordon has dropped a couple of hints about this year's budget speech: Spending will be higher and major tax changes are unlikely.

Together, they indicate another deficit for next fiscal year when Mr. Gordon presents his second budget speech in the session of Parliament opening Tuesday, Feb. 18.

But the deficit for 1964-65 seems certain to be reduced from this year's on the strength of the country's continued economic expansion and a built-in revenue boost of some $320,000,000 from tax increases enacted last session.

The 56-year-old finance minister tantalizingly dropped his pre - budget hints in three speech-making appearances two weeks ago. They will be his last public speeches until he presents his budget to Parliament.

Mr. Gordon's first budget speech last June 12 was hustled into shape under the 60-day deadline set by the Liberal government when it took office last year. This time he has been able to take a more deliberate course and officials say hectic last preparations are well advanced.

There has been no indication whether the budget will be presented before or after Parliament's Easter recess which, if custom is followed, will run for 11 days from March 26.

The federal and provincial governments will meet during the recess at Quebec City in a resumption of last November's fiscal conference and some premiers have served notice they'll be pressing for a better tax deal from Ottawa.

Under these circumstances, there is speculation that Mr. Gordon might postpone his budget until some time in April.

No legislation debate followed the announcement of the premier's plan which, he said, is "unique as far as the various school systems in Canada are concerned."

Mr. Robin set no firm date for the establishment of the committee. It will invite submissions from the public but "I don't want it to drag out for years and years."

He said any committee report or recommendations will have

House Passes Civil Rights Bill But Tough Senate Fight Looms

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House of Representatives has approved a civil rights bill in an overwhelming vote hailed by President Johnson as "an historic step forward for the cause of dignity" in the United States.

Today's Chuckle

One drawback about taking movies on your vacation is that you have to return home to find out what you saw.

THE WEATHER

Synopsis: An area of high pressure, almost stationary for the last few days over Ontario, has begun to move eastward as a vigorous disturbance moves towards the province from the midwest. Light snow and brisk southerly winds tonight in north-western Ontario will be the first indications of the storm approaching from the midwest. Cloudy and mild weather with rain and wet snow Wednesday will spread through most of the province.

It now faces a tougher battle in the Senate where southerners hope to whittle it down with talk.

It turned out by the House in a 290 to 130 roll call Monday, the bill amounts to the most sweeping civil rights legislation in U.S. history. Southern efforts to water it down were crushed by every vote by a coalition of Republicans and northern Democrats.

But in the Senate with its different rules of debate, the southerners hold the weapon of a filibuster and thus power to stall measure by forcing a compromise.

Girding for the battle ahead, Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield outlined parliamentary moves Monday designed to delay Senate action on civil rights until major tax cut legislation clears Congress, probably by the end of the month.

Voting for the bill in the House were 152 Democrats and 138 Republicans. Voting against it were 96 Democrats and 34 Republicans.

Roblin Slams Door on Grants To Parochial, Private Schools

WINNIPEG (CP) — Premier Roblin Monday ruled out direct financial assistance to Manitoba's parochial schools, but proposed they participate in a shared services program with public schools.

Mr. Roblin said the proposal, which calls for the establishment of a special legislature committee to study it in detail, was made after "some painful heart-searching" on the government's part for "many, many months."

"We entirely rejected systems used in Ontario and Saskatchewan which allow some tax funds to go to private schools," he told a press conference after announcing the plan in the legislature.

The proposal would allow students of private schools affiliating with a public school division or district to receive public school services in the public school regulations at public expense.

Private schools—the majority of which are Roman Catholic parochial institutions—would remain independent and devoid of public financial support as they have been since the School Act of 1890. Parents of children attending them would remain liable for public school taxes.

Mr. Roblin declined to spell out further details of the proposal.

"In general terms anything available at the public school could be offered," he said. "This will be up to the special committee to decide."

Father of Two Given Term And a Suspended Sentence

Terrence Kent Mackey, 27-year-old Toronto father of two children, arrested seven times in the last nine years. His last arrest—after a flight with a Belleville police officer—yesterday may have resulted in his narrowest escape.

Mackey yesterday pleaded guilty to burglary before Hastings County Judge J. C. Anderson, and thus qualified for conviction as an habitual criminal. Under Canada's Criminal Code he could have been sent to the penitentiary for any term up to life.

Instead, the judge sent him to reformatory for a year and ordered him to serve a further two-year suspended sentence after his release.

Mackey was arrested after police surprised him and an accomplice in Carm's Beverage plant, 48 Parker Street, August 6. His companion escaped while Mackey was engaged in what the court learned was "a violent struggle" with Constable Ian McColl. Mackey was later bailed.

CHARACTER WITNESSES

The court's decision came after defence counsel Robert Temple called as character witnesses Mackey's wife, mother, brother and a friend from school days.

All testified the accused had been leading a life of diligent application to work, unmarred by any trouble with the law since he was bailed.

His brother, Kenneth, said Mackey, a steam fitter by trade, had been working for him 14 hours a day, sometimes seven days a week, sometimes seven days a week.

Mackey's wife, Doris, described the period the happiest five months of their marriage. She blamed "bad company" as chiefly responsible for his crime career.

Notwithstanding, crown attorney John Pringle noted the accused had been sentenced to a total of 5½ years since 1955 for offences ranging from shop-breaking to School-of-Learn-ing-lation.

STRESSES TERMS OF CODE

He stressed the Criminal Code classed a man, charged repeatedly with the same violation, as a confirmed criminal liable to lengthy imprisonment.

"I feel, your honor, people have a right to be protected from this sort of thing," he stressed.

"It is most regretable he is the father of two children," added the prosecutor. However, Mackey was "a callow he has not regard for them and—he turns to these crimes."

His last term of two years in penitentiary on a series of charges, had been "inadequate to bring home to him the folly of his ways."

Mr. Temple countered, while the accused was just out of penitentiary, he has been steadily employed and attended to his family.

Judge Anderson dryly commented: "It is always very interesting to see how concerned they get about their wives and children after they get into difficulty—and how little concerned they are about them before."

CONDITIONS IMPOSED

However, he told Mackey, "I am not going to treat you as a confirmed criminal. If I did that you might get a very severe sentence in the penitentiary—and it might be what you deserve.

A condition of the accused's suspended sentence after being freed from reformatory would be to ignore all accomplices in his previous crimes, the judge ordered.

Judge Anderson also requested Mackey's wife to name to probationary officer whether other persons her husband should not associate with.

"You still have an opportunity to lead a decent life and see that your children become good citizens and are raised properly," he concluded.

Fails to Repay Money Received On Dud Cheques

A Belleville man who failed to repay money made on dud cheques last year will now spend two months in jail.

Carr was hailed back to court when he failed to meet the payments and given another chance.

Today, with the cash still owing Carr told the magistrate he was drawing only welfare and could not possibly meet payments of $20 a week.

"I don't know how you can get $20 of our tax money to pay this — and I don't think you should," retorted the magistrate.

"As long as you're drawing welfare you're not going to pay money in here."

Expect High School Will Need Eight More Teachers

TRENTON — High school principal John Garrett told the members of the Trenton school board last night that he "thought" eight additional teachers would be needed this year for Trenton high school. Mr. Garrett asked for, and received, permission to advertise for teachers within the next two weeks. While Mr. Garrett said he would like to have more expensive teachers for the higher grades, he suggested that this would be expensive from the board's viewpoint, and agreed to get the best available at current salary rates.

Mr. Garrett said a wave of school population, evident in the past, was on the verge of breaking at the school next year. In January, next year or at the school there will be at least ten Grade 11 classes instead of the present eight, largely due to an influx of Grade 10 students from St. Peter's secondary school.

One new shop will be opened, and as both boys' and girls' occupational classes will be held here, it will be necessary to hire two new teachers. Courses in science, technology and trades will be carried forward to Grade 11 next year and as the heavy machinery in the school pushes forward into Grades 12 and 13 it will be necessary to form additional classes and hire teachers for them.

An unexpected bulge in students from the RCAF could throw out present calculations. W.L. Davis, RCAF appointee to the board, said that to his knowledge, there might be an upswing in RCAF students and this thought was echoed by board member D. W. Whitley, who is a representative of the Air Cadet League of Canada at provincial level. Mr. Whitley said that he had learned upon good authority that Trenton's RCAF station would "receive a boost in the army" by government allocation of personnel.

Reports Pupils In Great Need Of Dental Care

TRENTON—Mrs. C. M. Wilson, public school nurse, in her annual report to the Trenton Board of Education, commented on the "desperate need for dental care," among her small charges. Such things as the need for dental care and the general health of the child are brought to the attention of parents through home visits by the nurse.

Mrs. Wilson also reported on vision tests carried out on the schools. Parents are also told if the child needs eye attention. Mrs. Wilson commended on the fine spirit of cooperation shown by the public school teachers in this matters concerning the children's health.

Land Acquired For New School Says Board

TRENTON — A member of the grounds and buildings committee with the Trenton school board, James Bowman, told the board last night that land in the North Byron Street area had been acquired for the erection of a new public school to serve a new housing development and other residents living in the near vicinity. The land is now being surveyed, Mr. Bowman said.

NOT GETTING HOUR

When in an hour not an hour? When the minutes are picked off by the Trenton Community Garden Board, that's when, says V. F. Carswell, supervising principal of public schools.

Mr. Carswell told the members of the Trenton school board last night that when he was a boy an hour was reckoned as 60 minutes. "But times have changed," he said, and the hour has now shrunk to 50 minutes.

Mr. Carswell said that the board paid for an hourly lee time for junior hockey twice a week. The gardens do not agree on the time five minutes at the first part of the board's hour. Then the machine appears again five minutes before the hour is up, even interrupting hockey at the busiest stages.

Mr. D. W. Whitley, the board's representative on the recreation committee, will investigate the situation and try to get the board back on a 60 minute hour at all hockey games.

WANTS TO USE SURPLUS

School board chairman T. E. Ketchason has suggested that a surplus in the high school budget last year be used to save the four cents levied for taxes on the construction of two school rooms and an auditorium at North Trenton public school. If council could be persuaded to grant the board the extra two mills on the 1964 budget, this along with the surplus, would finance the building.

Mr. Ketchason said the board had used a $70,000 surplus last year to build an additional four rooms on Queen Elizabeth school, thus saving another $70,000 in 20-year debenture charges.

Council may, by law, be said, grant a school board an extra two mills for capital expenditures.

A meeting between the finance committee of the board and the finance committee of council will be set up within a day or so to discuss the chairman's suggestion.

Famine in India

NEW DELHI, India (Reuters) Nearly 2,500,000 persons have been affected by famine following a crop failure over nearly 30,000 square miles of Rajasthan, northwest India, Agriculture Minister Ram Sughag Singh told Parliament today.

More than 2,700,000 cattle and 4,000,000 sheep also have been affected, he said.

Penitentiary Fugitive Sought In Trenton Area

TRENTON — Provincial police from the Belleville and Brighton detachments converged on the Trenton area last night to assist town police in the hunt for an escapee from Collins Bay Penitentiary. Still at large is 21-year-old Clifford Maskery, whose description is given as five foot ten inches tall, with reddish blond hair, and weighing approximately 150 pounds. When last seen, the man was wearing a short grey car coat with a blue sweater and blue gun rubber boots.

Town police were first alerted by a Kingston taxi driver who told them that he had picked up a fare in Kingston and delivered him to a Sidney Street address, only to have him drive away with his cab. Police trailed the man by tracks in the snow up Sidney Street and across Dan No. 1 town.

The trail was lost west of to west Trenton.

At one time, at lease eight police cruisers converged on the Dam No. 1 area, but the escapee managed to slip through the dragnet and take off in a westward direction.

Board Chairman Suggests Lions Be Relieved of Offer

TRENTON — T. S. Ketcheson, chairman of the Trenton Board of Education, suggested at a board meeting last night that the board relinquish its "claim" to the offer from the Trenton Lions' Club to donate $25,000 towards the construction of a swimming pool in the high school.

The Lions' offer, made last year, is active until the end of this year.

Mr. Ketcheson said that since the general public seems to have little or no interest in helping to finance the pool—and council certainly isn't interested—the Lions might as well be relieved of their verbal obligation to keep the offer open until the end of 1964, so that they could allocate the money to some other project. Lions' president Thomas Bedford told council last week that the same amount of money was still available for the construction of an outdoor rink adjacent to the Community Gardens if the board decided "made up its mind whether to build a pool or not."

Board member Douglas Whitley asked that any decision to release the Lions from their obligation be delayed until the end of this month, so that he and chairman of management, Ken Parker Jr., could explore the possibility of building the pool in the near future.

Mr. Ketcheson suggested that the board make the building of a pool "a Centennial project," but Mr. Elder's figures were the money would come from."

W. J. Wilkinson, separate school supervisor for the board, said that when the subject of a pool first came up, there had been a petition from the RCAF pool by town residents. Now that the RCAF pool is inaccessible to town children and adults, he said that there might possibly be more general support for the building of a pool at the school.

Mr. Ketcheson said that there wasn't any suggestion that the Lions' had "welched" on their offer, it just seemed selfish to him for the Lions to hold it up if there was no possibility the pool could be built soon.

Donald Sutherland agreed that the Lions shouldn't be tied to the project and said he felt sure the club would help out with a pool somewhere else built. Meanwhile, said Mr. Sutherland, an outdoor skating rink would benefit the kiddies, if the Lions put the money to that use.

It was decided to delay a decision on releasing the Lions from their obligation until the end of the month.

AIR CADETS WIN

Told About New Method To Get Water

TRENTON — Mayor James MacDonald, Councillors G. A. Weaver, Duncan McDonald and Joseph Gould, clerk-comptroller, D. W. Larry and the members of the public utilities commission, Charles Hilton and C. A. Baker were told of a new method of supplementing the town's water supply last night by a representative of the Groundwater Development Corporation.

To implement the system, certain land conditions must prevail. At the start, the land conditions would be determined by approach tests. The tests would cost $2,000 and if taken before April 1, would be subject to a 50 per-cent writer works subsidy.

Although invented by a Canadian, the system is used more extensively aboard, in more extensively aboard, in the U.S.

Although no definite action was taken last night, the matter will be discussed at the week's meeting of the utilities commission.

Tax Collection Heavy Drain On Manpower

TORONTO (CP)—The collecting and calculation of taxes is a heavy drain on the productive resources of Canada and requires simplification, the board of directors of the Ontario Chamber of Commerce said today.

In a brief to the Ontario committee on taxation, it asked for clarification of tax laws, uniformity of assessment procedures and a reduction in duplication among various levels of government.

Increased government revenue and accelerated progress of our economy would result, the brief said.

The board, representing 30,000 leaders of the province's business community, also advocated the establishment a permanent federal - provincial taxation planning secretariat—along the lines of the European Economic Community.

The brief predicted the necessity of increased taxes but argued that they not affect personal and corporate taxes. An increase in this field, it said "could only lead to a serious deterioration in corporate and individual incentive."

The board suggested the taxing of public services, except medical and other services generally recognized as necessities.

A broadening of the tax base in this way, the brief said, could also stave off a general increase in tax rates.

Tax revenue could be earned from government run lotteries or legalized off-track betting. The brief suggested both potential sources should be investigated.

Six Rinks Still Unbeaten In Bonspiel

Six rinks equally divided between outside and local rinks are in the running for The Ontario Intelligencer trophy and replicas as the St. Valentine's proceeds into the second day at the Quinte Curling Club. The local rinks are skipped by Mrs. Jane Sheppard, Mrs. Connie Wilkinson and Mrs. Heather White. Mrs. Sheppard has Mrs. Lila Beare, Mrs. Jessie Baber and Mrs. Anne Alexander, while Mrs. Rosemary Fraser, Mrs. Hetty Dyble and Mrs. Hazel Blair are with Mrs. Wilkinson. Mrs. Madge Cowley, Mrs. Joan Loder and Mrs. Agnes Benn compose Mrs. White's rink.

There were some upsets in yesterday's play. Mrs. Fran Miller and her rink from Kingston, who have won the trophy on three successive years, met defeat in the first game at the hands of Mrs. Broadbent of Newmarket but went on to win her second game against a clubmate Mrs. J. Donnelly of Kingston. There are several good rinks in the spiel and the curling is on a higher plane that a couple of years ago. A number of the men-curlers looking on at the matches being played marvel at the excellent "draw" game that is being exhibited. The women do not seem to mind if the "house" is cluttered up with rocks. They simply draw around them to the "button."

The visiting curlers are being well entertained by the host club including the Wednesday at Mrs. Agnes Walker and her energetic committee. A full course dinner was served before the last draw on Monday, while tea will be served and a social dance scheduled for this afternoon. As usual the cheese table, donated by The Ontario Intelligencer, is a popular rendezvous and the delicious product of the Quinte district is fully appreciated. Mr. L. K. McLeod and Mr. Archie Rowe are busy as umpires and posting the various draws. Their assistance is greatly appreciated by the women. Results of the draws on Wednesday.

AN OFFICIAL WELCOME is extended by Rotary Club President, Ronald C. Cass, left, to Rev. J. H. Smith from Hobart, Tasmania, and Mr. and Mrs. William R. Carney from Ottawa. Mr. Carney, guest speaker at the Rotary meeting, was also born, raised and educated in Australia, and is now the Australian Commercial Counsellor to the High Commissioner of Australia in Ottawa.

Residents Get Explanation for Closing Streets

Residents of the St. Charles Street area who a week or so ago objected to the proposed closing of that street at the CNR double track railway have had the city's viewpoint explained to them through a letter from the city clerk.

St. Charles Street and Grier Street crossings were recommended closed by city council mainly because of the cost of upgrading crossing signals) devices and protection by the subway. Geddes and East Moira crossings are to be left open.

Originally it was expected the street crossings would be closed by the first of February but railway personnel have not yet finished the work of signal installation and the two streets are still open.

Approximately 20 residents in the St. Charles Street district objected to the closing of St. Charles Street and wanted a pedestrian crossing to be retained.

NO OBJECTION

Council, however, had made its decision and there had been no formal objection within the time limit following advertising of the council intention.

City Clerk Adam Stalker was directed to write the petitioners explaining the reason for the council decision to close the streets.

Today City Engineer Wilbur Purcell was unable to say, when the two streets would actually be closed.

He said the railway crossing signal installers had been expected to return before the end of January and complete the installation, but as yet the work was still uncompleted.

A trio of Belleville 18-year-olds today were placed on probation for theft of junk.

Final Phase Of New Bridge Ready to Begin

The final phase of approach clearance for the new North Front Street bridge over the CNR double tracks which went into use last fall, is expected to be carried out within the next few weeks.

Two houses on the east side of the approach south of the bridge are slated for destruction with the tender call for their demolition ending today.

The two houses slated for destruction were owned by the Mason family.

Actually only a small part of the Mason property was required for the bridge approach, but entrance to the property was spoiled and council finally decided to purchase the entire lot and raze the buildings.

City officials also felt that razing of the two houses would enhance the appearance of the bridge approach.

Rotary Ladies' Night Told About Australia and People By Commercial Counsellor

About 50 Rotarians, Rotarianettes and guests, met in the Pinnacle Room of the Hotel Quinte Monday evening for the Rotary Club's Ladies' Night meeting. Present to address the club for the occasion was the Australian Commercial Counsellor to the High Commissioner of Australia, Mr. William R. Carney of Ottawa.

Mr. Carney took as his subject, "Australia."

During the past 175 years, its people, now 10,700,000, have developed Australia from an empty land, building its cities into some of the world's greatest cities; creating industries from its metals and minerals; clothing people everywhere in its wool; feeding them with its fruits and grains and forging a nation able to take its share of the responsibilities of a complex and changing world.

In opening Mr. Carney said, "one doesn't really see Canada until one really becomes a Canadian". He continued by saying that we in Canada were not the only people with constitutional problems. Australia was divided into states by a Norwegian who drew a lot of lines on a map.

POLITICS DULL

He said Australia is "deadly dull" politically and the present government has been in power since 1949 and as long as it is doing a good job the people see no reason for changing it. Mr. Carney said it was just back re-elected for another three-year term.

The speaker said Australia was like a ball bearded man with a fringe around the outside and nothing in the middle. "It is not as hot as some people think it is and there is more snow in Australia than in Sweden," he said.

He went on to say that there are eleven million people in Australia. "Eleven million is not so many considering the size of the country as compared to some other countries," he said. The people are white with the exception of a tribe of aborigines". He said these people had never had a name by they called them "Aboriginals".

"The Australians have a standard of living like Canadians, the continued: "They have as many automobiles per head as we have, much taxation, bad television and their habits are deplorable in some ways.

"Before the war they didn't have a great deal of education, and slang language was acceptable, but today the slang is considered fraudulent and fake."

TRADE WITH ASIA

He went on to say that the country had to stand on its own feet and that today 75 per cent of its trade is with Asia. "Asia is the centre of our whole interest now," he said, "and we are trying to help them overcome problems arising from their great population." Mr. Carney said between 1960 and 1969 Asia will have an increase of 18 million people.

"We think the Lord's been pretty good to us in Australia. We have plenty of what we need and we would like to share it with these people in Asia. We have had a lot of teaching and we would also like to share this with them.

The speaker was introduced by Rotarian Frank Moore and thanked on behalf of the Club by past-president Rotarian Harry Burns.

Guests and visiting Rotarians were introduced by Rotarian G. B. Daugherty, while Rotarians in turn introduced their wives, the Rotaryannes.

VISITOR FROM TASMANIA

Amongst the guests for the meeting was Rev. J. H. Smith from Hobart, Tasmania, a island in the Pacific Ocean south of Australia.

A new Rotarian was introduced to the club in the person of John Vance who will be officially inducted into the club at a later date.

Seated at the head table with President Ronald Cass and Mrs. Cass were Rotarian Ernest Burnham and Mrs. Burnham, Rotarian Stanley Reston and Mrs. Reston, Rotarian Harry Burns and Mrs. Burns, Rotarian I. Dickey and Mrs. Dickey, Rotarian Norman Moore and Mrs. Moore and Rotarian Arnold Campbell and Campbell.

Following the club's sing, song session, two solos were rendered by Rotarian John Deacon, accompanied at the piano by Rotarian Philip Huddleston.

Local residents with a flair for history can assist an Irish author who is writing a book about Irish medical men.

City Clerk Adam Stalker has received a letter from Dr. J. Wilson of Cork, Ireland, who is seeking information about a one-time British Army doctor from Donegal who apparently died in Belleville.

The request is for information concerning a Dr. Walker Hone who joined the British Army and came to Canada in 1821. He became a full surgeon in 1826 and was made department inspector of the forces in 1845.

Dr. Henry retired from the Army in 1855 and took up residence in Belleville where he died in 1860 at the age of 66.

Any relative or resident having additional information or a picture of Dr. Henry's home or grave is asked to contact City Clerk Adam Stalker at the Belleville city hall.

of the Canadian carrier Boda venture.

The Voyager's skipper, Capt. D. H. Stevens, 43, was among the 85 survivors.

Capt. Stevens, who entered the Royal Australian Navy in 1936, had served in the Second World War, was promoted to the rank of commander in 1956 and captain in 1962.

Survivors said the two ships collided with a clap like thunder. Flames leaped from the penetrating metal as the carrier cut through the destroyer.

Only one survivor, with debris, oil and a swarm of rubber rafts which were set adrift from the foundering ship, was picked up by the rescuers.

The survivors clung to wreckage and rafts while rescue boats from Singapore raced to the area. Searchlights from the carrier lit up the sea and helicopters flew overhead.

Only masthead lights were in use during the exercise. The night was calm but moonless and seas were moderate.

READING, RELAXING

Crew members of the Voyager were on duty were sleeping, preparing for bed, reading or otherwise relaxing.

In a canteen in the forward section, 70 or 80 men were playing bingo. Suddenly the signal "Emergency stations" was piped and repeated.

"Then there was one hell of a bang," he said. Lt.-Commander Coombe, 34, of Sydney, "I was thrown across the wardroom. My fore-and-aft pants split and turned upside down."

Chief Naval Shipwright Albert G. Maine, 35, said: "I was sitting out of a messroom in the after part of the ship when the signal for emergency stations thought she was going to roll. I held on. I thought we'd all had it.

"Where the boys had been playing tombola (bingo), she ship could suck them under in sinking.

British Wits Find Bits Of Whimsy in Brain Drain

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN

LONDON (CP)—British wits are still able to whip up a bit of whimsy about the "brain drain" to the United States, but the humor is distinctly rueful today.

The weekend announcement that Professor Ian Bush, 35, and his zinc-member research staff from Birmingham University are moving to the U.S. has been followed by reports that's cancer expert and a leading physicist also are going.

One cartoonist depicts a group of dollar-hungry scientists in bathmat-type haircuts of the kind worn by the Liverpool singing foursome, the Beatles, in their spectacular and lucrative visit to the U.S.

And another wit has started a rumor that terrible-tempered Quintin Hogg, the education "supremo" and science minister, also has been offered a job in the land of the Yankee dollar.

It was Hogg, then Viscount Hailsham, who combined his countrymen a year ago by saying the U.S. lured away "fifteen scientists and only because American high schools were inferior.

WORK HAMPERED

"The reason I am going is that my work is very seriously hampered by financial difficulties," said Bush, a pioneer in the treatment of mental illness by drugs.

Bush said some scientists had used the threat of emigration as "blackmail" to obtain increased grants for their work to the detriment of other research workers.

"The only thing that would have made me change my mind would be a major policy change by the government in the attitude toward university finance.

"You could make the situation very simple by the expenditure of £20,000,000 a year spread over the necessary agencies. This would revolutionize the situation with the sum of £80,000,000 or £70,000,000 a year."

With an election in the offing, the new departures have caused a political storm and a Labor member asked in Parliament Monday night that Prime Minister Douglas-Home set up a royal commission to study the problem.

All this appears to be ammunition for Labor Leader Harold Wilson who, however, may be disappointed that some scientists at least are not heeding the call to leave Britain and wait for better times under a Labor government.

Despite Hogg's explanation of the brain drain, the government's own advisory council on scientific policy has said the main causes are higher U.S. salaries, more opportunities, better research facilities and an improved social status.

SIX FEAR FALLOUT

TORONTO (CP) — Only six Canadians applied for government assistance to build fallout shelters last year compared with 190 in 1961, the chief of information services for the federal Emergency Measures Organization said Monday. Lt.-Col. A. M. Stirton said in an interview that the government EMO has declined since the Berlin and Cuban crises. "People are not as shelter-conscious as they were."

Two Given Reform Terms

Two Belleville men who walked away from a burglary charge-handed into the arms of the law were given reformatory terms today.

Roland Moore and Larry Woods, will serve a year definite and six months indeterminate for entering the Knights of Columbus Hall January 28 and unsuccessfully tackling a soft-drink dispenser for funds.

Magistrate T. Y. Wills noted both accused had records; they also had jobs — a fact, he said, made the attempted theft hard to understand.

Political Death-Wish?

Alan Harvey, the astute London bureau head for The Canadian Press, reports that "the death-wish in British politics seems to have changed allegiance."

Harvey is referring to the current splits in the ranks of the Conservatives. It used to be the Labor party, he says, which was torn by internal feuds.

There is some doubt as to whether the two parties are comparable. Some regard political development as a march of progress, as a "broadening down from precedent to precedent," as a demonstration of the Fabian doctrine of the inevitability of gradualness. If they are sympathetic to the Labor cause, they are likely to argue that the party is in the forefront of this march. They may consider it essential that, ever and anon, the party send out advance guards to scout out the land of future changes of policy. To them, splits in the Labor party will not be deplorable indications of decay, but heartening proof of continued vitality. It is a little more difficult, though not impossible, to apply the same doctrine to the Conservatives. The very name Conservative implies a holding fast to the tried and true, which belies the conviction that continuous change is not only inevitable but desirable.

The Conservative "death wish," if it exists, must therefore spring from a different source from that which caused Labor, in Nye Bevan's heigh-day, to rend itself. Harvey has identified the source—and it is certainly different. Some senior Conservatives, he says, accept the fact that defeat at the next election is inevitable. And even welcome it, because they believe it will show the British people just how bad a Labor government would be.

Those who are impartial observers of the scene may be intrigued by the possibility that this is precisely the wrong time for there to be any certainty of the success of such a demonstration.

Traditionally, the Conservative party's primary interest is in the full scope of Britain's role in the world. The party is concerned firstly with foreign policy and the Commonwealth, with domestic affairs being of secondary importance except as they affect the wider picture.

Labor, on the other hand, is concerned chiefly with living conditions at home, with Britain's role in the Commonwealth and the world being considered in the light of its impact on life in the British Isles.

There are those, however, who will maintain that, ironically enough, the Conservatives have been more successful in their domestic policies than Labor, while Labor's foreign policy and administration of commonwealth affairs has outshone that of their political rivals. A case in point—the establishment of India and Pakistan as independent nations within the Commonwealth, achieved under Attlee. If this Independence had not been granted, Britain's experiences in that vast sub-continent would long since have made France's ordeal in Indo-China and Algeria look like a summer picnic.

With Cyprus, Kenya, Tanganyika, Northern Rhodesia, Southern Rhodesia, Ghana and Malaysia all trouble-spots, a new Labor government in Britain would not suffer from any lack of opportunity to display its talent in foreign affairs.

Poor Show

Twenty-nine Cubans, charged with fishing illegally in Florida waters, were being held in a cell, ten feet by twenty feet, without bunks.

The absence of bunks is perhaps a blessing in disguise. Those men have less than seven square feet of space per person. Even the narrowest bunk would require more space than that. Even if there were bunks for only half the men and they slept in shifts, there would not be enough space left for the men to move around with ease.

These are men who have not yet been judged guilty of any crime. They are in Monroe County Jail, presumably receiving the same treatment as any other person charged with an offence.

The country with the highest living standard in the world ought to be able to do better than this for persons awaiting trial.

If these were Americans in a Cuban jail, a description of the conditions under which they were imprisoned would arouse great indignation.

Everyone should learn to do one thing supremely well because he likes it, and one thing supremely well because he detests it.—Mr. B. W. M. Young, Headmaster of Charterhouse School, in Britain.

No Money for High Living For Civil Service Novices

By RICHARD JACKSON
From The Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — The Federal Civil Service, employing more than 140,000 people—if you count the Crown Corporations such as the CBC and the CNR the total exceeds 500,000 — operates by far the nation's biggest payroll.

Perhaps the largest single group in that small army of 160,000 Civil Servants is comprised of the several thousand girls impersonally classified under the heading of Grade One Clerks, Typists, Stenographers, Secretaries.

These girls, the recruits, the cream of the crop from Public Service, emerging from Grades Twelve and Thirteen and Colleges or from Business College to join the Government, with perhaps the largest matrimonial coming here to the headquarters offices of the 53 Departments, Boards, Bureaus and assorted other Federal agencies in the Capital.

How, then, does she do in this career that attracts more girls than any other employment opportunity in the country?

Well, by round figures, if she has Grade Twelve, she draws an initial $2,000 a year. If she has Grade Thirteen she starts a starting $2,700. Two years of previous office experience gets her $3,000 and three years starts her off at $2,940.

THE OUTGO

Strike the average, then, at $2,800.

So much for income. . . what about outgo?

How do you or your daughter live?

How far, and in what way, does that $2,800 stretch?

A survey by a labor statistical and research agency has provided the calculations that offer something of a knowledgeable guide.

The average Civil Service girl clerk, steno, typist in the starting Grade One is between 19 and 23 and has no dependents.

She enjoys, she has, resides and works in the same urban transportation zone and shares (if she is fortunate) the apartment with another girl, paying half of the rent, utilities and household expenses.

She buys for cash, except for the television set that she and her roommate are paying out on the installment plan.

For food and lodging — let's name her Sally — Sally needs $1,121 a year. The food budget represents half the cost of the apartment for the one apartment by the two girls, plus the cost of lunches in restaurants or cafeterias for the work week.

Sally spends $283 a year for clothing. If she makes her own clothes and shops at bargain years, sweaters and blouses three, her swim suit, umbrella, raincoat and casual jacket last longer.

For medical, dental and optical care she spends an annual $200. An identical sum goes for insurance and savings for emergencies.

For recreation, education and reading materials, the allotment is $286. Transportation to work is $175 and miscellaneous items such as candy, soft drinks, fruit, gifts, charity and charity donations, stationery, stamps and phone calls, $85.

THE PERQUISITES

The annual budget provides $56 for personal care — toothpaste, shampoo, lipstick, face powder, hair preparations, cleansing cream, deodorant, soap, facial tissues, sanitary supplies, two permanent waves and four haircuts.

The recreation figure, $260, provides a seven-day vacation (she gets three weeks but spends two at home, her own or her parents) for $85, including transportation and what is described as "economical" stay at an inexpensive nearby resort (there are such things, even yet, in this neighborhood), days for Civil Service provincial camps.

It also provides $18 for repair of the television set, $104 taken in eight moves, eighteen games of bowling including shoe rental, six trips to a nearby beach, a newspaper subscription, and 20 cents a week for books and magazines.

That takes care of a total of $2,286.

Sally's income tax bill, with standard deductions — $1,000 for unmarried status and $100 for charity and medical costs — runs $324, with the Federal Government taking $224 of it and the province getting $35.

That leaves $135 to cover federal superannuation contributions, payments on unemployment insurance, dues for Civil Service recreation and other office associations, membership in one of the Federal Government staff organizations — and for a bit of luxurious splurging, if anything remains.

So, a Government Working Girl can get along on an annual $2,800 — if she watches her pennies and budgets carefully, as she later must if and when she married — but little, or financial necessity, some pretty wholesome, if unexciting living.

But, of course, if she sticks it out, there are salary increases and the prospect of a good and rewarding few years as a Government Career Girl.

Rudeness Is Really Underbreeding

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

In search of some elusive item a woman I know cruised into a department store in a rather seedy neighborhood. Later, in describing her experience, she said that the salesclerks were as "rude as cabdrivers."

This is more than a delicate difference in words: it implies a real difference in our attitude toward the way others treat us. For much of what we loosely call "rudeness" is quite unintentional, born of ignorance and nurtured by a bleak environment.

Wilde once observed that a gentleman is one who is never intentionally rude. Beneath the epigram there is a grasp of a true distinction. Intentional rudeness can be a refreshing or amusing or abrasive; it can be unified at, shrugged off, or resented.

But the unintentional kind, where the person simply doesn't know any better, is on the order of a natural defect, like a hair-lip or a hunchback, and should evoke more sympathy than any indignation. Only in this way can we effectively cope with it.

It is pointless to blame people for what they don't know and are unaware of. It is also unreasonable as scorning the uneducated for using poor grammar. Good manners, like good speech, are a luxury that can be afforded only when the fundamental needs have been satisfied to a certain degree.

Rudeness in the privileged is much more inexcusable. If not as widespread, it is far more glaring not only of the socially privileged, but of the intellectually privileged as well. A person who is ignorant man may be bumptious and dogmatic because of natural limitations; but when an academic, an intellectual, an artist, acts contemptuous and superior towards others, something is sinning against his advantages and gifts.

It is one of the ironies of human nature that we tend to blame people for what they can least help about themselves — for their background, their temperament, their congenital incapacities. In most cases, they can do little to reshape them-selves; yet we reserve our most violent judgments for the inherent infirmities, while permitting others to go relatively unrebuked.

Rudeness is rudeness only when it means to be such. Otherwise, it is simply a problem — a reflex action from an impoverished past. An underdeveloped sense of the amenities among the ignorant is much less culpable than an overdeveloped sense of the self among their "betters."

More Than Teaching

Calgary Albertan

By all means let us step up safety education. It will not be wasted effort. But we doubt that, by itself, it will eliminate bad driving and its consequences. We suspect that as long as it is possible for motorists to exceed speed limits and other traffic regulations and get away with it, a good many will do so — in the belief that the regulations are for the birds, not for "expert drivers" like themselves.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

February 11th, 1944.

Belleville Fair's financial success in 1943 was the best on record, it was revealed at the annual meeting of the Belleville Agricultural Fair Board when plans were laid for another year's activities. Figures presented showed the operating revenue was $10,871, while total receipts were $11,-724. Gate admissions brought in $4,756, the grandstand $1,-040, the strip tickets $202, the midway netted $1,078 and rental of space $250, entry fees and score cards $245, and provincial and municipal grants aggregated $1,846. These all show how important the Belleville Fair is becoming as an institution, for every branch brought in substantial revenue.

The substantial character of the new building is indicated by the outlay, $2,968 for prizes, $1,829 for attractions, $1,224 for stalls and other pens, $494 for wages, $450 for rent and $620 for salaries. Cash on hand totalled $1,627 at the end of the year and there was a current surplus of $987 for the year. Belleville Fair Board has now a substantial set of buildings valued at $7,348 and has also valuable equipment.

The fair is an institution which performs an important service in any community. The war has brought more and more attention upon the life of agriculture as it has upon industry.

Mr. Gerald Vance of Mursey Street was honored recently by a surprise party on the occasion of his birthday when 33 friends gathered at his home and enjoyed a most jolly evening. During the evening a handsome smoking pipe was presented to Mr. Vance by Mr. C. Bowler on behalf of the friends present. Mr. James McDonald read an address expressing congratulations and good wishes. The prize winners at euchre were as follows: ladies' first, Miss Hilda Taylor; ladies' second, Mrs. James McDonald; consolation, Mrs. S. McDonald; men's first, Mr. C. Bowler; men's second, Mr. Wm. Snell; consolation, Mr. Cecil McGee.

Miss A. M. Rayburn has been elected chairman of the Tweed Consolidated School Board. She is the only woman member who has ever been a member, of the Board and she has served the taxpayers most efficiently for a considerable time; she has a deep interest in the welfare of the children.

County Crown Attorney B. C. Donnan, K.C., has been appointed Deputy Judge of the County Court of the County of Hastings. This appointment was by order-in-council at Ottawa, dated February 3rd. The notice of appointment was signed by W. S. Edmonds, Deputy Minister of Justice.

To Your Good Health

Hypoglycemia Is Caused By Overproduction of Insulin

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: My condition has been diagnosed as hypoglycemia. How can I avoid weak spells? My arms and legs frequently go to sleep and I have a slight soreness in my chest. — C. C.

Hypoglycemia means that the blood has less than its normal amount of sugar. At times, that is. When the sugar level declines, the patient feels weak and may have other symptoms: Headache, irritability, nervous sweating.

While there are various causes of hypoglycemia (liver disease, adrenal deficiency, a "dumping syndrome" because of removal of the stomach), two-thirds of the cases result from overproduction of insulin by the pancreas.

The symptoms usually come on several hours after eating — the supply of sugar has been pretty well consumed.

The answer, you might think, would be to eat some sugar, but this isn't correct. Yes, the sugar will "pick you up," but it also will stimulate the pancreas to secrete still more insulin, so you get into a vicious circle.

The answer, rather, is to eat something which contains more protein and little sugar. This protein will, eventually, be converted into blood sugar, but not as rapidly, and the pancreas will not be shocked into producing more insulin. The blood sugar, hence, will not be used up at an excessive rate.

Along with this, a mild sedative often is given because experience we know that the intense, hard-driving go-getter type is more often found to be the victim of hypoglycemia. (The same is true of peptic ulcers.) If the patient's attitude or circumstances change, the trouble frequently clears.

A colleague of mine developed hypoglycemia (and an ulcer, too) when he first went into practice. Gradually he became established in his practice, his tenseness subsided and his physical troubles ceased.

The person with hypoglycemia simply must adjust his activities and living habits to the situation. Only in that way can he maintain his physical efficiency. And, of course, he will relieve himself in his mental and emotional efficiency.

In some individuals, it is believed, fat, say, six meals a day instead of three to ward off the periods of low blood sugar. Those with hypoglycemia, also, should be checked periodically for diabetes because in some cases the low blood sugar is a forerunner of the reverse — too much blood sugar.

Hypoglycemia can be a rather subtle condition. It is quite common, and should be responsible problems like fatigue, headache and emotional disturbances such as excessive irritability.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have two slightly raised and almost black marks on the inside of my lower lip and one on the upper lip. I have smoked heavily in the last year and these spots are at the place where I hold a cigarette. Is there a chance of this being skin cancer? — Mrs. E. H.

Black marks are not necessarily a sign of cancer, but I think it is significant that they are only where you hold a cigarette. The irritation, whether from smoke, heat, something in the paper, or other circumstance, could be a factor.

Like any area of discoloration on the skin or other tissues, it must be seen to be evaluated.

Remember that if cancer is found early. It is usually curable. Skin cancer may occur as by the pancreas.

The symptoms usually come on several hours after eating — the supply of sugar has been pretty well consumed.

Note to Mrs. M. A: An ulcer diet does not cause weakness. The protein in it contributes to strength.

Today in History

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The discovery of insulin for the treatment of diabetes is credited to Frederick Banting and Charles H. Best was announced in Toronto 42 years ago today—in 1922. The two scientists, working in the laboratory of J. J. R. Macleod, discovered that extracts of partially degenerated pancreas and islets of pancreas contained the life-saving hormone. Crude insulin injections developed by Banting and Best were first administered to human patients in January, 1922.

1758—George III received a petition from London's master wigmakers for assistance. Their complaint was that too many men were wearing their own hair.

1956—Former British foreign office employees Guy Burgess and Donald Maclean turned up in Moscow after being missing for five years.

Bigger Staff Required for Cafeteria

CAMPBELLFORD — It was reported at the regular meeting of the North East Northumberland District High School Board held at the Campbellford District High School here on the weekend, that so many students are using the school cafeteria and lunch room that additional staff is required.

An average of 315 students daily use the cafeteria. A report from a department of health inspector stated he was favorably impressed with the operation and cleanliness of the cafeteria.

The board decided to set up a committee of board members and the principal, L. S. Caughill, to interview prospective teachers for the last term at a meeting to be held in Toronto on February 23 and 29. The number of teachers to be interviewed was not stated, and the board did not disclose the number of teachers which would be required to replace those who might leave at the end of the present term. It is believed the board does intend to add two teachers to the present staff, because of the extra facilities now available with the addition of a new wing on the school.

Principal L. S. Caughill said he would soon appoint a committee to draw up plans for the observance of Education Week at the school.

A fee of $400 a year was established for the services of a technical director to assist in the vocational program at the school.

Two members of the Jehovah Witnesses sect were present to address the board, seeking permission to use the auditorium and cafeteria facilities for a three-day conference. The board granted permission to use the school facilities, but no date for the conference was set.

Permission was granted to the Campbellford pistol and rifle club to use the rifle range in the school basement one night each week, at the regular caretaking fee.

W. Roy Loucks, a long time member of the board, was nominated by members as a candidate for the 1963 Lamp of Learning award, presented annually by the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation.

The installation of a new roof on the old wing of the school has been completed, and the board will notify the roofing company they must clean up the grounds in the area. The contractor presently working on the new wing will be asked for a firm date on which the workmen will leave the building, as staff members complain that the presence of some workmen during the day is interfering with classes.

The accident occured north of Havelock. Mr. Sharp is employed by Godden Lumber and Fuel Company. About $1000 damage was done to the truck.

M. Ames Heads Electronics Technicians

CAMPBELLFORD — Morgan Ames of Campbellford has been re-elected president of the Radio Electronics Technicians' Association of Ontario, at a meeting of the association held in Paris, Ontario late last week. He will serve his second term as president of the group.

Dudley Hewitt of R.R. 1 Lakefield, formerly of Peterborough, will serve his second term as secretary-treasurer.

Call Firemen To Two Fires In Township

CAMPBELLFORD — Firemen were called to two fires in Seymour Township on Friday. In both cases damage was not serious and they were quickly extinguished.

vice-president of the Radio College of Canada, Toronto, and to Jack Forde of Brantford, who have completed 20 years as members of the organization.

DAUPHIN, Man. (CP) — The owner of a company dealing in pre-paid burial plots appeared in court Monday on 153 charges of breach of trust and 152 charges of fraud. Jack Harrison of Saskatoon, 53-year-old president of Sunset Memorial Gardens (Manitoba) Limited, was remanded without plea to Feb. 17 with bail set at $3,000 cash. He was arrested in Hamilton

Rector Plans Ten Curses On Sinners

BRIDGEWATER, England (AP)—A rarely used Church of England service that puts 10 curses on evil-doers will be used by Rev. Geoffrey Grubb, rector of nearby Spaxton, at each Wednesday services.

The 63-year-old rector has been feuding with some of his 750 parishioners. He says they once threw eggs at him. Last month he prococnced a curse on "anyone who gives false information to the press, the bishop or fellow priests."

The curses by pronounced Wednesday are part of the examination service—a "denouncing of God's anger and judgments against sinners."

Each curse starts with the words "cursed is he that . . ." It condemns "the unmerciful, forsterers and adulterers, covetous persons, idolators, slanderers, drunkards and extortioners."

HEY, CHARLIE!

Gaff and Guffaws

Dog Gone!

GREENVILLE, S.C. (AP) James Robert Wilson escaped from O'Neal Prison Camp Thursday.

Wilson, it turned out, was part-time cook at the prison camp and also helped train the dogs.

The hunt was still on today for the convict and the defecting bloodhound.

The Big Bomb

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP)—A charge that illegal ammunition was used in the "annual" Sarasota High School orange fight was voiced Monday by one group of participants.

They started throwing grapefruit," complained a spokesman for the youthful warriors.

Wrong Airport

The landing was uneventful but posed the immediate problem of how to get the big jet back into the air.

Hawkins Field, where the plane came down, does not have the long runways required for jet takeoffs.

Passengers and luggage from Flight 928 were ferried across own by taxi to new Thompson Field.

A Delta spokesman said it evidently was all due to "an error in judgment."

Braised Flank Steak With Oven Hash Brown Potatoes

by Mary Moore

A regular reader, Irene S., writes: "With each of my freeze, orders (third quarter) I always receive a flank steak, and no matter how I try to serve this — with a sauce or slowly baked, I don't seem to be able to make it tasty. Perhaps you have a way of doing it that will take away that stringy look."

In June of 1961 I gave here a recipe for Braised Beef calling for a flank steak. Subsequently I heard from readers that they liked this very much so I am repeating it today for Irene's sake.

TUESDAY
(Shrove)

Dinner Menu

Pancakes and Sausages (see Monday); Generous Tossed Salad; Apple Pie; Cheddar Cheese; Tea.

BRAISED BEEF (using flank steak to serve 4):

1 flank steak weighing 1 1-3 lbs., (or 2 lbs. "short ribs"), 1½ teaspoons salt, ⅛ teaspoon freshly ground black pepper, 2½ tablespoons flour, ½ cup finely diced carrots, ½ cup finely diced onions, ½ cup finely diced celery.

Mix together the flour, salt and pepper, dredge the meat in this and add all (loose flour too) to 2½ tablespoons melted fat (not bacon) in hot frying pan and sear meat, turning frequently until it is a rich dark brown. Don't hurry this — it takes about 15 minutes of constant attention over rather high heat. Mix diced vegetables, turn into medium casserole; add braised meat. To frying pan add 1 cup hot water and stir to dissolve all brown particles sticking to pan. Pour over meat, cover and bake 3 to 3½ hours at 300 deg. Fahr., removing cover during last hour to allow any remaining excess liquid to steam off. Result: A rich brown beef flavor like pot roast, impossible to achieve without braising. Slice thinly across the grain.

For the following recipe for Oven Hash Brown Potatoes remember, on previous days, to bake or boil 4 large unpared potatoes. This is a good companion to the Braised Beef above.

OVEN HASH BROWN POTATOES:

Pare 4 large baked or boiled potatoes and chop them. Crisp fry 5 slices side bacon and crumble them. Put the crumbled bacon and the fat remaining in pan into a rather large casserole. Add the chopped potatoes, ½ cup whole milk and sprinkle with ½ to ¾ teaspoon salt and some pepper. Stir well. Bake, uncovered, at 300 deg. Fahr. about 1¼ to 2 hours, stirring it 3 or 4 times. As you can see, this may be baked along with the Braised Beef above.

Women's Institutes

UNIONDALE W.I.

6TH SIDNEY — Mrs. Greenville Sine was hostess to the Uniondale Women's Institute Thursday evening when 20 members and three visitors were in attendance. The president, Mrs. E. Anderson, was in the chair.

A communication from the F.W.I.O. president, Mrs. Mary Trivers, was read by the secretary, Mrs. G. Sine. The new safety topic will be "Use and Misuse of Poisons." Canadian Education week will be the first week in March. Different groups have met with Prime Minister Lester Pearson about retaining the Red Ensign as the Canadian flag. The International Scholarship Fund should be completed this year; so the Institutes should review their donations and channel them in the right direction.

The summary day for the senior club, "Focus on Finishes," will be held in Shirley on February 21st.

Mrs. M. Mallory reported on the meeting when Mrs. A. Dafoe reported on Historical Research.

Mrs. Morley Sine gave her report on the winter issue of the Home and Country.

Mrs. Cameron Sine reported on the C.A.C. bulletin which is dealt in particular with sugar prices.

Mrs. George Burkitt convened the topic, "We Link the World." The world organization is called "The Associated Country Women of the World" (A.C.W.W.) It is made up almost entirely of rural women, with a membership of approximately six millions and there are groups in all countries except South America. Mrs. Watt established this world wide organization visited by Lady Aberdeen. The first triennial conference was in Vienna in 1930. Next year in 1965, this will be held in Ireland. Mrs. VanBeekhoff is world president; Mrs. Haven Smith is world vice-president. Mrs. Smith visited South America and made many contacts.

Several ladies read excerpts from the area vice-presidents from Canada, Asia, and Africa. This A.C.W.W. has Consultive status with the United Nations.

Mrs. R. Burkitt read a chapter from Harry J. Boyle's new book "Homebrew and Patches" on "The Catalogue."

Mrs. Sine read about Institutes in the North West Territories, especially mentioning the first all Eskimo Women's Institute in Canada.

Refreshments were served by th hostess and her committee.

SPEAKING OF MANNERS

BY PATRICIA LEWIS

MAIL CALL

Question: I'm 15 and have been invited to a school dance by a boy in my class. This will be the first time I've been to such an affair. It's to be held on a Saturday night and dress is informal. Girls are to wear pumps and party dresses, and the boys are to wear dark suits. My date hasn't mentioned anything to me about bringing flowers. Since the dance is informal, should I expect he will? Should I have a boutonniere ready to give to him? Several of my girl friends are going out for refreshments after the dance with their dates, and have invited me along. May I suggest this to my date? Your help in this matter will be appreciated. — K. C., Trenton, N. J.

Answer: Boys usually bring a corsage when a dance is formal but they rarely do when dress is informal. Chances are he won't, but, whether he does or not, it's not necessary to give him a flower for his lapel. Again in some communities, girls often give their dates a boutonniere when a dance is formal (and they know in advance they're going to get flowers) but it's exceptional to do so otherwise.

As far as going on after the dance is concerned, it would be rather tactless of you to make arrangements with your friends on your own. All arrangements for the evening should be made by your date without your checking from you. One of the other boys might sound him out about both of you accompanying the crowd for a late snack. But since your date has to foot the bill, he should decide on his own and any suggestion from you might only embarrass him.

Question: How far does a hostess have to go when bidding good night to her guests — as far as the front door, or is it possible to say good night in the living room, so she won't have to leave just one departing guests alone? I was criticized recently, by a relative, for not showing guests out "properly." She's quite old-fashioned and tends to be picky, but I thought I'd check just in case there might be something an unintentional mistake. Mrs. C. K. O., Philadelphia, Pa.

Answer: Guests should be shown to the front door, either by the hostess, the host or some other member of the family. If it was impossible for you to leave the room at the time, or for your husband to go with the departing guests on their way then it would have been appropriate for your aunt, as a member of the family, to do the honors on your behalf.

MAIL CALL

Question: Even when I supply plenty of huge ash trays, and empty them frequently when we have a party, guests invariably still prefer to flip their refuse into the fireplace. I don't mind it when we have a fire going, but it just burns me up at other times to have the fireplace used to discard cigarette butts, used cocktail napkins, uneaten parts of hors d'oeuvres and crumpled cigarette packages. By the time the party's an hour old, the fireplace looks like a garbage pail. Naturally a hostess has to overlook such thoughtlessness on the part of guests, but can you suggest any methods to discourage this messy practice? — Mrs. C. K., Philadelphia, Pa.

Answer: When there's no fire the most practical way to deter this untidy practice is to fit the opening with a close - fitting screen. If the fireplace doesn't take to this type of treatment, you might fill the opening with a display of greenery or flowers on next time you have a party. A friend of mine who has been faced with the same problem, always bank the apron with a row of potted plants and considers this an effective preventive measure. Of course, there are always a few die-hards who insist on flipping cigarettes anyway, but at least they are hidden behind the pots and don't become such an eyesore.

U.C.W. Meeting

FRONT ROAD U.C.W.

The regular meeting of the Front Road U.C.W. was held at the home of Mrs. Lee Purdy on Wednesday afternoon with a good attendance.

The president, Mrs. Clifford Reid, opened the meeting and welcomed all present and thanked Mrs. Purdy for having the meeting in her home.

The treasurer, Mrs. Steve Burrows, gave her report of last meeting, which showed a successful year.

Rev. Roy Vessey conducted the devotional part of the meeting which was most interesting and showed a great deal of planning.

The business period followed when various activities were discussed. Plans for a Valentine bake sale at the Plaza were made. The next meeting is to be held at Mrs. Clinton Brown's in March.

Mrs. Reid closed the meeting with prayer and lunch was served by the hostess.

WILL PRODUCE WATER

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Navy department announced Monday it will install at the U.S. naval base of Guantanamo a giant conversion plant that will end Cuba's ability to harass the big base by cutting its water supply. The department announced also that an unspecified number of Cuban civilian workers at the base are being fired in line with President Johnson's order to reduce the $8,000,000 annual flow of wages that reaches the Cuba economy through the workers.

Kleptomaniac Mother Poses Problem for Her Family

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS — My mother is a kleptomaniac. I have covered this up for a long time.

But now both my sister and my married son live close to her. Everyone is very fond of this now 67-year-old grandmother, and as she has lots of time she goes out with various family members shopping.

I'm just sick with fear and something must be done to warn them or stop her. The family could be disgraced. I dislike very much discussing it unless I have a worthwhile plan. — ON EDGE.

DEAR ON EDGE — This is a family affair — not too uncommon, either. You're kept it to yourself far-too long.

Kleptomania is an illness. Family members need to know about it; and your mother needs to know that you know she sometimes takes things which have not been paid for.

The department stores she frequents will work with you by observing but not accusing your mother, merely depending on you and the others to make good by returning or paying for articles taken.

* * *

DEAR DORIS — I am interested in joining a dieting group which I believe is called the TOPS Club. Is there such a group in this area? — DETERMINED.

DEAR DETERMINED — The "Take Off Pounds Sensibly" Club has several branches in Canada. If you are really determined, this group is Tops in making weight reductions — and you'll have happy sociable hours with others in the same boat while you're about it. I am sending you the address of the Canadian Director, who will tell you about the nearest branch, or perhaps help you form one where you are.

* * *

DEAR DORIS — I sent a jewel case to my girl friend for her birthday. She returned it, explaining that she could not accept it because she did not know me well enough. I have taken her on four dates and since she travels and lives away from home I thought she could use it.

I am not offended, but what do you suggest I do with this case? There are other girls whom I date. — R. M.

DEAR R. M. — A jewel case is personal and expensive; expresses high regard. Does this apply to any of the others? I'd suspect not.

Take it back where you bought it and explain the situation without embarrassment. If you can't get money back, it's highly probable that any merchant who knows his business will build goodwill by allowing a credit voucher.

* * *

Confidential to HARRY HOPEFUL — This woman is her own worst enemy. Marriage with her would be a stormy passage, until she grows up a little more. In the shelter of home and a strong-minded mother she is more able to say no than yes to you; more able to use her quick tongue as a defence. If she should ever leave home and start being a person in her own right, I'd encourage you to hope.

(Even our nearest and dearest get us down — at times! Could Doris suggest a better way to handle what's troubling you?)

Canadian Club Enjoys Views Of South-East Asian Countries

Members of the Canadian Club of Belleville were taken on what the speaker, Mr. Reg. Corlett, described as a photographic sojourn to southeast Asian countries of Viet Nam, Bangkok and Hong Kong, when they held their regular meeting at Queen Elizabeth School last evening.

Mr. Corlett, who was introduced by club president Mrs. J. H. Forrester, is a well-known professional photographer who spent two and one-half months in Viet Nam having been invited by the United States army to cover army aviation in that country. He showed pictures selected from those taken in Viet Nam, Bangkok and Hong Kong. His pictures have appeared in National Geographic, Colliers, Aviation Week and a host of similar magazines throughout most countries of the world.

Previous to his showing 33 m.m. slides and 8 m.m. moving films the speaker gave his impressions of Viet Nam and described it as a country with tremendous internal social and economical problems. There is great fear of the Chinese communists as the population to the north is nearing the billion mark and there is nowhere for them to go, but to the south. The country of Viet Nam exports 6.5 million rice annually which is a great attraction to the people from the north. The Vietnamese are well versed as far as communism is concerned but economic stagnation and political instability characterizes the southeast Asian countries. Communist agents are roaming at large with their propaganda.

U.S. SYNDICATE REPORT

Mr. Corlett stated that correspondents of the U.S. Syndicate reported 163 Americans died in 1962 with 87 of these in actual combat with others in aircraft and various other accidents. Communist guerrillas are everywhere with the tall elephant grass on the slopes of the hill being ideal for camouflage. Most strike after dark and all military aircraft stop at Clarke Field rather than land in Viet Nam at night. There is a total close to 15,000 American personnel as advisers to the Vietnamese, to train new ARVN troops to the battle areas. No infantry or anti-aircraft weapons are used by these.

In dealing with the climate, the speaker described it as being most uncomfortable with temperatures rising from 110 to 120 degrees in the sun along with the humidity. This could be'd with the dust and whirling helicopter blades did not make things any more pleasant. All sorts of diseases are prevalent with the speaker telling of the number of pills he took to combat these.

DESCRIBES SAIGON

Mr. Corlett noted that he had carried these films for over two and a half months before developing but apparently no harm was done as the results proved most successful. First shown were views of the city of Saigon, the capital of Viet Nam, which at one time was described as the Paris of the East but recently through all the bombings is becoming quite run down. There is a siesta period every day from 12 noon to 3.30 in the afternoon when everything is locked up. The people, he described as being basically alert, some resembling the Japanese and others the Chinese. It is most difficult to spot the Vietnamese guerrillas as they could be fighting in the hills by night and walking side by side with one during the day.

The Americans have been posting 1½ million dollars a day to build runways, airports and building strategic villages for the tribes from the mountain areas. This they hope will give the people the incentive to build up what the Americans are doing and to resist the communist infiltration. This, for the time being seems a step in the right direction.

MANY SLIDES

First shown were views of San Francisco harbor, upon his departure, followed by street scenes in Saigon with more bicycles in use than even Denmark; market scenes with all sorts of fresh fruit and vegetables; famous monuments which were recently bombed as one of the figures resembled Madam Nhu; typical street scenes with charcoal fires and sales from these; a beach scene, the only one left now for the relaxation of these people, pictures of fishermen along the South Sea shore, making their nylon nets; slides taken at the zoo and many others.

MILITARY OPERATIONS

Movie films were shown aerial views of the military operations over South Viet Nam with Vietnamese paratroopers, who are small in stature, dropping into the jungle areas. The supplies are dropped first, then the men. Large bales of thatch for cottage roofs were dropped. The bailing for these was dropped by chutes. Views from the air showed field after field of rice; typical airstrips between the hills which are communist held; also the mass move of the tribes from the hills with all their worldly possessions in one box or barrel, to the newly constructed villages to life south; their only means of transportation is by ox cart. Views of Chinese pagodas; rows of apartment blocks with an outside 1500 yards wide by 2 deep block; the floating restaurant and a general view of the river traffic.

COLORFUL DANCERS

The movie films taken in Bangkok, formerly Siam, were most colorful showing Siamese dancers in brilliant costume doing a "Fingernail Dance," much in the form of ballet; their famous tourist attraction, a floating market with a bountiful supply of fruit and pictures of the zoo where they speake, remarked that one taking pictures there is charged a price one for black and white and slightly higher for colored pictures.

A large number of Mr. Corlett's colored pictures were displayed along both sides of the school auditorium which were viewed by members following his talk.

Mrs. Archie Lewis expressed appreciation on behalf of Mr. Corlett for a fabulous picture journey, on behalf of the members and added appreciation was voiced by the president who also expressed thanks to Mr. A. A. Bradford for running the projector.

Ann Landers

No Immorality Involved, Just Mixed-up Friends

ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS — I'm a career girl in my late 30's. My brother is 46 and unmarried also. He has his own apartment and I have mine.

Several weeks ago we were talking about the lonely lives we both lead. I realized for the first time that he's as miserable as I am. It occurred to us that if we pooled our resources and got a large apartment in one of the newer buildings we could live together for less than we are spending now, and enjoy each other's company.

When I told my friends that my apartment would soon be available because my brother and I plan to take a place together, the eyebrows shot up and the jaws dropped. One person said it sounds immoral and that I should prepare myself for some vicious gossip.

We think you are level-headed. What is your opinion? — S. O. S.

DEAR S. O. S. — Most brothers and sisters grow up in the same house, don't they? So why is it immoral if they live together in later years? You know some mighty funny people, Lady. After you find yourself a new apartment, I suggest you find some new friends.

DEAR ANN LANDERS — I have been wanting to write to you for a long time but have been reluctant to do so. To be perfectly candid, what it really bothered me is the fear that the people who work in our local newspaper office might see my letter.

I am well-known in town and I can't afford to have my trouble known. Other prominent people are involved in this mess and it wouldn't take much imagination to figure out who they are. No doubt many readers around the country would like to write to you for help but they, too, are afraid their letters may be opened by the home town newspaper. Will you please clarify in print the handling of your mail? — FAITHFUL FAN.

DEAR FAITHFUL — All letters addressed to Ann Landers are forwarded to me every week — unopened.

Your local newspaper editor understands that the letters written by his subscribers to Ann Landers are strictly personal. Anyone who writes in with his or her problem may do so, secure in the knowledge that his confidence will be respected.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS — I need sympathy so please go easy on me. I shouldn't have gotten myself into this fix but I'm in it now and I must have guidance from someone who can think straight.

I entered college on a scholarship at 16 — a quik kid type. Better I should have been wiser in the ways of the world and not so book-smart. Today I am barely 19, a senior and three months pregnant. The man is a married student, 22. His wife is working to put him through school.

He says she is a wonderful person but plain. He lost interest in her when he met me. She knows something is going on but she doesn't know what — or who.

My parents live in a distant city and would die if they knew. Should I go to a home for unwed mothers and get this over with quietly or get the man to marry me? I know he will if I turn on the heat. — BRAINY BUT NOT SMART.

DEAR NOT SMART — Leave the heat alone. It sounds as if you've turned it on too good already.

Go to a home for unwed mothers and "get it over with quietly." If you pressure this man into marriage you can be sure he will lose interest in you when someone more attractive comes along — just as he did with his "wonderful but plain" wife.

Prime Minister's Wife Doesn't Mind Cold

OTTAWA (CP)—Lady Douglas-Home, wife of Britain's prime minister, told reporters here Monday that she couldn't understand how her husband got the nickname "Gentle Alec."

"He's not loud but he's very forthcoming," she said.

Tall, blue-eyed Lady Douglas-Home spent a busy day attending a luncheon given in her honor by Mrs. Lester Pearson and a formal dinner at Government House.

She said she had visited Canada several times before and wasn't bothered by the sudden cold snap Ottawa is experiencing.

"We're so well looked-after," she said with a smile. "It's just out of the car and inside so we don't feel the cold."

MARRIED IN 1936

Lady Douglas-Home married "Gentle Alec" in 1936. The couple have four children, three daughters and a son.

Asked whether the family minded losing their titles when Alec gave up his up to run for Parliament, she replied that "two of the girls did mind, and one didn't."

"It was not so much a matter of losing the title, but of its historical significance."

She plans to accompany her husband throughout his campaign for the next general election in Britain later this year.

THE WORLD IN VOGUE...

(Published in Canada by Macmillan Co. of Canada Limited) Imagine Vogue Magazine in hard covers, exactly the same page size, but 1½ inches thick. This book is a fascinating presentation of 70 years of social history ranging from "horse-and-carriage" days to a study of the latest space developments. This may sound inconsequent for a fashion book, but Vogue, although it realizes its place as a voice of fashion, also acknowledges that current events have a direct bearing on the whims and dictates of fashion.

This is clearly illustrated in the pictures taken from the decade of 1933 to 1942, emphasizing the depression, the rise of Hitler, the abdication, the declaration of war, rationing and the Greta Garbo, Garbo, of course, possesses a classic beauty that defies fashion and its dictates.

MILESTONES OF FASHION

Taken section by section, the milestones of fashion read something like this: From 1932 to 1942, women's skirts sweep the ground, the first permanent wave was invented in Paris and bathing suits (almost knee-length and worn with stockings) were banned from several beaches. From 1913 to 1922, Irene Castle bobbed her hair and wore tight skirts with daring skirt slits, revealing at least four inches of ankle. Bathing suits, although shorter, were still ugly and still disapproved of.

From 1923 to 1933, skirts zoomed up to the knee, hats came down to the eyebrows, waistlines were lowered to the hipline and short, slick hair styles, (the bushy bob) were in fashion. Deep-crowned cloches, with soft turned-back brims were the natural for this period's look to the head. By 1933, Mae West was breaking box office records with her ample curves and sexy voice.

The first part of the decade from 1943 to 1953 deals with pictures of the Yalta Conference, F.D.R.'s death, Hiroshima and Nagasaki. In 1947, Dior's New Look (nipped waistline, longer fuller skirts padded hips) makes its bow, to be followed by blue jeans for women and high, thin stiletto heels. The period from 1953 to 1963 rotes this fashion news — the shortest skirts since 1929, two-piece bathing suits and the chemise dress. This section of the book closes with a poignantly beautiful picture of Mrs. John F. Kennedy, taken in happier days. It shows her smiling full-faced into the camera, protected by a rain-covered, car window.

It is impossible to review all aspects of this mammoth book in the space allowed. The writings of such authors as Emily Post, Dorothy Parker, Colette, Andre Maourois, Paul Gallico, Ernest Hemingway, G. B. Sterns and Albert Camus are included.

The World in Vogue could also serve as a reference in the serious student of photography, as Vogue's best photography has been preserved from 1893 to 1963.

If you have a question on fashion, just write Pegg Rogers in care of this paper.

to be ruled on by the legislature.

Reaction ranged from qualified approval to outright condemnation.

Laurent Desjardins, Liberal member for St. Boniface—a predominantly French - speaking Roman Catholic constituency, said he was "disappointed" and would have preferred a straight grant system to parochial schools.

Rev. Raymond Durocher, editor of the French - language weekly newspaper La Liberte et le Patriote, said: "It's a good way to find out just how far public opinion has evolved and developed since the royal commission report was made."

The Manitoba royal commission on education recommended in 1959 that a commission be established to channel government grants to parochial schools on a per-pupil basis as is done for public schools.

Mrs. Janet Shaffer, Manitoba Home and School Association president, said the proposal would make the Catholics "dissatisfied" and "annoy" people who are against aid to parochial schools.

WILL OPPOSE

Robert McPherson, president of the Manitoba School Trustees association, said: "If this is a foot-in-the-door that is to lead to all-out aid....I will strongly oppose it."

Of the 210,000 students attending elementary and high schools in Manitoba, about 50,000 are Roman Catholic. Of this number about 12,000 attend separate schools.

James Wilson, Winnipeg School Board chairman, said: "If the 9,000 parochial school children in Winnipeg are to share the city's facilities then it will require another building program. Our accommodation is full now."

Most Rev. H. H. Clark, Anglican Archbishop of Rupert's Land, said he was "impressed by the seriousness and understanding" shown in the approach to the problem, but added more consultation with religious groups was needed.

Will Use Their Education
Deans of Women Outline University Girls' Goals

By JEAN SHARP
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Do girls really intend to use the expensive educations they get at college? Most Canadian deans of women say they do.

In a Cross-Canada Survey The Canadian Press asked the deans of women at universities what they consider to be the primary goal of the average female undergraduate.

"Despite male opinion, all girls are not in university to book a man," says Jean Ramsay, dean of women at the University of New Brunswick in Fredericton. "Most of the girls in residence, I am certain, are serious students."

No one suggests the girls have lost interest in men or marriage, only that a new pattern is emerging. Social and technological changes which picked up runaway momentum during the Second World War are by now almost often suggested. Both have smashed ancient barriers to widen opportunities for women outside the home. Both have created demands that increase the market value of a college degree.

WANT BOTH WORLDS

The modern woman undergraduate is described as wanting the best of both worlds—combining the traditional role of wife and mother with the new role of career woman.

Typical of descriptions of the pattern is a comment by Mrs. J. Grant Sparling of the University of Alberta in Edmonton. "The primary goal would seem to be to have a career, possibly of short duration, then marriage and a family, and after the family has been launched, to return to the career, possibly after a period of study or retraining," she says.

"I really feel that getting married and having a family is the primary goal of the average female student today," says Eveline Le Blanc, dean of women at the University of Ottawa.

"I think there is a great difference between French- and English-Canadian girls. Not so many French - Canadian girls try to combine marriage and a career."

Mrs. B. H. Baker of Bishop's University, Lennoxville, Que., says most women students in Quebec universities enter at 16 and are primarily interested in getting degrees; they're too young in most cases to make plans beyond graduation.

FAMILY COMES FIRST

"The universities' goal in educating women is to prepare them for raising a family," Miss Le Blanc says. "A woman is the main source of early education in her family and her influence is very important."

A different opinion is offered by Mrs. H. A. Innis, dean of women at University College, University of Toronto.

"I don't think the university has a separate goal in education for women and I don't think it should have. Women are people, they are parents, citizens, human beings. They need to submit to the disciplines of intellectual training and to have their minds and their horizons enlarged.

"No special goals for women should ever supersede or trench upon these basic needs. A well-educated and sensible young woman can quickly acquire the skills needed in home-making and child-rearing."

The views of deans suggest that the idea of a young wife working, at least in English-speaking parts of Canada, is commonplace today. But because this social change is relatively recent, the rest of the pattern has yet to prove out. There is some disagreement as to whether women actually do return to careers when their children are old enough.

BACK TO SCHOOL

While it will take some years before this argument is settled, the number of women in burgeoning night school and extension courses at least indicate they are going back to work.

Most of the deans agree today's coeds have it all over their mothers for independence and intellectual awareness; modern economic competition makes it almost a necessity.

"Women students are much more aware of international problems and tension than they were 23 years ago, partly as a result of communications," says Dr. Leole E. Neal of the University of Western Ontario, London. "They like to know as much as they can about life."

"Students are more aware and they don't accept authority the way they did 25 years ago," says Mrs. F. H. Fish, adviser to women at the University of Alberta in Calgary. "They're more independent now than we ever thought of being."

The high schools get some credit for this from Mrs. Fred Elkman, dean of women at Acadia University, Wolfville, N.S., who says: "The high school student today who comes to the university is better prepared because of improved educational facilities in schools."

SEEK GOOD JOBS

Dean Christine Irvine of Dalhousie University, Halifax, says women today even look upon university as a necessary means of preparing the way to make a living. And she has plenty of support.

"Women today must be aware of the world around them to secure good jobs," says Mrs. W. H. Cox, head of residence at Ottawa's Carleton University. "Intellectual awareness is almost an economic requirement."

Says Mrs. J. Arthur Forbes, dean of women at Mount Allison University, "S a e brille, N.B.: "Marriage and family may interrupt a woman's career but most girls know it is necessary in this day and age to have a lifetime profession."

"In these days few young people can afford to get married unless the wife works at least for a while," says Mrs. J. Edgar Bates, dean of women at McMaster University, Hamilton. "I think that has been the biggest change since the war, the number of wives who expect to go to work."

And Dean M. O. Morgan of Memorial University, St. John's, Nfld., adds: "All of our girls are security - conscious. They want a complete training it only for reasons of security in the event that something should happen to their husbands."

DEPRESSION EFFECTS

"Part of this determination may stem from the insecurity their parents felt during the '30s," says Helen C. Reynolds, warden of Royal Victoria College at McGill University. "Also there is generally a greater sense of insecurity in the world today. It seems more and more important that each individual should be able to look after herself."

"A more materialistic philosophy prevails today than in the prewar period and this, coupled with the demand for professionally trained people, encourages a woman to continue in her career. In addition, predictions against employing married women do not exist as widely as in the pre-war years."

Phoebe Noble, acting dean of women at Victoria University, says that before the war society hadn't adjusted to the idea of women playing a full role in society on an equal basis with men.

"Now jobs formerly done by men can be handled by women. They can partly because skills and patience have replaced physical labor as the main prerequisite because of technological advances."

MANY MARRIED STUDENTS

Evidence that some women do go back to school and probably to work after several years of marriage comes from Dean Helen McCrae of the University of British Columbia, Vancouver.

She reports there are about 4,600 women at UBC, 10 per cent of them married and half the married women between 26 and 44.

"The extension department here is in the process of establishing a program of continuing education for women, with the realization that women's roles in society have changed.

"We are just beginning to realize that sometimes women are more educable after they have been married and had children, when they are emotionally more stabilized and when their minds are thirsting for new knowledge and challenging ideas.

"So far we have made it extremely difficult for them to capitalize on this educability."

Accused Refuses To Be Sworn In To Testify

MONTREAL (CP) — Victor Levesque, 26, handcuffed to a police constable and with his legs shackled, refused to be sworn in to testify Monday at the preliminary hearing of Jean-Guy Darveau, 28, charged with escaping from custody.

Lawyer Jean - Guy Bollard asked Judge Emile Trottier to impose a two-year sentence on Levesque, suspected leader of the hooded gang blamed for rapes and robberies with violence in both Quebec and Ontario, for contempt of court.

Aristide Feciaux, 27, also refused to be sworn in.

Jean Falardeau, 38, first refused to testify but changed his mind after a talk with Judge Trottier.

All four men escaped from Montreal courthouse cells last Thursday along with two other men still being sought.

Falardeau said he was lying awake on his cot in his cell around 3 a.m. on Thursday when "the cell door suddenly opened."

Falardeau and Darveau were recaptured by police while walking along the street shortly before dawn.

Levesque and Feciaux were recaptured after they tried to crash through a roadblock in a taxi.

Ambulance Services Poor Says Operator

ST. THOMAS (CP) — Ambulance service operator Charles Brubacher charged here Monday that Ontario's ambulance services have not improved in 50 years.

Addressing a service club, he said he has a brief now being studied by Ontario Health Minister Dr. Matthew Dymond in which he asserts that the lack of a definition of an ambulance service's function is the first problem to be solved before progress can be made.

"Anyone can start in this business with a few hundred dollars." Anybody could buy an old station wagon, "put a red light on top and a mattress inside, give the police his telephone number and start receiving calls."

Mr. Brubacher showed the meeting a portable resuscitator which he termed essential for ambulance operators and said an Ontario Medical Association report, presented to the provincial government in 1960, indicated that only 15 per cent of ambulances in Ontario had them as standard equipment.

He said only 55 per cent had oxygen equipment, 64 per cent carried bandages and 40 per cent had splints.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

If you want to know what club is going to win the Stanley Cup this season—don't go near the arena for your answer when the moppets are playing.

The puck-chasing whiz kids wear various types of sweaters, but because a youngster sports the colors of the Boston Bruins that doesn't necessarily mean he's a Boston "fannet." Not by a long shot.

In a miniature "Gallup Poll" a short time ago it was revealed that city youngsters share their homage among Chicago, Montreal, Toronto and Detroit. Boston and New York have their supporters but they do not compare with the front four.

You cannot discredit the feelings of these youngsters. Here are no front runners. Here are no fly-by-nights with chameleonic tendencies who go with the clubs that are currently on top.

The Maple Leafs appear to have a slight edge in the minor fan race. Canadiens and the Hawks run a close second while the Red Wings with Gordie Howe as the "heavy" attracts the fourth-place quota "faces."

The half-pints take their National Hockey League seriously. A word dropped here and there can start one of the dangdest arguments you ever heard. Fire glints in boyish eyes if you as much as mutter a word derogatory to their team or idols.

Once, I was told, some of the little fellers came to fisticuffs when the question of who was the better player, Howe or Hull, was tossed around. Adults intervened with no damage done but it just goes to show that you cannot toss hero's names about lightly without hearing about it.

And if you happen to know some of these youngsters and their team and player loves in the National Hockey League, you can almost tell how the fortunes of war are going by expressions and demeanor.

Right now the little guys who back the Montreal Canadiens appear to be in the best of spirits. The flip-porters of the Black Hawks are not quite so cocky but they still carry a lot of bravado while both point a finger at boyish derision at the supporters of the Maple Leafs.

These suffering little heroes are taking it in their stride but all the good-natured barbs of criticism cannot shake their faith in their beloved Leafs. And if you notice another bevy of youngsters who do not say too much but wear smiles of hope and faith, these will be the moppets who have placed all their faith on Big Gordie and his cohorts from Detroit.

A week or so ago another group by far the smallest of the divisions, bowled and whooped their heads off. These are the Bruin boys and they were celebrating those three shutouts that the Bostonians recorded.

They rounded up the "leaflets" and let them have it from right, left and centre field after that 11-0 shellacking. The little Leafs took it with scarcely a word but with looks that implied "he who laughs last . . ."

And if you happen to sit or stand by one of the corners where a team is dressing or undressing, you'll hear spicely regarding the various coaches. Mikita, Hull, Howe, Bellveau, Mahovlich, Keon and other top stars have their followings, but the bosses come in for their share too.

Out of the mouths of children, true, but as long as these little fellows have their heroes, clubs and whatnot, hockey will never die in Canada.

Winner Represents Ontario
Eight Rinks Ready To Go

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP) — Eight rinks from across Ontario will bring competition here Wednesday to determine a provincial representative to enter the Dominion Curling Championships in Halifax next month.

Seven of the eight sectional winners were named Monday by Carl Olsen, local draw chairman.

The eighth winner wasn't decided until Monday in a playoff at Kingston. Jake Edwards of Kingston foursome ousted Bob Knippelberg of Ottawa 8-7 and 12-3.

The seven other entrants in the three-day Ontario champion-ship are the rinks of Murray Roberts, Unionville; Earl Hushagen, Toronto Humber Highlands; John Ross, Toronto Parkway; Dave Reynolds, Orillia; Ron Kemp, Hamilton Glendale; Bob Mann, Hanover, and Bill Astle Woodstock.

Each team will play a seven-game round-robin series of 12-end games.

SHIPPING TONNAGE

Twenty-one Norwegian shipping companies have fleets totalling 250,000 tons or more.

Departmental Hockey

The Police Department overcame an early 3-1 deficit to oust the Ontario Intelligencer linkspots by an 8-4 score in Interdepartmental Hockey League semi-finals last night.

Police won the two-of-three series in consecutive games and will now battle the powerful Public Works squad for the league championship. The finals will be a four-of-seven affair, starting next Monday night.

The winning Police team kept the names of their goal scorers as "classified information" but for the losers, Len Harvey scored twice with one each for Bill Bourette and Gerry Wood.

In an exhibition game, Ter-Har of the Quinte League stopped Public Works by a 6-4 score.

Lightfoots Defeat Cobourg

Belleville Lightfoots stayed within two points of first place in the Bay of Quinte Basketball League last night by whipping the Cobourg entry 74-68 at the Air Station.

Lightfoots rallied to gain on Trenton, HCAF Flyers, however, as the loop-leaders won a close decision over Picton Army in the other half of the double-header.

Belleville broke open a tight contest with a big scoring spree in the opening minutes of the second half. It was 33-30 at the half-way point but early in the second half, Lightfoots opened up a 55-34 spread and coasted the rest of the way.

The winners went ahead in the game's first minutes—but Cobourg rallied and at one time held a slim 14-13 lead for a brief period.

Doug Rose was the scoring star for Lightfoots. Rose hooped 33 points, 22 of them coming in the second half. Warren Whitley was next in line with 16 points, all scored on long shots from the outside. Don Smith also reached double figures, getting ten points.

Jim Coghlan paced the Cobourg attack with 16 points, followed by Dennis Clarke with 15 and M. Coughlan with 11.

Cobourg (68) — J. Coghlan 16, G. Coghlan, D. Clarke 15, M. Coghlan 11, Frost 3, Mitchell 3, Stuart.

Belleville Lightfoots (74) — D. Rose 35, D. Smith 10, L. Campbell 4, W. Whitley 16, G. Reynolds 11, T. Hoochin 3, B. Smith 1, G. Duggan 2, T. Ewing.

AUSSIE GNP RISES

Australia's gross national product increased five per cent, or about $784,000,000, in the 1962-63 financial year.

MONTREAL (CP) — Stan Mikita of Chicago is ahead of the pace set by Dickie Moore when he established a National Hockey League point-scoring record in 1958-59.

But the star Black Hawks centre will have to increase his speed if he hopes to surpass Moore's feat.

NHL statistics released today show Mikita with 70 points after 54 games. When Moore hit 96 points with Montreal Canadiens he had 59 points after as many games.

But the retired left winger closed that season in the same manner as Babe Ruth, who clouted an unprecedented 17 home runs with New York Yankees in September, 1927, to set his record of 60. Moore scored 37 points in his last 15 games.

At Mikita's current pace, he would end with 129 points, five short of Moore's mark.

SIX-POINT LEAD

Mikita opened his lead in the scoring race last week to six points over teammate Bobby Hull. He picked up three points, two more than Hull.

Mikita has 30 goals and 40 assists while Hull has tallied 33 times and picked up 31 assists. Montreal's Jean Beliveau is third with 19 goals and 41 assists for 60 points.

Chicago's Glen Hall played one more game than Charlie Hodge and Sidney Apps last week and his lead over the other Vezina Trophy contenders was slightly reduced.

Hall is charged with 123 goals in 54 games, while Bower's record is 128 in 54. Montreal's Hodge is seven goals behind as Montreal has allowed 130 in 52 contests. Boston's Ed Johnston leads in shutouts with six.

Reg Fleming of Chicago pleased Coach Billy Reay's admirers tie to regain the league lead. He has 132 minutes in penalties to New York's Vic Hadfield.

The Hawks hold the team lead in penalty minutes with 300. Montreal is second with 762 and New York is the least penalized club with 544 minutes.

Wings Whip Omaha 6-2

CINCINNATI (AP) — Ray Ross and Barrie Ross teamed up Monday night to lead Cincinnati Wings to a 6-2 Central Professional Hockey League victory over Omaha Knights.

Ray scored three goals and assisted on one, while Barrie helped on two goals and scored one in his first appearance for Cincinnati. The Wings obtained Barrie as the result of a trade between Pittsburgh and Vancouver.

Maroons Sign Kap Veteran

CHATHAM (CP) — Bill Degures, 35, an eight-year veteran with Kapuskasing Kaps of Northern Ontario Hockey Association Senior A league, Monday night was signed with Chatham Maroons of the International Hockey League.

Maroons cut regulars Harvey Nash, a centre, and Reg Mulholland, a left winger, to make room for Degures in time to declare their 14-player lineup to play in the last 25 games of the 70-game schedule.

Olympic Games Sites Blanketed
Athletes Go--Comes The Snow!

INNSBRUCK (CP - AP) — Heavy snowfalls blanketed the deserted Winter Olympic Games sites Monday as athletes from many nations left Innsbruck where they had competed in the ninth Winter Games.

The snow set in a few hours after the Olympic flame was extinguished in a colorful closing ceremony and teams from 36 countries were pouring out of the Olympic Village in Austria bound for home or post-Olympic contests abroad.

Innsbruck had no real snowfall for two months before the Olympics started and had to hand pack the ski runs.

Long lines of buses and trucks carrying teams and equipment jammed the slippery highways out of this Tyrolean community where Austria was once crowded with athletes.

AIRPORT SNOWBOUND

Innsbruck's airport was snowbound, however, and no air traffic was moving Monday.

A spokesman for Austrian Airlines said only groups of the Canadian Olympic team had been booked on planes scheduled out of here Monday. They were delayed.

A number of persons were taken in Munich, West Germany, or Zurich, Switzerland, where airports were reported open.

Many of the athletes will be in Europe for two or three weeks yet. Skiers will meet in Garmisch Partenkirchen next weekend for the Kandahar races.

We mean speedskaters, including Doreen Ryan of Edmonton, meet in the world championships in Kristinahamn, Sweden Feb. 15 - 17. Men's world speedskating championships, where Ralph Olin of Calgary will compete, are scheduled in Helsinki, Finland Feb. 23-24.

And figure skaters go to Dortmund, Germany for the world championships Feb. 25-29.

Ontario Women's Championship
Grimsby Rink Out In Front

CORNWALL (CP)—Mrs. T. A. Grimsby skipped her Grimsby rink to two victories Monday in the first day of the Ontario women's curling championship, but she says she's surprised as anyone to have taken the lead in the list of competitors to decide Ontario's representative in the Canadian women's championships at Edmonton Feb. 24-28.

The Grimsby foursome, the only undefeated rink after two rounds, meets the pre-bonspiel favorite Toronto skipped by Mrs. H. S. Irwin, 1963 provincial champion, in today's third round.

The Irwin rink, which defeated last year's Ontario champions in zone playoffs, is the only one to drop both their games in the opening rounds.

Mrs. Winfield, with Mrs. W. Law, third, Mrs. G. Piker, second, and Mrs. W. Kelterborn, lead, edged Mrs. Harold Laurie of Unionville 8-5 in the opening round Monday then downed a rink from the Lake Nipigon area's community of Beardmore 9-4 in the second match.

USED LUCKY NUMBER

Mrs. Pleson's rink is the most superstitious rink in the bonspiel. They carry lucky pennies in their curling boots and three is their lucky number. It worked for them in the opening round when they drew No. 3 ice and won by a three-point margin.

The Toronto rink dropped an 8-7 decision to Mrs. C. S. Stevens of Schumacher in the opening round and lost 13-5 to Mrs. Hanright in the second match.

Soviet Team 'Amazed' Yank Goalie

READING, Mass. (AP) — The Russians could play the Bruins and Rangers, says goaltender Jim Logue, who stood up to Russia's Olympic hockey team for two periods recently.

In fact, added Logue, if the U.S. hopes to beat them again "we'll have to send a National Hockey League club against them."

The former Boston College goalie made 35 saves over two periods in an 11-2 exhibition loss to the Russians in a pre-Olympic game at Moscow; then had to retire from exhaustion.

The U.S. won the Olympic hockey championship at Squaw Valley, Calif., four years ago but was well out of the running in the games that wound up at Innsbruck, Austria, Saturday.

"The members of the Russian team play hockey 11 months of the year with one month off," Logue said.

"I've never seen any hockey team that uses set plays but the Russians do. I could hear them call out numbers, and then the play would shape up. It's amazing how they pass without looking . . ."

End Came In Third Round
Griffith Knocks Out Dupas

SYDNEY, Australia (AP)—Middleweight welterweight champion, Emile Griffith of New York, knocked out Ralph Dupas of New Orleans in the third round of a non-title bout Monday night.

Dupas had been floored three times in the second. The crowd were screaming to referee Vic Patrick to stop the fight before the end came.

Dupas hit his head as he fell. Ambulance men rushed into the ring and mopped blood from Dupas' face. They applied ice packs to the back of his neck. He remained in the ring five minutes before he was helped to his dressing room.

Griffith and Emile Dupas until he showed signs of receiving. He said later he was not remembering the death of Benny Paret two years ago after a knockout but many of the boxing fans must have thought of that.

Shatter 300 Each A Season

Hull, Mikita 'Stickbreaking Champions'

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

WOODCHOPPER'S DELIGHT — Montreal Canadiens rookie winger John Ferguson is surrounded by 164 hockey sticks — the average number broken by each member of the team in a National Hockey League season. Canadiens lead the other five NHL clubs in this off-beat statistic. The league as a whole breaks more than 11,500 sticks in a season. (CP Photo)

MONTREAL (CP) — Ever wonder how many hockey sticks are broken by the six National Hockey League teams each season? The answer is more than 11,500.

Want to know which players break the most?

Figured at about $2 a stick ($3 for goaltenders), the bill would run to about $23,000.

Montreal Canadiens are the hardest on sticks as a team, averaging 164 a man. Last year Habs used and abused 2,500.

Dickie Moore, who retired this season, was the champ. He got through 252. Next was Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion with 228 followed by Jean Beliveau with 216. Surprisingly high up was Henri Richard, who doesn't use the slap shot as the Boomer does, saw plenty of puck the weight of his two mates. All are forwards.

STICKS TAILORED

Trainer Nick Garen of Black Hawks says his boys wreck 2,400 sticks a year. Hull, Mikitas and one of two other Hawks push the cost even higher. While all NHL players have custom-built sticks, these players have theirs specially curved, which adds to the price.

In Toronto, where 2,000 sticks went to the discard heap last season, defenceman Tim Horton and Frank Mahovlich tied with 140. Bobby Pulford was next with 130. With lots of practice time, the Maple Leaf goalies went through 245.

New York Rangers use 1,100 a season with Andy Bathgate the top wrecker at 100 to 120, followed closely by Rod Gilbert, defenceman Harry Howell and Earl Ingarfield.

Gordie Howe's Hockey

By GORDIE HOWE

When you see hockey players talk to one another before a faceoff, they're discussing strategy.

They may get close to one another so the opposition can't hear what is said.

Or they talk loud enough, counting on the opposition hearing. In that case they may do a little lying, trying to confuse them.

On the faceoff in our end, one of us has to get out to the point in a hurry. As soon as the puck leaves the referee's hand someone should head for the blue line to pick up the player on the point.

When we move in to take our position for the faceoff, I'll take note of whether the opposition is positioning itself to block the route to the point, or whether he's closer to the man behind the faceoff. If one left winger is going to have a clearer route to the point, I'll say "get ready" indicating he is to move out to cover their point man.

However, it is pre-arranged, that when I tell him to go out, loud enough for the opposition to hear, I actually mean for him to stay anchored. He's to take the man in front of him. I'll go to the point.

If you don't get organized and know whom you're going to cover, it ends in chaos, running around. The puck is behind you. Your man is open, and so are the two guys in front.

If they win the faceoff, they're throwing the puck around and getting a good shot on the net. If we win the faceoff, then I'm open for a pass to carry it out of our end.

If the faceoff is deep in their end, when I say "ready" to Alex Delvecchio who is going to faceoff, he may tell me he is going to feed it on the net.

Then I'll tell Parker MacDonald our left winger, what's up and we'll decide which of us is to go. Then when the puck is dropped, one of us will start right for the front of the net and hope that Alex will get it over there.

Roberts Signs With Baltimore

BALTIMORE (AP) — Baltimore Orioles of the American League announced Monday that pitcher Robin Roberts, veteran of 16 seasons in the major leagues, signed his contract for the 1964 season.

From Hotel To Hockey

Searches West For Red Gold

By JOHN SHORT

EDMONTON (CP) — It isn't often that a man jumps from the hotel game into professional hockey, but Clarence Moher of Detroit Red Wings graduated with honors.

He joined the Red Wings in 1948 to search Alberta for hockey talent when he wasn't working on the desk of an Edmonton hotel. In the 1953-53 season, when professional hockey was introduced in Alberta, he became chief Western scout of the NHL club.

Moher, 48, was instrumental in signing 34 players who were on professional rosters last season.

Included in this group were four NHL stalwarts — Johnny Bucyk of Boston and Norm Ullman, Eddie Joyal and Bruce McGregor of Detroit. Most climbed up through the Edmonton Oil Kings' minor system.

Moher, a little, round man with a worried look, travels thousands of miles through the West each season in his search for talent. Often he's called somewhere by friends or acquaintances who have been briefed on what Moher is looking for in prospective major league hockey players.

NO FIXED RULES

"The ideal situation is to find a boy who's big, strong and a good skater," he said.

"If he has brains, that helps, but sometimes you lose the smart ones to the universities."

There can be no set time or place for finding prospects, said Moher, who has witnessed the signing of tryout contracts by players aged anywhere from 15 to 22.

His first was Len Haley.

"I signed him a couple of months after I telephoned Jack Adams and told him I wanted to be a scout. I told Adams (then manager of the Red Wings) that I knew they didn't have a scout in Alberta, and I said I thought I could do a good job."

Haley played briefly in the NHL with Detroit, but spent most of his career in the Western Hockey League, and now is playing with San Francisco Seals of the WHL.

PRIZE PROTEGE

Moher had his share of disillusionment through the years, but he said Norm Ullman's success has made up for a lot of it.

"Normie isn't a great skater, but he's a great hockey player. He's been in the NHL a long time, and you don't stay there if you are no good."

He thinks that at least six of the current dominion junior championship team have professional prospects. There are forwards Butch Paul, Max Mestinsek, Glen Sather and Bruce Pilling, and defencemen Butch Barber and Bert Marshall.

"There may be others," he said. "But they're younger, and you never can tell about kids. Some go backward after they reach a certain point; others don't start to develop until they mature a bit."

While waiting for the current crop to season, Moher will be busy hunting for their successors. "I've heard about some good kids," he said. "I'd like to see them soon. Maybe there's another Ullman in the group."

Grab First-Place Tie

Galt Whips Athletics

GALT (CP) — Galt Hornets climaxed a long uphill fight here Monday night, thumping Woodstock Athletics 6-3 to move into a first-place tie with Woodstock in the Ontario Hockey Association senior race.

The Hornets, who have been pursuing the Athletics all season, were led by Bob McKnight, who scored twice and assisted on two more. Larry Pfaff, Jim Dahmer, Joe Hogan and Pete Kowalchuk were the other Galt marksmen.

Tom Wilson scored twice for Woodstock and Ron Mason once.

Referee Frank Sloto assessed three major penalties during a melee in the final minute. Woodstock playing coach Ted Fower touched it off by slashing Galt defenceman Reg Whaley across the mouth. Galt's Ian Selater and Woodstock's Roy Land took majors for a fight which followed.

The win stretched the Hornets' unbeaten streak to seven games.

Secondary School Athletes

IAN GLEN (Metra S.S.)

Ian is a good all-around competitor who works 100% of the time for his team, school and coach. He has competed in football, basketball and track and field teams since his first year at Moira. Track and field is the sport in which Ian's contribution can be most easily recognized. He is placing in high jump, hurdle and sprint events and his participation on relay teams have always helped Moira to do exceedingly well in this sport throughout Central Ontario.

This year Ian was the quarterback of the solid Moira Secondary School football team that came within an inch of winning the school's first senior championship in the sport. A consistently hard worker, his enthusiasm and drive spread to other members of the team and was a big factor in the fine overall team morale.

Presently playing on the senior basketball team, he is again working diligently. The enthusiasm which he displays is a factor in the good team effort being given by all members of that squad.

DON HOLOWAY
(Nicholson College)

At six foot one inch tall, and tipping the scales at 200 pounds even, Nicholson Catholic College's Don Holoway is very much at home on a football field.

Holoway could well come under the "triple threat" title when it comes to the pigskin sport. He plays halfback, line backer, punts, kicks and returns punts and has led his mates to several titles.

Don scored 99 points on the 1960 Junior "B" COSSA championship squad. The following year the team won the southern division of the Bay of Quinte but lost in the playoffs.

Nicholson captured the Bay of Quinte Senior "B" crown in 1962 before bowing to Whitby. Holoway racked up 85 points during the season. In 1963 the club copped the Quinte southern title, losing in the playoffs. Holoway was a 90-point man.

Don puts his height to use in interform basketball and is an up and coming star, already with experience, in Belleville softball circles.

Holoway is 19 years of age, a grade 13 student and is presently a member of the Boys' Athletic Society at Nicholson.

Presence of Canadian Oarsman in Cambridge Crew Bad News for Oxford's Boat

By ALAN HARVEY

LONDON (CP)—Lanky John Lecky of Vancouver is back on the river run, so Oxford watch out.

After a year on the towing sidelines, the powerful, 205-pound Canadian has rejoined the Cambridge crew for the March 28 university boat race. His presence may make all the difference.

Some towpath analysts regard the 23-year-old law student from the University of British Columbia as just about the finest oarsman in the world.

"He's as strong as a lion, but he's also a classical oar," said Patrick Robinson of The Daily Express, discussing training activities with a reporter.

"He's beautiful to watch, all poetry in action. Cambridge will be bound to build their boat race crew around him, you can bet on that. He's one of the best."

Lecky's return is sad news for Oxford, the university known as the home of dreaming spires and lost causes. In 1962, the husky Canadian teamed with an equally massive American, Boyce Budd, to stroke Cambridge to an easy victory.

Last year, Lecky passed up rowing to try for a rugby blue, which he just missed getting. In the 1963 boat race, Oxford ran from behind to beat Lecky-less Cambridge by a surprising five lengths.

Now, as the two old rivals swing into serious training for the 44th-mile Classic over the Thames River from Putney to Mortlake, the Vancouver oarsman has a key position in Cambridge's "blue" boat. This is the senior crew.

Old sidekick Boyce Budd is gone but another American, Dick Cashin, has moved in to join Lecky in the stern section of the Cambridge boat. They call this the "engine room" because that's where the power comes from.

Lecky is something of a campus personality. He toutes around in an open sports car and has had the undergraduate honor, for a Canadian, of being chosen president of the Hawks club, a most exclusive Cambridge sporting organization.

Lecky is a grandson of timber baron H. R. MacMillan. He rowed for Canada in the 1960 Olympics at Rome.

Moira Drops Cage Tilts

By DOUG BELLWOOD

Moira Trojans lost two games out of three against B.C.I. in an important Quinte COSSA cage meet. The bantams came up with the only win for Moira, as they took a much needed 23-22 decision over B.C.I. The high set scoring game of the night saw B.C.I. juniors defeat Moira by a 56-41 score. The B.C.I. Seniors took a tougher 58-41 decision.

Both teams played a casual game in quarter in the bantam game as B.C.I. sank 11 points to Moira's lone one point. The second quarter saw a near repeat of the first as B.C.I. made gains of 15 to 10 for Moira. It was a fast moving exciting game, with both teams making exceptionally fine rebounding. There were many poor shots taken.

In the third quarter Moira started to show some but it was just not enough as B.C.I. retained a 41-28 lead. The final eight minutes ended the game with a 53-41 triumph for B.C.I. Murray Swan and Robert Williams were high scorers of the game getting 19 and 13 points, respectively. Rick Graham and John McKibbon were the leading marksmen for Moira, both getting 11 points. Ian Glen had 10 points.

Although Moira lost the junior game, Bob Watson topped all scorers with 29 points. Dave Beresford of Moira followed with 14 points. Mott and McCormack of BCI were high in the scoring race with 18 and 15 points respectively. Ron Walsh sank 13 points.

In the bantam game Ted Beresford and John Hayman sank 9 points for the winners. Bishop of Moira had 6 points to his credit. McCreary of BCI was high man of the game with 18 points. Leynes followed with 6.

SENIORS:

By BOB THOMAS

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP)—Things you might like to know about Beverly Hills on the event of its 50th birthday—

Population: 3,794, including the new Fire Chief and Jerry Lewis babies.

There are more movie stars a square mile here than any other place with the possible exception of Forest Lawn.

Its area is 5.69 square miles with an assessed valuation of $247,504,600, which is not very square.

LIZ MARRIED THERE

There are eight churches including the Church of the Good Shepherd, where Beverly's parishioner Rosalind Russell calls Our Lady of the Cauldron. That's where Elizabeth Taylor was married—the first time.

Beverly Hill people like a telephone handy. There are 70,000 phones for 13,000 families, highest per capita in all phonedom.

First explorer was Capt. Gaspar de Portola, who came out from Los Angeles in 1769. Nothing much came of his discovery.

In 1852 the area became Rancho Rodeo de Las Aguas—Ranch of the Gathering of the Waters, because of the streaks that flowed down the canyons. They still have floods every few winters.

Turning point in Beverly Hills history was 1919, when Mary Pickford and Douglas Fairbanks moved into Pickfair. Everybody followed.

Beverly Hills has one legitimate theatre, five movie houses, a symphony orchestra, four grade schools and one high school, which has graduated scads of movie stars' children and Richard Chamberlain.

Viewers Can Do Very Little To Save Favorite Shows

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

They can write letters to the networks. But the fate of most entertainment programs hangs on the size of viewing audiences based on estimates made by a research organization.

In prime evening time—between 7:30 and 11 p.m.—the number of sets tuned to any one network program runs between 10,000,000 and 16,000,000. In general, any show that attracts 30 per cent or more of the estimated sets in use probably will survive for another season.

To oversimplify the complicated ratings situation, let us assume a sponsor invests $1,000 in a program that is seen on 10,000 sets. That means it cost him $10 to reach 1,000 families. On the other hand, if 300,000 sets are tuned to his program that cost per 1,000 is reduced to $3.

The one thing which interests most sponsors of entertainment shows is reaching the largest possible number of potential customers for the lowest possible cost.

Some high cost programs survive the annual ratings slaughter either because the sponsor mistakenly believes he is reaching his potential buyers or because the program carries prestige for the network or sponsors. CBS Reports is one example of a show with glamour but low ratings that goes on from year to year.

Recommended tonight: Telephone Hour, NBC, 10-11 EST—Opera star Lucine Sutherland is among soloists.

Sport Snapshots

By STUART LAKE

OTTAWA (CP)—Roger Dion, head of the government's fitness and amateur sport directorate, says the men running amateur sport in Canada haven't yet fully grasped the basic aims behind the federal program.

Of some quarters it's still considered as a windfall for athletes, or as a welfare program for poor but deserving sports bodies," he said in an interview.

Dion, 37-year-old expert on community recreation, believes too much emphasis has been placed in the press on grants that allow greater Canadian participation in international events, or in helping amateur sports bodies to stage their championships or other events.

"Above all, the fitness program is to encourage all citizens to lead a more active life in good provincial or local sports or recreation programs."

The fitness directorate, a branch of the national health department, was set up by an act of Parliament in 1961 and given an annual budget of $1,000,000 to "encourage, promote and develop fitness and amateur sport in Canada."

OL BELOW LIMIT

In the initial years, the budgets haven't reached the statutory $5,000,000 limit. From a start of $1,000,000 in 1961, the funds available to the directorate reached $2,600,000 for the fiscal year ending March 31, 1964. It is expected Parliament will approve a $3,000,000 budget for the 1964-65 fiscal year.

Half of the directorate's budget goes directly to the provinces for their fitness and amateur sports projects, and from the provincial shares come scholarships for undergraduate study in fitness fields.

The federal half goes for grants to national sports bodies and to universities with schools of physical education, and also takes care of requests for grants-in-aid for study at the advanced professional level.

A 10-member advisory committee under chairman Ken Fisher of Montreal meets in Ottawa early each year to consider applications for grants and to make recommendations to the government.

NO CAPITAL GRANTS

At its meeting here later in February the committee will scan 45 briefs asking a total of $1,200,000. A few of these briefs will be rejected because the organizations are asking money for capital development, such as facilities, equipment or buildings, which is not covered in the directorate's terms of reference.

At a recent meeting of the Canadian Amateur Sports Federation, composed of most sport governing bodies in Canada, Dion made a plea for more contact between his directorate and sports leaders.

More frequent meetings, he said, could clear up some of the confusion among the sport bodies about the basic objectives of the directorate, and allow the federal officials to offer advice and any help needed in preparation of applications for grants.

For example, said Dion, local sports or recreational groups who now complain of receiving no assistance federally might find help available at the provincial level. The directorate would benefit through the knowledge it would gain of the sports involved.

The meetings would not necessarily have to take place in Ottawa, said Dion. His staff was ready to travel and meet sports leaders across the country.

"Reasonably, we're on your side," he told the federation delegates.

SAYS FITNESS PROGRAM MISUNDERSTOOD — Roger Dion, permanent head of the federal government's fitness and amateur sport directorate, says the plan is misunderstood by many to be a windfall for athletes or a welfare program for sports governing bodies. Mr. Dion, of Hull, Que., says the directorate, armed with federal funds, is primarily devoted to promoting fitness among all Canadians through physical activity. (CP Photo)

Astrological Forecasts

By SYDNEY OMARR

For February 12

Aries (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): Your vision is clear. You can "see" situation as it exists. Rely on friends. Realize that loved ones are in your corner. Know ones and for all that you do not stand alone.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20): Highlight prestige, honors — ambition. Moon in top sector of chart. Means higher-ups due to take note of your efforts. In personal affairs, be true to convictions.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21): Good lunar aspect highlights higher education, journeys, correspondence. Time to pay head to personality, public image. Actions now can have intense bearing on future.

Cancer (June 22 to July 21): Don't assume too much. Consult marital or business partner. Be aware of financial details. Get facts, figures in order. Your intuitive intellect will provide sound help.

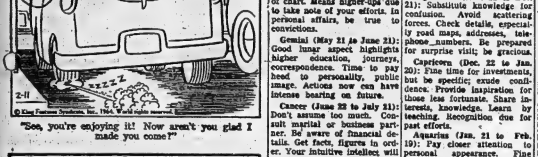
Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21): Slow down. Examine situation. Pay special attention to public image. Don't fall into trap of overconfidence. Your "opposition" comes well prepared. Know this, act accordingly.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): Pay heed to diet, health — get sufficient rest. Important that you have good relations with fellow workers. Be diplomatic. Avoid needless quarrels. Strive for harmony.

Libra, (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): Day to emphasize creative endeavors, love, possibility for constructive move. Look to future. Avoid worry over past. Ideas will prove fruitful. Carry through on recent suggestion.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): Look up . . . toward potential. Realize that investment in family member is wise course. Check with expert. Don't seek substitutes for quality. Good for relaxing quiet entertainment.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Substitute knowledge for confusion. Avoid scattering forces. Check details, especially road maps, addresses, telephone numbers. Be prepared for surprise visit; be gracious.



Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Fine time for investments, but be specific; exude confidence. Provide inspiration for those less fortunate. Share interests, knowledge. Learn by teaching. Recognition due for past efforts.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Pay closer attention to personal appearance. Fine time for purchase of luxury items. Do something to boost your morale. In personal life, stress domestic understanding.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Look behind the scenes. Uncover secrets. Do some research, reading. Check source material. Try new methods. Be daring, adventurous. Break out of rut. Turn on Pisces charm.

If today is your birthday . . . you have tremendous sense of humor. But you must learn to be serious where "serious" matters are concerned.

Speaker Takes Verbal Swipe At Quebec Hydro in Talk

PICTON (Staff) — Mr. R. J. Boyer, M.P.P., Muskoka Riding, a former chairman of the old Ontario Hydro, took a verbal swipe at the Quebec Hydro in his talk to the Picton Kiwanis Club on Monday night.

Mr. Boyer's visit coincides with Hydro's rate increase being held from February 10-15.

The speaker was hinting very broadly at Hydro's increase. It was raised in Quebec when the Quebec Hydro said they would accept tenders even at a higher price, if the tenderer had his plant in the Province of Quebec.

Mr. Boyers said - "His Honor, the Lieutenant Governor, said in the speech from the throne that Ontario would resist attempts to divide Canada on economic competition among the provinces.

He also said, and I am quoting him now "the fragmentation of the Canadian market by preferential price treatment policies at the provincial level will render all provinces less competitive both at home and abroad."

CAREFUL SHOPPERS

"I suscribe to that belief and so does Hydro. We are not a corporate entity. Every Canadian has a stake in our national development, and we sincerely balafter all, been achieved through partnership and specifically through non-restrictive policies. It's a fair question to ask how Hydro translates this bold initiative into working policy. While buying things is an important and complex part of Hydro's operations, it's important partly because we have a strict duty to provide power at the lowest possible cost. To do this we have to be the most careful shoppers in the world. We have to be fair to Canadian industry and its workers. The best way to do both is to build initiative from as many firms as can reasonably be expected to provide the jobs often in remote and unpopulated areas. Those in or near municipalities must equally be demands on municipal services. Hydro's grants in lieu of taxes amounted to $4.4 million last year alone, and as we pay for the water we borrow to produce electricity. Last year, with river levels and flows below normal, we paid $8.1 million to the provincial and federal governments in water rentals. That comes to $10.5 million dollars to all three levels of government. It would be remiss if I didn't mention that your local electrical utilities paid another $1.8 million to their municipalities in taxes. Just one more thing about taxes: Hydro pays all the same sales taxes everyone else does.

"Tax free? Not by a long shot and we don't make a profit because the business men and community leaders, who founded Hydro believe that it must still do, that the business of providing this vital force is just too important to turn the profit motive involved. The growth of service. I suggest, could not have proceeded at the rate it has if revenues had been the prime consideration. The public interest is best served by the existing co-operation of local utilities who have large investments in Hydro and the experienced technology that comes from Hydro's long history in a field that was an infant when the Commission came into being." Mr. Boyer concluded.

$1,000 Damage In Collision

PICTON — Approximately $1,000 property damage was caused about 10 a.m. Monday as two vehicles collided at the intersection of No. 33 highway and the Scotch Block Road.

Police said that William M. Christy, 49, of R. R. Bloomfield was emerging from the Sea-horie Road, when his car was in collision with a westbound vehicle on No. 33 Highway driven by Samuil E. Brummell, 70, of Cherry Valley. There were no injuries.

Council Wades Through Heavy Agenda of Business

PICTON (Staff) — In a session that lasted just four hours, the Picton council worked through a enormous amount of work before they adjourned at 11:30 p.m.

After some deliberation council passed a motion that they are now in favor of having toll free calls to and from Wellington from Picton. Some months ago Reeve Moore led a flock of this increased service, at an increased cost to the subscriber, but they were, at that time, going along with the recommendation of the Chamber of Commerce.

Now that the Chamber or Commerce and the Picton Businessmen's Association are in favor of the new deal, Picton council is also in favor.

According to finance chairman, Councillor James Bird, who proposed the motion, it would bring the Picton rate with the bond houses if we were to issue a debenture in the late fall or months from a previous issue.

Imperial Oil Co. Ltd. were turned down on their application to re-erect a sign at their service station at the corner of Main and Elizabeth Streets which fell down a short time ago. The post holding the sign is now unusable, in line with the utilities poles.

They were, however, given permission to erect the sign, may hang over town property, in this case, the sidewalk, providing the pole holding the sign is on their own property.

At the same time a by-law will be presented which will mandatory that all such poles will be on private, not town property.

TAX COLLECTOR DISMISSED

Leonard Tripp, who has been the tax collector-assessor for the Town, was dismissed by council last night. His dismissal was automatic when the county took over the entire county assessment. Tripp was appointed tax collector and building inspector for the town at a total fee of $1,200 a year for both jobs, which are only part time.

"I have been approached by at least 15 citizens, asking how the sidewalks would be in the middle of the winter, when he has done a good job," said Councillor Bird. "I am not the fault he was dismissed and most certainly not on account of his work, which was excellent," he added.

When it was suggested that Mr. Tripp be given a building inspector's job, paying only $600 per year, someone suggested he apply on unemployment, which caused the Acting Mayor to say, "how would it look to have our tax collector on relief."

It seemed to be the feeling of the whole council that some thing will be found for Mr. Tripp to do, at least until Spring.

Councillor George Modern's resignation as a council member was accepted with regret at last night's meeting. Mr. Modern was also chairman of the three new county assessors, and as such had voluntarily resigned from Picton Council.

Acting Mayor Hepburn said, "of course if we don't accept it, it will be up to you to resign, see where your new job would have anything to do with being municipally, provided you were not assessing here in Picton. I am trying everything I can think of to get you to reconsider," he added.

"Councillor Morden has done a fine job, as one of the committees to which he has been appointed, and his leaving is a definite loss not only to the council but to everyone in Picton. I do hope he will reconsider," he concluded.

REAL HEADACHE

"I would like very much to stay on, as I have enjoyed my work on the council, but I feel that there would be a certain amount of conflict of interest, and I must abide by my decision," Councillor Morden replied.

The application of Reg Moore to have water services extended to his property adjacent to the Home for the Aged was the council a real headache.

At last meeting of council they figuratively slapped the wrists of the P.U.C. for not paying attention to the council's directive in that they continued to extend water services outside the town limits after being instructed not to do so.

Now this Moore application comes up, and owing to the fact that there has been an enormous amount of trouble between Mr. Moore and county council regarding a illegal overflow from the septic tanks from the Home for the Aged, council reggretably felt they could scarcely have liked to O.K. the installation of water service to the Moore property.

"If we keep on extending these water services, no one will want to be annexed into Picton," said Councillor Randolph Clapp. "I know the trouble they have had out there, but still why should we supply water to one when we do not others, more especially in view of the fact that we warned the P.U.C. only last meeting," he added.

A motion was passed that a committee of Deputy Reeve Don Thompson and Councillors Andrew Jarvis and Robert Walmsley check with P.U.C. and possibly with Mr. Moore and report back to council.

COMMITTEE HAS SURPLUS

The Road and Property Committee reports showed that they had underspent their 1963 budget of $129,000 by about $6,000. "At the same time, we must remember that we must buy a new truck this year, and we are in the process of drawing plans for our new garage, which will cost about 100 x 40 feet," said Reeve Hepburn, chairman. The board also has allowed employees a raise of 10c per hour," he added.

At the last meet as councillor, Councillor George Morden presented his latest report on parking and traffic. As chairman of the committee, Mr. Morden has put in many hours of his own time in the endeavor to improve the parking facilities in the town.

Last night Mr. Morden read a preliminary survey made up by Ontario Land Surveyor Stewart Fraser. The survey, relating to the rear of the stores on the north side of Main St. The survey showed that there is about 390 x 70 feet that could easily be made into off-street parking.

A motion was passed accepting the report and also accepting the suggestion that they retain the services of a qualified consultant to draw up the details of the parking area.

Deputy Reeve Donald Thompson will take over the chairmanship of the town council parking and traffic committee. Deputy Reeve Thompson was named to the chairmanship following the resignation of Councillor Morden. He will be appointed as one of the four county assessors.

In the near future the town will purchase more parking meters to cost about $4,900. The meters will be paid for on the basis of 50 pc. cost to the town, and 50 per cent to be paid for by the meters. It is expected that the present meters in use will be sold for at this 50-50 rate before the end of 1964 at which time the new meters will be put in to the town.

The extra meters will be purchased from Johnson Brothers through to the other side of the Cenotaph.

REPORT TABLED

The Planning and Development Committee report was also report at last night's meeting in which they suggested that Carl Rice, Director of the Central Prince Edward Planning Board be requested to furnish information on the cost of the annexation area so as to show useable land in the categories of residential, industrial and commercial etc. Mr. Reid and his committee prepared a lengthy report on the annexation of portions of Hallowell Township into the Town of Picton.

The committee plans on holding a further meeting with a representative from Hallowell Township as soon as this report is received.

The annual report of Fire Chief J. Nelson Bell was tabled at this meeting. In this report to Councillor Geo. R. Calnan, Chairman, Chief Bell gave the department costs for the year 1963 as being estimated to be $27,438.27. The budget for the Department was only $21,700.

Chief Bell pointed out in his report that due to the building permit office has recommended the hiring of three permanent men for the Department. Also that the building needs a new hot water heater. It is recommended more hydrants out to do so.

Army to Stage Boxing Titles for Area in Picton

PICTON (Staff) — On February 19, the Picton Armouries will be a busy place as the Eastern Ontario Area Boxing Championships are being held at that time. The eliminations will be held there on Monday night.

Starting at 8 p.m., the show, staged entirely by the Canadian Army, will feature semi finals, of three rounds each, in the Novice Class, and three open exhibition matches in the welter and lightweight classes. One welterweight match will pit the army against the air force.

Each fighter will have a second and a trainer while fighting.

It is expected that a Judo exhibition between two belt holders will be arranged for Tuesday night.

Guardsman Tom Chesson, according to Chief Bell, there are no hydrants in the County Fire Grounds to give protection to the buildings there. The Prince Edward Collegiate should have another hydrant on Johnston Street. Owen, Mary, Queen, Downes, Barker, and Maple Streets should have more hydrants, according to the report.

"It might be cheaper to have a fire," quipped Councillor Randy Clapp.

"There might be some changes at the fire hall, if you know what I mean," said Councillor Clapp. He did not elaborate on his statement.

"We simply cannot afford more fires," said Bird when he commented Acting Mayor Hepburn.

Guardsmen To Take Some Winter Training

PICTON (Staff) — On Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday this week, if the good people who live near the Prescqu'ile Provincial Park see some rather strangely dressed people moving around, they would be well advised not to take alarm, as these people will be some of the members of the First Canadian Guards from Camp Picton out on winter training.

Under Signals Officer Captain Richmond, these men will live out in the sub-zero temperature with the object of learning how to maintain communications for four days in what can easily be regarded as hostile conditions.

The men and the officer, will live in tents, will eat pack rations for at least one full day, and in general will have to live for the four days on what they have with them.

Captain Richmond told the Intelligencer on Monday that they will also have some fresh supplies, and methods of cooking, but that it will be a rugged test, with the hearty snow they will encounter in the bush and the extremely cold weather. The men will sleep in tents and sleeping bags.

ROAD LINK NEARS COMPLETION — The New World Island Causeway, linking the Newfoundland mainland with New World Island off the northern coast, is expected to completed this summer. The causeway, giving 10,000 residents of New World and Twillingate islands a convenient connection with the mainland, crosses Dildo Run between Boyd's Cove and Summerford on New World Island. A car-ferry service carries traffic to and from Twillingate (upper left.) (CP Newsmap)

New World Island Causeway In Nfld. Nearly Completed

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — Some time this year one of the biggest single engineering feats ever accomplished in Newfoundland will be completed, opening a new era for more than 10,000 people living on two offshore islands.

The New World Island Causeway will bring 5,000 residents of New World Island and 5,000 on nearby Twillingate Island into direct highway connection with the rest of the province.

The $1,000,000 causeway starts at Boyd's Cove on the shore of Notre Dame Bay 100 miles northwest of St. John's. It islands across a series of small islands to New World Island. From there a refitted car ferry operating out of new terminal facilities will make the five-minute trip to Twillingate Island.

The project includes three major causeway sections, two major bridges spanning navigable waters, two ferry terminals and about 10 miles of connecting roads on the islands.

OPENING DELAYED

The causeway would have been opened late last summer but for engineering problems encountered at Dildo Run, one of the worst stretches of water. Here the ocean bottom is unusually muddy and engineers had to drive deep to find solid ground in which to anchor a base for a bridge across the 180-foot gap that is part of Dildo Run.

When this bridge, which has already been assembled on the spot, is pushed across the gap, the new causeway will be ready for traffic.

Attorney - General Leslie R. Curtis, whose Twillingate district includes the islands, says the causeway "will not only take the islanders out of isolation and join them up by road to the rest of the province, but will mean that other Newfoundlanders as well as tourists will be able to visit the islands in their turn."

The fishing industry is the mainstay of the islands but there are people who work at other jobs. For example, loggers who work on the mainland will be able to return home daily instead of on weekends.

HURTS TAXIS

However, a small group of islanders will be adversely affected. They operate a system of small boats and taxis which now makes the islands accessible to travellers.

Roughly 15 small boats ply among the various islands, charging a variety of prices depending on the time of day and number of passengers. Fare from Comfort Cove on the mainland to New World Island is usually $2 one way.

A trip on to Twillingate involves getting a taxi across New World Island, then a boat to the island and another taxi into the town of Twillingate.

Ferry operators feel that the causeway, built under the federal-provincial roads to resources program, will put them out of business or at least reduce their take. And some are looking about for buyers for their boats.

ing force should be connected with the United Nations.

Mr. Butler said the UN should be kept fully informed but offered no comment on whether an international force should be placed under UN auspices.

He said Britain would contribute $500 to the force and that Denmark would be "glad" to provide a contingent.

He said the aim is a force with NATO, Commonwealth and possibly some neutral countries participating.

Canada has long maintained a standby infantry battalion— about 900 men—for UN or other service. This standby unit now is the 1st Battalion, Royal 22nd Regiment (Van Doos), of Camp Valcartier, Que.

TOPPED TALKS

The possible formation of a Cyprus Force appeared to be the focal point of talks Monday between Prime Ministers Pearson and Sir Alec Douglas-Home.

A British spokesman said Britain wants to arrange a permanent peace between the Greek and Turkish communities in Cyprus.

A Canadian spokesman said Mr. Pearson and Sir Alec in their general review of world affairs paid particular attention to certain Commonwealth matters such as Cyprus, Malaysia, Southern Rhodesia and East Africa.

The international force aspect of the Cyprus situation had been "fully discussed."

British troops were required to put down army mutinies recently in Kenya, Uganda and Tanganyika. Britain is concerned about granting Southern Rhodesia independence while the white minority is still in sole political control of the country.

elections last spring but didn't fare as well this time.

Young Caouette, a 24-year-old industrial designer, was second again but didn't attract enough votes to save his deposit as he did last April 8. Mr. Paquet, who ran a weak third among six candidates contesting St. Denis.

Neither NDP candidate drew a strong vote. Gerard Fecteau, Quebec NDP leader and a well-known labor figure in the province, was second-last among five candidates in Laurier and Mrs. Rejeanne Dinelle, 43, a housewife and veteran labor organizer, was fourth among the six in St. Denis.

BYPASS RHINOCEROS

Voters paid little serious attention to two semi-serious candidates of the Rhinoceros party, an organization with the announced aim of lampooning existing political parties and institutions.

Printer Andre Goulet polled 216 votes in Laurier and Dr. Paul Ferron 182 in St. Denis. They were only candidates to draw fewer votes was Henri-Georges Grenier, who got 62 ballots in St. Denis for an independent organization he calls Le Parti Humain Familial (The Human Family Party).

The complete count for 107 polls in Laurier was:

In St. Denis, complete results for 209 polls were:

Dinelle, NDP, 606; Ferron, Rhinoceros, 82; Grenier, Parti Familial, 62, Paquet, Creditiste, 2,058; Prud'homme, Liberal, 7,768; Sauve, Conservative, 4,756.

Results in the 1963 general election:

Laurier—Liberal 8,059; Social Credit 4,282; Progressive Conservative 3,345; NDP 1,276.

St. Denis—Liberal 11,707; Social Credit 4,573; Conservative 3,243; NDP 2,547.

In Ottawa, a spokesman for Mr. Pearson said the prime minister was "tremendously proud" of the Liberal victories, which he viewed as a "gratifying endorsement of government policies."

A spokesman for John Diefenbaker said the opposition leader found it encouraging that the Conservatives took over second place from the Creditistes in St. Denis. As for Laurier, the Tory leader was reported as saying the light turnout made it hard to draw any conclusions from the vote.

Social Credit Leader Thompson, whose party did not enter candidates in either riding, said the byelection result foreshadows the end of Le Ralliement des Creditistes as a national force.

"They (the byelections) were an indication that Caouette as a national party doesn't go over big in Quebec, and that his brand of separatism doesn't either," Mr. Thompson said.

"I hope that those who didn't have the courage to vote will live better days ahead," he said. "But if things get worse they can beat their breasts and say it's their own fault."

NDP Leader Douglas said the byelection results produced the expected result. His sentiments were echoed by the NDP candidates.

"I am not disappointed," Mrs. Dinelle said. "We will start working all over again in the next election."

Announce New Healing Substance... Shrinks Piles, Checks Itch

A renowned research institute has found a unique healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids painlessly. It relieves itching and discomfort in minutes and speeds up healing of the injured, inflamed tissues.

One hemorrhoidal case history after another reported "very striking improvement." Pain was promptly and gently relieved . . . actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

Among these case histories were a variety of hemorrhoidal conditions. Relief even occurred in cases of long standing, and most important of all, results were so thorough that this improvement was maintained over a period of many months.

This was accomplished with a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) which quickly helps heal injured cells and stimulates growth of new tissue. Bio-Dyne is offered in ointment and suppository form called Preparation H.

In addition to actually shrinking hemorrhoids, Preparation H lubricates and makes elimination less painful. It helps prevent infection which is a principal cause of hemorrhoids.

Just ask your druggist for Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment (with a special applicator).

Woman Writer Biz Whiz She Beards the Bulls and Bears

By DENNIS ORCHARD

VANCOUVER (CP) — Patricia Carney, 38, stepped without batting an eye into her role as Canada's only woman writer of a daily business column.

That was in 1960, and today executives of the West Coast forest industry, which is her specialty and her first love, rate her work without peer.

"You would think she had spent a lifetime in the business," says millionaire lumberman Gordon Gibson. "She can get a story out of anyone who has anything interesting to say."

The Pat Carney byline first appeared six years ago over a business story in the Vancouver Province and her column became a regular feature four years ago.

She has twice won the MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River business writing award and it has earned Pat a solid reputation independent of a well-known mother, aunt and uncle.

The typical Carney column has simple, lucid prose and a person in it. Its job is to reach the heart of a business situation or decision, relating it to its effect on human beings.

INTERESTING FAMILY

A random sample of column clippings shows in a one-month stretch topics as diverse as Rambler auto sales in Western North America recession; speculation on the Bank of Canada interest rate tension between U.S. and Canadian lumbermen; obsolete executives, and tourism.

An economics degree, omniverous reading and a retentive mind make Pat equally at home breaking down the federal budget and explaining the limitations of the gold - exchange standard.

Her family history, Jane Austen and a dozen magazines exclusive of forestry publications indicate the range of her writing, but diversions such as Dave Brubeck jazz and prowling around Canadian abstract paintings make it difficult to define any limit to her field of interest.

But then she comes from a family whose interests have always been diversified.

Her father John Carney, who spent 20 years in China as a medical health officer, met and wed her journalist mother, a fourth-generation South African, in Shanghai.

BORN IN CHINA

Twins Pat and Jim were born there May 15, 1925, and late in 1939, with the twins speaking more Chinese than English, the family came to Canada and settled Guelph, Ont., where Dr. Carney completed his veterinary degree.

In 1944 the Carneys moved to Victoria and in 1948 to a farm near Nelson in the British Columbia Kootenay district.

Pat says her father insisted on farm life because, fearing his children's artistic bent, he sought assurance they "knew how to milk cows and feed pigs and would never starve."

The artistic bent was there, in both Pat and Jim, and in Nora, now 36, and Tom, now 22. It perhaps came from Mrs. Carney, who as Dora Sanders wrote Canadian periodicals and newspapers in the early 30s and again in the late '40s.

Mrs. Carney's sister is Byrne Hope Sanders, journalist director of the Canadian Institute of Public Opinion in Toronto, and her brother is Wilfrid Sanders, a former newspaper man now an advertising and public relations executive in Toronto.

BUSINESS IS HER BEAT — Patricia Carney of the Vancouver Province is Canada's only woman writer of a daily business column. Pat, mother of five and the wife of lawyer Gordon Dickson, has been writing her column for four years, during which she has gained the respect of leading businessmen for her accuracy and understanding of her field. (CP Photo)

TV PRODUCER

Jim Carney is a television producer. Nora, who married architect Arthur Boyd, has abandoned writing radio commercials but still attends university while raising two children.

Tom works for Broadcast News, the Canadian Press radio news subsidiary, and also goes to college.

In 1956 Pat married Gordon Dickson, her rewrite boss at The Province, and they both went back to the University of British Columbia, Pat to finish her economics degree, Gordon to take law.

They live with daughter Jane in a $30,000 home 18 miles northwest of Vancouver.

Since winning a Canadian Women's Press Club award at the age of 19, Pat has published deliberately chosen techniques of interviewing and writing.

"I ask the same questions over and over again, rephrasing them each time," she says. "It's not a trap; it's to find out what he means."

She believes an interview must produce not only what the man said but what he meant to say when he said it.

She says her work hinges on two interests—the way business decisions invariably have major effects on the lives of people; the subject of resource economics, particularly as revealed in forestry.

"If love the woods. I like trees. The process of preserving a standing tree into a usable product for sale at a world price is a problem in economics that excites me."

Wine Bottle Used as Club, Man Killed

TORONTO (CP) — Detectives are investigating the death Monday night of Thomas P. Hanley, 58, of Toronto, who was clubbed with a wine bottle Jan. 30.

Police said Hanley had invited a man to his room and an argument developed during which Hanley was knocked unconscious.

Four days later police arrested Wallace Burke, 30, of no fixed address, and charged him with wounding.

Sukarno has publicly stressed food is supreme and misory council. He called on it to stop quibbling the government and to come up with concrete programs for immediately relieving the food situation.

Welcome Call For Truce But Still Fight

MOGADISHU, Somalia (AP) — Guns crackled today in the remote frontier area between Ethiopia and Somalia despite an urgent appeal for peace by United Nations Secretary-General U Thant.

Somalia's Premier Abirashid Ali Shermarke and Ethiopia's Emperor Haile Selassie welcomed Thant's plea for a truce, but each accused the other of encroachments on his territory.

Government sources in Mogadishu, the Somali capital, said Somali troops had killed 50 Ethiopians in renewed combat near the border towns of Bloccle and Fiambiro, adding to the 350 Ethiopians they said were killed last weekend. They put their own losses at 14 dead and 34 wounded.

In Addis Ababa, the Ethiopian information ministry said 100 Somali soldiers had been killed and 200 wounded since the border warfare broke out again Friday.

The dispute has its origin in boundaries drawn in colonial days without regard for the movements of semi - nomadic herdsmen. Both Kenya and Ethiopia have rejected Somali claims to their territory.

Sir Alec Asks Russia To Join Trading Bloc

Britain's P. M. Moves To U. S. for Talks

By JOHN LeBLANC

TORONTO (CP) — After attending an open invitation to Russia to join with other advanced nations in trading with underdeveloped countries, British Prime Minister Douglas-Home visits Washington today and its chill towards some associated British trade with the Communist bloc.

Advance reports from the United States capital indicated President Johnson would tackle Sir Alec on Britain's recent trade moves to Cuba and Asia's issue with British policy of long-term credits to Communist countries.

The Washington meeting is not likely to change either policy. Sir Alec said at Ottawa Tuesday—before flying here for a night speech—that Britain and Canada are in economic war or curtailing trade with communist countries including Cuba.

At his speech to Toronto's Empire Club, he pointedly invited Russia to join the industrialised nations of the Northern Hemisphere having a common duty to trade with the poorer nations of the Southern Hemisphere and so lessen the strife-inducing disparity between.

The 1962 jolt of pockets no clear war over Cuba appeared to have eliminated fear from Russian national policy, but:

"If we should exchange the danger of war for a West confrontation for one between the North and the south, that would be a danger far more terrible than we have faced in the world up to now."

STRESSES RUSSIA

The prime minister referred to Russia three times—once in an interpolation to join with other advanced nations to boost trade with underdeveloped lands in the near countries in recognizing international interdependence.

"I see no reason," he said, "why the northern nations of the world, and this I include in Russia, should not recognize a common duty in working together to solve what are common interests.

"We and the Soviet Union have a common problem when it comes to preserving the human race from extinction . . . we have common ground to gain from raising living standards. To subvert and to destroy a society only leads to economic wreck on the hands of all of us while to succor and to build creates a new market for the world."

The surest way—the only way—to serve mankind in the 20th century is to jettison the theories that have divided the world for peace and plenty.

"If the Soviet Union is willing to join with the industrialized Europe and turn to fruitful fields of enterprise, the smaller squabbles in the world will all

Jobless Below Year Ago

OTTAWA (CP)—An estimated 486,00 persons in Canada were unemployed in mid - January, 75,000 fewer than a year earlier, the labor department and bureau of statistics said today in a joint report.

The January unemployment total was 130,000 higher than in December, but the increase was described as "normal for this time of year." The rise was largely among men 30 to 64 years of age.

As a percentage of the estimated labor force, the January jobless rate was seven per cent, compared with 8.3 per cent in January, 1963, and 8.5 per cent in January, 1962. Seasonally adjusted, the January unemployment rate was 5.5 per cent, unchanged from December.

	Jan. Dec. Jan. 1964 1963 1963
Labor Force	6,097 6,774 6,497
Employed	5,231 6,428 5,956
Unemployed	468 346 541

The monthly report is based on a survey of 35,000 households across Canada for the week ended Jan. 18. Since figures are based on a sample cross-section of the population they are estimates and not precise totals.

FOREST DROPS

The labor force and total employment both declined between December and January—mainly as a result of seasonal reductions in outdoor activities and the release of temporary help hired for the Christmas season, the report said.

In non-farm industries, employment showed a net decline of 189,000 described as "about average for the period." The drop in farm employment was the smallest in several years.

Although there were the anticipated month-to-month drops in the labor force and employment, the year-to-year comparison showed more workers on the job—with non-farm employment up 300,000 to 5,053,000, agricultural work up 35,000 to 573,000.

The largest increases over the year were in service, manufacturing and trade.

MONKS JOIN FAST

COLOMBO (AP) — One hundred Buddhist monks have joined a fast by University of Ceylon economics lecturer Felix Jayasuriya against a proposal to appoint a rival to the post of professor of economics. Jayasuriya, who has been without food for 14 days, says the economics course has high quality. Doctors said Jayasuriya's condition is serious.

Malaysia and Philippines Agree To Consider Exchanging Consuls

PNHOM PENH, Cambodia (AP)—Malaysia and the Philippines announced today they have agreed to consider establishing relations at the consular level.

The agreement was disclosed by Cambodian Prime Minister Tunku Abdul Rahman and the Philippines' President Diosdado Macapagal concluded three days of talks aimed at easing Malaysia crisis. The Philippines refused to grant diplomatic recognition to Malaysia.

The two leaders said they would welcome a summit meeting with Indonesia's President Sukarno after completion of preliminary talks on the ministerial level.

Indonesia and the Philippines opposed the formation of the British-sponsored Malaysian federation last September. Guerrilla fighting between Malaysia and Indonesia on Borneo has brought the two countries close to war.

The Philippines has opposed Malaysia because of a claim to Malaysia's state of Sabah (formerly North Borneo) but has sought to moderate Sukarno's "crush Malaysia" campaign.

Police To Get Powers

TORONTO (CP)—The provincial government intends to give police in Ontario the power after July 1 to remove licence plates from cars they judge unsafe at spot checks.

Motorists who do not submit their vehicles to police-ordered safety checks will be liable to a fine.

These measures were included in a bill outlining amendments to the Highway Traffic Act. The bill was given first reading in the legislature Tuesday.

Highways Minister Haskett said outside the legislature that the amendments were designed to plug loopholes in the act.

A small portion of motorists are found through they were legally entitled to refuse to co-operate with police, who now have the power to make a spot check and order an unsafe vehicle off the road until a service garage certifies it is mechanically safety, he said.

The proposed amendment would give police power, pursuant to such spot checks, but the minister declined to discuss the matter further until the January war or curtailing trade with communist countries including Cuba.

At his speech to Toronto's Empire Club, he pointedly invited Russia to join the industrialised nations of the Northern Hemisphere having a common duty to trade with the poorer nations of the Southern Hemisphere and so lessen the strife-inducing disparity between.

The 1962 jolt of pockets no clear war over Cuba appeared to have eliminated fear from Russian national policy, but:

Steelworkers Seek Union With Arch-Rivals, Mine-Mill

TORONTO (CP)—The United Steelworkers of America (CLC) has invited its arch-rival, the International Union of Mine Mill and Smelter Workers (Ind.), to start affiliation talks.

Larry Sefton, director of Steelworkers District 6, issued the invitation today in an open letter to Kenneth Smith, national Mine-Mill president.

"Recognizing that these fast shifting times call for one strong, united union in the mining, smelting and refining industry, I wholeheartedly second our international vice-president Howard R. Hague's invitation to your organization to begin talks with the Steelworkers to discuss terms of affiliation," Mr. Sefton said.

Mr. Sefton was referring to a statement Mr. Hague made at the Steelworkers' conference in Toronto Jan. 31, earlier this month that although Mine-Mill has rejected previous moves towards affiliation, the door was still open.

The two unions have been warring against each for the right to represent workers in mining, smelting and refining industries in the United States and Canada for many years.

Their most bitter conflict was in Ontario's nickel and steel workers, after a prolonged illegal struggle, last year wrested bargaining rights for 17,000 International Nickel Company of Canada workers from Mine-Mill.

Fiance of Dutch Princess Sees Franco About Future

MADRID, Spain (AP)—Prince Carlos of Bourbon-Parma went to Prado Palace today for a meeting with Gen. Francisco Franco that may have a bearing on the restoration of the monarchy some day.

The fiance of Princess Irene of Holland flew back to Madrid Tuesday from The Hague, Netherlands, for royal engagement, was announced.

Two versions circulated about Carlos' Bourbon-Parma visit requested an appointment with Franco to tell him personally of the engagement, his other that he wished to talk about his political future as the heir apparent of the crown.

Son of the head of the Carlist wing of the Spanish royal house, Carlos is a potential contender for the throne should Franco decides to settle the monarchy question after terms of a 1947 plebiscite.

Joined by her parents, Queen Juliana and Prince Consort Bernhard, and her sister, Crown Princess Beatrix, Irene introduced her fiance to Dutch cabinet members and their wives at The Hague Tuesday. Premier Victor Marijnen led in a champagne toast to the health of the couple and their son.

To resolve a constitutional crisis, the 24 - year - old Irene gave up her right to succession behind Beatrix in the line of succession to the throne. Last month Irene converted from traditional Protestantism of the house of Orange to become a Roman Catholic.

Price Stability and Credit Likely to Cause Debate

OTTAWA (CP)—The old political feud over price stability and economic growth appeared to flare up anew at the session of Parliament opening Tuesday.

Opposition Leader Diefenbaker already has fired the opening shot by pointing to the sharp increase in the money supply over the last year and warning that Canada is in danger of "galloping inflation."

Finance Minister Gordon has stoutly defended the monetary expansion as being "in time with the needs of our expanding economy."

Though it is a complex argument, the monetary course followed by any government can be a telling issue on the hustings.

The best illustration of this was the 1953 federal election campaign when the late Premier Frost did this province would "resist attempts to divide us through economic pressure politics among the provinces."

"How will we resist it short of voting Conservative?" coming to that!" asked Mr. Sophia.

In another subject, Fred Young (NDP — Toronto York view) said former Conservative premier Leslie Frost should be replaced as chairman of the Ontario University Advisory Committee. He said Mr. Frost did little as premier to find a solution to the issue that built up while he was premier.

He also called for legislation to give buyers four days to think over whether they want to go through with purchases they have made on the sale agreement. After the four days he said the customer could void the contract and deposits would be returned to him.

Three Killed In Nova Scotia Shooting Affray

AUBURN, N.S. (CP)—A man, his wife and daughter were killed in a family shooting affray today. Another daughter was shot in the left eye but wounded. RCMP held one man in custody.

The dead are Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Pudsey and their teenage daughter Audrey Jean. Another daughter, Mrs. Gordon Heather Lutz, was taken to hospital in Berwick, about eight miles east of here.

Mrs. Lutz's husband, Aubrey Lutz, a laborer, was being held for questioning.

Auburn is a farming community in the centre of the Annapolis Valley about 80 miles west of Kentville. Mr. Pudsey was a school bus driver.

The shooting took place about 9:30 a.m. at the Pudsey home. Police said they found three rifle shells in the yard near the bus Mr. Pudsey drove. They said they were given a rifle believed to have been used in the incident.

Other shells were said to have been found in the Pudsey kitchen and an adjoining room.

The wheel cowling of his plane's landing gear came loose and entangled with a wheel. Roncallo circled the Cheyenne Airport several times before landing.

Skipper Tells Of Sinking

CP from AP-Reuters

SYDNEY, Australia — Both ships were moving at almost top speed when the 23,000 - ton carrier Melbourne rammed the destroyer Voyager Monday night and broke her in half, the Melbourne's skipper said today.

"Melbourne hit Voyager amidships, slicing the vessel in two like a knife through cake," said Capt. R. J. Robertson. "There was a crunching noise. I never minded one of those collisions unless you hear on TV or the movies."

Robertson described Australia's worst peacetime naval disaster aboard the Melbourne, the Australian Navy's flagship, limped into port with 159 of 249 survivors from the destroyer. The carrier's bow was badly damaged.

A navy spokesman held little hope for survivors. Eight men reported missing, but a search is continuing. There are 20 dead, including Voyager officers, including the destroyer's commander, Capt. Duncan H. Stevens, 39, RN.

Stevens was on the Voyager's bridge when she was struck by the Melbourne during night maneuvers 20 miles off the Australian coast, 120 miles south of Sydney.

BOW SINKS QUICKLY

The bow section of the 3,500-ton destroyer sank within 10 minutes. The stern remained afloat for three hours. The destroyer was a marvel of modern engineering, literally a pushbutton ship whose guns and engines could work automatically with radar.

Robertson, on the bridge of the carrier at the time, told reporters that there was no sense the sea was calm and conditions generally good for the maneuvers. The destroyer was assigned to pick up any flyers who might crash at sea while trying to land on the carrier.

"We had been engaged in night - flying exercises which require, for safety's sake, as fast as possible," Robertson said.

Both ships were blacked out except for the port and starboard and red masthead lights when the carrier smashed into the smaller vessel.

"Voyager split clean in halves," Robertson said. "The halves slid down our sides.

SLIDES UNDER SHIP

"Voyager slid easily under our bow. Somehow she did not even rise when she hit.

"I ordered engines astern (reversing propellers) and we started away from the two sections of the Voyager. . . ."

Robertson said the rescue operation swung into action quickly and all Melbourne's boats were immediately lowered to pick up survivors.

Two helicopters from Nowra naval airstation, fighter sweepers and crash launches made "a magnificent job" in the rescue operations.

"I'm sure that all living survivors were picked up," he said.

DIVING IMPOSSIBLE

An Australian naval officer said there was no hope of sending divers down to the Voyager, which was lying in about 950 feet of water.

Although Robertson declined to disclose the speeds, the Melbourne is reported capable of 30 knots and the Voyager could make 30 knots. The Melbourne reported no casualties in the collision.

Prime Minister Sir Robert Menzies has called for a public investigation headed by a judge — rather than the usual naval inquiry.

Among the missing Voyager crew members are four young midshipmen who were graduated from the Royal Australian Naval College at Jervis Bay last July. The destroyer normally carried a crew of 324 but three men were not with the ship on the manoeuvres.

SUGGESTION REJECTED

LONDON (Reuters) — A suggestion that smoking be banned in British factories was rejected by the government Tuesday. Lord Newton, parliamentary secretary to the ministry of health, said curbs on smoking were a matter for persuasion, not prohibition.

Fighting Flares Anew In Cyprus, New Peace Plan

Britain, U. S. Confer With Premier Makarios

CP from AP-Reuters

NICOSIA, Cyprus—U.S. Undersecretary of State George Ball and British envoy Cyril Pickard called on President Makarios today to present the latest U.S.-British plan for a second international peace-keeping force to Cyprus.

The conferences took place as fighting between Greek- and Turkish - Cypriot communities flared anew in the south coastal city of Limassol, 38 miles southwest of Nicosia. At least one Greek-Cypriot policeman was killed, a palace spokesman said.

The English-language Cyprus Mail said Greek-Cypriot police fought the battle against Turkish-Cypriots for control of Limassol's ancient Berengaria Castle.

A spokesman for Makarios said the talk will decide whether the Greek-Cypriot president will take the case to the United Nations if the talks are considered unsatisfactory. A special Greek-Cypriot delegation will precede the UN headquarters in New York later in the month.

MORE TALKS PLANNED

Ball told reporters he hoped to have full discussions with Makarios and Vice - President Fazil Kutchuk, a Turkish-Cypriot.

"There's a problem to be solved, and it's hoped it will be solved," he said.

There were no signs of anti-American demonstrations in Nicosia and Greek-Cypriot officials insisted they expected none.

Clashes between Greek police and students marked Ball's stopover at Athens Monday as demonstrators demanding union between Cyprus and Greece tried to march on the U.S. and British embassies.

British sources said the United States was the other because she has offered to help with the police.

As President Johnson's troubleshooter, Ball is expected to outline to Makarios the British proposal for an international peace force for Cyprus to Makarios and Kutchuk.

British officials in London said the revised plan gives the United Nations peace force the vote on peace-keeping operations and abandons a previous condition that the force be raised from partners in the North Atlantic alliance.

REFLECTIVE MOOD

Makarios turned down the original plan because of the dominant role it gave NATO and insisted that any international force on Cyprus be under control of the UN Security Council.

The United States and British have sought to keep the Security Council out of the dispute since it would then come under the threat of a Soviet veto. Moscow has assailed the proposed use of NATO forces in Cyprus.

Voting Age May Spark Real Battle

By KEN KELLY

OTTAWA (CP)—Lowering the voting age in federal elections to 18 from 21 may spark a battle at the forthcoming session of Parliament.

The proposal is one of several changes in election laws recommended to the Commons at the last session by the Commons elections committee. It is expected to be placed before Parliament for action at the session which opens Tuesday, Feb. 18.

Many Liberals and New Democrats back the lower age. It was part of the election platforms of both parties, but sentiment is by no means unanimous in the Liberal party.

Opposition also has been expressed privately by some Progressive Conservative MPs. They were reinforced by the Progressive Conservative Student Federation which voted at its annual meeting earlier this month against altering the present age requirement.

Adoption of lower age would add another 750,000 voters to the 10,000,000 now eligible to cast ballots in federal elections.

ANOTHER PROBLEM

Another major change in elections laws also may come under fire. The elections committee has proposed that all servicemen be required to use special voting procedure in federal elections.

In previous elections, servicemen overseas, and some in remote Canadian stations, voted by mail. Others were able to cast their ballots in the constituencies in which they were serving.

The committee decided on the step after receiving a lot of concern about military security through the present easy access to personnel lists and their stations.

However, defence department spokesmen objected to it on the ground that it offends segregation of the military vote and will provide a complete picture of how many servicemen vote in each area. This is possible now only with the 35,000 who vote by mail but not with the 90,000 who vote at civilian polls.

BAN POWER USE

BELGRADE (AP) — Yugoslavia is suffering an acute shortage of electric power because of low water levels. The government has banned the use of electricity for the heating of public and business premises, except hospitals and schools. Lighting in streets and in public places have been reduced by 50 per cent.

Unilever's Indonesian Plantations Put Under Government Direction

JAKARTA, Indonesia (Reuters)—The Anglo-Dutch Unilever Company now is under direction of the Indonesian peoples' territory ministry, it was officially announced today.

The announcement said the ministry decided to take control of the company after its workers attempted to take over last month.

It added the ministry appealed to the workers to go back to work as usual so production could be maintained.

When British - managed rubber, copra and tea plantations were put under "direct control" of the Indonesiaff government Feb. 3, reliable sources said the appointment of supervisory teams would not immediately affect the British management's authority in daily affairs.

Most British and partly British plantation holdings in Indonesia now are under a degree of government supervision following takeover attempts last month by Communist-dominated workers association.

The seizure bids came in the wake of demonstrations against Britain's role in formation of Malaysian federation, branded here as an extension of British "neo-colonialism."

President Sukarno on Jan. 24 ordered army police and all civil authorities to obey an earlier presidential order forbidding labor unions to seize British concerns in Indonesia.

Our Economic Position Good Says R. Temple

A near 100 percent attendance was seen at the Lions Club on Tuesday evening, when the Kinsmen Club met with Robert Temple, M.P., as the speaker.

"We enter 1964 in a stronger economic position than we entered 1963, to the surprise of many and to the satisfaction of all," said Mr. Temple. "An end to the period of expansion had been freely predicted. Instead, 1964 turned out to be a year of steady economic growth through out Canada."

"Most significant of all," he continued, "the momentum is still carrying us forward. There is every reason to expect another good year in Canada, a year that will record new records of employment, new records of output and, I fervently hope, a further reduction in unemployment, which is still too high, lower than at any time since 1956."

Mr. Temple said that one can be more than usually confident about the near-term outlook because of the nature of the inflations that were at work in 1963 and that are still at work as we enter 1964. There has been persistent strength on all fronts — rising demands for exports, increased business investment in plant and equipment, and strong consumer demand for durable goods.

COLUMBIA PLANS

The speaker said that the Columbia River development is likely to get underway in 1964. He added that the agreement for this development was signed in Washington, D.C., two weeks ago by the Honorable Paul Martin, during the Prime Minister's visit.

"This has been an example to all of us in public and in private life," he continued, "of how to promote not only sound international relations but the spirit of true co-operative federalism."

Mr. Temple said the start of the Columbia River development would add to the level of investment in British Columbia and will have a strong effect on the whole Canadian economy. He said he felt that Canada can look ahead with confidence beyond 1964 and the improvement of the Canadian economy is one of the reasons why many manufacturers are doing better both in external markets and in competition with exports.

In closing Mr. Temple said that on several fronts, '64 promises to set a better year for Canada — a year of broad economic advance, a year of vast new power and a year of re-examination of basic trade policies.

The speaker was introduced by Kinsman Secretary, Paul Russell and thanked on behalf of the club by Deputy Governor, Roland Belanger. The official thanks of the club was expressed to Mr. Temple by President Jim Wild.

TRADE FAIRS

Thirty Years' Christ Church Ministry Ends

A short time ago the congregation of Christ Church gathered to pay tribute to the Rev. Everett P. Smith who has concluded his work in that parish after a long and distinguished ministry. Mr. Smith came to the church after many years in business, a good number of them spent with the Belleville Public Utilities Commission. Over a period of almost 30 years in the ministry Mr. Smith's ministry to the people of Christ Church followed a steady path to the ordained ministry. For many years he was Superintendent of the Church School. He was then licensed by the Bishop of Ontario to act as Lay reader in the Parish. During the Rectorship of The Rev. Grant Sparkes he was ordained Deacon and served in this capacity for over ten years. In the early fifties, Mr. Smith was ordained to the priesthood and served as assistant priest to two rectors of the Parish of Christ Church, Point Anne and Shannonville together with the Belleville hospital chaplaincy.

At his final service in the parish over three hundred people gathered for a festal service of evensong for which special music was used, including the fine setting for evensong written by C. V. Stanford. The service was presided over by Ven. A. S. McConnell, Archdeacon of Ontario, who drew attention to the distinguished ministry of Mr. Smith which in every way has been unique. Following the service, all gathered in the parish hall at which time Mrs. Smith was presented with a bouquet of roses on behalf of the congregation and the Smiths were given a combination radio and record player as a small token of the esteem and appreciation of the parish for their many years of fine service.

Mr. Smith will in the near future be inducted into his new parish

It was the fourth bank holdup in a 24-hour period and the 10th here this year.

3-Cornered Border Dispute Seen as a Useless War

By GEORGE McARTHUR

CAIRO (AP) — A three-cornered border dispute among Somalia, Ethiopia and Kenya in Africa's likeliest candidate for "the wrong war in the wrong place at the wrong time."

Vast areas in the dispute are sparsely inhabited near-desert. None of the three countries has a significant army. All three are beset by poverty, illiteracy and overwhelming domestic problems.

Yet such is the force of Africa's new nationalism, combined with complicating religious and tribal factors, that prospects of peace in the area are dim.

The heart of the trouble is newly independent Somalia's claim to a slice of territory equal to one-quarter of Kenya and a similar chunk making up about one-third of Ethiopia. Somalia's claims sound large, the sunbaked territory in question is fit only for nomadic grazing. Somalis call it an area of economic grain on Kenya and Ethiopia.

REDRAWN, INDEPENDENT

It is almost wholly populated by Moslem Somalis, a group distinguished from neighboring tribes by their own language with at least nomadic claims to the area dating back centuries. There was a time when the camel was domesticated, enabling penetration of the desert.

Since Somalia received independence in 1960 from the British and Italians, it has been torn by unrest in the south, these raiding parties have been stepped up with at least tacit government approval.

Moving on foot or on camel, they penetrate Kenya and Ethiopia. Their strikes often make it impossible to travel in the Ethiopian province of Harar or in Northeast Kenya without convoy protection.

"They melt into the desert in daylight and they disappear," said one military adviser with the Ethiopian Army.

Abdi Aden Hashim, a Somali official charged: "The Ethiopian Air Force has started strafing Somali camels. They can find camels but no Somalis."

Somalia has no air force. The Somali Army has 12 small planes, furnished by the United States, capable of up-last month.

PROMISE AND AID

Somalia this make it numerically about equal to Ethiopia. It may be years before the present figure of a few thousand can be properly built up and trained. Even then the vast expanse of the Ethiopian Empire and the long distances to be covered make it unlikely that anyone will actually come to grips in modern warfare.

The Kenyans, with only a few battalions of recently mutinous troops, are in no position to engage in formal war.

"No Somali government could last five seconds if it appeared to even think of giving in," one foreign ambassador said.

Trapper Found Dead in Snow Bank

KAPUSKASING, Ont. (CP)—Joseph Eac Ward, 50, of nearby Fauquier was found dead in a snow bank Tuesday by a search party after his brother crawled three miles to get help.

Manuel Ward, 55, was taken to Kapuskasing Rock hospital for treatment of exposure, malnutrition and frost bite.

Manuel told Provincial Police he and his brother set out on snowshoes Feb. 4 from Grégoire Mills, a small community 20 miles east of here, on a trapping expedition.

When they were unable to find abandoned logging camps nine miles south of their home, they slept in the open beside a fire.

They both became ill Sunday and Manuel set out for help in Grégoire Mills. He crawled three miles in the black from where they started their journey, he said. From there he crawled 1,000 yards across Highway 11 to a general store Tuesday from where police were called.

Kapuskasing is 140 miles northwest of Timmins.

ONTARIO PARKS

Ontario, which had six provincial parks in 1954, is planning to add seven to bring the total to 93.

Lawyers Claim Kidnapping Was Publicity Hoax

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A trio of defence lawyers claimed in court Tuesday that the kidnapping of Frank Sinatra Jr. was a publicity hoax.

After the three lawyers had emphasized this theme in their opening statements, the government began its case in the area with witnesses. One identified a defendant as buyer of a gun allegedly used in the abduction.

Mrs. Gladys Towles Root, counsel for defendant John Irwin, 42, told jurors evidence will show the kidnapping was staged with young Sinatra's "consent and co-operation."

"An apple doesn't fall far from its tree, and Frankie Jr. just wanted to make the girls swoon as his papa once did," Mrs. Root said.

She added that young Sinatra, 19, told Irwin:

"The ladies used to swoon over my father. Then some wise publicity agent took that on and made me a father into an international star.

"The press hasn't found me interesting as a father."

GIVE SAME STORY

Counsel for the other defendants, Baffy Keenan and Joseph Amsler, both 23, followed the same pattern with their opening statements.

The prosecution claims the trio defendants kidnapped Sinatra Dec. 6 at Lake Tahoe, where he had a singing engagement and released him 80 hours later in the Los Angeles area after his father paid $240,000 ransom. Most of the money was recovered after the arrests.

"There is a vacant seat here for that fourth defendant," said George Forde, "a financier who financed this whole thing.

"He paid for the money in Phoenix. He paid for the liquor that two of the defendants and Sinatra Jr. shared together.

"He financed the rise of young Sinatra from a $100-a-week band singer to an international star. Why, young Sinatra even preceded the Beatles on the Ed Sullivan show."

Ten Witnesses On Hand But No Magistrate

A cattle-theft case was postponed in Belleville, Ont., for lack of reasons this morning — the magistrate failed to show up. Everybody else did, though. Crown Attorney John Pringle had called ten witnesses to testify for the prosecution, against John Melvin Maracle, 25-year-old Tyendinaga man.

Obviously embarrassed, Mr. Pringle told his witnesses: "You will all be paid for your time and once here. I express my sincere regrets for this . . ."

Some of the witnesses were from out-of-town. Court officials later estimated the delay this morning cost $1,000 in witness fees alone.

The dilemma was eased by deferring the case until February 27. To do that, Mr. Pringle had to hastily summon Belleville deputy police chief J. C. Hayes who, as a justice of the peace, remanded Maracle on bail.

Maracle is charged with stealing two steers from the farm of William Latchford near Shannonville last October. This morning's proceedings would have been a preliminary hearing.

MAINLY CHRISTIAN

West Germany's 1961 census showed that of 54,000,000 inhabitants, 95.7 per cent belonged to either Protestant or Roman Catholic churches.

Alertness of Hotel Night Clerk Saves Woman's Life's Savings

Police today alleged the alertness of a hotel night clerk had rescued the life savings of an elderly Belleville woman.

A suitcase containing nearly $3,000 in cash was found in a room at the Queen's Hotel after officers were called in by clerk James Robertson.

Police have charged Mrs. Martha Tyler, 54, with theft. They said the money was taken from a house on Everett St., but declined to identify the owner other than as an 80-year-old woman.

Detectives said a man and woman—described as "casual acquaintances" who met in a beverage room earlier in the night—came to the hotel early this morning.

Later he returned and also checked into a room—on another floor.

Mr. Robertson became suspicious when Belleville Constables Leo Kent and Allan Lecroqua went to the hotel and questioned the pair in their rooms.

The suitcase, police claim, was found in the woman's room and contained $2,977. The man was released after questioning.

As before, they entered the store and sought out the cigarette counter.

Today, the groceteria staff once more are checking stock to see how many cigarettes are missing this time.

Charge Russian 'Trade' Mission Busy Spying

STOCKHOLM (Reuters)—The newspaper Expressen says Sweden's armed forces commander has asked the government to restrict freedom of movement of foreign embassy personnel because Soviet trade representatives have been making trips "which can have no other aim than military spying."

A defence ministry spokesman confirmed that armed forces supreme commander Gen. Torsten Rapp had written to the government, as reported by the newspaper, but he refused to disclose the contents of the letter.

Expressen said the security service has established that "a large number of the personnel in the Soviet Union's so-called trade representation in Sweden are being used for journeys into the country which can have no other aim than military spying.

Jaycees Expect To Receive Federal Charter

Belleville Jaycees expect to receive a federal charter soon. The group has been in operation for three years now, recognized by the national body but not officially recognized by the government. With projects such as the Home and Sport Show, however, members decided a federal charter is in order.

Changes to the Belleville Jaycees' constitution required before the charter could be issued, were passed last night by the members. Now the appropriate application forms have been forwarded to Ottawa.

Jaycee Tom Lally, representing the group in legal matters says the charter should be granted in about two weeks.

As time goes by
We keep their watch up
Pieces, God let them know,
We have not forgot,
We loved and miss them so.
Inserted by daughter-in-law Anne, George, and daughter-in-law Kaye.

POST — In loving memory of Robert Wilfred Post who passed away February 12, 1963.

He didn't leave us any farewell words,
Nor was it to say goodbye,
He was gone before we knew.
That God needed another flower in His lovely garden now at rest, Peacefully he fell asleep.

—Ever remembered by his wife Anita and sons Terrance and Maybew and their families.

Mayor McDonald Faces Barrage of Criticism by Two Police Commission Members

TRENTON — Mayor D. James MacDonald, who last month was elected 1964 chairman of the Trenton Police Commission, last night faced a barrage of criticism from the other two members of his commission, Judge J. C. Anderson and Magistrate W. R. Philp of Peterborough. Some of the criticism was levelled at the head of town council and was meant to be relayed to that body by the mayor. In at least one instance, the criticism was levelled at the mayor himself. Magistrate Philp admitted that the mayor was "in an unfortunate position" as head of both bodies and Judge Anderson referred to Trenton's Chief Magistrate as "the unfortunate link between council and the commission."

Last month, the commission called for an early meeting between council and the commission to discuss such points as the police department being placed on a 40-hour week and the necessity of hiring at least one more man to implement the 40-hour week without weakening the department's service to the public. Also recommended for discussion by Judge Anderson and Magistrate Philp was council's failure to pay the chief of police a car allowance for two years back and a car allowance and clothing allowance to Inspector R. J. Rutherford for the same length of time.

Last night, Magistrate Philp commented on council's failure to arrange such a meeting. "there'll be another moon in the sky before I ask to meet with them again."

Judge Anderson charged that council was trying to run the commission "by remote control" and warned that the commission would brook no interference with the exercise of its prerogative. The judge was referring specifically to council's "arbitrary" action in calling tenders for the purchase of two police cruisers, over the signature of clerk-comptroller O. W. Larry, when the commission had recommended that the police department continue to rent cruisers. Judge Anderson said that he was willing to discuss the purchase of cruisers but said that such a purchase was the prerogative of the commission.

APPROVED REPORT

The commission as a whole approved the annual report submitted by Police Chief F. J. Taylor but a motion to "authorize the chief to advertise immediately for an additional man for the force and to implement a 40-hour week as soon as he is hired," was approved only by the judge and magistrate.

Mayor MacDonald also refused to approve the presentation to council on two alternative police budgets to the town for 1964. One budget incorporated the hiring of one additional man; the other, the hiring of two additional men, bringing the force up to 21 men, including the chief. The budgets will be presented to council along with a covering letter, explaining the possible diminishing of service if the full complement is placed on a 40-hour week with only 20 men on the force. Mayor MacDonald based his objection to the proposed budgets on last year's recommendation by Judge D. J. MacDonald, the former chairman of the Ontario Police Commission, that the 40-hour week could be implemented with the present force. Judge Anderson pointed out that Judge MacDonald had also recommended that council pay the back clothing and car allowances to the chief and the inspector, and said that he was willing to discuss with council the judge's recommendations if council were willing to consider all the recommendations.

Judge Anderson recalled that Judge Macdonald had commented on council's request last year that the police budget be cut by $30,000, which council seemed "to be more concerned about the $600 car and clothing allowance than it was about the $30,000." Judge Anderson also said that he had been told by Judge Macdonald in a letter that council wanted its recommendations carried out, "with as little publicity to council as possible."

"We have a duty to bring the facts of the situation before the public," said the Judge.

Mayor MacDonald was criticized for asking Constable Douglas Bradshaw, the president of the Trenton Police Association, to submit a work schedule, utilizing 19 men and implementing the 40-hour week. "This had been done," said the judge, "behind the chief's back," and constituted on the part of the police officer, a breach of the Police Act. He said that the mayor had seriously undermined the chief's position by approaching a Police Association member with the suggestion.

MAYOR EXPLAINS POSITION

Mayor MacDonald explained that he had been concerned about the members of the department being "unhappy" because the 40-hour week had not been implemented and had only wanted to compare a schedule worked out by the men with the one worked out by Chief Taylor.

Judge Anderson said he thought the public should be made aware of the lessening of police service to the public if the 40-hour week were implemented with the present force. He pointed out that with the recent annexation by the town of parts of Murray and Sidney townships, at least 500 more persons had been added to the town's population and 453 more acres added to the town's area. If the system were implemented with one additional man, the service would be better, he said, and if two additional men were hired, the men could go on a straight eight-hour shift with no loosening of service.

Magistrate Philp suggested that councillors were not familiar with the running of the department and the chief's problems.

Judge Anderson then proposed the motion that the chief be empowered to hire an additional man for the force and that the two budgets be presented to council.

"Hiring an extra man is the only way we can implement the 40-hour week without weakening the service to the public," Judge Anderson said. "If council wants us to hire the second man later on the strength of the our recommendation, we can do so."

"It's time we brought this to a head and stopped this nonsense," Magistrate Philp agreed. "We should point out to council the curtailment of services even with one additional man and the drastic curtailment if no additional men are hired."

Trenton Man In Possession Of Stolen Goods

TRENTON — In magistrate's court at Trenton on Tuesday, 23-year-old Albert Lindsay of 31 College St., Trenton, was sentenced to three months in jail by Magistrate T. Y. Wills, on two charges of illegal possession of goods. Last week, Lindsay was found guilty of being in possession of a chain saw, stolen from a Hillier area farmer, Roy Hamilton, in December. Yesterday, Magistrate Wills also found Lindsay guilty of being in possession of a quantity of stolen goods, valued at $30.

At the last court session, three area youths, Clare Whitehead of Trenton, Robert Foster of Frankford and Laverne Brown of Hillier, were sentenced to two months in jail when they pleaded guilty to the theft of the saw and tools.

A third charge against Lindsay, that of possession of a Mall chain saw, was dismissed for lack of evidence.

CAUGHT AT GRAFTON

Shortly after one o'clock yesterday afternoon, 21-year-old Clifford Maskery, an escapee from the Collins Bay Penitentiary, was apprehended by provincial police from the Cobourg detachment at Grafton.

Maskery was seen in the back yard of a Grafton home and chased by the police and several Grafton citizens.

The man, object of an area search by police from 9 p.m. Monday night, has been transferred back to Collins' Bay.

SEQUENCE OF EVENTS demonstrated last night at the I.A.P.A. meeting in Trenton shows the potential danger of static electricity. Plastic rod rubbed with handkerchief by I.A.P.A. demonstrator Bill Twist picks up static charge. When rod is moved close to explosion tube held by Roy Wales, gasoline-oxygen mixture is touched off by static charge. Explosion causes Mr. Wales to close his eyes — an unplanned feature of the demonstration.

Shows Static Electricity Is Dangerous

For the first time in five years, Bill Twist of the I.A.P.A. had to modify his show because of health problems. He had laryngitis, the result of a week-long cold. He also had an hour-long demonstration of static electricity planned, part of his work for the Industrial Accident Prevention Association. He compromised by showing 24 minutes of film, supplemented by "live" demonstrations, at the Belleville - Trenton section I.A.P.A. meeting in Trenton last night.

The "live" demonstration went off with a bang — a bang produced by an oxygen-gasoline mixture in an explosion tube. The mixture was touched off with static electricity produced by such commonplace actions as picking up a plastic sheet from a metal surface.

Purpose of the demonstration was to show the hazards arising from static electricity, how it is generated and how it can be controlled.

About sixty members of the Belleville-Trenton section of the I.A.P.A. turned out for the demonstration, and the section's monthly meeting. Chairman for the meeting was Mike Cooper, of Northern Electric, standing in for P. C. Lund Hinton, Carbide, who was in New York on business. At the head table for the meal were Alex Twigg, field representative of the I.A.P.A., James Sault of Proctor Silex in Picton, Les Sharp of Pyrotenax, Harold Keefer of Central Bridge, Fred Clark of Canada Cement, Mr. Twist and his assistant, Roy Wales.

Mr. Twist was introduced to the meeting by Les Sharp and thanked for his demonstration by Fred Clark.

Team To Be Proud Of

Canada did not have the best hockey club in the 1964 Olympic Games, but it had a good hockey club which conducted itself in admirable fashion.

There is no reason why any Canadian should be ashamed of it. On the contrary, it was one of three teams which were grouped as second best. (anybody knows that the point-spread system of deciding precedence is ridiculous), and it gave the excellent Russian team its hardest game of the tournament.

There was no question about the Russians deserving top honors. They outshot the Canadians by more than two to one.

Nor is there any sense in complaints that we are unfairly handicapped, that our amateurs are being forced to play against Russian professionals.

The distinction between amateur and professional is sometimes difficult enough to make in our economy; it becomes virtually impossible under the Russians' economic system, where everybody in the land is employed by the state.

Olympic rules need to be changed, but not to exclude so-called Russian "professionals." Rather the Games should be open to all athletes. Some will complain that this is contrary to the original spirit of the Olympic Games. Of course it is. And so is the whole idea of international competition. To compete in the Greek Olympics one had to be a Greek; those of foreign blood were excluded.

Profit and Loss

The development of Saturn I, a rocket taller than the Statue of Liberty, has touched off a wave of happy chest-beating in our neighbor to the south.

Saturn I is more powerful than any known Russian rocket and on Jan. 29 sent into orbit a satellite weighing almost 19 tons, more than double the weight of any previous rocket "payload."

The Americans are now rejoicing that they have, at last, caught up with and surpassed the Russians in the one phase of the space race in which, a few years ago, the Reds were conceded to enjoy supremacy.

Any urge the onlooker may have to join in the cheering is somewhat dampened by memories of past contests.

There was a day when the Americans shrugged off the power of Russian rockets as irrelevant and immaterial. What counted, they argued, was not the size of the payload but the accuracy with which it could be controlled, not rocket thrust but instrumentation.

U.S. instruments, we were told, were much better than the Russians'. The word commonly used was "sophisticated."

Suddenly, though, we find that it is brawn and not brains which count in the rocket race. The development of Saturn I would be in itself inadequate explanation for this switch in emphasis. Unfortunately there also comes to mind the fact that the Russians took pictures of the moon, while the latest Ranger plunged in blind, that Russian cosmonauts have met in orbit. Not only brawn, but sophistication, apparently appears to be on the other foot.

Happily this makes no earthly difference. U.S. rockets always were powerful enough to provide that country with an effective "nuclear deterrent" and no amount of added sophistication will make the Russian rocket threat any more deadly, since it has long since been capable of killing us all.

In space, of course, it is different. Even more powerful rockets are needed if man is to make his first real space trip—and frequent failures show that even the most sophisticated of present-day instruments can act as if they were straight from some farm workshop.

All that can be safely said about the comparative skills of Russians and Americans in the field of rockets and instruments is that performance would almost certainly be enhanced if they worked in co-operation.

It is not the humanist's ignorance of science or the scientist's ignorance of the humanities which is important, but their common ignorance of the society that they are living in, and of their responsibilities as citizens. It is not the humanist's inability to read a textbook in physics or the physicist's inability to read a textbook in literary criticism, but the inability of both of them to read the morning paper with the kind of insight which is demanded of educated citizens.—H. Northrop Frye, Principal, Victoria College.

African View of Creation

A Malagasy folk tale, recorded for UNESCO Features

Ietse was the first man. He was alone on earth and he was very happy for he did not have to work in order to live. He spent his time making statues in his own image.

He had just completed his 10th statue when God said to one of his slaves:

"I want you to marry Ietse. Perhaps she will not want to marry me, she answered.

"Go shall see. Take these calabashes, the first one contains cold. When you arrive you will open it and Ietse will come close to you in order to warm himself. If he does not come near you, then you will open the second calabash. Heat will come out of it and he will need the coolness of your arms.

"If he hesitates, you will open the third calabash. It contains thirst. Then he will ask you for water. But he is so stubborn that he may still resist: if he does, then open the fourth calabash under and you will prepare delicious foods for him. If you fail, here are mountains. They are in the fifth calabash. He will ask you to lend him your lamba (piece of cloth which the Malagasies drape themselves) to protect himself from their stings. If he refuses to listen to you, then here are all the lambas. I will not forget that he will be able to stand there all day you will rub him with this balm. But, if he yields, he will be overdone: you will let it seep out through the opening of the seventh calabash. Ietse will then tell him beautiful stories. If they do not interest him, then let laughter out of the eighth calabash. He does not know laughter and he will come close to you to hear it and to imitate it.

When the woman arrived on earth, Ietse pretended that he did not see her.

She opened the first calabash. He immediately started to feel fire. She opened the second calabash and took shelter in the woods in the cool shade of the tall trees.

She released thirst, and he drank the water of the second plant. To fight hunger, he picked a few bananas and he watched her scornfully as she peeped fool. The mosquitoes swarmed over him. He threw them away with his hand and when his body started itching, he scratched himself against a tree. Boredom invaded him and to keep busy he began to dust wood without listening to her stories. Laughter burst out of the last calabash, but he put his fingers in his ears and fell asleep.

Having failed in her mission, the woman returned to heaven and told God that she had not been successful. God shrugged his shoulders and sent her back to her kitchen.

Then he called his favorite daughter, beautiful Ivelo, and sent her down to earth. To attract the man, Ivelo had put on her most beautiful gown. It was made of veils in seven colors: violet, indigo, blue, green, yellow, orange and red. Ietse found her so beautiful that he agreed to keep her and to marry her.

From the time Ivelo arrived on earth, the sun kept shining and Ietse had no more attention to his statues. He spent his days watching her. One day, Ivelo said to him:

"I am bored. I would like to play with your statues, but they are lifeless and I should not ask my father to give me life for them.

She returned to heaven and rain began to fall. Then Ivelo came back, bringing with her sunshine and a wash filled with life. She poured it over the statues and they became alive. They were the children of Ietse and Ivelo.

But Ivelo once again became bored. She used to go away more and more often, returning only for short spells. Then Ietse died and his descendants, men, always say "Ietse in memory of him when they sneeze.

Wants Sidewalk Cafes

Aylmer, Que., Reporter—

Let's apply some of our French heritage to Aylmer, in Paris they put sidewalk cafes and watch the world go by and the world does go by in Paris.

The world goes to Paris — not for the flavor of the wine, but for the flavor of the city itself.

The sidewalk cafe is becoming a institution in Paris, as an institution that our French forebears unwisely left at home.

They're a place for people to argue politics, make strangers and savor good food and good conversation.

They've tried them on a minor duller scale in Ottawa — and they worked like magic. It's the sidewalk cafe that will be the final dash of color to Ottawa's Sparks Street Mall.

Liquor laws in Ontario have the addition of what's really missing from these cafes — the serving of beer and wine.

Perhaps in Ontario there is more the approach to drinking is a little more logical, we would have genuine cafes and not just another place for them than Aylmer?

They could be the needed boost to put Aylmer on the tourist map. Hundreds of thousands of free-spending tourists visit Ottawa every year. Some of them would come to Aylmer to see her sidewalk cafes — if there were any.

Just imagine the changes that could be made.

A bank holiday — and grass — could be added to the park.

Soft music would float through the air of a warm summer night and people would sip wine or beer below multicolored awnings and admire the passers-by.

There's already the start of a cafe at the Aylmer Hotel. All that's needed to bring it to the sidewalk is the knocking down of a wall.

Traffic could even be cut off from the Aylmer to the Bellvile Hotels and the town could put out a few of its own potted trees, benches and tables.

And we could have something different — a Chinese sidewalk cafe.

In that stretch of road there are two hotels and two restaurants, one of them Chinese. Tourists would also find a hardware store, a pool room, post office, drug store and clothing shop.

Now there's a centennial project worth thinking about. Or is it?

Gold was discovered in New South Wales, Australia, 113 years ago today—in 1851. Discoveries began near Clunes, at Anderson's Creek, near Buninyong and in amazing richness at Ballarat and Bendigo. The rush was on, and land prices and wages soared. In 1850, the population of New South Wales and Victoria was 205,000, but by 1859 it had jumped to 886,393. Sentences Need Review

Ottawa Journal

In a week's news there were there examples of sentences passed in the courts:

In Perth two men who broke into a Carleton Place store and stole some tradios, television sets and musical instruments were sentenced to three years each in penitentiary.

In Brockville a motorist who went off the road on to a sidewalk, struck and killed a 15-year-old girl, left the scene, came with his light off and went off the road a second time, was sentenced to a month in jail. He had a record of six convictions for traffic offences and admitted having several bottles of beer two hours before the fatal accident.

In Hull a man convicted of criminal negligence in an accident in which a seven-year-old child was killed was sentenced to two months in jail. Witnesses said he had been driving and driving recklessly before the accident. The maximum permissible sentence for criminal negligence is life imprisonment.

The one-month sentence for dangerous driving and the two-month sentence for criminal negligence were both imposed by judges presiding at their first criminal trials.

These sentences could well be reviewed by the Attorney-General's departments of the provinces concerned.

Rural Trader Disappears

Windsor Star

One of the once popular practices in rural Ontario seems to have gone into a decline. That is the trading by farmers among themselves, or with anyone else who happened along. (Those were the days, of course, when farm wives traded butter and eggs at the country store for merchandise they required).

Every rural community had those who were adept traders. They were honest but shrewd. (A dishonest man soon found none would deal with him.) They were keen buyers, however, if they could get it in a dicker.

We recall one such who dealt on an infinite 50-cent farm as part payment on 150 acres of choice land. He ended up owning it. He started by having set up two sons on other farms of their own. He achieved it all by the shrewd practice of his astuteness in a trade.

There was almost nothing he wouldn't trade, if he could get a fair deal and sometimes to boot. During the winter months, when there was little doing on the farm, he would visit around here and there, perhaps dealing a couple of piglets for a sow; or a cow for a horse. Over the years he made out quite well, thank you.

One would think other farmers would beware such characters. Really, however, they and these traders. They liked matching wits, and knowledge of horseflesh etc. A bit of dickering added interest to a dull winter day. It was part of the rural way of life.

Germs and White Cells At War Cause Infection

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: What causes a chronic infection? My doctor says it could be one of a hundred things. My blood count showed more white than red cells — 8-4.

One of a hundred things? I think your doctor is conservative.

Some infections come to a head quickly — an infected finger, or a cold, or a boil, or any number of others. Your body does battle with the invading germs. The number of white cells in the blood increases, because these are needed to kill and consume the germs.

"Infection" means that microscopic armies of germs and WBC white cells are at war.

Not all infections reach such a decisive climax, though. There can be a pocket of infection which smoulders along. Perhaps we could compare it to what we once thought, in 1939, was a "phony war" in Europe; Armies facing each other but not doing very little fighting.

The white cells may be mobilized in the blood, there can be some subtle elevation of temperature; fatigue, and lassitude; a change in sedimentation rate of the blood; anemia. There may be vague aches and pains — and yet a "true" infection may break out to the extent that the point of infection becomes obvious.

For just a few examples, there may be infection at the root of a tooth or teeth; or in the gums; or the sinuses; or, in a man, the prostate; or, in a woman, a tubal infection; or a gall bladder trouble, or a rupture of a diverticulum, or an ulcer in the bowel or anywhere else in the body. Nose and throat are two common sites.

These remarks may not be of much consolation to you, but they will at least give a notion of the complexity of the problem until the type and place of the infection are learned.

If it is bacterial infection, the use of an appropriate antibiotic may, in the end, give you quick and, easy solution. But even then it is necessary to know which kind of bacteria.

In other instances surgical removal of the infected area may be preferable — extraction of a tooth, drainage for an infected sinus, removal of a gall bladder, drainage or other treatment for an abcess, healing of an ulcer.

Dear Dr. Molner: I was told that rubbing lemon rind on corns or bunions would help, but I have tried this many times without relief. Should I use the inside of the lemon instead? — Mrs. E. D.

No. Just forget that anybody told you about lemon rind. It will not help either corns or bunions.

Dear Dr. Molner: We have a two-week-old baby in the family. Relatives want to take flash pictures at frequent intervals. I question the safety of this. Will the baby's eyes be affected? She sits as the flash goes off, although her eyes are closed. — Mrs. E. D.

To the best of my knowledge, the baby's eyes will not be harmed. The flash should not, of course, be aimed straight into the baby's face if the eyes are open. An adult wouldn't like that either, so why would a baby?

With eyes closed, the baby will still notice the flash, as you would, because the eyelids are not cut off light entirely. So she stirs, but it doesn't mean any damage is occuring.

Shingles can be a painful disease! To receive a copy of my pamphlet "The Facts About Shingles," write Dr. Molner in care of The Chicago Sun-Times Syndicate, P. O. Box 128, Dundee, Ill. enclosing a long, self-addressed stamped envelope and 15 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Way in Easy, Way Out Is More Difficult

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

If there were only one thing we could say to young people, to which I knew they would listen, it would be the simple statement of fact: the way in is easy, the way out is hard.

This is true for any kind of trouble, for any mode of life, for any love or addiction later, as a minor but vexing example, the tortures we middle-aged people are now undergoing in order to stop smoking.

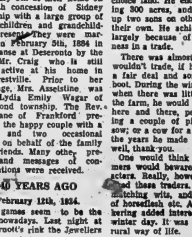
The way in was so easy, so pleasant and effortless. It made us feel grownup and sophisticated at 16, or whenever we started — and yet a "true" addiction later, we are pathetic slaves to a habit we resent and despise ourselves for more than we enjoy it.

Every day we read stories about men who "borrowed" money from their employer for playing the stock market or other types of gambling. They all believed they could make restitution; but without exception they got in above their heads, and before they knew it, vast sums had been embezzled. The way in was so easy.

A sexual affair may begin as a gay, adventurous lark — but when the fun is over, the way out may be complex, damaging, disastrous, in any of a dozen different ways. There is only one kind of happiness, but an almost infinite number of troubles. The odds are forbidding.

I was thinking through Edmund Wilson's sad and bitter little book over the weekend — the book in which he tries to explain his income tax problems. He was unbelievably stupid in failing to file returns for a few years — but, again, for him it was apparently the way in: to do nothing, to let things drift, to keep compounding his tragic mistake.

He will be paying the rest of his life for this mistake, for this error of slackness. The future is finally catching up with him in one way or another; tomorrow stands implacably against today; what we do (or do not do) determines what we become; and the interest on our past commitments until it overwhelms the principal.



The clock is stacked against us from the beginning whether you call it "original sin" or some other, similar, doctrine.

There are a hundred ways to do a thing wrong, and only one way to do it right. The opportunities for error are numerous, attractive and plausible. Life is a series of booby traps disguised as blessings, of wrong turnings marked "This Way to the Fun Spot."

This is the only thing I would say to young people. But would they listen? Or would they understand? Any more than I did at their age? Can we learn from anyone else? Is it possible to believe what we have not felt, have not experienced? Knowledge can be transmitted; but the wisdom of the aching bone seems somehow incommunicable.

Corby Library Service Doubles In Five Years

Book circulation at the Corby Public Library has doubled in the past five years, members of the library board were told at their annual meeting last night.

Circulation in 1963 totalled 468,221 as compared with 203,447 in 1959. In the five year period the circulation of boys' and girls' books increased from 99,840 to 243,775 last year. Adult book circulation last year was 184,446.

Of the total adult books loaned, 37,139 were non-fiction titles, with biology leading in popularity followed by useful arts, fine arts, history and travel.

There were also increases in the reading of sociology, philosophy and religion.

On the other hand boys and girls found interest in books on space travel, war, poetry, fairies, horses and dinosaurs.

The reference library was put to good use with an estimated 4,500 queries for information being received.

MANY USE FILMS

Sixty-eight organizations, churches, schools and other groups utilized the services of the film council, with members borrowing 961 films and 22 film strips.

Other services offered by the Corby Library include circulation of books for patients in Belleville General Hospital and outpost libraries in eight of the city schools.

The year there were 12,575 books in the school book collections.

It is expected that the city's new East End Branch Library will be completed early in the spring and will be open to the public by mid-June.

A regional library co-operative for this area has been approved, with the board to be comprised of members from Peterborough, Belleville and Kingston and three members to be elected by other libraries in the area. Mr. W. G. Anderson has been named the regional board representative from Belleville.

The region is comprised of the counties of Haliburton, Victoria, Hastings, Lennox and Addington, Northumberland and Durham, Peterborough, Frontenac and Prince Edward.

Last year's Corby Library financial report showed receipts of $85,986.10, made up principally by the municipal levy, amounting to $40,360, and the legislative grant of $26,132.

Expenditures included $38,430 in salaries for the librarian and he, assistants, $3,500 for the janitor and his assistants and $17,220 for books.

Ontario Intelligencer Cup Won by Mrs. E. Broadbent And Rink From Newmarket

The Valentine bonspiel sponsored by the women's section of the Quinte Curling Club was an unqualified success in every particular and so reported the event become it will have to be expanded to accommodate all those who wish to enter. Twenty-four rinks comprised the draw for this year and Mrs. Emma Broadbent of Newmarket with a rink of Mrs. Bev. Stevenson, Mrs. Doris Fry and Mrs. Ruth Mabbett of Toronto proud possessors of The Ontario Intelligencer trophy and beautiful replicas in the coming year and with the prospect the rink will be back next year to defend their laurels.

Mrs. Jane Sheppard and her rink of Mrs. Lela Beare, Mrs. Jessie Baker and Mrs. Anne Alexander, the only local rink to enter the silverware class was defeated in the final game by Mrs. Broadbent 12-3 but probably supplied the thrill of the spiel by getting into the final game the hardway. In the afternoon draw the rink was three down to Mrs. D. Dennes of Scarborough coming home but had last rock, which incidentally was not required as Mrs. Sheppard's rink scored a four-ender.

In the event Mrs. Francis "Fran" Millar of Kingston, who won the trophy three years in a row was also unsuccessful in capturing a piece of the prizes. The rink lost their first game to the Kensington four but came on like champions to capture the second event defeating Mrs. Fred Brandt of Napanee 12-5. Mrs. Millar had her original rink of Mrs. E. Guest, Mrs. Ken Gulley and Mrs. "Sparky" Cole, while Mrs. Battle had Mrs. Merle Foulger, Mrs. Ev Gulley and Mrs. Marjorie Pearce.

The third event was won by Mrs. Mildred Bowdry of the RCAF with a rink of Mrs. Hope Haverson, Mrs. Bev. Legrow and Mrs. Bobby Reid who defeated a rink of Mrs. Elsie Shoniker, Mrs. Ann Condette and Mrs. Dorothy Beares skipped by Mrs. Beth Dunfield of the Trenton Curling Club. Mrs. Bowdry was forced to play back-to-back games to reach the charmed circle and they were a tired rink of curlers when the last stone was delivered.

PRIZES AWARDED

Mrs. Agnes Walker, chairman of the bonspiel and Mrs. Doris Bannon president of the women's section were in charge of the awarding of prizes. Mrs. Bannon thanked the visiting curlers for their presence and hoped that all had a pleasant time. Mrs. Walker thanked her committee for the wonderful help given her. Mrs. Kay Pape and Mrs. Jessie Baker for the delicious dinner served, Mrs. Gladys Duffy for the lovely tea at which Mrs. Everett Black, wife of the president of the club and Mrs. Nina Gault poured, Mrs. Nina Gault for the artistic arrangements and to the two drawmasters, L. E. McLean and Claude Tice. Claude D. Tice, city editor, presented the trophy and replicas, and congratulated the winning rink on their excellent curling during the spiel.

A special thanks goes out to the ice-maker, Jack Clearwater, for the fine condition of the ice during the spiel. For the finals held last evening the ice was probably the fastest it has been all winter and the curlers had difficulty controlling their weight. The spiel was well-managed, splendidly handled in every detail and the visitors left for their several homes with happy memories of a fine holiday and wonderful hospitality. The women's section of the Quinte Club are to be congratulated on the excellence of the bonspiel and all will look forward to another year. The results follow.

"Some people think that an electric can opener is ridiculous", she said, "and it is a little slow opening the can, but think of all the things you can do while it is opening it".

Speaking Personally

By Gladys Ward

HOME AND SCHOOL

If memory serves me right, King George School was the first in Belleville to have a Home and School Association. It would probably be more correct to say it was a mothers' and teachers' meeting.

A woman who used to go to the meetings told me of her experiences getting her husband to attend. After much persuasion, nagging and coercion she finally got him to accompany her. When they got to the school there were exactly three men there, her husband, the school principal and the janitor. It was a long time before she talked him into going again. A system was set up to encourage fathers to attend by awarding two points for a father when the room count was taken. Mother was worth just one point. This, I believe is still done. Then the Association began setting aside one meeting as "Fathers' Night." The idea was that fathers should prepare the program, make and serve the lunch.

It is an encouraging sign of the times that fathers are now office holders and active participants at the meetings. After all, a child has two parents.

Some of the Associations are having a rough time staying in existence. And some, I understand, have disbanded.

The reason, it seems to me, is that the programs fail to provide the stimulating quality which the parents want at the meetings. For instance, a member of one Home and School told me that, at one of their meetings the program had been colored slides of the Holy Land. Another had an evening of ceramics. Now this may be interesting, but it has no relevancy, whatever with home or school. Parents who attend a meeting do so because they are interested in their children, in what their children are learning, in what they as parents can learn to help them in the vital job of rearing a child, and in the problems of their particular child at school.

Many people regard Home and School as a social club, or a money raising group. A woman once said to me, "What do they do at Home and School besides play euchre?" I was stunned at this question. The woman had no children and had never attended a meeting but this apparently was the image of the Association that was being projected.

Like all organizations there are expenses that must be met, but these are insignificant and require one money making project a year. Home and School is not a ladies' aid society to provide books, slides, radios, curtains, or equipment for the school. If these are needed it is the task of the Home and School to bring this need to the attention of the school boards, and to request that these things be provided. I heard of one rural school where the first aid box was equipped by the Home and School. This is not the purpose of this organization.

The business of the Home and School is everything that concerns the child, whether at home or school, and its job is one of education. It is a process of adult learning — learning about children, about methods of teaching, about the effects of environment that surround the child at home and at school.

If the proper objectives are kept in mind, surely parents who are interested in their children, and most parents are, will see to it that Home and School stays active, and stays on the track.

Congregational Meeting

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

DESERONTO — In a town of old buildings it is not unusual to find someone questioning whether it is better to tear down and rebuild or to repair.

Such was the case at the annual meeting of the congregation of the Church of the Redeemer, Deseronto's Presbyterian Church.

The manse, one of the larger red-brick dwellings in town, has been in need of repair for some time. The problem of maintaining it fit for the occupation of student pastor Westerhoff and his family has caused much concern to the members of the St. George St. church.

For some time the family of Mr. Westerhoff have been living in the former Sig Wessm a n home on Mill Street. The pastor James Westerhoff, is in his final year in the Presbyterial College in Toronto.

The matter was left in the hands of the church board who have contacted the town council with a request to reduce or remove the assessment. Council have referred the matter to the Court of Revision.

The Rev. Max Putnam of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Kingston, and inter-moderator of the district, chaired the meeting in the absence of the pastor.

Besides the reports of organizations the congregation accepted the resignation of Mrs. M. H. Rathbun from the trustee board and appointed David Smith to fill the vacancy.

Mrs. Charles Dimmell and Henry Hiever were appointed to the board of managers.

The meeting was held in the home of Mrs. Sam Geddes with Mrs. M. Stevenson acting as secretary.

Women's Institutes

PLAINFIELD W.I.

The February meeting of Plainfield W.I. was held at the home of Mrs. A. Wright with an attendance of 27 members and three visitors.

Letters of business were read and discussed.

A card party was held at the home of Mrs. G. Hall on February 8th.

Mrs. G. Swan thanked the Institute for cards, visits and gifts which she had received while a patient in Belleville Hospital.

Mrs. Ray Sullivan convener for home economics gave instructions on how to visit patients in a hospital.

Readings were given by Mrs. W. Gow and Mrs. R. Sullivan.

A skit entitled, "The Milky Way" was presented by ten girls from "Plainfied Homemakers Club" who had completed the course under the leadership of Mrs. H. Hodgen and Mrs. C. Marshall.

The girls were presented with a gift of crystal from the institute.

Mrs. G. Hall on behalf of the W.I. presented Mrs. Nicholl with a gift as he will be leaving the Institute in March to take up residence in Norwood.

Mrs. Nicholl expressed thanks to the members.

Refreshments prepared and served by the Girls Club were enjoyed.

Women of Olney Regain Pancake Racing Title

LIBERAL, Kan. (AP)—The women of Olney, England, regained the international pancake racing title in their annual Shrove Tuesday contest with the girls of Liberal, Kan.

The victory, giving Olney an eight-to-seven edge in the series which began in 1950, came when Mrs. Bridget Lowrie crossed the finish line in the Olney leg of the race in one minute, 6.4 seconds.

That was 2.7 seconds better than the time of Miss Grace Kostreva, 20-year-old telephone operator, who topped the field of 15 contestants at Liberal.

Times of the two winners are compared to determine the international champion.

Mrs. Lowrie's time for the 415-yard, s-shaped course was good, but it was slower than the record one minute 5.1 seconds posted by Mrs. Binnie Dick of Liberal in 1955.

The Race in Liberal was run in clear, 35-degree weather.

"I knew I had to give it everything I had because I had good competition," she said. "My legs hurt and I'm tired."

Refreshments prepared and served by the women of women running the course flipping pancakes with frying pans.

BELL'S CORNERS, Ont. (CP)

Elizabeth Maryon, a 19-year-old flapjack flipper from Buckingham, England, has won the first international pancake race between the women of Buckingham and this Ottawa suburb.

Twenty Bell's Corners ladies ran an icy 415-yard course Tuesday evening but were shy of Miss Maryon's mark by 10.1 seconds. Elizabeth was the Buckingham leg of the race earlier Tuesday with a time of one minute 12.9 seconds. Pamela Marshall, a 19-year-old stenographer, was the Bell's Corners winner in one minute and 23 seconds.

The Canadian women were not downcast at the defeat. They have long been looking for entry into the international flapjack-flipping circuit.

They tried in vain for two years to break into the 15-year-old annual competition between Olney, England, and Liberal, Kan. They were spurned each time by the Vicar of Olney, who feared the entry would lead to a flood of applicants.

Rules of the Shrove Tuesday pancake game dictate that the competitors wear aprons and run the outdoor course flipping a pancake in a frying pan as they go.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Milne, Campbellford, who recently celebrated 50 years of marriage.

Golden Wedding Celebrated By Campbellford Couple

CAMPBELLFORD — Mr. and Mrs. Charles Milne, operators of a nursing home here, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary Sunday when they were at home to friends and neighbors during the afternoon and evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Milne were married at the bride's home in Rawdon township on February 12, 1914. Mrs. Milne, the former Bertha Elizabeth Meiklejohn, is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Peter Meiklejohn of Rawdon township. Mr. Milne is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Milne.

For several years following their marriage, the couple lived on the bridegroom's farm in Seymour township in the Burnbrae area. They moved to Campbellford 37 years ago.

The couple have two daughters: Mrs. Elmer Armstrong (Muriel), presently at home; Mrs. Harold Armstrong (Marjorie) of Sharbot Lake and a son, Charles Connor Milne of Scarborough. There are two grandchildren.

Scores of persons attended the "open house" held at the home on Sunday, and the couple received many cards and messages of congratulation. Among the messages received was an illuminated scroll signed by the Hon. John Roberts, premier of Ontario, and delivered personally by Russell Rowe, MPP for Northumberland. A number of gifts and bouquets of flowers were also received from the family and their friends.

Bar-Mitzvah Is Important Occasion for Jewish Boy

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS — We have been invited to the Bar-Mitzvah ceremony for the son of Jewish friends of ours. He "will be called to the reading of the Torah." We are also asked to join them afterwards for "Kiddush."

Please tell me what takes place, what to wear, and what we are to do. We are not Jewish. — JOHN AND JANE.

DEAR JOHN AND JANE — You have been honored. The occasion marks the coming of age of the son according to the rules of his church. He will be 13; and will have been receiving instruction in the Jewish faith. He read from the Jewish Bible.

Wear the kind of clothes you usually wear to church, and be sure your head is covered. At the service you do nothing but observe. Kiddush is the social occasion which follows. Send a gift if you wish; something to delight the heart of a 13-year-old boy.

• • •

DEAR DORIS — I am 18, employed and paying my board at home.

I have a bedroom with a TV, a record player and all the other necessities of a teen-age girl, all of which I consider strictly my own. However, my father does not agree with this. He says that if he feels like lying on my bed and using my television he has every right to do so because he is my father and the house is his.

We have a good sized rec. room downstairs equipped with a television and I feel that this is where my father should go to relax. Besides, if he wants to go to bed, he has his own room.

Is my father right in saying that he can use my room whenever he feels like it? — SELF-SUPPORTING.

DEAR SELF-SUPPORTING — A quiet, private room probably looks good to your Dad. How many others would he be sharing the rec. room with?

I agree that at 18 a self-supporting girl has a right to privacy. He has forgotten that his little girl now belongs more to herself than to him.

• • •

DEAR DORIS — I am planning to become an interior decorator. Could you please tell me if there is a great demand for interior decorators? Also, what sort of education and special training would I need? — FUTURE DECORATOR.

DEAR FUTURE DECORATOR — There is always room at the top for someone with special talent, especially trained. High school graduation comes first. Re special training, write again, this time enclosing a five-cent-stamped, self-addressed envelope for private reply.

• • •

Industry Has Given New Status to Women Says Jamaican Manufacturer

By RUSSELL KLMAN

KINGSTON, Jamaica (CP) — Each morning when Etta Rose dons her little white cloth cap and blue tunic to begin another day's work in a modern factory on this city's industrial estate, she utters a silent prayer of gratitude.

For this 36-year-old Negro mother of five, whose carpenter husband has been out of work for four months, the 6-6-a-week $18 job sealing cartons of jelly in the Canadian-owned plant is the difference between starvation and eating.

"If I didn't work here," she said above the blended tones of soft background music and the hum of the machines, "I don't think I could find any other employment."

A similar story is told by Winnifred Hilton in a nearby factories as a boost to economic development.

"Industry has given a new status to our women," says a Jamaican manufacturer. "It is a liberating force."

Beginning with the recent recognition given to West Indian womanhood by the selection of Miss Jamaica as Miss World, there are many other signs of the new niche being carved by women in the Caribbean.

In the air conditioned entrance hall at Kingston's showy Palisadoes airport, it's an efficient, uniformed female who checks the health documents of new arrivals. Outside, a pretty representative of the tourist bureau offers assistance in finding a hotel room.

ROLE IN POLITICS

At a service station on the main road into the city, the attendants at the gas pump are young women in dungarees.

Introduction of the universal franchise has made West Indian women a factor in politics. There is a female housing minister in Trinidad. In British Guiana, where American-born Janet Jagan is home affairs minister, a visitor can sit for hours listening with interest as an Indian housewife delivers a penetrating analysis of the current political scene.

But tradition dies hard and in Jamaica, especially among the poor, the woman continues to play a very special role.

In a society where illegitimacy is widespread and a tolerant view is exercised toward the man who defaults on his paternal responsibilities, the grandmother often takes over the father's duties.

Many Jamaicans who have since made a mark in the world can honestly say, "I was fathered by grandmother." For it is she who keeps many families together, has found shelter and sustenance for forsaken offspring and has tried to give them as good an education as possible.

WINS SUIT

MONTREAL (CP) — Quebec Superior Court Tuesday awarded $15,542 to the father of an eight-year-old boy who lost his eye May 3, 1956, in a scuffle with a playmate. Mr. Justice J. P. He ordered the father, Leo Gibeault, to pay the money to the victim's father, Leo Leblanc.

Britain Is Entering Age Of the Boot

By DOUG MARSHALL

LONDON (CP)—Fashion editors all agree. Britain is entering the age of the boot.

Nobody quite knows why. It may be part of the current national fetish for leather. Or it may have something to do with a post-imperial hankering for the grand old days when Kipling's boots, boots were marching over Africa.

Whatever the initial cause, men and women all over the land are vying with each other in a semi-sexual competition to prove who wears the boots best.

The men, of course, claim they've always worn boots — and their stylish, calf - length, elastic-sided boots with three-inch Cuban heels are merely a development from their days in the army or riding the range.

But it's the women who first made men boot-conscious by commandeering boots as an essential element of their female habiliment. That was about two years ago. Now men are beginning to fight back.

STARTED IN 1956S

It all started, say the fashion editors, with the craze for leather in the late 1950s. Soon every well - dressed young woman was wearing a leather jacket. Then came leather skirts. Black leather boots followed almost automatically.

Rigged out in this "ish gear"—which roughly translated means "fabulous equipment"—traditionally timid British girls began to emerge from their mousehole and reveal themselves as pert, poised and brazen creatures ready to do battle with any man.

All they lack, as they strut the streets of Chelsea, is a sword and buckler. In their eyes a cocksure glare, a challenge to every man to prove he's not a heel.

At first this jackbooted apparation over-awed the male. It still startles newcomers. American columnist John Crosby, after savoring London fare, wrote:

"These girls have added a new dimension to girlhood. They wear the kind of kooky garments that at home are worn only by models in the Sunday supplements. These are the most unabashedly sexy girls in the world right now and I think they are having fun."

SECRET YEN?

Why are they so sexy? Psychologists believe it's because of the resemblance of leather to skin. They also opine that most men secretly want to be dominated by the opposite sex.

It is this theory that outraged the cowering males and gave them strength for a counter-attack. They started with ankle-high, patent-leather Chelsea boots.

Then the Beatles, Liverpool's sensational foot - stamping rhythm group, introduced calf-high boots in soft, unlined leather and started a stampede that has kept cobblers hammering ever since. Finally other singers began wearing sleek knee-high marshal boots.

But it isn't just teen - agers and singers that are obsessed with boots. Nowadays you never know what lurks beneath a stockbroker's or a lawyer's pin-stripe trousers.

Says novelist Angus McGill in The Evening Standard: "You may think your bank manager is wearing shoes. But you may very well be wrong."

If You Could Have—

Tea With the Queen

By HELEN CATHCART

Touches of individual character embellish teatime in every royal home. Princess Margaret has her own personal tea service, and Princess Alexandra and the Duchess of Kent both admire and use the same everyday pattern.

Have you ever noticed how astonishingly the customs of teatime vary in every household? The quiet ceremonial of the tea-table has always been traditionally British, and fittingly it is nowhere heightened with touches of more intense individuality than in the homes of the Royal Family.

If you could have tea with the Queen in her sitting-room at Buckingham Palace, you would be surprised and intrigued, I think, to find that she likes to make the tea herself. These months of relaxation from public duties have brought the boon of teatime enjoyment with her friends and time to wait for the kettle to boil.

The Queen uses an early Victorian silver spirit kettle that is considered the nurses and youthful patients of a children's hospital. And at Balmoral the Queen always likes to use the tea-service of old Scottish silver, with its eighteen teaspoons, presented to her by the men and women of Aberdeenshire.

Behind outward simplicity, everything at the royal tea-table in fact has an enriching significance. A High Court judge and his wife went to tea one day and were delighted to be served with homely muffins. They did not remember till afterwards that the pair of silver muffin dishes had been a gift from the Bench of the Middle Temple. The governor of a woman's prison similarly admired the embroidery of an obviously modern tea-cloth: "I thought you might be interested," the Queen explained. "It was done for me by the Borstal girls at Greenock!"

Prince Philip had skilfully transformed into an electric kettle. And at the Palace Her Majesty keeps her own special blend of Darjeeling tea in a lovely jade tea caddy hat that once belonged to Queen Mary.

FAMILY HEIRLOOM

At Windsor, too, the Queen has a caddy of cedarwood veneered in ivory and ebony which also belonged to her grandmother, a family heirloom handed down indeed through six generations. Though now nearly 150 years old, it is still kept in occasional use, lest it should lose the characteristic aroma of the tea.

Other tea-table accessories were wedding gifts, which the Queen still uses after 17 years with a bride's youthful pride. You may admire a silver tray which was a gift from the City of Birmingham or perhaps see one of a set of gossamer lace cloths given her by the people of Malta. There is even a charming silver caddy-spoon that tells a story of a penny subscribed by

AMUSED BY JUG

Not that stately symbolism intrudes unduly at teatime. Whenever children are present, the Queen likes to use a silver cream jug in the shape of a cow, knowing it is bound to amuse them. A tea tray with a print of a country scene is another favourite. For years the Queen also used a hand-knitted tea cosy, made for her by one of her mother's friends, until it grew too frayed to be serviceable and was reluctantly put aside.

A tea cosy is useful, incidentally, to the Queen's hostesses, particularly on an overseas tour. Her Majesty likes tea to be served at a scheduled hour and, if the press of events make her late, she still prefers to drink luke-warm tea rather than put anyone to the trouble of making it fresh.

When the linen Gothic was used on a royal tour, the Queen's steward similarly found that she usually made tea herself and rarely rang his bell.

DISLIKES TEA LEAVES

Another little idiosyncrasy is revealed in her dislike of tea-leaves. During an overnight flight across the Atlantic, Prince Philip appeared in the galley to pour his wife an early morning cup. Then he exclaimed in consternation, "Oh, dear, I've forgotten to use the strainer. Now we'll have to throw it away."

At home the Queen's page always looks over her tea tray to ensure a strainer is present. Another unfailing ritual sees a little tray set for the dogs. Ever since she was a little girl, the Queen has always put an old cloth on the carpet and mixed food in a bowl for her dog, and her corgi, Sugar, receives this attention today with wagging tail.

Her Majesty of course possesses many lovely tea services and she tries to use them all in turn. Two precious sets of Sevres, nearly 200 years old, both in blue and gold with superb flower decoration, are naturally kept for very special occasions. A sumptuous silver tea set from Luxembourg is also not used every day. Yet the Queen is much attached to an old Worcester service of the Catherine Wheel pattern given to her by a family friend, and she frequently uses a regal red and gold tea-service presented by the Brigade of Guards.

WEDDING GIFTS

A Royal Doulton service was among the Queen's wedding gifts. Then there is a delectable set of old Coalport of 1820, with panels of flowers in a royal blue border, and an enviable Crown Derby service given to the Queen by the citizens of Derby. At the same time the Queen has some delightful modern patterns. The fresh Bridal Rose design is among her favorites at Windsor and Maroon Rockingham has the distinction of being used at Buckingham Palace and Windsor, Kensington Palace and Clarence House.

All the royal ladies are knowledgeable about china. Admiring a new pattern perhaps at an exhibition the Queen can rarely resist looking underneath a piece for the maker's mark. When visiting a Staffs. pottery, the Queen tried her hand putting a leaf pattern on a bowl and commented "Not bad!"

PRINCESS DESIGNS TEA SET

Yet Princess Margaret is perhaps even more expert. Not long ago, she looked around in vain for a tea service in modern style in royal blue and grey to suit her sitting-room. The Queen has a pleasant set of china with lavender blue borders, though this is not quite the same thing. But the Princess ultimately decided to design a tea service of her very own.

She made many drawings and flung away many embryo sketches before getting it just right. Her husband, Lord Snowdon, knows from his work at the Design Centre the difficulty of evolving a teapot with even a simple non-drip spout. Prince Philip equally, when visiting a display stand, was not content to admire the mere lines of a teapot. "Fill it up with boiling water" he suggested, "and let's see if it can be held without burning the fingers." Princess Margaret persisted with these problems and finally produced designs, neatly drawn and painted in full colour, that astonished Mr. Spencer Copeland of the Spode works by their professional finish.

The 44-piece service, specially made for Princess Margaret, has inset panels of pale grey feathers with gold and white trimmings against a royal blue ground. The teapot lid is topped by a silver-gilt coronet instead of a knob. The service has proved brilliantly functional in use but was, of course, expensive to produce.

Princess Alexandra, on the other hand, readily solved her own tea-table problem when she admired the Lunaville pattern Spode service used by her sister-in-law, the Duchess of Kent, and placed it on her own list of wished-for wedding gifts. Princess Alexandra and Princess Margaret also share the same polka dot pattern in their nursseries. I think you will also like the Queen Mother's choice of Country Lane, a Paragon design of wreathed wild flowers, which is in use at Clarence House.

FOOD NOT IMPORTANT

If I have not yet told you of the delicacies you might find served at a Palace tea-table, it is because food is not a foremost teatime consideration in any royal home. Ignoring the thin rolled sandwiches, the Queen sometimes has only a cup of tea with lemon. A young footman used to prepare pate de foie sandwiches and some fancy cakes when he took Princess Margaret her usual pot of scented China tea. Usually he would find them untouched and the Princess would explain, "I didn't feel hungry."

I doubt whether the Queen Mother lives up to her reputed Scottish fondness for baps and buttered scones. She once sent her chef a little note, "Prefer the various small biscuits you make so well to the sponge cake fingers." She has said, too, that she likes gingerbread "nice and moist." Open sandwiches in the Swedish style were long a Clarence House specialty. A Scottish women's institute once asked the Queen Mother for her favourite cake recipe. The royal lady obliged and the recipe was tried out in thousands of homes.

Fashions Take a Dip In New Bathing Suits

By JEAN SHARP

Canadian manufacturers, keeping in step with the rest of the fashion world, are offering swimwear with necklines to satisfy even the most courageous.

Typical of the trend is the line put out by Sea Queen which has lowered the neckline in front, in back or both. One daring model has the neckline plunging right to the waist.

For the young and trim, shift and blouse-on effects are combined with slim-fitting trunks in both one- and two-piece suits. Boy-leg styles have a playsuit flavor.

Catalina and others are much in the swim with two - piece suits, especially in youthful styles. But not all are in the bikini class and, in fact, some are a long way from it—with both one- and two-piece suits showing a small bare line showing around the waist.

A few are laccy, a few have perky skirts. A Jantzen feature is a two-piece suit with a pleated skirt.

MODIFIED BIKINI

The modified Canadian bikini, generally less revealing than the European edition, is shown in frills and patterns and is mostly for sunning in the backyard.

Colors are as bright as the sun. There are blues, hot pinks, some reds and yellows. Stripes shoot off in all directions and some suits combine striped tops and plain trunks.

There are girlish polka dots, feminine florals and jacquard patterns.

Stretchy knits are the rule, even in some suits finished to look like leather. Most suits have inner-panel figure - firmers.

The slip-on shift, which may match the bathing suit, is replacing the time-honored beach coat. The shifts are sometimes knee - length, sometimes the length of the suit.

The newest thing, though, is a complete switch. Borrowed from the negligee, it appears in cottons and nylon and is embroidered and ruffled and just a bit longer than the bathing suit.

UNEARTH THAMES SITE

GRAYS, England (CP)—Evidence of the old course of the Thames River has been uncovered on a building site here in Essex, two miles away from its present banks. Geologist John Hart says chalk and gravel deposits unearthed during building work indicate the site was part of the north bank of the river about 150,000 years ago.

Home and School News

TWEED — The regular monthly meeting of the S.H. Conno. Home and School Association was held on Wednesday evening in the school with a good attendance. The meeting was presided over by the president, Mr. James Keenan.

The speakers were Bobby Cotton, Jane Barnett, Brenda Jones, Evan Nuegebauer, Heather McDonald, Doug Moynes, Philip Wannenmaker, Dianne Gunning. Peggy Allen and Patsy Jefferey. The winners were 1st, Evan Nuegebauer, whose topic was "Why I Like to Read"; 2nd prize to Dianne Gunning, "Ontario — Heather McDonald who spoke on "An Outstanding Scientist"; 3rd to Jane Barnett and she also chose as her topic, "Why I Like to Read" and 4th to Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow." The three top speakers will advance to the Tweed and District Inspectorate competition.

The room count was tied between Mrs. Montgomery, room 1 and Mrs. Littleman, room 2. There was a short business meeting. Following the meeting lunch was served by the mothers of room 2 with Mrs. Murney Dillabough as convener.

The Experts Say

Loosening-up Is a Must To Enjoy Ski Holidays

By BRENDA LARGE

OTTAWA (CP) — Faye Pitt-Jacobs, an Olympic skier who has been racing since she was four, says toning-up exercises are a necessary part of preparing for a ski holiday.

Mrs. Jacobs, wife of ski champion Dave Jacobs, works with her husband as a ski instructor at the Beaver Valley resort southeast of Owen Sound, Ont.

She has worked with enough once-in-a-while skiers to recognize the importance of the loosening-up process and suggests these simple exercises which take only 15 minutes a day:

1. In bare or stocking feet walk in long gliding strides, bending the forward knee, keeping back straight and weight of the body centred. Let arms swing easily as you continue the gliding step for three minutes. This exercise improves your balance.

2. To help flatten your stomach lie on your back, arms down beside the body. Lift both feet three inches above floor. Quickly "paddle" with your feet in the air for a second then relax stomach muscles and breathe deeply. Repeat this exercise for five minutes.

3. Lie prone on your back—arms at sides, palms down. Slowly lift legs to right angle and slowly lower legs to floor. Breathe in while raising legs, to the count of four. Exhale while lowering them; again to the count of four. Repeat five times. Follow this with a minute of bicycle exercises.

4. Feet together, heels flat, drop relaxed into a slight crouch. Repeat five times, trying each time to push your knees a little farther forward and squat a little lower.

5. Stand with feet apart, lift on your toes as high as possible. Hold for five seconds, and lower. Repeat five times. This strengthens your instep muscles, particularly important if you usually wear high heels.

6. Rotate each arm alternately from the shoulder in giant circles 10 times forward and 10 times backwards.

7. Stand firm on the floor, feet and knees together. Move your hips slowly to right, then to left like a pendulum. Your shoulder should only move slightly on alternate side from hip. This is like a slow motion "twist".

Congregational Meetings

AMELIASBURG UNITED CHURCH

The auditor's report was given showing finances a little better than last year. The Sunday School report was most gratifying, with a roll of 31 and an average attendance of 14. There were only two Sundays when school was not held. Congratulations were extended to the superintendent, Mr. John Wannamaker and his assistants for the work they had done, especially mentioned was the Christmas concert.

Reports were also given by Mr. Harry Bisdee, of the M. and M. Fund and envelope giving. Mrs. Otis Sills gave the United Church Women's report.

Five major events were held: The Allocation was met, the organ was repaired, and donations were made to the church treasury, parsonage board and overseas relief. All in all the United Church Women had a successful year.

1964 OFFICERS

Elders elected were—Mr. Gerald Fritz, Mr. Harry Gibson, Mr. Milton Wood and Mr. Otis Sills.

Trustees—Mr. Harry Bisdee, Mr. Norris Whitney, Mr. Harry Gibson, Mr. Leo Wood, Mr. Milton Wood, Mr. Earl Wood and Mr. Morgan Sills.

Stewards—Mr. Leo Wood, Mr. Norris Whitney, Mr. Harry Bisdee, Mr. John Wannamakers, and other offices remained the same.

It was decided that something has to be done in regards to the church steeple which has started to lean. The steeple can be seen eight miles away from the new highway to Belleville, with Amelisburg village being situated on one of the highest points in Prince Edward County. During the discussion it was mentioned that the church will be celebrating its 100th anniversary in 1965.

Mrs. Otis Sills was elected publicity chairman with a committee of three, consisting of Mr. Harry Bisdee, Mrs. T. A. Sills and Mr. Milton Wood to find out the feelings of the congregation as to the repairing or demolishing of the church steeple.

'Standing Duck' Objects To Advice to 'Sitting Duck'

ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS — Your recent advice to "Sitting Duck" — that standing passengers on a bus should not ask seated passengers to hold their parcels — did not measure up to your usual standards of compassion.

I used to be a stenographer in a law firm where it was customary for the office staff to celebrate with the birthday girl. The treat they all liked best was potato chips and a cheese dip.

The day it was my turn to bring the cheese dip I prepared the treat in a large glass bowl which weighed about 10 pounds. I got on the bus carrying the bowl of cheese dip wrapped in a tablecloth.

The bus was crowded and I didn't get a seat. I will never forget the agony of trying to hold the bowl of cheese dip with hand and hang on to the bus pole with the other. After 15 minutes my arms felt as if they were about to fall off. I was tempted to drop the bowl on the head of the man who was seated under my nose.

Since that day whenever I get a seat on the bus and I see a standing passenger struggling with a parcel I offer to hold it. No doubt "Sitting Duck" will do the same if the shoe ever gets on the other foot. — STANDING DUCK.

* * *

DEAR DUCKEY — The advice holds. A standing passenger should not ask a seated passenger to hold a parcel, lunch, purse, child or a bowl of cheese dip. Any seated passenger who would not offer to help without being asked is such a clod he would undoubtedly say no anyway.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS—Recently my husband and I moved to a new city. We do not know a soul in this town. After having had a large number of friends in the city we used to live in, we feel very much alone.

My husband works in an organization which employs about thirty people. He says the men at work are all pleasant but not one of them has expressed any interest in getting together socially.

I am a congenial person and would not be uncomfortable about phoning some of the wives and inviting them over. Is this proper? Or should we wait for one of them to make the first move? — L. O. OF L. A.

DEAR L. O. It is not proper for the wife of a new man to phone the wife of an "old timer" in an attempt to get acquainted.

Join a church auxiliary, League of Woman Voters, or a service group. Check to see if your city has a Newcomer's Club. (They are great!)

Before long you will surely meet women with whom you are compatible. You can then invite them to your home for an evening — with their husbands.

* * *

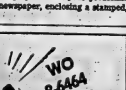
DEAR ANN LANDERS — I am a 17-year-old girl and a devoted Landers reader. I've wanted to write to you many times and can put it off no longer. I must tell you what you have done for me.

The letter from the tall girl who had fallen for the short guy did it. I had been fighting a heavy crush for months because the young man (I'll call him Rob) is four inches shorter than I am. When I saw your sincere and witty advice to the tall girl I knew it was meant for me, too.

Since I read that column my embarrassment about Rob's height has disappeared into thin air. You said all the things I was feeling, but couldn't get through my thick skull.

Thank you, Ann Landers. From now on I'll hold my head high and be proud to be seen with my wonderful guy. — 5' 10" IN STOCKING FEET.

* * *



DEAR STOCKING FEET — The many warm letters from tall gals and short fellas have made me feel 9 feet tall. Thanks.

Valentine Victuals

by Mary Moore

A far-off reader in Georgia sparked one of today's ideas for a Valentine Party. Donalda W. said she wanted to make a white congealed salad on top of squares of which she wanted to place red hearts cut from cherry-flavored jelly. She thought she could use crushed pineapple, cream cheese and unflavored gelatin but she had no idea how to prepare it.

So we went to work here and made it up for her and made some heart-shaped sandwich cookies too, which were a great hit with the teen-agers, and adults too, with afternoon tea.

WEDNESDAY
(Ash)

Dinner Menu

Cheese Souffle; Baked Jacket Potatoes; Creamed Spinach; Tomato Jelly Salads with Cottage Cheese; Peach Fan Dowdy; Brown Sugar Sauce; Coffee.

VALENTINE COOKIE COUPLES

2½ cups sifted all-purpose flour, ¼ teaspoon baking soda, 1 teaspoon baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ cup butter, 1 tablespoon shortening, ¼ teaspoon vanilla, 1 cup sugar, 1 egg, ½ cup sour cream (dairy or natural).

Sift together sifted flour, soda, baking powder and salt. Cream butter and shortening until smooth and stir in vanilla. Add sugar and cream well. Beat in egg, then stir in flour mixture and the sour cream alternately in two additions. Blend first with rubber scraper, then with clean hands until well mixed. Chill dough. Roll on floured board to thickness of about ⅛". (A good pliable dough, easy to roll.) Cut out half of dough with 2½" round fluted cutter. Cut out remaining half with heart-shaped cutter, 1½" across at "shoulders." Note: If desired, place a red cherry half or pecan on top of each heart before baking. Place on greased cookie sheets at least 2" apart. Bake at 375 deg. Fahr. for 11 minutes. Cool on rack. Put together with icing: Two cups unsifted icing sugar, ⅓ cup butter (room temperature), 2 tablespoons plus 2 teaspoons milk, shake of salt, 1 teaspoon cherry flavoring, 6 drops red food coloring. Cream butter and add remaining ingredients. Place slightly mounded measuring teaspoonful on bottom round and press "heart" on top. Makes 30 "couples."

WHITE JELLY (for Donalda)

One 20-oz. can crushed pineapple (2½ cups), 2 tablespoons (2 packages) plain gelatine, 2 tablespoons sugar, one 8-oz. package white cream cheese (room temperature), 1 cup 32% cream, one teaspoon lemon juice.

Pour off ½ cup of the pineapple juice. Soak the gelatine in it for 5 minutes. Heat the remaining 2 cups crushed pineapple and stir soaked gelatine in until dissolved. Cream the cheese in a bowl with the lemon juice and sugar and when smooth add ½ cup of the warm pineapple mixture. Beat until smooth. Add remaining pineapple mixture. Chill until it begins to set. Beat cream until stiff. Turn into shallow pan 14 x 10" to depth of ¾". Chill until set. This is a delicious all-purpose base when cut in squares for dessert salads. Clip it.

Man and Wife Serving on Police Force

VANCOUVER (CP)—Call for police officer around the Watern household and either a man or woman might answer.

Bob and Lois Waters are the only man-and-wife team on the Vancouver police force and one of the few in Canada.

Nobody can pull rank in the household because they're both constables. Bob took a reduction in rank from patrol sergeant when he married three years ago.

This created a precedent. If there is another marriage within the force, it's expected that man and wife will remain equal in rank.

Deputy Police Chief Gordon Ambrose says that, in theory, "the person with the higher rank could favor the other."

Lois joined the force after a diversity of jobs, including hospital cook, gift wrapper, lumber grader and truck driver, all of which were good training for her present job, she says.

"You have to be broadminded in this job. You have to accept people and things as they are."

The couple leave the police force behind when they enter their big white house. Their hobby is looking after miniature pinschers, and they have nine show dogs.

Lois does petit point, painting, crocheting and knitting. She also is three-time winner of the northwest policemen's revolver - shooting championships.

Bob flies throughout North America to judge at dog shows. He plans to retire at 55, three years hence, and devote himself to his hobby.

SPEAKING OF MANNERS — BY PATRICIA LEWIS

WHAT'S YOUR E. Q.?

If you're planning to invite a few friends to dine with you at a restaurant, here are a few questions you may want cleared up in advance:

1. If there are two couples how is the seating arranged?

2. Suppose the group is larger, then how are seats assigned?

3. Should the host order for everyone, or do guests give individual orders to the waiter

4. May a host offer his guests some suggestions about what to order, or let them make up their minds on their own?

5. If there is dancing, does the host dance with his wife first?

6. May the host inspect the check before paying it?

7. If there seems to be an error in the bill, what should he do?

8. Who should be tipped at the end of the meal?

9. If the doorman calls a cab, should he also be tipped?

10. May the host permit a guest to help out with the tips?

Answers:

1. The host and hostess sit opposite each other. The woman guest sits at her right of the host, and the man guest at the righ of the hostess.

2. The host and hostess still sit opposite each other. The male guest of honor sits on the right of the hostess and his wife to the right of the host. Other guests are arranged in between.

3. The best guests what they would like, then gives the order to the waiter. Guests do not order directly from the waiter, themselves, but may ask him a direct question about a dish if they like.

4. He should give them a chance to study the menu. If the restaurant is noted for a particular dish, he may mention it, but he should let guests make their own decisions.

5. No. He dances first with the woman guest of honor, then with the other women at the table, and finally with his wife.

6. Yes, but it should be done without attracting attention.

7. He may bring it to the attention of the headwaiter, but it should be done quietly, without being obvious to his party.

8. The waiter gets twenty percent of the total check. The headwaiter is often tipped anywhere from one to five dollars or more, depending on how plush the restaurant is. If a wine steward is involved in the service, he also is tipped about 10 percent of the check.

9. Yes. He gets a quarter if the restaurant is medium-priced and a cab is easy to secure, and usually more if he has to dig up a cab from blocks away and the restaurant is in the luxury class.

10. No. The host pays for the entire check, including tips.

U.C.W. Meeting

SHANNONVILLE U.C.W.

Shannonville U.C.W. held their regular meeting on February 5th with 22 in attendance.

The president called on group leader, Mrs. Charles Wood who based her theme on "Training for Witness". The church should be taken into the world in one's attitude and reactions and must be a mission. Lent is the season for spiritual training and prayer. Mrs. R. Elliott gave an interesting reading on religion and life, which stated that time can never be retrieved. The past is a memory, the present is duty and the future is faith.

A social half hour was enjoyed and it was decided to hold the next meeting in March in the form of a pot-luck dinner followed by a quilting.

River Valley W. I. Members Hear Talk on Soap Making

RIVER VALLEY — Mrs. Charles Wilcox, Frankford Road was hostess on Thursday, February 6th, for the regular meeting of River Valley Women's Institute. There were 23 members, one visitor and five pre-school children in attendance.

Mrs. Vernon Harry opened the meeting with Mrs. George Heasman at piano. Mrs. Ernest Carr presented her report. Mrs. J. R. Donohoe gave a full financial statement of the recent barn sale at Hoards and the potluck supper. The proceeds from two card parties in January was $34.52.

The correspondence included several messages of thanks and an interesting letter from Mrs. Leonard Trivers, provincial president who stressed that each branch is a part of a national and worldwide community.

FAVOR RED ENSIGN

The Federated Women's Institutes of both Ontario and Canada have presented a resolution to Hon. L. B. Pearson urging that the Red Ensign be the national flag of Canada.

Mrs. Trivers urged every branch Institute to consider the International scholarship fund as it is the only Provincial project this year.

Last year a set of questions was forwarded to each branch which was in the form of a census. About 780 branches responded and the compiled figures show a membership of 30,00 reporting. About $200 of these are actively engaged in farming and 6300 are rural residents who are not farming.

In the age group there are 11,00 members who are over 80 years of age. Mrs. Trivers gave a summary of the educational plans and said 200 are high school graduates, 1,000 public school teachers, 800 registered nurses and many other interesting items regarding Institute membership.

In the conveners' reports Mrs. Roy Tucker stressed the value of using milk as a bedtime snack, and for children, Mrs. Jack Rose read a report also for mental health. Mrs. John Beswick read a story on conservation and a message about canner dailfull day.

SHOW PICTURES

Mrs. Percy MacMullen for Public relations said Mrs. James Haggerty, national president has suggested that branches send colored pictures of found in used magazines to the 11 new Institutes in the north. The mothers who cannot read will would enjoy looking at these pictures as many of them have few books. Mrs. F.W.C. has suggested that the 1964 "International Day" program be centred around our Canadian north.

Ethel Chapman's book "From a Roadside Window" was displayed and one member decided to buy a copy. All profits are for the scholarship fund.

Any Institute member wishing to visit Ireland and attend the A.C.W.W. conference in September, 1965 must make her reservations now. A plane has been chartered to accommodate 185 passengers with plans fares at $225 and a three week stay.

For Friendship Links, Mrs. MacMullen gave a synopsis of the various programs, outings, and activities of Alboth Leigh Institute in Brixton, England. They provide a four page bulletin of their year's work for each member at their annual meeting. Their closing paragraph stated that they exchange Christmas gifts and correspond regularly with their link Institute River Valley in Canada.

The coupon collectors reported that the utility table had arrived. It was decided to begin saving 1,200 coupons for three insulated pitchers. The treasurer was authorized to buy a new supply of tea towels for the kitchen. A hop dolly crocheted by Mrs. Clarence Chard was donated to the Institute. It will be forwarded to the District secretary who will send it on with other branch gifts from Hastings West District. There will be a handicraft booth at the provincial convention in Nova Scotia this summer. The proceeds from these gifts will be used to defray expenses.

NEW MEMBERS

Two new members Mrs. Albert Wilhelm and Mrs. John Beswick were presented with their Institute badges.

Achievement day for the senior, training group on the subject "Wrap up Finishes" will be held on Friday afternoon, February 21st at Stirling community hall. This Institute has a group of 11 ladies.

Mrs. Glenn Bush will be hostess for the March meeting and it is expected that there will be a tour of the Kinzie shoe plant. Slitting and an address on leather.

Mrs. Ernest Carr presided over the program which she and Mrs. Roy Irven had arranged. Mrs. Claude Tucker gave a comprehensive paper on the making of soft soap from ashes and made bits of pork grease and rinds as done years ago Miss Flossie Rosebush outlined how hard soap was manufactured by pioneer women. The two articles were a reminder to the younger members who had never seen anything except a box of detergents.

Mrs. Glenn Bush gave a timely message on the motto, "Every day is like a pathway through the snow, be careful how you step or the marks will show" and she centred her message on the example of character. Sir Ladies contributed a musical selection, Mrs. George Heasman, Mrs. Albert Wilhelm, Roy Tucker, Mrs. Jean Bush, Mrs. John Beswick and Mrs. Vernon Harry.

SENDING FOR FRIENDSHIP

Mrs. Roy Tucker gave a message from The Countrywoman Magazine, telling how Mrs. Delmas Hendershot sent to her daughters of members who travel to another country for further study. Another article was in memory of Mrs. Godfrey Dewey who sponsored the W.I. movement in Wales. Later it was her idea to have a voluntary contribution for the "Pennies for Friendship" fund. She died in November 1963 at the age of 87. At the recent provincial board meeting held in Toronto $300 was donated to ACWW in her memory.

Mrs. Roy Irven gave a flowing account of the recent 4H Club Achievement Day held in Belleville on the theme "The Milky Way." The new 4H Club will be centred on "Sleeping Garments." Mrs. Irven and Mrs. Gerald Brooks will be the attending the training school next week.

The various groups have planned three card parties and a pie social at the school-house for Friday and two card parties in March. It was suggested that scrapbooks be fashioned of pretty pictures for the Eskimo children and children who cannot read.

SPONSOR A CHILD

Mrs. Malcolm McMillan was appointed to represent RVWI as one of the lady directors of Stirling Agricultural Society. Sixty dollars was voted to continue the support of a child in Germany. This is the third year for the venture, "Sponsor a Child Plan." One of the River Valley girls has offered to pay him a visit as she and her husband are stationed overseas.

Two years ago R.V.W.I. paid their one dollar member fee to the International Scholarship Fund. At this meeting it was decided since this is such a worthy cause, to send an extra ten dollars donation.

The theme of the meeting, "Current Events", was outlined by Mrs. Roy Bush. She read various items from older magazines and then gave the synopsis of local current events in the Valley, Province and Canada. These main features will be incorporated in the Centennial history for future years. The convener contributed an informative topic on "Oldtime Remedies and Their Uses." This gave a glimpse of days gone by and showed the audience many interesting ideas of pioneer days.

Mrs. George Heasman contributed a medley of Valentine tunes. The roll call was centred on favorite books or magazines and provided a wealth of information.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Roy Tucker, Mrs. Mac McMullen, Mrs. Percy Mac-Mullen, and the hostess. Mrs. John Kent voiced thanks for hospitality, program and lunch.

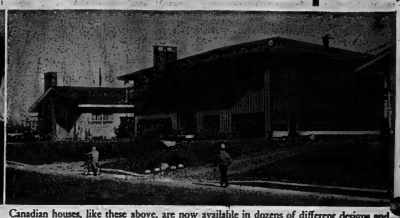
Design and Comfort Captures Overseas Market

Canadian Homes Built For Export



Rolling along the highways between factory and dockside, giant trailer-trucks are carrying one of Canada's newest exports — luxurious modern homes. Pre-built in sections and accompanied by furnaces, dishwashers, fittings and hardware, they are bringing the built-in comfort of houses designed for Canada's continental extremes of winter and summer to many families in Europe. With quality, design and speed of erection a major consideration, Canadian homes for export are still economically competitive with European models. In the Maritimes, across central Canada and the Prairies to British Columbia, nearly a dozen factories are assembling homes for overseas. They utilize the best of the nation's house-building materials ranging from aluminum sidings to solid west-coast cedar logs. Since the first factory-built house was exported two years ago, the overseas sale of Canadian homes has developed into a multi-million-dollar business, is expected to soar rapidly next year as more and more overseas families buy Canadian-made comfort in living.

Canadian-built homes for overseas are loaded on trucks. Export homes meet same rigid government standards as houses built for domestic use.

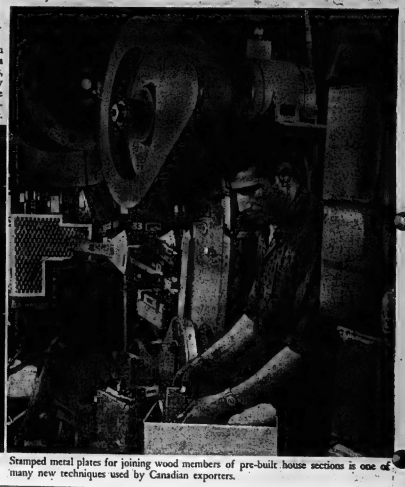
Canadian houses, like these above, are now available in dozens of different designs and a variety of construction to overseas homemakers.



Plentiful materials, power tools and skilled workmen, like carpenter above, give homes top quality.

NATIONAL FILM BOARD PHOTOSTORY

Homes for export include kitchen cabinets, being made above, solid oak stairs, heating systems, dishwashers and other items.

Sees Beatles British Revenge For Rock 'n' Roll

NEW YORK (AP)—Who, besides squealing teen - age fans, likes the Beatles?

A symphony orchestra conductor, for one. He comes from England, home of the mop - topped quartet.

Not evangelist Billy Graham, however. "I'm afraid I'm on a different wave length," he said Monday.

And from the U.S. press came editorial criticism. The Washington Post suggested that "the British are taking fiendish revenge" for U.S. exports of rock 'n' rollers to the British Isles in past years.

"Money," they chorused at a press conference.

Lost Children at World's Fair Will Be Shown on TV -- in Color

It should even be a thrill for mom and pop, too, seeing their errant offspring on the screen while thousands of other persons also are looking on.

What is described as the world's largest closed-circuit color television network is being set up around the grounds to help reunite lost youngsters and parents. Nearly 300 receivers will be situated at strategic spots.

Estimates vary as to how much of a workout the network will get. Says the New York Police Department:

"Based on its experience with lost children at Coney Island and other recreation spots, the department estimates that during the fair as many as 25 children a day will wander away from their parents, or vice versa."

At this rate, that would mean about 3,750 for the 150 days of the fair this year, and 7,500 for the two-year run.

On the other hand, the fair's own security force says the figure may go as high as 400 a day.

Some 3,000 fair security officers plus 750 New York police will be keeping a lookout for wandering tots.

U.S. Exports to Cuba Cut To 'Practically Nothing' As Tight Embargo in Force

By HAROLD MORRISON

WASHINGTON (CP) — Assistant Commerce Secretary Jack Behrman reports today that United States exports to Cuba are down to "practically nothing" compared with a total of about $300,000,000 six years ago when the U.S. was Cuba's chief supplier.

Behrman, in urging that U.S. allies also reduce their commercial industrial exports to Communist-run Cuba, said U.S. commercial exports to that island dropped from $1,000,000 to $250,000 last year and will be cut to "practically nothing" during 1964.

"Outside of a bit of food and some drugs going . . . nothing practically no trade with Cuba," Behrman said in an interview. "The main trade is in medium-to-heavy industrial commercial exports to Cuba, the tougher it will be to get Cuba as long as Cuba is a base to bring people in, equip them and train them for subversive work in Latin America."

Behrman said the United States already has about $20,000,000 worth of food and medicine to Cuba last year but this was part of the ransom deal for some 1,100 prisoners captured by Castro during the unsuccessful Bay of Pigs invasion in 1961.

GOT NO MONEY

All told, Castro got more than $50,000,000 in American food and medicine during the 20-month period in the deal to free the prisoners, Behrman said. But he emphasized that the value of commercial shipments — the United States received no money in return.

"It was simply a ransom and we paid it."

The United States has been concerned about plans by Britain and France to ship large numbers of buses to Cuba as part of commercial deals, with the U.S. maintaining that these buses would help Castro's economy.

"If the allies can restrain from providing these goods to Castro, the burden of providing the goods would be on the shoulders of the Soviet Union," Behrman said.

Behrman said he didn't know whether Castro is able to provide dollars to pay for the buses and other goods now purchased from Western countries. "I think he has to rely on credit."

The question of trade with Cuba is to be one of the issues to be discussed by President Johnson and Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home at their two-day conference.

TORONTO (CP)—The Globe and Mail says in a Washington dispatch that the "unmentioned fact" in the U.S. campaign to get other countries to join a trade embargo against Cuba is that the U.S. in the last two years has sent more goods to Cuba than has Canada, Britain or France.

"This is the unmentioned fact in the campaign which is on here to get U.S. allies to maintain an embargo against Cuba as Washington thinks it ought to be maintained," the newspaper says.

U.S. goods sent to Cuba in 1963 totalled $27,000,000 the dispatch says, although U.S. officials "plead the special circumstances of the ransom deal with Cuba for the return of Cuban exiles taken prisoner at the Bay of Pigs as the reason."

The newspaper says the $27,000,000 compared with $11,100,000 worth of goods shipped from Canada, $5,300,000 from Britain and about $5,000,000 from France.

The dispatch continues:

"In all cases—U.S. and others—the goods were of non-strategic use. . . .

"In 1962, when there were no special circumstances, U.S. exports to Cuba amounted to $13,400,000 as compared with Canada's $10,800,000, Great Britain's exports again were worth about $5,000,000 and those of France 2,000,000."

AIMED AT BRITAIN

The newspaper says the campaign for an embargo has been aimed mainly at Britain, which has contracted to supply 650 buses to Cuba for about $11,000,000, and France, which proposes to sell Cuba trucks and tractors.

"Canada has not been a particular object of the campaign," disappear because the poor and discontented would see before them the prizes of the fullness of life.

The prime minister spoke here to about 1,500 persons at the 60th anniversary dinner of Empire Club of Canada. Prime Minister Pearson, with whom he held talks at Ottawa on Feb. 5, was also a head table guest.

CLOSELY GUARDED

Extra security since the royal visit of 1959 surrounded Sir Alec. More than 60 police were on duty at Malton Airport for his arrival and uniformed and plainclothes officers were out in force for the dinner.

At his earlier press conference in Ottawa, Sir Alec renewed Britain's call for Canadian participation in the proposed international peacekeeping force for Cyprus. British Foreign Secretary R. A. Butler told newsmen Britain intends to send about 1,000 Canadian infantrymen for the force.

Mr. Pearson declined to comment on Sir Alec's press conference statement that British troops were ready to help Canada aid will join the 10,000-man force, which the British indicated would be under British command.

The Cyprus crisis is expected to be somewhat sidetracked in Washington. Sir Alec and his party from Ottawa are believed to have it high on their agenda, but Washington informants say the British prefer to hear first from trouble-shooter George W. Ball, undersecretary of state.

Mr. Ball, who is in the minister said the Cyprus problem must be internationalized to prevent Greek-Turkish clashes out of clashes between Greeks and Turks.

WANTS TRADE CHANGES

He also told Ottawa reporters that Britain wants changes in "unfair" Canada anti-dumping tariff laws to help Britain's ailing trading deficit with this country.

He did not specify what changes Britain would seek but said he hopes some way will be worked out to improve sales to Canada when Canadian Trade Minister Sharp meets in London late this month with Edward Heath, president of the British board of trade.

To help business for the unemployed industries, Sir Alec in his Toronto speech advocated liberalization of international trade, stabilization of commodity prices and solution of problems of balance-of-payment deficits, while the developing countries must live up to their commitments.

He suggested the more prosperous nations could turn their attention, energies and more to But the "problem of problems" such considerations because was the disparity of wealth be"there is a sea-change coming tween the rich nations of the over the world at large" in north and the poor of the south, what he considered Russia's and this must be tackled now.

ANNIVERSARY PLANS

Special events and festivities mark the 150th anniversary of the Norwegian constitution in May, 1964.

Daughter Finds Mother Dead In Her Home

WOODSTOCK (CP) — Fourteen - year - old Elizabeth Kennedy opened the door of her mother's filled home here Tuesday and found her mother's body lying at her feet.

Mrs. Jacqueline Alice Kennedy, 37, was asphyxiated, coroner said, as she made a desperate effort to crawl to safety from a fire in her living room.

Elizabeth had spent the night with a school friend. Early Tuesday the girls went to Elizabeth's home before going to school.

They opened the door and found Mrs. Kennedy dead, just inside the house. They dragged her body outside and Elizabeth ran to a neighbor's home for help.

Mr. Kennedy, a commercial traveller, was telephoned at Wiarton, about 30 miles northwest of Owen Sound, where he was on a business trip.

Fire Chief Gordon Tripp said Mrs. Kennedy is believed to have been smoking on a living room chesterfield and gone to sleep. She apparently attempted to escape and managed to get an inner door open but was overcome before she could open the outside door.

High School Board Moves To Retain Legal Advice

DESERONTO—Acting on a recorded vote the local School Board has moved to retain K. G. M. Ross, Belleville lawyer, to apply to the court for an order requiring the Town of Deseronto to meet expenses incurred in the operation of its high school.

The Board met at a special meeting to discuss the failure of the Town Council to deposit sufficient monies in the local bank to cover the High School account.

Chairman John Neal stated that the Board had been in touch with the bank and had been informed that the bank has refused all cheques.

"The Bank won't honor them," he said, "in spite of the fact that these cheques are part of the budget passed last year and accepted by the Council."

The chairman was careful to point out that the statement of the local bank was a verbal one.

He also was careful to indicate that the expenses incurred were in line with the operation of the Board in that they involved the cost of transportation of students to Napanee and Belleville, among other things.

Trustee Schell said he was sure that the town wanted a statement of what the expenditures were for and felt certain that the reason for such a request was that the council were not in favor of continuing the expense of keeping the local high school building open.

It was pointed out by members of the board that the council were obliged to meet accounts tendered since they formed a part of the budget passed for 1964.

Trustee Schell inquired whether the board had gotten any advice from the Trustee Association.

The Chairman replied he had only received notice, that he had been told that "Council had no damn business interfering," and that "clarity" was legal advice and good legal advice."

MOTION TABLED

The motion, tabled by Trustee Detlor, chairman of the Finance Committee, read as follows:

"In view of the fact that decision to renounce force in the face of the "arresting, blistering activity" of the past

Russia had been compelled to drop its high-risk policies. The bomb was keeping the peace in the northern half of the world.

Brownies Hold Party

DESERONTO — Monday night was a special evening for the Brownies of the Napanee area.

Meeting at a Mother and Daughter Brownie dessert party, the three packs presented individual programs under the watchful eye of Division Commander Mrs. Dan McVicker of Deseronto.

The meeting also provided the Division Commander, with a good opportunity to introduce to the younger members of the Girl Guide Association their new District Commander, Mrs. J. A. Blair of Napanee.

Girl Strangled With Her Bra

MONTEREY, Calif. (AP)—An 18-year-old Salinas girl has become the fourth northern California woman to be strangled to death in less than a month, Coroner Clint Soper said Tuesday.

Barbara Jane Moritz, missing since Sunday, was found dead with her bra twisted around her throat on a lonely dead end road between Monterey and Salinas.

Hill said his preliminary autopsy report showed the bra caused strangling. It was knotted tightly around her neck.

The stepdaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Baran of Salinas was found dead and partially disrobed on a road 10 miles from Salinas.

Authorities immediately began consultation to determine whether there was a connection between this latest tragedy and the recent strangulations in Oakland of Mary Elizabeth Martin and her 18-year-old daughter, Caroline, and a similar killing in San Pablo of Mrs. Jane Stapleton, 43, a policeman's wife.

NATO, the amended plan opens the way for neutral or Commonwealth countries outside NATO to contribute to the peace force.

British sources at UN headquarters in New York said Canada, The Netherlands, Belgium, Denmark and Norway have agreed to join the United States and Britain in setting up the peace force. France has refused to take part.

PEARSON SILENT

However, a Norwegian spokesman said in Oslo today that his government has made no such commitment. And in Canada, Prime Minister Pearson declined comment Tuesday after Britain's Prime Minister Douglas-Home said he hoped Canada would participate.

British Foreign Secretary R. A. Butler also urged Canadian participation in the force in Ottawa earlier this week, suggesting a contribution of 1,000 men.

On Tuesday Butler conferred for nearly two hours with Secretary-General U Thant at UN headquarters in New York.

The British sources said afterward that Britain would like a Commonwealth force if the present plans failed to work out. But they said they would be disappointed if U.S. troops did not make up part of any police force.

British government sources in London were reported unenthusiastic about a Commonwealth force. A spokesman in the Commonwealth relations office was quoted as saying such a force would be "terribly difficult to organize."

Madoc Plans Action to Ease Parking Woes

MADOC (Special) — Madoc village council is going to take a long hard look at the current practice of double parking and all-day parking in the village and promises future action to remedy conditions.

Discussion on the parking problem took places at the February meeting of council, following acceptance of the monthly police report.

Council amended its by-law governing the closing hours for barber shops. The most recent amendment calls for Wednesday closing of barber shops in the village with shops to close at 6.00 p.m. on Tuesdays and remain closed until 7.00 a.m. on Thursdays.

SUSPEND STRIKE

HOME (AP)—Italy's hospital workers suddenly suspended a strike and went back to work Tuesday, but other labor troubles continued to plague the country. The 12,000 hospital workers — pharmacists, doctors' assistants and medical aides — ended their planned three-day walkout a day early after a appeal from Health Minister Giacomo Mancini.

Republicans Will Oppose Disclosure of Documents On 1962 Exchange Crisis

WASHINGTON (CP)—A U.S. congressman said Tuesday Republicans intend to fight a proposal that the U.S. federal reserve board reveal the contents of top-secret documents showing how the board helped "rescue" the Canadian dollar from a 1962 exchange crisis.

Congressman William Widnall, New Jersey Republican and a member of the House of Representatives domestic finance subcommittee, said he is opposed to the disclosure of such information and of other international monetary operations contained in the documents, even on a confidential basis.

He said in an interview that Wright Patman, Texas Democrat who is chairman of the congressional banking committee, now is trying to get congressional approval to force the board to turn over its highly-secret memos for the last three or four years, but that Republicans are putting up a stiff fight against this move.

Widnall said disclosure might be harmful to U.S. foreign policy and to other countries involved.

However, H. Scott Gordon, economics professor at Ottawa's Carleton University, suggested it might be more harmful to allow speculation as to what took place to continue over a period of many years. A central bank might be justified in withholding information for a few months but he did not believe it could be justified in withholding information for more than six months or a year.

The Bank of Canada publishes annual operating statements but the information made public is so limited that it is difficult to analyze, Prof. Gordon added.

Testifying before the domestic finance subcommittee, the 39-year-old, Ottawa-born economist maintained also that the policies and operations of both the Bank of Canada and the U.S. reserve board are "muddled" and they should be reconstituted as government departments.

Referring to the Canadian crisis that swirled around the withdrawal of James Coyne as Bank of Canada governor in 1961. Prof. Gordon said events which preceded the attempted dismissal of Coyne showed that the central bank's independence "can degenerate into irresponsibility." He said it also showed that a government can use a central bank to deny its own responsibility for policies which may be politically unpopular.

"We have not yet fully discovered, in Canada, from the consequences of the acrimonious controversy between the Bank of Canada and the government in 1960-61, and we have not yet resolved by appropriate statutory changes the formal weaknesses in our central banking legislation that permitted those unfortunate events to occur," he said.

In 1962, the U.S., Britain and the International Monetary Fund provided huge loans to shore up the strength of the Canadian dollar when its exchange rate was challenged by heavy international speculation.

While the sums involved were made public, much of the behind-the-scenes negotiations are still secret. Widnall said that Patman had proposed that the board's minutes be studied behind closed doors by the subcommittee but Republicans concluded the minutes would not long remain secret once they got into the hands of subcommittee members.

SNOW HITS JAPAN

TOKYO (AP)—Railway and ferry services were paralyzed Tuesday as the worst snowstorm of the year hit parts of northern Japan. No casualties were reported but about 4,000 persons were said to be isolated by the heavy snowfall in the village of Yamagata. Up to 8.5 feet of snow was reported at some places.

Construction Roundup

By ANDY TURNBULL

BELLEVILLE BUILDERS' EXCHANGE

Begun soon after the second war but dormant for the past three years, the Belleville Builders' Exchange is now being revived. Leading the revival are president Roy Bradshaw, of Bradshaw Construction, vice president Roy Quinney, of Quinte Roofing, and officers Vince Trudeau of Acme Plumbing and Heating, Ross Parks of Wilson Concrete Products and Jack Belanger of Acme Electric.

Cause of the decline was the withdrawal of most of the general contractors of the city, from the Exchange three years ago. The "generals" decided, about that time, the Exchange was becoming too much of a social club and too little of a business organization.

Hugh Murray and Bill Tatham have now brought their firms back into the organization and two other "generals" may rejoin within a month. With the weight of the general contractors behind it, the exchange will again represent the majority voice in the Quinte area's general contracting business. Exchange officers point out that this business totals around ten million dollars a year in the area served by contractors belonging to the exchange.

SIDNEY COURT

Lightfoots' big back-hoe started digging foundations yesterday for the second two of the four six-plexes planned for the Sidney Court development. Site is between the two buildings already completed by Carson and Lambert and the adjoining development by Lee Buckley. The ground is still frozen on the surface but that doesn't make much difference to the work, according to Norm Lightfoot. It's all rock up there anyway, and the shovel is used to handle the rock isn't slowed by a bit of frost. The shovel in use swings a one-and-a-quarter yard bucket and can lift 48 tons. Colin Hagerman of Picton is the machine operator. Completion date is in July.

More apartments are coming soon from the Carson-Lambert combination, a 21-suite three-and-a-half storey building on John Street. Building permit records show the cost to be valued at $150,000. The building will be started about March 1 and finished next September, according to Bill Carson. A crew is wrecking houses on the site, 269 to 271 John St., now.

WILSON CONCRETE PRODUCTS

Three drivers of Wilson's block trucks received safe driving awards last week, from the Traffic Operators' Safety Association of Ontario. Harry Thomson of Foxboro got a six-year award, Alfred Lott of Foxboro and Kenneth Mitchell of the Massassaga Road, both got four-year awards. Between them, the trio have rolled up about a half-million miles of city driving without an accident.

No connection with the awards, Wilson's have decided to put safety belts in all the block-carrying trucks. Some are in already, others are being installed as the trucks go in for checkups.

SMITH TRANSPORT TERMINAL

Howard Lewis' Tatham Company crew is framing now for the second portion of the roof of the new Smith Transport terminal. If the weather is right, the pour might be tomorrow. The roof is being poured in five sections; this is the second. On the office part of the building, John Cresswell of Bradshaw Construction, sub-contracting the masonry, is installing stone panels along the front and side walls. Work is slow because the panels are heavy and, Cresswell says, they will chip easily.

THE TATHAM CO.

On other Tatham Co. jobs, the Smith Transport terminal, in Brockville is still slightly ahead of the one here. Time lost when completions arose on the sewage treatment plant rebuilding in Picton has been picked up, and the job is on schedule again. Hallowell Township garage, near Bloomfield, is four weeks ahead of schedule now and may be ready for the roof by the end of next week.

BANK OF MONTREAL

Plastering now, in the basement of the new Bank of Montreal Branch at College and North Front Sts., the window frames are being installed upstairs. Original plans called for temporary closing of the building with plastic, and the frames were to be installed after the plastering was completed. Frames are being installed now through, with plastic in and around the frames. Windows may be another week or so yet.

ELLIOTT MOTORS

The oil furnace is installed and running now at the Elliott Motors building, supplied by Randy Lowness heating, and Hibbard Electric has the power on in the building. General supervisor Roy Brooks threw the main switch for the power Friday night. The building has three transformers, in a locked room in the basement. Hydro employees hold the key to the room, not the owners of the building Thus there is no need to hang heavy transformers on the power poles outside. Also because the transformers are inside, the power lines enter, ing the building are fewer in number and less noticeable noticeable than usual for the power load.

The service-eaves department is framed now, and will be finished soon. Big doors to the shop and service areas are installed and glazed, and the soffit (the panelling on the underside of the eaves), is going on the pagoda-type roof. When the roof is completed, the soffit, the facia (the edge of the roof) and the roof itself will all be the same color, and the appearance will be quite different, Brooks says. Quinte Valley Plumbing and Heating is getting roof drains now in the valley between the roof and the eaves.

Construction of the new body shop for Elliott Motors, on the same site as the other new buildings, will begin as soon as the frost is out of the ground, Brooks says. Original plans were for the shop to stay where it is now for another year, and perhaps longer, after the rest of the operation moved to the new quarters. Location is immediately behind the buildings now under construction on North Front Street.

CHEESE WAREHOUSE

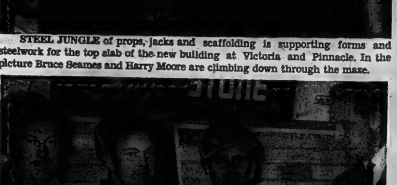
Cracks in the plaster are already plastered in the cold storage warehouse in the cheese warehouse addition. Plasterer Garn Peacock has scribed the plastered areas of the walls into squares, about three feet to the side. He explains the cement-plaster on the walls will crack when the rooms are cooled off by the refrigerating apparatus, but he figures the cracks will follow the scribed lines and do no damage. The different type of plaster used on the ceilings is more elastic and probably won't crack.

In the office section of the addition, Wilfred Spencer's crews are panelling the walls now and putting the acoustic tile on the ceiling.

CAR WASH

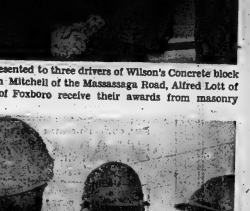
Murray Reid has most of the washroom plumbing roughed in at the new car wash Pred Smith is building on Dundas Street, and he's been working now on the plumbing for the wash operation. Fred Smith and his crew are preparing trenches and such in the floor for the machinery, and finishing off the office space. With the building apparently almost finished, the real work is just starting, Smith says.

BLACK DIAMOND



A bulldozer from Lightfoot's is operating under the plastic boarding at the Black Diamond addition, levelling the floor for pouring. First pour may be before the end of the week, according to Lawrence Hillman (Hillman Re-Alpine's. Most of the first wall is blocked and bricked now, R. W. Solmes' crew had good start on the second wall, (the one facing Highway 401).

ONTARIO ASSOCIATION OF REAL ESTATE BOARDS



William McCormick of Belleville was elected director of the Ontario Association of Real Estate Boards Monday, in Toronto. He represents District Seven, one of nine in the Association. Also elected during the annual meeting of the Association were president Alonzo Wiebe of Kitchener, vice-president D. R. Wymark of Ottawa and eight other directors. Total membership of the organization is near the seven-thousand mark.

STEEL JUNGLE of props, jacks and scaffolding is supporting forms and steelwork for the top slab of the new building at Victoria and Pinnacle. In the picture Bruce Seames and Harry Moore are climbing down through the maze.

Oswald's Mother Again Disputes Wife's View

WASHINGTON (AP)—A second lawyer for Mrs. Marguerite Oswald tried without success Tuesday to participate in her questioning by the Warren commission. He told reporters later that she had disputed the testimony of her daughter-in-law concerning the rifle which may have slain President John F. Kennedy.

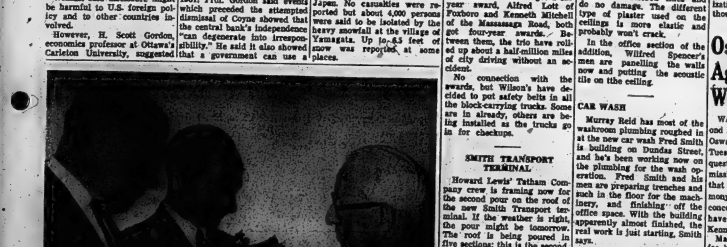
Mark Lane, retained without fee by the mother of Lee Harvey Oswald to defend her son's name, told reporters Oswald's young widow, Marina, originally failed to identify the presumed assassination weapon as belonging to her husband.

Although Lane was not in the closed hearing room where the presidential investigating commission has its sessions, he said he was able to state that the mother of the ex-marine sharpshooter gave the commission this testimony:

1. That on the afternoon of Nov. 22, a few hours after the assassination in Dallas, the young widow was confronted in Dallas police headquarters with the Italian-made carbine found in a clerk's nest in the Texas school book depository building where Oswald worked.

2. That upon returning home, the young woman told her mother-in-law the police had asked her whether Oswald owned a gun, and that she had replied: "Mama, I told them the truth, I told them yes".

3. That Marina then was asked whether the gun in police hands was her husband's, and that she replied: "Mama, I told them I did not think so because it did not look like Lee's gun."



Chief Justice Earl Warren, questioned about Lane's account of the testimony, said at the close of this second day's appearance of the 38-year- old mother of the misfit Marxist: "I would no' comment on that. You will have to ask Mrs. Oswald."

But when Oswald's mother came out a few minutes later and was questioned by reporters, the other lawyer in the case, John F. Doyle of Washington, snapped:

"No comment until the hearing is concluded."

Millions More for Universities, But . .

Can the Bulldozer Win the Education Race?

By DAVE PIKE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The roar of the bulldozer and the crackle of the first gun are drowning out the rustle of ivy on Canadian university campuses these days.

With ambitious construction programs that dwarf anything in the past, the halls of higher learning are busting out all over in a race with the student population explosion.

The Canadian Press, in a Cross — Canada Survey, added the cost of building programs at 32 universities and came up with a total of more than $625,000,000 for the two decades ending in 1980.

And it's inevitable that new plans to be drawn up in coming years will boost the figure well over a billion dollars.

Campus expansion ranges from a comparatively modest $500,000 outlay for a science building planned by St. Dunstan's University, Charlottetown, to a 20-year program costing about $150,000,000 at York University, established in 1960 to serve Metropolitan Toronto.

There are about 156,000 full-time students in institutions of higher learning in Canada this year and the number is rising about 10 per cent a year.

ALREADY TOO SMALL

Expansion programs are barely able to keep pace. Two years ago Memorial University moved to a new $20,000,000 campus in St. John's, Nfld., designed for 1,200 students. It currently accommodates almost double that number.

The University of Montreal's present enrolment — excluding the polytechnical and commerce schools—stands at 7,500 and it expects 11,000 by 1968. McGill University, with 11,000 students now, figures on 4,600 more by 1970.

The University of British Columbia, Vancouver, has 14,720 and is growing at the rate of 10 per cent a year.

York, with only a few hundred at present, estimates it will have 15,000 daytime students alone by 1980. The need for the new university is underlined by predictions that the Toronto area will require space for about 46,000 students by 1975. And the University of Toronto, with 19,000 now, plans to take a maximum of 23,500.

York has completed four buildings at a cost of $5,000,000 and has a master plan for 60 buildings on a 475-acre campus (100 acres for parking) in the northwestern part of the Metro area.

MOVE TO SUBURBS

Laval University, in the midst of a move from crowded old quarters in the heart of Quebec City to a spacious suburban campus, already has completed a number of buildings, including a $25,000,000 centre for engineers and social scientists and an $6,000,000 medical faculty centre. Total cost of the new campus will be about $80,000,000.

McGill is currently in the second of three phases of a six-year program scheduled to wind up in 1966. Construction has started on the largest of six projects in the $33,965,000 phase—a 16 - storey $10,500,000 medical science building to be ready in 1965. The third phase is to cost another $15,700,000.

More than $36,000,000 is being spent in a seven-year program ending in 1970 at the University of Western Ontario, London. An office addition, additions to an arts building, one men's residence and a small services building have been completed.

McMaster University, Hamilton, plans 12 new buildings costing $33,000,000 over the next five years, including a six-storey addition to the arts complex.

The University of Montreal also builds its program in 1960 and projects with definite estimates total $23,945,000, but there is more to come.

BUILD BIG LIBRARY

The University of Manitoba has $8,000,000 in building going on now as part of a 10-year $33,000,000 program that will end in 1966. Included is a five-storey medical research and administration building.

UBC, with a $10,000,000 program to be completed next year, is finishing a $950,000 biomedical library designed to house more than 40,000 volumes initially and 100,000 eventually.

One of two new wings to the education building will have facilities for producing television programs for closed circuit transmission to two Vancouver schools.

At Queen's University, Kingston, Ont., closed circuit television enabling one professor to supervise 28 laboratory classes will be a feature of a $2,900,000 teaching and research centre for biology opening this year.

Victoria's new $2,000,000 science building is an $8,000 astrodome built in conjunction with an astronomy lab designed to house a 16-inch telescope.

The design of Carleton University's engineering building in Ottawa, due to be completed in May, is aimed to give students and campus visitors a visual interpretation of some of the principles of engineering. Much of the mechanical equipment and structure of the building will be visible.

MALLS JOIN BUILDINGS

The University of Alberta's Calgary campus, where a $24,000,000 program is set for completion in 1970, will have a series of malls connecting major buildings.

The university's Edmonton campus program, costing nearly $20,000,000, includes a recently opened $3,000,000 research library with the same open-stack system as Carleton.

A 16 - storey social sciences building will cost $4,000,000.

The University of Saskatchewan's Saskatoon campus is putting up a $1,700,000 food services building that can accommodate more than 3,000 students. The Regina campus is constructing $7,300,000 worth of buildings in three connecting units.

Ryerson Polytechnical Institute recently occupied a new $15,000,000 building in Toronto that includes a special lab for handling radioactive materials and elaborate facilities for teaching radio and TV skills.

Laurentian University, Sudbury, Ont., is working on the first phase of a $15,000,000 program, including permanent quarters for the federated colleges of the Roman Catholic University of Sudbury, the United Church's Huntingdon College and the Anglican Thorneloe College.

ADVANCED STUDY

A recent addition to the University of Toronto, where a program running more than $10,000,000 is under way, is Massey College. Built by the Massey Foundation for $2,000,000, it is an advanced study centre for a limited number of post-graduate students. The U. of T. is also building a new college in the Scarborough area in Metro Toronto's east end and another at Erindale, southwest of the city.

The University of Windsor has completed $13,000,000 worth of new buildings over the last six years and plans to spend $10,000,000 in the next three years to meet expected enrolment of 3,000 by 1970.

The University of Waterloo and Waterloo Lutheran University have a total of more than $7,000,000 in projects under way. The University of Ottawa is building men's and women's residences.

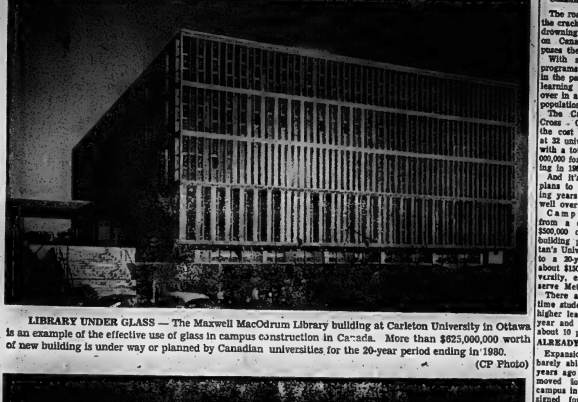
The new Trent University at Peterborough, Ont., will begin offering arts and science courses next September at temporary quarters in a public school. The university plans to move to a permanent 100-acre site in 1966 and has a five-year building program costing $11,225,000.

RENTS QUARTERS

With nearly 80 per cent of its rents, Montreal's Sir George Williams University is making a 10-storey $15,800,000 building the heart of its program.

A $15,000,000 program was started in Montreal in 1962 by Loyola College. Bishop's University at Lennoxville, Que., includes a $1,300,000 academic and administration building in its plans.

The University of New Brunswick, Fredericton, is spending $11,000,000 in a five-year program, including facilities for a new teachers' college. A campus is being built at Saint John, N.B.

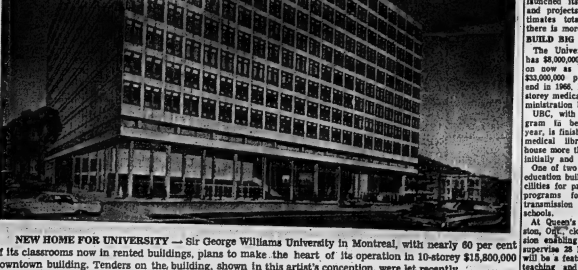


A $700,000 men's dining hall is being opened at Mount Allison University, Sackville, N.B., and a chapel and chemistry building are under construction.

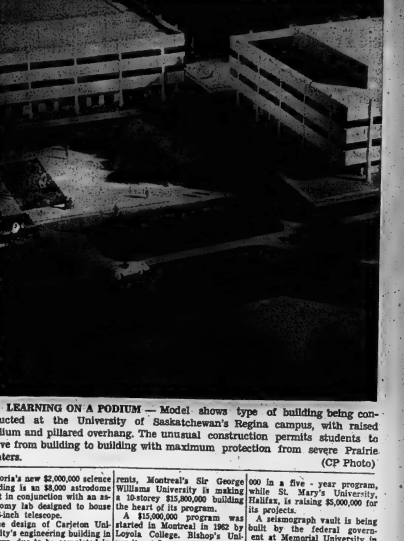
Dalhousie University, Halifax, has launched a campaign to raise $16,000,000 for expansion, including $4,500,000 for a combined auditorium and concert hall. Acadia University, Wolfville, N.S., is spending $7,250,000 in a five - year program, while St. Mary's University, Halifax, is raising $5,000,000 for its projects.

A seismograph vault is being built by the federal government at Memorial University in St. John's where plans also call for a new science and arts and education building.

HORSE RETIRED



Hidden Treasure, Canada's horse of the year in 1960, retired to stud in 1964 as second leading money - winning Canadian-bred with $180,704 earnings.



LIBRARY UNDER GLASS — The Maxwell MacOdrum Library building at Carleton University in Ottawa is an example of the effective use of glass in campus construction in Canada. More than $625,000,000 worth of new building is under way or planned by Canadian universities for the 20-year period ending in 1980. (CP Photo)

MODERN BIOLOGY BUILDING — Architect's model shows modern aspects of $8,000,000 Stewart Biology Building to be built at McGill University in Montreal. The structure, one aspect of a huge three-phase construction program at McGill, is to be completed by 1966. (CP Photo)

NEW HOME FOR UNIVERSITY — Sir George Williams University in Montreal, with nearly 60 per cent of its classrooms now in rented buildings, plans to make the heart of its operation in 10-storey $15,800,000 downtown building. Tenders on the building, shown in this artist's conception, were let recently. (CP Photo)

LEARNING ON A PODIUM — Model shows type of building being constructed at the University of Saskatchewan's Regina campus, with raised podium and pillared overhang. Today's HOMEMAKER is free to select from the largest variety of goods on the market in history. Advertising Claims have more than kept pace with the increase. How then can a FAMILY SHOPPER distinguish between these CLAIMS correctly?

The people of Walker Hardware believe that an ALERT Family Shopper carefully questions "Price Ads". She knows that, if an item is the best of its kind, it cannot be the lowest priced. An ALERT Family Shopper is aware that any claim, of every retail price being lower than all others, simply CANNOT BE TRUE. Furthermore, she is NOT prompted to buy some article that she would not ordinarily have, just because of a price claim alone.

The WISE FAMILY SHOPPER reads and listens to RELIABLE advertising, proven through the years, and shops where integrity, friendliness and service go hand in hand as at Walker Hardware.

Practice Known As 'Jacking' Said Fraud

OTTAWA (CP)—The Supreme Court of Canada ruled in effect Monday that a practice known in some areas of the used car business as "jacking" constitutes a fraud.

Jacking is a method employed by some used car dealers to persuade a customer to pay more money for a used car than he originally agreed to spend.

The case is the first of its kind involving the used car business to come before the court.

A bench of five judges upheld British Columbia court decisions convicting Earl Alexander MacLean, president of MacLean Motors B.C. Limited, Vancouver, of defrauding Eric G. Robinson of $300 in the sale of a used car.

CONVICTED OF FRAUD

MacLean was convicted by Magistrate Oscar Orr of Vancouver in 1963 and fined $1,000 or six months imprisonment. Stanley G. Janko, manager of one of two sales lots operated by MacLean, also was convicted of fraud but this conviction was quashed by the British Columbia Appeal Court.

MacLean asked the Supreme Court to quash his conviction on grounds that a document signed by Mr. Robinson at the time of the transaction was not a contract to purchase but an offer to buy.

P. E. Hogan of Vancouver, counsel for MacLean, said Mr. Robinson's offer to purchase was open to acceptance or rejection by MacLean.

The court rejected MacLean's appeal from the bench without giving reasons. W. J. Burke-Robertson of Ottawa, counsel for the B.C. attorney-general, was not asked to present argument that the appeal be dismissed.

Judge Ignores Guilty Plea Of Woman

BUFFALO (AP)— A young woman accused of shooting a deaf man, in a profane outburst to her court-appointed lawyer Monday, tried to plead guilty to the charge.

But an Erie County judge ignored Miss Cale Leach, 20, and accepted a not guilty plea on her behalf from her lawyer.

Miss Leach, dragged into the courtroom by sheriff's deputies, remained quiet until George R. Blair, her lawyer, told Judge Charles J. Gaughan:

"We enter a plea of not guilty."

"Go to —, Guilty," screamed Miss Leach.

Blair asked that the remark be stricken from the court record, adding that the woman was not responsible for her actions.

"I am responsible," said Miss Leach.

Police say she is pregnant and has cut her wrists with a bobby pin and twice set herself afire while in jail.

Blair entered not guilty pleas for her to first-degree murder and first-degree assault in connection with the shooting of John Johnkins, 33, during a Jan. 22 holdup in a downtown tavern. He also pleaded not guilty for Miss Leach on charges of first-degree robbery and attempted first-degree robbery in connection with other incidents.

Johnkins was shot when he failed to obey orders of the holdup woman, even though other persons in the bar pleaded with her that he could not hear the orders.

Foxboro

FOXBORO — The Foxboro Home and School Association met on January 28 in the school auditorium with a good attendance. Educational films were shown, entitled "Freedom to Read" and "Books for Better Reader," proving how much a good library service is required in Foxboro. Next meeting is February 18th, and will be open house. Public speaking will be on the program.

Unit 2 of the UCW held a dinner in the S.S. rooms on Wednesday and the meeting followed with a large attendance.

Mr. Douglas Scott spent last Friday in Toronto.

Miss Darlene Armstrong was a weekend guest of Sharon Chappelle.

Mr. and Mrs. Stafford Colden and Doris of Roslin were Saturday guests of Mr. and Mrs. George McGlean.

GOOD BALANCE

West German exports in 1962 amounted to $14,575,000,000 and imports $13,075,000,000.

Shadow of Uncertainty Still Hangs Over Malaysian Issue

By BORIS MISKEW
Canadian Press Staff Writer

A shadow of uncertainty continues to hang over the Malaysian situation despite the latest effort to prevent the dispute from blowing up into a major Asian crisis.

The latest attempt to resolve the conflict, born with the conception of the idea of a Malaysian federation, apparently ended in failure.

The conference on Malaysia—intended primarily to draw up an agreement to preserve the cease-fire in northern Borneo—opened last week on a somewhat optimistic note. But the ministers from Indonesia, Malaysia and The Philippines appeared somewhat less optimistic when the talks ended Monday.

The ministers attending the conference, in Bangkok, Thailand, had difficulty in drawing up a communique but finally managed to issue a statement promising that they will try to preserve the cease-fire.

EXPRESSED DOUBT

But Deputy Prime Minister Tun Abdul Razak of Malaysia immediately expressed doubt that the truce will be effective. He said the Indonesian-backed guerrillas who have crossed the 800-mile Borneo jungle border into Malaysian territory might make the truce "not fully effective."

The conference was called after U.S. Attorney-General Robert Kennedy, sent by President Johnson to look into the matter, obtained a promise from Indonesia that guerrilla raids would be stopped.

The guerrilla attacks began following the birth last September of Malaysia—a federation of Malaya, Singapore, Sarawak and Sabah (formerly North Borneo).

The Indonesians oppose the federation, arguing that it is just another form of British colonialism, while the Philippines are trying to claim part of Sabah.

At the opening of the six-day conference, the three countries reached an agreement on the general terms of a cease-fire. Thailand was agreed upon as the country to conduct the policing over the cease-fire. The three countries then asked United Nations Secretary-General U Thant to designate Thailand as the UN agent responsible for the enforcement of the cease-fire.

STATUS OF GUERRILLAS

The conference ran into difficulties when the status of the guerrilla bands came up. President Sukarno of Indonesia has ordered these bands to remain in their established pockets in North Borneo and not to surrender their arms.

Malaysia, on the other hand, wishes the guerrilla bands withdrawn, fearing that these groups may later claim that they have the right to the territory they had conquered.

Before winding up their conference Monday, however, the three countries agreed to hold another meeting at some later date to discuss Indonesia's threats to crush Malaysia and the claim to Sabah by The Philippines.

The next meeting will precede a proposed summit conference of Sukarnil Prime Minister Tunku Abdul Rahman of Malaysia and President Diosdado Macapagal of The Philippines—raising some hope that a solution might eventually be found.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Some time ago when the National Hockey League was in toddling clothes, Toronto's ebullient Punch Imlach forecast that the Montreal Canadiens would be lucky to make the playoffs—or words to that effect.

On paper, perhaps, it did look that way. But apparently this was one "frog" whose leap could not be judged by its looks.

The croaks and gleg-glugs you hear in the background emanate from the Habs' supporters anywhere from Montreal to Aklavik. For present indications point to the Habs not only making the playoffs but a possibility of finishing with nothing ahead of them when they gallop under the schedule wire.

But Imlach refuses to say "uncle." In his role as a fearless forecaster he has predicted the Leafs to "explode" —"in ten days we'll be ready to go" and "if I can get a good week out of them, we'll catch them."

Rod (Montreal Star) Fisher disagrees. Writes Rod, "while everyone is waiting for the big explosion, while people hopefully talk about the first game it may never come. The team I watched last night (a week ago when Canadiens blanked Leafs 2-0), and in other games this year is a sputtering group of stickers now happily equipped to challenge either Chicago or Montreal."

"There will be no tears shed for the Maple Leafs among Canadiens' employes," Rod goes on. "The object of professional hockey is to strike down the champion, and the Maple Leafs, it's safe to say, are discovering how the other half lives this season."

Them's harsh words, podner. But perhaps Fisher is taking into consideration the Leafs meet the Habs only four more times this season—three of them on Montreal ice.

The Habs recently returned from a four-game stint on the road and came home with five of the possible eight points against Rangers, Leafs, Detroit and Boston. They are tied for the top with two games in hand over the Chicago Black Hawks.

The remaining schedule definitely favors the Canadiens, which sees them with eleven games at home out of 20 this. It seems the rest of the season also favors the Montreal club since Chicago has nine on the road while Leafs are away for ten of their remaining 19 games.

The Canadiens have three games left with the Black Hawks, one on the road. Three of their four games with the Leafs are slated for home ice with the first coming tonight. Two of the remaining Leafs-Hawks battles will be played in Toronto.

While the above paints a more or less rosy picture for the Canadiens and their fan cohorts, don't go betting the cookie-jar change that it will pan out the way the Habs would have it.

Who knows, perhaps the Leafs' "Punch" will pull a win-rabbit out of the hockey hat and persuade his charges that it's about time they were doing something about finishing around the top rung. Stranger things have happened—and slumps like the one the Leafs are floundering in, have been known to end.

Then there's the Black Hawks who are not out of the top-rung picture by a helluva long shot. They are clinging desperately to that share-the-top spot with the confident Habs. True, Mikita, Wharram and Hull have kept them in the swim the last while, but it's stretch time and they are liable to hit their full potential any time now.

If the Leafs emerge from the depths and come up fighting and the Hawks hit that early-season form, the run for the league championship roses could very well be one of the hottest on record.

Sold To LA, Big M On Block?

Young Now Not-So-Gay Young Blade

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The slam of an apartment door Tuesday night apparently signified the end of the tempestuous career of Howie Young with Chicago Black Hawks.

The door, closed in the face of a reporter by the temperamental defenseman, was Young's way of indicating unwillingness to comment on an announcement that the National Hockey League club had sold him to Los Angeles Blades of the Western League. He also declined to answer his telephone.

HOWIE YOUNG

But Young conferred for more than an hour with Chicago general manager Tommy Ivan before the deal was announced. The inference was that he had reconsidered his earlier decision to quit hockey rather than join a minor-league club.

The announcement simply said Young has been sold for an undisclosed amount of cash and players to be named later.

STORMY NHL CAREER

For the 26-year-old defenseman, it was at least a temporary halt to a stormy stay in the NHL in which he set a penalty record, embroiled himself with management, league officials and police and won a loyal following among hometown fans with his robust play and occasional brilliance.

The Hawks got Young in a trade with Detroit for goalie Roger Crozier last summer and at that time Ivan said he had a perfect method of reforming Young. He never disclosed his formula, but it didn't work.

Toronto Maple Leafs, meanwhile, have taken to reading Dr. Norman Vincent Peale's "the power of positive thinking" in an effort to rid themselves of a slump that has all but knocked them out of the NHL pennant race.

Twenty-five copies of the book were delivered to the Leafs as they boarded a train in Toronto for tonight's game with the Canadiens in Montreal. The only other contest has New York visiting Chicago.

Manager-coach Punch Imlach bought the books for the Leafs, who have won only two of their last 13 games and slipped 10 points behind Chicago and Montreal. He copied the idea from Montreal's Bobby Rousseau, who credits the book with his success this year.

The Canadiens' star, who scored five goals in one game recently, is now reading a sequel: A Guide to Confident Living.

UNHAPPY WITH BIG M

Leaf problems involve nearly all players on the team, but the front office and distrustful fans are pointing the finger at big Frank Mahovlich, whose $1,000,000 price tag of 18 months ago has been reduced considerably.

Now the Boston Bruins may be able to pick up the slumping, lethargic left-winger for little more than a song.

Maple Leaf officials have not denied that Mahovlich is dispensable. In fact, vice-president Harold Ballard says "I'd trade or sell anybody if the bait is good enough" and Imlach says the Big M is not "untouchable."

Most frequently mentioned is a possible trade with Boston for bard-working left wingers Andy Hebenton and Dean Prentice. There has been no official confirmation of this speculation.

Tonight's game will mark the third time this season that Montreal is at full strength. Defenseman Jean-Guy Talbot returns to the lineup after missing two weeks' action with a charleyhorse.

Canadians Defeat Innsbruck

INNSBRUCK, Austria (CP-AP)—Canada's Olympic hockey team defeated the Innsbrucker Eislaufverein (IEV) 6-5 in an exhibition game in the Olympic hockey stadium here Tuesday before 10,000 spectators.

The Innsbruck squad, a pickup team including many Canadians playing in Europe, led 2-1 after the first period matched the Olympians' output of three goals in the second frame and was outscored 2-0 in the final stanza.

Terry Clancy of Ottawa and Rod Seiling of Kitchener each scored two goals for Canada. Brian Conacher of Toronto and Marsh Johnston of Birch Hills, Sask., scored one each. Boucher, Colletti, Regan, Smith and McNeil scored for IEV.

The Canadians are playing a series of exhibition games in Europe before returning to Canada. They played in the Winter Olympic Games that ended here Sunday and placed fourth in the hockey standings.

Americans Defeat Clippers

Leading throughout, Rochester opened the scoring on Wally Boyer's tip-in of a slap shot with the Clippers two men short through penalties.

Goals by Stan Smrke and Ed Lawson gave the Clippers a 3-0 lead before Brian Hextall scored for Baltimore in the second period.

Hextall's goal set off a wild donnybrook which resulted in 30 minutes in penalties for Rochester's Red Armstrong and nine minutes for Baltimore's George Konik.

Lawson and Gerry Ehman finished the Rochester scoring.

PICKS RUSSIANS

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Ed Temple, who coached several United States gold medal winners in the 1960 Olympic Games, predicts Russia will dominate the 1964 Olympics in Tokyo, that Germany will be next and the U.S. third. The Tennessee State University track coach said Tuesday that the U.S. will fall short in the summer Olympics as it did in the Winter Games at Innsbruck, Austria, because its athlete-development program is inadequate.

Women's Ont. Curling Championship

'Sudden-Death' To Decide Title

CORNWALL (CP) — Two rinks, both opening-round losers and then winners in the next three rounds, meet in a sudden-death final for the Ontario women's curling championship today.

Helen Hanright, 105 - pound wife of a naval officer, matches her Ottawa crew against a Uxbridge rink skipped by Peggy Laurie, mother of four children.

The winner will advance to the Canadian women's curling competition in Edmonton Feb. 24-28.

Although the Ontario champion will be decided in this morning's fifth and final round, the stage is set for a three-day title for second place in the six-team round-robin bonspiel.

Ottawa and Uxbridge have 3-1 records but a Grimsby rink skipped by Mrs. T. A. Winfield and the Stella Beardmore quartet from Beardmore in northwestern Ontario have identical 2-2 records.

Loser of the Ottawa-Uxbridge match will wind up with a 3-2 record.

Grimsby meets the Schumacher rink skipped by Mrs. C. S. Stevens and Beardmore plays Mrs. H. S. Irwin of Toronto in the final round and a win for both second-place rinks would create a three-way tie for runner-up. It would be decided in extra playoff games.

LOST FIRST GAME

It rallied to defeat Schumacher 12-8 in the second round, dumped Beardmore 10-5 in the third round Tuesday and dispensed of Toronto 10-6 later in the day.

Mrs. Hanright lost a 10-7 decision to Beardmore, then piloted her rink to a 13-6 victory over Mrs. Irwin, 1963 provincial champion.

Mrs. Hanright walloped Schumacher 13-1, but had trouble in the fourth round against Grimsby before emerging with a 10-7 victory.

Mrs. Hanright was down 4-0 after three ends but rallied to tie the score at 7-7 going into the 10th and final end when she added three points.

In other games Tuesday, Toronto picked up their only win in four games by defeating Grimsby 12-6 and Beardmore walloped Schumacher 15-6.

The Toronto entry ran into more trouble Tuesday.

Mrs. Fern McDonald, second on the Toronto rink, fell during a match and injured her thumb. She was replaced by bonspiel convener Gwen McDougall of Cornwall, who was allowed only to sweep.

The lead, Mrs. W. J. Law, had to throw the four stones.

GROUPS LOSES MONEY

TORONTO (CP)—The Canadian Soccer Association has lost nearly $35,000 since the end of 1958, its 1963 financial statement shows. The association took in $7,878 from fees and registrations, but lost $3,279 in 1963.

Hicks Takes Score Lead In A.H.L.

CLEVELAND (AP) — Wayne Hicks of Quebec Aces scored three points last week to take the scoring lead in the American Hockey League.

Including games of Sunday night, Hicks had a total of 60 points on 30 goals and 30 assists.

Deadlocked for second place with 58 points each were Bronco Horvath of Rochester Americans, Willie Marshall of Providence Reds and Claude Monson of Quebec. In fifth place was Cleveland's Fred Glover with 57 points.

Mike Nykoluk of Hershey Bears, who collected nine points last week, was in sixth place and led in assists with 48.

Pittsburgh's Yves Locas led in goals with 34.

Aldo Guidolin, playing coach of Baltimore Clippers, led in penalties with 153 minutes.

Roger Crozier of Pittsburgh Hornets had the edge in the goaltending department, with a goals-average of 2.33. That put him well ahead of Cleveland's Les Binkley, who shared the shutout lead with Gump Worsley of Quebec, each with three.

Bulldogs Tumble Maroons

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Windsor Bulldogs and Muskegon Zephyrs have been battling each other so fiercely for fourth place the last few weeks that by the time the International Hockey League schedule winds up, they may be too tired for the playoffs.

Tuesday night the Bulldogs took advantage of a Muskegon day off to move into a tie with the Zephyrs for fourth. A 4-3 victory over Chatham Maroons gave them the necessary two points.

The tie could prove short-lived. Tonight the Zephyrs play host to Windsor in the only scheduled game.

In other league action Tuesday the second-place Toledo Blades trimmed Fort Wayne Komets' lead to seven points with a 5-1 triumph over the league-leaders in Fort Wayne.

Fort Huron Flags stayed within five points of the Blades by dumping Des Moines' Oak Leafs 5-3.

Syls' Son Tops Loop

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Centre Bob Apps of McMaster University Marlins regained the individual scoring leadership in the Senior Intercollegiate Hockey League this week, picking up two goals and an assist in a weekend game against University of Montreal Carabins.

Apps, son of former National Hockey League star Syl Apps, has nine goals and 12 assists for 22 points in nine games.

Centre Don Mervyn of University of Waterloo Warriors, who held the scoring lead for two weeks, is one point behind the McMaster rookie.

Harold Martel of Lavan Rouge-et-Or, who has scored nine times in his last four games, is tied with Stan Sharman of Waterloo for the lead in goals. Each has 11.

Gary Aitken of University of Toronto Blues leads the regular goalies with an average of two goals against per game.

Politics Swung Red Vote

TORONTO (CP)—A member of Canada's Olympic bobsled team says international politics spoiled Canada's chances of getting in the 1964 Winter Olympics.

John Emery, a member of the bobsled team which won Canada's only gold medal last week at Innsbruck, Austria, said: "We were robbed out of the 1964 Olympics.

"The day before the vote was taken, the French government decided to recognize Red China, then the Communist countries switched their votes," he said on his return to Toronto Monday.

The 1968 games were awarded to Grenoble, France, over Banff, Alta., by a vote of 27 to 24.

Emery said: "Most of the athletes wanted to come to Canada and at one time it looked as though we had the games locked up. But then politics entered into it."

—Four Leagues On Air—

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK (AP)—Football will flood the television screens next fall with nearly telecasts of both U.S. pro leagues, the Canadian pro league and college games will fill most Friday night and run deep into the early evening hours of Sunday. And by 1965 there may be Monday night games.

A spokesman of the American Broadcasting Co. says said Tuesday that five National Football League games will be televised on Friday nights between Sept. 25 and Oct. 23. The spokesman, who declined use of his name, refused to confirm the report officially but added: "It is."

Presumably, the Friday night football game would take the place of the boxing TV shows that are scheduled as part of the air in the fall.

ABC also decided to confirm the report officially.

"It is premature," said Jim Beaser, NFL public relations chief. "Any deal would have to be between the individual club and the network."

CARRIES AFL

ABC has been carrying American Football League games. The contract has another year to go and ABC has indicated it will pick up its option. If ABC does go ahead it will be in the position of showing NFL games Friday night and AFL games Sunday.

AFL's rights for five years, starting in 1965, recently were sold to the National Broadcasting Company for $36,000,000.

There have been rumors that a network is trying to line up a Monday night sports program, year-long, starting in 1965, with big league baseball, pro football and other sports events in season.

The Canadian Football League recently sold television rights to at least 13 games to Fourth Network, Inc. The pact paid reportedly was "substantial, but nominal in comparison to the American contracts."

Hull's Trio Paces Hawks

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Chicago Black Hawks of the National Hockey League may have two left-wingers named Hull playing for them before too long—Bobby and his 19-year-old brother Dennis.

The former Hull Tuesday night fired three goals to pace St. Catharines Black Hawks of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A League to a 4-1 win over Niagara Falls Flyers.

The three-goal effort gave Dennis a total of 39 for the season and put him in sole possession of third place in the league scoring parade.

The win was the eighth in 11 games for the Hawks and, combined with two draws in that stretch, gives them a three-point third-place margin over Niagara Falls.

The only other league game saw Oshawa Generals move 14 points ahead of Hamilton Red Wings in the run for sixth place by downing the latter 4-2. The loss all but killed any Hamilton hopes for a playoff berth.

Ken Hodge fired his 31st goal of the season to round out St. Catharines' scoring.

Juveniles Drop Opener

By GARRY ALEXANDER
Staff Sportswriter

Belleville Juveniles failed to keep pace with their Kingston opponents during the second half of the game and thus absorbed a second 11-3 thumping here last night in the opening game of their O.M.H.A. Juvenile "A" major playdown series.

Second game in the home-and-home, goals-to-count series is slated for Kingston this Saturday. Peewee, Bantam and Midget series between the same two centres commence here Friday night.

Belleville's inexperienced squad faired well in the early minutes last night. They left behind 1-0 but tied it, trailed 3-1 going into the second period and once again knotted the count early in the frame.

Kingston took command from then on, however, scoring nine consecutive goals before the losers closed the scoring in the game's dying minutes.

Brian Roe spearheaded the Kingston attack, earning six points on two goals and four assists. Terry Landon also scored twice and helped on another, while Jim Beverage was the club's third two-goal man. Scott Irvine had a goal and two helpers, Dave Carr-Harris and Eddie Leeman one of each. Drew Kennedy and Earl Routly added the other goals Jack Watts and Dennis McCullough had two assists apiece, Carson and Goodrich singletons.

Perry Soule and Rick Denard collected one goal and one assist each for Belleville with Ron Poste triggering the other goal. Bob Bourdeau and Bill Clapp got an assist apiece.

The game was a clean one, compared to juvenile games here during the last two seasons, but got away a bit in the third when 11 of the 19 penalties were called. Kingston drew eight minors and two majors, Belleville six minors, two majors and a misconduct, the latter going to Dwight Rathwell following the winners' 11th goal. Rathwell and Carl Nelson tangled for minors and fighting majors at 3.47 of the third. Coach Osborne and Paul Fleming also picked up seven minutes apiece when they mixed it up.

Kingston twice scored while the losers were two men short on. Belleville returned the favor to take it 1-1. Young, the losing goalie, was overworked and turned in several sparkling saves.

KINGSTON: R. Dever, S. Irvine, D. Goodrich, J. Beverage, D. Carr-Harris, M. Carson, J. Osborne, E. Routly, D. Nelson, D. McCullough, B. Roe, E. Leeman, D. Kennedy, J. Watts.

Referee Brian Graham assessed 70 minutes in penalties, including seven majors for fighting. Oshawa took four and Hamilton three.

The main brawl occurred in the final period when the Wings' Bob Novelich clashed with Oshawa's Bobby Orr and Mike Dubeau. Each received a ma-

Bonspiel secretary Bruce Cardy of Trenton says that "registered entries at this date amount to 71 rinks.

The maximum number of entries has been set at 80. He advises any rinks wishing to enter, do so immediately.

All preliminary planning has been completed and the pattern of the bonspiel calls for two draws on Thursday evening, March 5 with curling all day Saturday.

The playoff games will be held on Sunday, March 8th.

Locally the curlers will enjoy dinner at the east wing of the men's mess hall RCAF on Friday evening. This will be followed with entertainment supplied by three clubs, and a dance.

Ron Elliott Five Pins Off Perfection

Ron Elliott came within a hair-breath of perfection in five pin bowling last night by rolling an 899 total in the game in this city for quite some time.

Elliott, bowling in the Men's Commercial "A" League, at the Bowl-O-Drome, turned in a sensational 11 single.

He fired 11 consecutive strikes before picking the head pin with his 12th and final ball of the game. The head pin flew back however, knocking over the three and two pins also leaving the count side standing.

Earlier this season Elliott had a 384 game in Major "A" competition.

Elliott's 445, five pins short of the perfect game, was the highest single since Jim Corliss rolled a 448 on the opening night of the season in 1958. Corlies had his game in Quinte Classic League play.

Only two perfect games have been recorded in Belleville. Roy Carey, of Kingston, was the lone scorer.

Ray Cullen Gets Three For Braves

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Ray Cullen scored three goals Tuesday night as St. Louis Braves overcame Cincinnati Wings 8-6 in a Central Professional Hockey League game.

The Braves twice had four-goal leads, 4-0 and 6-2, but the Wings scored three goals in a minute and 22 seconds to tull only 6-5 after two periods.

Quinte Cagers Win Pair

By ROBERT SNEFJELLA

Quinte Secondary School won 2 out of 3 basketball games from Trenton High School in Bay of Quinte C.O.S.S.A. play last night at Trenton. Trenton seniors downed Quinte 62-48, while Quinte juniors edged Trenton 51-49. The Quinte bantams won by a 50-5 score.

The senior game was very close until the second half started, when Trenton scored 20 points in the period.

Quinte's zone press was effective in keeping Trenton off balance for the first quarter, it ended 15-12 for Quinte, with Quinte scoring 8 and being evenly distributed among all the players.

In the second quarter Parks of Trenton scored 10 points, to help his team take over the lead 33-31.

The Trenton team, with some good ball handling by Chambers, were able to move the ball in the 3rd stanza, as they scored 16 points to take over a commanding 48-41 lead.

The fourth quarter was much like the third, in that Trenton shot well, but controlled the ball much of the time. The game ended 62-49 for Trenton.

The junior contest was a very exciting game, as Quinte won in overtime by a 51-49 score. The game had ended in a 46-46 deadlock, and had tied the score with one second left in the game.

Quinte led at half time 25-22 but pulled away to a nine point lead at the end of the third quarter. High scorers were Tony Meddings of Quinte and Mike O'Neal of Trenton with 13 points apiece.

Quinte bantams coasted to thel, 50-24 victory. High scorer in the game was Larry Seeley with 19 points. Also in double figures were Richard Ellis and Eric Emerson of Quinte with 14 and 10 points respectively. Larry was high man for Trenton with 11 points.

Seniors:

Q.S.S. (40) — McBride 15, Sheppard 13, Chadwick 8, Leslie 7, Hancock 8, Morton, Sandy, Champagne, Meddings, Middleton.

TRENTON (62) — Parks 18, Chambers 14, McGregor 14, Theriault 12, Herky 2, Callaghan, Ferguson, McDonald, Whitty.

First Defeat On Home Ice Flyers Wallop Picton 9-3

By JACK FAWKES

PICTON — The Picton Intermediates chose last night to come up with one of their poorer displays of the season and as a result are down one in the Eastern Junior "B" series with each of the three remaining clubs. The final score 9-3 for the Trenton RCAF.

Not only are they down one game, but last night marked their first defeat on home ice since the season started.

The score was indicative of the game, with the "Fly Boys" playing one of the best they played this season. And if this combination was not sufficient, Tom O'Halloran, usually a steady net minder blew wide open, letting shots get by that he usually catches in his hip pocket. True at times he was playing with little or no defence, but he too, came up with one of his poorest displays of the season.

At the other end, Derrill Johnston had a field day. He had 40 shots to stop, but on those he robbed the Pictonites blind on numerous sorties. O'Halloran had each period had 45 shots to stop, the play was that uneven.

Trenton took a 3-0 lead into the second period on goals by Roger Drake and Billy McGuire, who picked up their own rebound ice attack. McGuire, Joe St. Pierre, Roger Drake and Frank Fleet each potted goals in rapid succession in the second period, and it was not until the third that Picton was able to beat Johnston. Pug Keller fired the marker with Ron Wess and Larry Pero helping.

McGuire fired another, before Bob McDonald scored the second Picton goal and it was 7-2 going into the final frame.

Sticks and tempers both came up in the final 20 minutes with 10 a total of seven penalties being called against eight in the first two. Two of these were of the ten minute variety to Keith McDonald and Larry Pero. Picton took the edge in penalties by an 8-4 margin.

McGuire fired his fourth of the night in the last period, Ralph Plane fired one, and Bob Fawcett fired the lone Picton tally.

In favor of the locals, it can be said that they played without the help of the army. John Kennedy, Claude Schrader and Roland Barry who were playing hockey for the army last night, and were sorely missed by the Picton team. It is hoped that Ron Hall will also be back playing for the next game.

Jim Peterson picked up three assists, Joe St. Pierre two, with single going to Ken Currie, Frank Lewis, Jason Field and Verne Blanchard.

Trenton RCAF — Currie, Blanchard, Peterson, Plane, McGuire, Fields, Collins, St-Pierre, Drake, Lewis, Seymour, Houston, Rowbotham and Jones.

Picton — O'Halloran, Bolly, Fawcett, Stacey, Pero, Keller, Murray, Weese, Jones, Baker, McDonald, Guernsey.

Porkies Out Of Puck Barrel

TIMMINS (CP)—South Porcupine Porkies of the Northern Ontario Hockey Association Senior A League announced Tuesday it is suspending operations for the rest of the season due to financial troubles.

Harry Polowy, club secretary, said: "We have not got a cent in the bank and owe $800, so we have no alternative."

The Porkies have notified the league and the NOHA executive of their decision. They were scheduled to play at Abitibi tonight.

Y Basketball

Holloway took a slim lead early in the contest and hung on to shade the CNR 46-44 in a Men's Basketball league game played at the YMCA last night.

In another scheduled game, Teachers were unable to secure enough players for a lineup and forfeited to Pollock's Shoe Store.

Next Tuesday's games pit Pollock's against CNR at 7.30 and Teachers against Holloway at 8.30 p.m.

Last night's tilt was close all the way. Holloway led 28-24 at half time but CNR fought back, tying the score several times, before bowing by the slim two-point margin.

Ron Denyes was high scorer for Holloway, dropping in 22 points; Morrow and Rich Clarke each got eight points, Larry Gerow and Lynn Reynolds four apiece. Don Wilson and Harris were held pointless.

Gary Williams hooped 20 points to pace the CNR, closely followed by John Krupicz with 16. Mike Vigrass had five, Dave Yount two, John Walsh one and Tom Fell none.

Sailors Lose To Oaks

Hornets' String Clipped

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

It appears as if Galt Hornets are just not destined to take over sole possession of first place in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A league.

A short while back the Hornets were in a position to move ahead of the league - leading Woodstock Athletics. But a couple protested games dropped Galt to third spot.

The Hornets clumbed back to a first-place tie Monday with a 6-3 win over the Athletics.

But Tuesday, with the Athletics idle, the Hornets lost an 8-1 decision to Guelph Regals and had their seven-game winning streak snapped.

Meanwhile in Port Colborne, the Sailors dropped their 28th game of the season, losing 6-4 to Oakville Oaks.

Keith Worrall and Willy Menard each counted a pair of goals to keep alive the fifth-place Regals' playoff hopes. Jack McIntyre, Rick Hay, Bert Brown and Lloyd Mercer scored the others.

Most Popular Ski Slopes Near Heart of Edmonton

EDMONTON (CP) — Once called a "kindergarten hill" and snubbed by all but beginners, Connors Hill, 5 minutes' drive from Edmonton's main downtown intersection, now is one of Alberta's most popular ski slopes.

The factors that led to its rise in only a few years ago now comprise the basis for its popularity. The hill is small and doesn't frighten beginners, but it is steep enough and has been lengthened to provide the expert with a good area to practise techniques and get in shape for mountain skiing.

Today more than 3,000 members of the Edmonton Ski Club move up and down five slopes on the hill and over two jumps. Within five years membership is expected to double.

"It's popular skiing here because we are so close to everyone in the city and we've improved conditions to make them ideal for the family," says Bill McMullen, club president.

COSTS LITTLE

"We can provide the family with a relaxing outdoor atmosphere other sports can not offer. And we do it at an economical price, within the reach of just about any family.

"Fees range from $10 a season for children to $40 for adults. This includes lessons. That ensures everyone will be able to get well enough on the joy the slopes and also makes the hill safer because those using it know what to do on skis."

The club is open 90 hours a week. About half its membership participate in the various ski classes, held Saturday for those up to 18 years and in the evenings for others.

The club has spent $100,000 improving facilities in a 14-acre area leased from the city for $1 a year.

Four electrically operated rope tows haul adults and kids up the 100-foot elevation to the top of the hill. The tows are a natural check on overcrowding. If there is a crush the lineup occurs at the bottom of the tow and, not on the slopes.

MAY HIRE PRO

"It's a little crowded Sunday," says McMullen, "That's one reason we went to night ski classes this year.

"The only thing that will limit our growth is our ability to provide instruction. Up to this year all instructors volunteered their services. Now we pay them a nominal fee and next year we'll have to seriously consider hiring a full-time professional."

A key to the current success of the club is snow - making equipment purchased two years ago. Through its use the club can provide up to 120 days' skiing while other nearby slots are usable only three to four weeks.

The club arranges weekend tours to the mountains or British Columbia for its members. One tour this year included a trip to Europe and a week's skiing at Innsbruck, Austria, site of the Winter Olympic Games.

It also provides a training program for both competitors and officials and is a main source of officials required by the Alberta Ski Association for various meets.

Classified Ads Said Backbone Of Business

TORONTO (CP) — Classified newspaper advertising is the backbone of the real estate business in Canada, delegates to the 42nd annual convention of the Ontario Real Estate Boards were told here Tuesday.

Donald B. Kirtup of the Toronto Real Estate Board said during a panel discussion that "real estate sales in Canada are directly proportionate to classified advertising expenditures."

He estimated newspaper advertising revenues in 1964 would top $300,000,000 for the first time and members of real estate boards would invest $30,000,000 to sell $600,000,000 worth of real estate in Canada this year.

"Realtors are the largest buyers of classified advertising," he said. "A home is the highest priced product listed in the classified section."

3,000 Pinkertons Guard World Fair

NEW YORK (AP)—The "biggest security assignment in history."

That is how Pinkerton's national detective agency describes the job it has been given at the 1964-65 New York world's fair.

A force of 3,000, including patrolmen, detectives, policewomen, medical and fire department personnel, turnstile operators and clerks, is being organized for the task.

The agency said about half will be hired as guards, money handlers and other personnel by individual exhibitors.

The other 1,500-member division is being set up as a general security force.

It will function much like the public safety and service branches of a big city, watching over the daily crowds of visitors. There will even be a 53-bed emergency hospital.

Estimates put the daily fairground population at from 250,000 to 750,000 during its running season, mid - April to mid-October, in the two years.

Members of the 750-member police department will wear a specially designed uniform of light blue with visored cap and white gloves. They'll have a Pinkerton patch on one sleeve, a world's fair patch on the other.

The force will include a guard of honor of 110 officers, and a number of other special sections — 30 detectives, 13 uniformed policewomen, plus matrons to attend lost children.

SECURITY PROBLEMS

Describing its planned operations, the Pinkerton agency said:

"Apart from emergencies and critical incidents that are bound to arise, fair police officials expect the major security problems will arise from concentrated crowds.

"Experience at past fairs indicates that runaway teen-agers and petty thieves will demand police attention. . . . The entire security force will carry nightsticks and many of them will be armed."

The medical department will run five first aid stations, in addition to a specially constructed circular hospital, and four ambulances. From three to five doctors will be on duty at all times, the agency said, with a pool of 34 nurses in hours when the fair is open.

Past experience at other fairs and expositions," the Pinkerton agency said, "indicates that the major call for medical treatment will be for sprains and fractures, cardiac cases, diabetic comas, a few strokes and numerous digestive upsets."

Scientific Age Tending To Separate Men From Boys

LONDON (CP) — The big "brain-storm" now building up in Britain shows how the scientific age tends to separate the men from the boys.

Basically, it comes down to a matter of size. In the modern world, science and technology form a new dimension in which the big battalions possess a tremendous, built-in advantage.

Only super-powers such as the United States and the Soviet Union can afford the huge sums needed for research—and research is the crucial factor.

Britain's white-smocked workers have an outstanding reputation. For years they have complained about science on a shoe string—about low salaries, lack of status, poor facilities. They made many discoveries; other countries did the developing.

Hence the "brain drain"—the galloping exodus of Britain's men of science to the busier laboratories of the U.S. This week, the latest, half-a-dozen Britons announced they are screaming the Atlantic, touching off a hot debate.

The situation has political impact. The opposition Labor party, making modernization its motif for the election expected in June, is taking dead aim at the young professional classes.

The Conservative record is not easy to defend. The topic of emigrating scientists was raised in Whitehall by commonwealth correspondents as long ago as 1957; government spokesmen acknowledged the problem but said the allocation of available resources was all a matter of "priorities."

In a society bled by war, claims accumulated for new highways, hospitals and education. The theme song of successive chancellors of the exchequer was that Britain was simply trying to do too much with too little.

Continental countries are probably not much better off than Britain.

NEW YORK (AP)—The affiliated stations of the United States may soon have a new status symbol, a television show that won't sell soap, mufflers, chinchilla wraps and collections of French impressionist paintings as prime boasting.

It is a new panel show called Make a Million which CBS will put into its Sunday night schedule starting April 5, right after Ed Sullivan's variety show. Each week, the usual "celebrity panel" will be called upon to guess which of several contestants is the real millionaire. The winner of the round will be awarded "up to $600," the network announced.

It was only five or six years ago that television, including CBS, was dedicated to game shows that, by one means or another, were turning humble plumbers, cops and college instructors into men of financial substance.

The producer of I Made a Million will be Steve Carlin, who was the producer of the CBS quiz show, The $64,000 Question.

SOME ARE SHY

Probably there will be some millionaires who will turn down an invitation to be contestants in the game. After all, $600 is a rather paltry wager for a millionaire. And some — like Paul Getty and Howard Hughes are publicity shy.

The CBS staff may have its hands full checking the bona fides of self-confessed millionaires, although affidavits from their banks and brokers ought to be adequate proof.

Such a program ought to be marvelous for newly rich folks, those just eager to show off their

CAMPBELLFORD

Rotary Club Hears Talk On Farming

CAMPBELLFORD — Members of the Rotary Club here heard an address entitled "Fantastic Farming" by Ralph C. Banbury, at the regular Monday noon luncheon.

Mr. Banbury, agricultural representative for Northumberland told the group that "production in Northumberland County could be nearly doubled if the rural acres. Production in some cases has already nearly doubled over the past few years on a per cow, per acre or per hen basis," he said, and added that it was quite possible he could be doubled again.

"In our generation, the improvements in farming is actually fantastic," he said. A good herd size may have a thousand progeny, resulting in better herds in the entire country. Apples, half of which used to rot before spring, may now be kept perfectly for an entire year. Potatoes, treated with radium rays will not sprout, and even the blackbird, long a pest to farmers can now be controlled since science has found a way to de-sex the birds.

HORMONE SPRAYS

Some hormone sprays have made weeding and cultivation almost unnecessary. Corn, sprayed with some hormone sprays, now grows taller and gives better yield without cultivation. It is now also possible to stop the pollination process and de-sex grasses so that they will remain green, but will stop growing, and thus going to seed.

Touching briefly on finances as far as the farmer is concerned, Mr. Banbury said that although the price of almost all

White's District

WHITE'S DISTRICT — Mrs. W. A. Jeffery is spending some time with her daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Ritz and family of Thurlow.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Curtis were Saturday evening callers of her sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Alva Meyers, Johnstown.

Mrs. Albert Jones opened her home for a quilting for White's U.C.W. the past week.

Staff Sgt. John Linn and Mrs. Linn of Cobourg, accompanied by his mother, Mrs. W. Linn who spent the past week with them, returned to the latter's home at Bayside on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Curtis were Sunday guests of their daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Ted Trice and children of Belleville.

VARIETY NIGHT

Mrs. Eric Jones attended variety night at Quinte Secondary School, in which her daughter, Miss Cynthia Jones, participated in the junior band.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Stickle entertained at party for a number of their friends on Wednesday evening.

Mrs. Ross Stickle was in attendance at variety night concert at Quinte Secondary School on Friday evening when her daughter, Miss Gwen Stickle, is a member of the senior band, assisted in the program.

At the social evening at Harder's school on Friday evening Mrs. Ivan Post Curtis was ladies' high and Mr. Donald Sandercock won men's high.

Farm products is up, the spiraling cost of living has meant that the actual income of the farmer is now less than in the 1930's. "The dollar does not do as much for us as it used to—but then we do not do as much for the dollar," he said. Packaging frills have been the great cause of the increase in food prices.

With respect to bonuses to farm producers, he said the cost is small. "Seven-five per cent of taxes go to defence, 12 per cent to debt charges, and 2.5— per cent to subsidies on farm produce. "About half of this subsidy actually goes to the consumer," Mr. Banbury stated.

The speaker answered questions from Rotarians at the close of his talk, and in answer to a question as to what he thought was the blame for the present lack of food in Russia, he said his could only guess that lack of experience on the part of Russian farmers was the greatest cause.

WILL FLY DRONE

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian-built CL-89 drone, or pilotless, reconnaissance aircraft will be flown for the first time shortly at the United States Army proving ground in Yuma, Arizona. The Canadian Army said Tuesday a prototype of the remote-controlled drone is being prepared for flight tests at Yuma. The aircraft is designed to gather intelligence over enemy territory where manned flight would be hazardous or impossible.

GRANT NEW TRIAL

TORONTO (CP) — Testimony from a prisoner serving a life sentence has won a new trial for John William McNamara, 36, of Toronto, who has served almost a year of a six-year sentence for two armed robberies. The Ontario Appeal Court made its decision Tuesday after hearing testimony from Gerald Arsenault, 21, also of Toronto. Arsenault told the court he committed the eight store robberies in December, 1959, for which McNamara was convicted.

Sir Alec Splits With Johnson On Cuban Trade

Swings Support Behind U.S. in South Viet Nam

By HAROLD MORRISON

WASHINGTON (CP) — British Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home has swung his support behind United States military action in South Viet Nam but has split with President Johnson on how to handle Castroism in Cuba.

Resuming their formal talks which are to be completed today, the two leaders are expected to return to the Cuban issue as Johnson seeks to persuade Sir Alec to restrict long-term credits to the Communist bloc.

But a British official made clear Britain will not bow to any American demands for trade restrictions and said the Alec's view is that Britain should be free to trade with all Communist countries without discrimination, provid i ng no strategic goods are involved.

Britain argues, the official said, that it is no more reprehensible for Britain to sell buses to Cuba than it is for the United States to sell wheat to Russia. Cuba is negotiating to buy 400 British buses, with an option to obtain another 1,000 later.

LIMITS TERMS

As for the U.S. opposition to the provision of long-term credit to Communist countries, Britain, so far, has limited these terms to five years but is prepared to grant longer terms, especially on capital projects, if the communist so desire, the official added.

As the talks between the two leaders continue, it becomes strongly evident that while Sir Alec seeks a close accord with Johnson on general East-West strategy, he intends to pursue an independent economic course wherever Britain's trade is involved.

The official gave special emphasis, however, to the fact that Britain will not support the proposal by French President de Gaulle for a Southeast Asia be neutralized. He said Britain is fully behind the U.S. military effort against the red threat in South Viet Nam. While de Gaulle's idea might be worth considering in the long run, it becois, a terrorist group that sought to win Quebec independence through violence.

Heavy Session Ahead

By KEN KELLY

OTTAWA (CP) — Parliament faces the prospect of a long, hard, legislation-packed grind starting next week.

The government has given indications it will bring before Parliament major legislation in transportation, government organization, welfare and labor.

In transportation, the government has said it plans to deal with the long-standing problem of abandonment of railway branch lines.

One government proposal may be to permit the railways to scrap and lower their freight rates between specified minimums and maximums without prior approval by the board of transport commissioners. This was one recommendation of the M. cPherson Royal commission on transportation in 1961-62.

The government's reorganization bill may call for legislation to combine the departments of agriculture and forestry.

SEEK NEW DEPARTMENTS

The government also plans to ask parliamentary approval for creating a new department with a minister to buy Council President McIlraith—will be designated president of the treasury board.

In welfare, the revised Canada Pension Plan, changed to conform with the demands of the provincial governments, will be back before the Commons with the prospect of extended hearings on its provisions by a Commons committee.

Labor Minister MacEachen has hinted the government is planning to introduce its promised federal labor code dealing with wages, hours, holidays and vacations in industries under federal legislation.

Also in prospect in the labor field is a major overhaul of unemployment insurance legislation, possibly instituting a universal unemployment insurance card for some 6,000,000 Canadian workers.

BUDGET IN APRIL?

Presentation of the budget is expected before mid-April. Finance Minister Gordon has already hinted at higher spending and pretty well ruled out major tax changes.

Another deficit is in prospect for the fiscal year which starts April 1.

In foreign affairs, the government faces opposition probing on whether Canada will participate in an international peacekeeping force for troubled Cyprus and whether Red China will get Canadian backing for a United Nations seat.

The Cyprus issue and the government's white paper on defence may dovetail neatly in the debate soon after the opening.

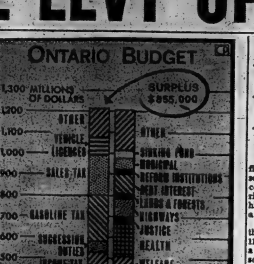
The white paper is expected to outline a five-year plan to make the armed forces more mobile and flexible, mainly by means of a new fast attack fleet.

MAY PROPOSE FORCE

At about the same time, the government may be asking parliamentary approval for a Canadian contingent to be sent to Cyprus as part of an international police force to prevent civil war.

Such a battalion may be preparing to leave for Cyprus when the government is about to announce the purchase of up to 30 Hercules transport planes from the Lockheed Aircraft Corporation in California.

A long list of additional government expenditures awaits Parliament. It includes:



1. Possible steps to protect Canada's publications from foreign competition.

2. An investigation by the Commons broadcasting committee of legislation governing broadcasting and operations of the publicly-owned CBC.

3. Promised postal rate increases on mailed advertising matter.

4. Establishment of an Indian claims commission.

5. Applications to establish two new chartered banks in Western Canada and possible government legislation to guard against foreign control of chartered banks.

SURPLUS BUDGET — Provincial Treasurer James N. Allan brought down his 1964-65 Ontario budget yesterday, calling for gross ordinary revenue of $1,207,918,000 and gross ordinary expenditures of $1,207,063,000 for a surplus of $885,000. Largest expenditure is $419,332,000 for education, compared with $399,573,000 in the current fiscal year. The gasoline tax, increased by two cents to 15 cents a gallon, is expected to bring $218,000,000 in revenue, compared with $182,000,000 in 1963-64. (CP Photo)

Bitter Fighting In Cyprus

CP from AP-Reuters

NICOSIA, Cyprus — Heavy fighting broke out today in the southern port of Limassol and casualties among Turkish-Cypriots were reported running high before the British arranged a cease-fire.

The British said it appeared the fighting had stopped at 11:30 a.m. (4:30 a.m. EST). For a time the Greek - Cypriots seemed to be on the verge of wiping out the Turkish Quarter.

British military sources said about 50 persons have been killed and 100 wounded in the inter-communal fighting at Limassol.

Maj. - Gen. Peter Young, British commander of the Cyprus truce force, had flown to Limassol with Greek-Cypriot interior minister, Polycarpos Yorgadjis, to talk to the combatants.

The fighting broke a ceasefire between Greek and Turkish-Cypriots reached Wednesday night.

Limassol was the scene of bitter fighting Wednesday which flared anew today.

MORE DEAD

It was the highest casualty toll on the strife - torn island since Britain's truce force claimed the lives of between 200 and 300 persons.

The latest clashes came as George Ball, U.S. undersecretary of state, headed into his second day of talks with Cypriot government officials to try to find a solution to the Cyprus problem.

The battle between the Greek- and Turkish-Cypriot sectors after President Makarios, the Greek-Cypriot leader, was reported dead by Turkish sources to have rejected a British-American peace plan calling for an international peace-keeping force.

An informed British source said the talks have been taking "a very bad heating" from the Greek - Cypriots and were in danger of being stimulated.

The Turkish-Cypriots in the area were reported surrounded and the source said the Greeks have launched a complete military operation against them.

STARTED AT DAWN

The government radio said the new battle, the third in as many days, started at dawn and cut at dawn around Berengaria Castle at the approaches of the second largest city of Cyprus.

There are an estimated 4,000 Britons, including military families, living in Limassol. The British and Americans have proposed an international peacekeeping force for the island of 10,000 men. Under original proposals, the force was to be made up from NATO countries.

However, Makarios wanted the force linked to the United Nations Security Council.

British and American peacekeepers were reported in Washington to be working on a fallback proposal, ordered after Dean Rusk and Douglas-Home.

The government radio as serted that 20 Turkish-Cypriots were killed in Wednesday's fighting in the eastern town Famagusta and that Greek-Cypriot casualties were one dead and several wounded.

Turkish - Cypriot sources in Nicosia said the Turkish toll was also two dead. It was impossible to get the Turkish-Cypriot version of the events in Limassol. The truce force was completely cut off in that sector.

Ontario Budget Boosts Gasoline Tax Two Cents

No Change in Sales Tax; Broaden Care of Sick

By BOB EXELL

TORONTO — (CP) — The Ontario government raised gasoline taxes two cents a gallon today, fulfilling in part what it said was an urgent need for more money.

The measure was announced Wednesday in the budget brought down by Provincial Treasurer Allan that also raised hospital insurance premiums more than 50 per cent, effective July 1.

The increase will be $2.30 a month for a family, making the new premium $6.50. For a single person hospital insurance will cost $3.25, an increase of $1.15.

Effective at 12:01 a.m. today the gasoline tax went up to 15 cents a gallon from 13—the figure that had existed since 1957, diesel fuel tax was raised two cents to 20½ cents a gallon.

Mr. Allan's budget, calling for gross expenditures of $1,304,000,000 during the fiscal year starting April 1, left Ontario's three-per-cent sales tax unchanged.

NO CIGARETTE TAX

Nor did the treasurer levy a cigarette tax, as anticipated in some quarters. He announced a few minor tax changes, one of them the removal of amusement tax on admission tickets costing 75 cents or less.

Mr. Allan said the province's program for 1964-65 "clearly reflects that increased government services are urgently needed." The existing tax structure simply could not provide it enough money.

Even so, he did not wish to make major tax changes before receiving the report of the Ontario committee on taxation, expected by the fall.

The treasurer said the tax changes would make no greater demand upon Ontario's economy and people than is necessary to maintain the financial strength of the province in the face of rising provincial expenditures.

Over-all spending this year would be up $93,100,000 over 1963-64.

OPPOSITION CRITICIZES

Financial spokesman for the legislature's two main opposition parties criticized the rise in hospital premiums, particularly Liberal Kenneth Whitelaw said he would result in drop-outs from the insurance scheme, which covers an estimated 8,781,000 persons.

Nazi Mercy Expert Hangs Self

FRANKFURT, West Germany (Reuters)—Dr. Werner Heyde, chief accused in the forthcoming trial of Nazis indicted on charges of carrying out Hitler's euthanasia (mercy killing) program, hanged himself in his prison cell today with his trousers' belt.

Heyde was the second of the four accused to die within two days. The trial was due to begin next Tuesday in Limburg near here.

Friedrich - Tillmann, 60, former director of the Sonnenstein orphanage and a director in the Nazi euthanasia central office in Berlin during the war, fell to his death Wednesday in Cologne from an eight-storey window.

Ewald Peters, a West German police official and h'gh-ranking Gestapo officer in Koenigsberg, hanged himself in a cell in Kiel after being arrested in connection with his wartime activities.

Heyde was charged with aiding in the killing of more than 100,000 mentally ill persons and concentration camp prisoners.

The state prosecutor, who prepared the Heyde trial, said Heyde knew everything in his cell was in order."

USED BELT

"Ten minutes later he was found hanging there. He used his belt.

Swiss React Angrily To Red Claims

GENEVA (AP) — Switzerland has sharply rejected the Soviet Union's complaints about Swiss security in the case of a Russian disarmament delegate's defection to the United States.

Rene Keig, president of the Geneva Cantonal (state) government, Wednesday called the Russian charges "unfounded, unjust and unfriendly." He said the Russians refused to co-operate with Swiss authorities and even hindered the Swiss police investigation.

Semyon K. Tsarapkin, chief Soviet delegate to the international disarmament conference, accused Western agents of "provocative activity" in the defection of Yuri I. Nosenko, 36.

He has been identified by U.S. officials as an officer of the So-

Find Dynamite In Mailbox At Montreal

MONTREAL (CP) — Police said a bomb fashioned from several sticks of dynamite was found today in a mailbox at the intersection of St. Zotique and de Gaspe streets in the northeast and of the city.

Sergeant - Detective Leo Plouffe, police explosives expert, dismantled the bomb without incident.

"There were seven loose sticks of dynamite in the bottom of the box," Sgt. Plouffe said later in an interview.

"There was nothing to it, really. No paper, no wrapping, no fuse, no detonator cap, no nothing. . . .

"We must not make something of this when there was really nothing to it."

The incident recalled the bombing of mail boxes last year by Le Front de Liberation Quebecois, a terrorist group that sought to win Quebec independence through violence.

Russia Proposes Simultaneous Slash of All Military Budgets

CP from AP-Reuters

GENEVA—The Soviet Union proposed today that all nations agree on a simultaneous slash of 10 to 15 per cent in their military expenditure.

Soviet delegate Semyon K. Tsarapkin made the proposal in the 17 - nation disarmament conference.

He released a Brazilian proposal for establishment of a conference subcommittee to consider all disarmament for a simultaneous and equal cuts in military budgets. A subcommittee would only be "an obstacle in the path of agreement," Tsarapkin declared.

Brazilian delegate Josue de Castro had proposed that the amount of the reduction should be discussed in the subcommittee, but that 20 per cent of the money saved should go to help underdeveloped nations.

An American spokesman expressed some reservations about both proposals, but he stressed that the U.S. delegation would give them "careful study."

"It will first be necessary to find some means of determining what constitutes a military budget," the spokesman said.

He received similar reservations in the Soviet defence budget was accompanied by a big increase in the sections of government budget—leaving Western experts to wonder how much of the reserve was for military purposes.

The spokesman added that another possible difficulty might arise through the fact that in the United States, defence expenditure is the ultimate responsibility of the U.S. Congress and not of the executive branch of the government, which would negotiate the treaty.

New Session of Parliament May See Extended Debates

OTTAWA (CP) — Political trends are developing that could make the new parliamentary session opening next week as climactic as any session in recent years of partisan in-fighting.

Keys to the outcome are the government's legislative program, to be announced Tuesday in the traditional speech from the throne, and the attitude of the Progressive Conservatives led by John Diefenbaker.

The throne speech is a closely-guarded secret, kept so by the government to preserve the element of surprise in parliamentary tactics. However, it is believed the legislation left unfinished by last session and the work of passing new spending and tax budgets alone are more than enough to provide hot and extended debate.

Mr. Diefenbaker, fresh from his re-endorsation by the Progressive Conservative Association's annual meeting, is reported riding high in enthusiasm for political battles.

Party standings in the Commons are: Liberals 129; Conservatives 95; New Democrats 17; Creditistes 13; Social Creditors 11. There are no vacancies.

This combination, the same as the outcome of last year's general election except for the Social Credit - Creditiste split, mean all opposition parties must combine on an issue if they wish to defeat Prime Minister Pearson's Liberal government.

Sources indicate Mr. Diefenbaker and his supporters want an election as soon as possible. The minority parties, however, are regarded as being sufficiently anxious to avoid one that they will try to dodge any vote endangering the government.

Light Snow Blankets Area

Persistent but light snow blanketed the Quinte district from early today.

The fallout ceased before noon when about an inch was reported on the ground.

City streets were snow-covered but police reported no serious accidents.

OPP headquarters at Belleville said only a few minor accidents had occurred on local highways this morning.

Beatlemania Hits Carnegie Hall No One Actually Heard Beatles

NEW YORK (AP) — The Beatles played Carnegie Hall Wednesday and it was an awesome performance.

The Beatles looked to be a highly amusing parody of the worst elements of rock 'n' roll music. The word "looked" is used advisedly, for no one, especially the screaming fans, actually heard the Beatles.

The performance — by the girls' screaming — Wednesday morning and lasted all day and night, the scene shifting from the Plaza Hotel, where the Beatles are staying, to Pennsylvania Station, where they were arriving from Washington, to Carnegie Hall.

The performance by the Beatles lasted only for about a half hour at each of two shows on the old concert stage. And it is doubtful if anyone, the Beatles, the girls or disinterested observers, could have stood any more.

One patron of the Beatles' art who didn't scream sat in the fourth row with a small child on her lap and another beside her. When the spotlight was aimed at her, the small child was Mrs. Nelson A. Rockefeller, the New York Governor's wife. The youngsters were Mrs. Rockefeller's children. Jamie and Wendy Murphy, children by her previous marriage.

A Carnegie Hall spokesman later said the children were accorded to the Beatles' dressing room, where they got autographs.

Mrs. Rockefeller told a reporter the Beatles' performance was "one of the most extraordinary things I've ever seen."

"I loved it, li was marvelous," she said, while the children nodded assent.

Another unlikely Beatle fan was Francis Cardinal Spellman, Roman Catholic Archbishop of New York, seen in Beatles wigs as they left the Plaza Hotel. After a few moments he turned away, without explaining whether he was just passing or doing sociological research.

The police used security measures reserved normally for kings and presidents. Police got into the habit of using bull horns to announce to the crowds that the Beatles had again escaped their clutches and each announcement set up a mass groan of disappointment.

The Beatles, as if there is anyone who doesn't already know, are four British imports, John Lennon, Paul McCartney, George Harrison and Ringo Starr who play drums and guitars and sing and who sport haircuts down to their eyebrows.

Dress Is Not Proper Gift For Teenage Boy to Give

ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS — Our 13-year-old son is giving his 13-year-old girl friend a dress for her birthday. The price, whether it is $1.98 or $49.98 is of little consequence. It is the principle to which I object. Both of these teen-agers are in college. They have been going steady for 13 months.

I have been assured by my son and by a friend who is the mother of two teen-agers that I am hopelessly square. They promise me I will eat my words when I read your reply in the paper. I have the knife and fork ready. How about it? — FOGEY OF 40.

DEAR 40 — Hand the silverware to them, Mother. A dress is not a proper gift from a teen-age boy to his girl.

Ask your son if he would like his sweetheart to buy him a suit for his birthday. Same thing.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS — The letter signed "Unappreciated" made me fighting mad. I happen to be a wife who likes to sleep late, too. My husband is perfectly relaxed about fixing the kids breakfast. It's not that big a deal.

There's no doubt that he is an exceptional man. I hear my friends complaining about their husbands all the time and I can't find anything wrong with mine. I notice that the women who complain the loudest are the meticulous housekeepers and the spectacular cooks. If one of their husbands ever put a briefcase on the dining room table he'd get shot.

When my husband comes home at night he can drop his socks and shoes wherever he wants to. I don't care if he tracks in a little snow or mud. The house is to live in and I want him to enjoy it.

Maybe we are slobs, but we're happy slobs and we get along just fine. So why don't people just mind their own business? — I APPRECIATE HIM.

DEAR APPRECIATE HIM — Apparently you are doing a mighty good job of minding yours. Congratulations on what sounds like a mutually rewarding and durable relationship.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS — I don't want you to think I hate my mother because I really do love her very much. But when she treats my older sister like a queen and I get treated like Cinderella it makes me so unhappy I don't know what to do.

I am 14 and my sister Janice is 18. It all started in September when my sister Janice went into the 10th grade. Mother bought her loads of pretty clothes because she said it was important for Janice to look just right. I didn't get anything new. I got some of Janice's worn skirts and blouses — only because Janice's clothes closet was crowded, and she had to make room for the new things.

Mom drives Janice everywhere she wants to go. When I ask Mom to drive me someplace she tells me to stay home and do my school work. I'd leave home, if I knew where to go. Please tell me what to do. — BORN TOO LATE.

DEAR BORN — It's always painful to feel that a parent is favoring a brother or a sister over you. Every child who ever grew up with a brother or sister has had this feeling at one time or another.

Try to be pleasant and uncomplaining. Fourteen is a horrible age for a girl who has a sister 18. The world will look brighter when you are 16 and she is 18.

* * *

Confidential to CLOSED MIND — Not only closed but nailed shut, my friend. I suggest you open it occasionally. Something of value may drop in.

HATS — PRO AND CON

Eugenia Sheppard, America's most forthright fashion writer, has come out strongly in favor of hats and the wearing of same. Few people will argue that hats are not necessary, as a size figures show that the average woman buys at least two each year. But, does she wear them? If she does, how often? And how old is that mythical "average" woman?

All sorts of legends and myths have been built up over the past 15 or 20 years about hats when the entire millinery industry seemed to be slowly sinking out of sight. Once prosperous firms gradually disappeared, some through financial ineptitude, others just folded their felts and slunk off to greener fields. The bouffant hair style and a trend to casual clothes did nothing to help sagging sales. Occasionally a well-known dress designer would favor millinery with the old cliche that this season's silhouette needs the extra balance of a hat. This was usually countered quickly by wholesale condemnation of hats by a prominent beauty, usually rich and well-dressed.

It is said by some who dislike hats that the wearing of them is old fashioned, unnecessary and a sign of approaching old age! Justified complaints were registered that high-crowned hats would not fit into low-slung cars, neither would they fit over a bouffant hair style. Hats were too fancy, hats were too plain, hats were too stiff, hats were too everything. With the result that a whole generation of women grew up with no knowledge of the possibilities of a well-chosen chapeau.

VIEWS ON MILLINERY

Perhaps Eugenia Sheppard's views on millinery will be widely circulated and will help to kill some of these legends and myths. First of all, she shoots down the bouffant hair style, and there are still far too many of them around. She claims, and rightly so, that the new, softer, unsprayed hair "does" need a hat because even the slightest breeze will disarrange it.

She praised the milliners for their new unforced designs, claiming that they seem to have adapted their collections to the feeling of the new season. From what I have seen of the Canadian millinery collections for this spring, I think she is right. Most of the new hats are easy to wear and attractive with subtle trims and brims.

As more and more Canadian women adopt the natural, uncomplicated, hair styles of 1964, they will be forced to buy hats to protect these styles from the ravages of our uncertain climate. (A kerchief folded and tied over some of these new flat hair styles, is not as attractive as some kerchiefs worn over a high hair style.) Once a woman has worn a hat, found it comfortable, received a few compliments because of it, then she begins to think of a hat as a necessity and not a "sometime thing".

Princess Anne Old-Fashioned In Her Dress

By ROD CURRIE

LONDON (CP)—How should a teen-age princess dress? Like a teen-ager or a princess?

Should she live up to the popular image of a royal child, or adopt some of the way out modes of the modern school-girl?

Barbara Griggs, writing in The Evening Standard, brought the subject up for debate when she implied that 13-year-old Princess Anne, as far as fashion is concerned, is just too old-fashioned for words.

Commenting on a picture of the young princess as she departed for Benenden, an exclusive and expensive girls' school, Miss Griggs writes:

"Princess Anne is a pleasant-looking young girl with a jolly reasonable figure, a nice smile and lots of shiny hair. So why does the leading teen-age girl in the country have to be got up like 'she's going to a mums' outing'?"

Coming to specifics, Miss Griggs says the princess's hair is "crimped into long, dull dated waves; her feet are plonked into the squarest round-toes in town; and her coat—long, tent - like, with a mimsy fur collar—wouldn't disgrace a vicar's wife."

"Come, come, Buckingham Palace, can't we do a little better than that?"

COME TO DEFENCE

But, as might be expected, Standard readers weren't long in coming to the princess's defence. So far, all letters published have been from women and all attack Miss Griggs for her remarks.

"Thank goodness one mother —albeit a royal one — shows common sense," wrote one indignant London lady. "Heaven be praised one child, hardly in her teens, looks like a schoolgirl and is not attired like a street-walker."

Another termed Miss Grigg's comments "unjust and uncalled-for" and pointed out that Princess Anne was returning to school, where there are certain regulations as to shoes and other dress.

"What would Miss Griggs expect? A black leather coat, black knee-length leather boots, black stockings and a Beatle hairstyle?"

One woman said she and most of her friends were "appalled" by the story. "For sheer rudeness to the Royal Family it would be hard to beat," she concluded.

The debate confirms that Princess Anne now has joined other female members of the Royal Family as an object of scrutiny—and criticism—as regards fads and fashions. In this department, Princess Margaret —photographed recently wearing knee-length black boots—holds a commanding lead as royal trend-setter.

The only previous occasion on which Anne drew much attention was when she was bridesmaid at Princess Alexandra's wedding last April and turned up with a fashionable, up-swept hairstyle.

Several commentators remarked that the style was too old for a girl of 13. Now Miss Griggs, for one, thinks the current shoulder-length cut is too old-fashioned.

SPEAKING of MANNERS

PATRICIA LEWIS

CAREFULLY PLAN SEATING ARRANGEMENTS

Whenever someone invites us to a "sit-down" dinner, I always jump at the invitation. Usually when we go to parties (like everyone else) we spend the evening standing up.

Even at a "sit-down," the early part of the evening keeps guests on their toes simply because there's not enough sitting space in the living room and, if there is, it's often in the wrong place for easy conversation. At a so-called "sit-down," there's at least the hope of being able to relax eventually and rest one's weary feet under the dinner table.

Decorators and decoration editors have long pointed out the need, comfort and congeniality of "conversational grouping." In this trade, the term has become a cliche, but, unfortunately, it's still not a household word in the majority of households. Seating arrangements are geared more to the architectural arrangements of the room than to creature comfort and convenience.

Actually, it's quite simple to arrange chairs so that guests are within comfortable speaking distance of each other. When chairs are scattered around the room, guests end up shouting at each other or they give up completely and just stand around talking in groups until dinner is announced and they get a chance to sit down.

In a traditional arrangement, the sofa is placed along the longest wall and a brace of chairs along the second longest. In one corner (ideally, might be the fireplace) and in another a bookcase. The arrangement is uninteresting and hardly prompts easy conversation.

With the addition of a few pull-up chairs and occasional tables, the floor-plan throws a new light on congenial entertaining. The sofa, for instance, could be coupled with a few chairs to make a major grouping. A few more pull-up chairs arranged around a small decorative table in another part of the room, would make another pleasant gathering point.

The idea is to have two or three separate groupings that allow guests to lounge at ease while they talk. And the most endearing thing about pull-up chairs is that they can be moved about to enlarge or decrease the size of a conversational grouping without completely rearranging the room.

Conversation naturally flows more easily when guests are able to sit within comfortable talking distance of each other. A change of floor-plan might add an entirely new dimension to your future gatherings.

Conserve Those Vitamins, Minerals

by Mary Moore

Last week at this time I listed some of the vegetables high in vitamin and minerals and promised to give more nutritional data on vegetables today.

Parsley is a valuable vegetable ,the virtues of which are all too often wasted because it withers and dies on the quiet corner of your plate. Eat your parsley, add it to your salads and soups and made dishes. It is high in minerals — calcium, phosphorous and iron — and vegetables — especially Vitamin A. You will notice that I constantly include it in my recipes.

Carrots are another treasure that should be cherished for their mineral and Vitamin A content. You get several times as much Vitamin A value from bright-orange, mature carrots as from pale-colored, young ones. Even so, young carrots are a good source of Vitamin A. When you prepare carrots, scrub instead of paring them for there is a concentration of nutrients in the outer surface. Don't throw it away. Try the following recipe to conserve all of the goodness in carrots.

Dinner Menus

THURSDAY

Braised Flank Steak (see Tuesday) Oven Hash Brown Potatoes (see Tuesday); Creamed Onions; Fine Cole Slaw; Banana Layer Cake; Tea.

SUNDAY
(Guests)

Broiled Sirloin Steak; Brussels Sprouts in Cheese Sauce; Baked Acorn Squash Quarters; Spinach and Lettuce Salad with French Dressing; Pineapple Chiffon Cake (see Friday); Coffee.

BAKED CARROTS AND CELERY:

6 medium carrots, sliced into thin rings, 1 cup thinly sliced celery, 1-3 cup hot water, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons butter or margarine.

Combine the carrots and celery. Put into a casserole with the water, salt and butter or margarine. Cover and bake at 350 deg. Fhr. for about 1 hour.

Potatoes. Bake them with the skins on often and persuade your family to eat the mineral-and-vitamin-rich skin. After scrubbing bake them at 425 deg. Fahr. for 45 to 60 minutes to achieve a white, tender, fluffy interior and crisp skin.

GENERAL FACTS FOR COOKING VEGETABLES:

Prepare vegetables just before cooking and serving.

Cook vegetables in as little water as possible to prevent burning. Just until tender and serve immediately.

Conserve vegetable liquids for soups, gravies and sauces.

Bake vegetables as often as possible as this reduces the amount of surplus water needed (see Baked Carrots and Celery above).

If vegetables are peeled and soaked for a few hours more vitamins are dissolved and will be lost when the soaking water is discarded.

There is a considerable loss of vitamins, particularly Vitamin C, when food is held hot, especially on a steam table.

Women's Institutes

WALLBRIDGE WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

Mrs. Everette Phillips opened her home for the January meeting of the Wallbridge Women's Institute. President, Mrs. O. Chisholm opened the meeting after which the secretary, Mrs. Hinchcliffe read the minutes and correspondence. Business arising from the correspondence was dealt with and members were advised of the raise to $1. from 50c for membership dues.

The training school for the 4-H homemaking club spring project "Sleeping Garments" will be held February 13th and 14th at the agricultural office in Stirling. Due to the increased number of girls wishing to take the course it was thought necessary to form three groups at this time.

Mrs. Harold Phillips read a paper, from Western Crusader telling how they used to curl years ago which was most amusing.

EXPORTS INCREASED

JOHANNESBURG (AP)—Despite spotty boycotts because of South Africa's racial policies, the Johannesburg Star reports exports to Europe shot up to a record $700,000,000 in 1963. This was a rise of about 40 per cent over 1962.

LIQUOR SALES RISE

VICTORIA (CP)—In the 12 months ending last September, British Columbians drank $167,600,000 worth of liquor, with net profit to the provincial treasury of $46,370,000. The latter was an increase of $3,100,000 over the previous similar period.

Liberal, NDP Opposition Registered Against Increases

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

As expected, the Liberal and New Democratic opposition in Ontario attacked the Progressive Conservative government's decision Wednesday to increase the gasoline tax two cents a gallon and hospital insurance premiums more than 50 per cent.

The government's tax increases were announced in the legislature budget address by Provincial Treasurer Allan.

Liberal House Leader Farquhar Oliver charged in a statement that the government had acted with almost indecent haste in imposing a heavier tax burden on the people less than five months after sweeping to power in the Sept. 25 election.

NDP financial critic Kenneth Bryden said the increases will inhibit economic growth in Ontario because consumers will have less to spend.

Mr. Allan announced that hospital insurance rates will be increased effective July 1 to $2.25 a month from $2.10 for single persons and to $6.50 from $4.20 for family units. Revenue from the premiums is expected to total $44,000,000 for a full year.

The gasoline tax will produce an estimated $182,000,000 in provincial revenues during 1963-64.

The budget also announced a $30,500,000 increase in funds available to universities, bringing the total to $101,300,000 including a new $33,600,000 loan fund. Total expenditures for education were estimated at $412,300,000, up $53,000,000.

SEES DROP OUT

The Liberal financial critic, Ross Whicher, said some persons will be forced to drop out of the hospital scheme because of increased premiums—some who could not afford to drop out because any sickness in their families would leave them in poor financial shape.

Mr. Bryden said the increases in the hospital insurance premiums would make Ontario's premiums the highest in Canada. These "steep increases" would strike hard at families with limited means.

Two Ontario business associations were split in their reaction to the increase in hospital premiums.

The Ontario division of the Canadian Manufacturers Association objected to the move, arguing that it would increase its members' production costs.

CHAMBER HAPPY

The Ontario Chamber of Commerce welcomed the boost, saying it is a gesture toward restoring more self-reliance to the individual.

D. G. Willmot of St. Catharines, chairman of the Manufacturers Association, said many employers already pay all or part of their employees' hospital insurance premiums.

"The stiff increase will simply be an added cost factor in manufacturing and can only reflect itself in higher prices or reduced profits," he said.

E. T. Atherton, general manager of the Ontario Chamber of Commerce, said the government's move corresponds to the chamber's "adoption of a general principle that government services should be financed to a significant degree from contributions of participants."

S. W. Martin, secretary-treasurer of the Ontario Hospital Association, said the association welcomes the premium increase because if it were not implemented, the government would have to provide more than $20,000,000 to make up the insurance plan's deficit.

Dr. Patrick Bruce-Lockhart of Sudbury, past president of the Ontario Medical Association, said the increase was the natural result of heavy use of hospital services.

REGRETS GAS INCREASE

Mr. Atherton described the increase in gasoline tax as regrettable because gasoline is one of the most heavily taxed commodities. He said Ontario motorists now pay an average of $70 a year each in gasoline taxes.

R. N. Bobbs, manager of the Ontario marketing region for Imperial Oil Limited, said the increases bring provincial and federal taxes on gasoline to about 40 per cent of the price paid by the Toronto motorist.

A spokesman for British-American Oil Company Limited said gasoline "is being taxed like a luxury item although in this day and age it is an absolute necessity."

Both companies announced increases equal to the tax—two cents a gallon — bringing the price of regular gasoline to 41.9 cents a gallon and high-grade gasoline to 46.9 cents a gallon. Diesel fuel, also affected by the tax rise, moves up to 40.9 cents.

WELCOME FUNDS

University officials generally welcomed the budget's increase in funds made available to their institutions but some indicated that the announcement was not quite up to expectations.

Dr. C. B. MacPherson, chairman of the faculty association of the University of Toronto said:

"The increase is encouraging but there is no way of knowing if the total is a realistic amount for we don't know—and presumably nobody outside the government knows—the total amount that the universities estimated was needed to meet the expansion that the province expects of them."

Dr. Claude Bissell, president of the University of Toronto, said:

"There has been a welcome increased recognition of the university's needs which promise well for the future."

Dr. G. E. Hall, president of the University of Western Ontario in London, described the increased grants as "very generous."

"We at Western are very conscious of the sacrifice the people of the province have been called on to make," he said.

Dr. J. D. MacLachlan, president of the University of Guelph, said he was delighted to hear about the grants which "will enable us to start the new university."

REVIEW POSITION

Commenting on the estimated $53,900,000 rise in expenditures for education on elementary and secondary schools in Ontario, John Middlemiss, treasurer of the Ontario Catholic School Trustees Association, said separate school boards are still analyzing their position under the new Ontario tax foundation plan.

It might be weeks before the boards know how much they have gained from the increase, he said, because "the grant regulations are so complicated."

Announcement of a small reduction in taxes on amusement admission prices was received as good news for small theatre operators.

R. W. Bolstad, president of Famous Players Canadian Corporation, said:

"We are very happy for any reduction in taxes. Although it won't help the bigger theatres, it is good for the smaller ones."

A spokesman for 20th century theatres in Toronto said:

"I think it will do something for theatres in smaller towns. . . . We are very pleased."

The budget change called for exemption from taxes on all admission charges below 75 cents and a reduction of one cent on charges of between 76 and 90 cents.

Bottom Nearly Fell Out of Navy Recruiting

OTTAWA (CP)—The bottom has nearly fallen out of navy recruiting, defence department officials disclosed Wednesday.

They attributed the big drop in enlistments to several factors, prominent among them being cancellation of the superfrigate program, mothballing of 14 older warships and the attack on the navy last summer by retired Commodore James Plomer.

The navy was able to sign on only 51 recruits in December, far below the monthly number required to replace sailors who leave the service or retire.

October enlistments totalled 327 and in November 306. Figures for 1962 were 391 in October, 286 in November and 213 in December.

Recruiting in the army and RCAF is also lagging but not to the same extent. The army signed on 301 men in December and the air force 190.

When Associate Defence Minister Cardin announced Jan. 8 that 14 warships would be taken out of service, the navy cut its manpower ceiling to 20,700 from 21,700. It did at that time that recruiting would temporarily be slowed to 130 sailors a month compared with the normal 250 to 300 men.

At the present rate, officials said, the navy will be down to its new ceiling before June.

This doesn't bother the navy much. But what does bother it is the fear that recruiting won't pick up after the navy has pared down to 20,700.

Naval strength at Dec. 31 was 21,432. The army stood at 49,253 men and the air force at 51,830.

his trouser belt. He was dead."

Heyde, 61, was in Limburg prison until last September, when he was moved here after officials claimed to have discovered a plan for his escape.

Tillmann was to have been a defendant with Heyde in the same trial.

Heyde committed suicide in Butzbach Penitentiary where he was taken last autumn after warders in the small Limburg prison foiled an escape plan.

Papers found on him in Limburg proved he planned to escape with the help of persons outside the prison.

Heyde was to have stood trial Tuesday with Tillmann, Dr. Gerhard Bohne, 61, and Dr. Hans Hefelmann, a former government official.

SUMMONED MANY

Almost 300 witnesses had been summoned to testify at the trial which aroused almost as much public interest as a current trial here of Auschwitz death camp staff.

Bohne, accused of helping in the mass executions of 15,000 mentally ill persons, was released from arrest last March for health reasons on condition that he reported to police daily.

But he vanished from his Duesseldorf home last August and justice authorities here presume he has gone into hiding abroad.

The only man of the four now available to stand trial is Hefelmann, charged with complicity in 4,000 killings.

Tillmann plunged 100 feet to his death Wednesday from the window of a toilet in an office block in Cologne where he was visiting his sister.

Police still are investigating his death. Suicide and accident are both under consideration.

Tillmann suffered from diabetes and asthma.

"Office workers said he had apparently felt unwell and went to the toilet," a police spokesman said. "The next thing that was heard was that he had fallen from the window", a police spokesman said.

It was believed possible he leaned from the window to get fresh air.

'Engine-Less' Diesel Aids CNR Switching

MONTREAL — Canadian National Railways now is testing a type of motive power equipment unlike any other in its fleet of 2,100 diesel units. This one has no engine.

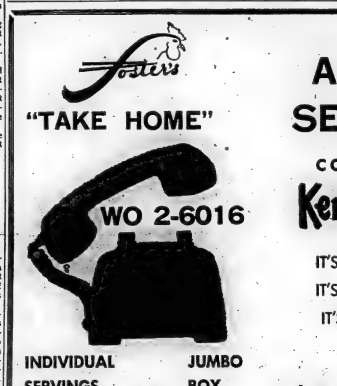
Built at CN's Point St. Charles shops here, B-1, as it is known, is a booster unit operated in combination with hump yard diesel switchers which push freight cars over a man-made hill so they can be classified by the gravity-flow method.

By itself it cannot operate, but when coupled to one or two diesel switchers which have been suitably adapted it can draw power from them for its electric axle-mounted traction motors and provide the same tractive effort as a regular diesel switcher.

Diesel switchers operate under a three-stage power system: a diesel engine driving a generator which feeds electricity to electric motors on the axles.

COMPARE SWITCHERS

The "engine-less" B-1 is a converted diesel switcher which has had its superstructure, engine, generator and auxiliary equipment removed, leaving only a bare steel deck. A 40-inch high rectangular enclosure has been added to the top of the deck and filled with concrete, old rails, and brake shoes to bring B-1's weight up to that required of the specially-built hump yard diesel switchers. In addition, small compartments have been built at both ends of the chassis to house basic electrical control equipment as well as blowers and heat keep the traction motors cool.



Normally, three diesel switchers are required for the main humping operation. This now can be cut to 2 when the booster unit is employed.

Use of booster units such as B-1, which looks like a flat car with a long box on it, will allow CN to free some of the 35 hump yard diesel switchers now in service at Montreal and Moncton for its new electronic freight classification yard being built at Toronto.

The railway finds that converting old diesel switchers to booster units is ultimately less expensive than purchasing new hump yard locomotives.

Henry Ford II And Wife End Their Marriage

FAIRFIELD, Idaho (AP) — The 23-year marriage of industrialist Henry Ford II and his wife, Anne, ended in divorce Wednesday.

Judge Charles Scogin of Idaho's 4th judicial district granted Mrs. Ford, 44, a divorce from her 45-year-old husband on the ground of mental anguish.

The divorce followed by a little more than six months the formal announcement of the separation of Ford and his wife, the former Anne McDonnell of Southampton, Long Island, N.Y.

Ford, chairman of the board of Ford Motor Company, had no comment on the divorce. A lawyer represented him at the divorce hearing.

Ford, grandson of the late Henry Ford, has been linked romantically with Italian - born Mrs. Maria Christina Vettore Austin, divorced wife of a Royal Navy officer.

The legal separation of Ford and his wife last Aug. 2 shocked Detroit, New York and international society circles.

When the couple was married, July 13, 1940, at Southampton in a $1,000,000 wedding, the scion of Henry Ford, founder of the industrial empire, which bears his name, danced with the bride as industrial greats and social leaders from all parts of the world looked on.

Report School For Retarded Shows Progress

CAMPBELLFORD — Campbellford and District Association for Retarded Children was organized in April 1960. As were mostly all of these associations it was organized by parents seeking to obtain the best possible advantage for their retarded child. Merryvale School opened in September 1960. Campbellford Rotary Club offered to underwrite the school should financial crisis arise.

A building formerly used as a separate school was rented, this building was later purchased by the Campbellford Rotary Club and the Retarded Association continued the original rental agreement which is still in operation.

For the first year an active publicity empaign was carried out, resulting in gifts, financial supports from various sources which along with government grants and some assistance from Campbellford, Stirling, and Havelock Rotary Clubs, a well organized canvas and tag day the Association was able to meet all commitments.

In 1961, the Association felt it should not again appeal to the generosity of individuals, social organizations and church groups as the various municipal councils were approached for a grant of one-quarter mill on their assessments. This approach was in almost all cases favorably received. Not, all gave the levy but gave a comparable grant and again with some assistance from the Campbellford Rotary Club and some donations from other sources another year was successfully concluded.

GET GOVT. GRANTS

Since that time the Association has been operating on the basis of government grants, municipal assistance and the lesser number of financial donations which are always deeply appreciated. The equipment has for the most part been donated, tables, chairs, a piano, gestetner telephone switch board and many smaller gifts.

The three largest expense accounts are of necessity, taxi service, rent and salary. The parents of children reimburse the taxi service to some extent. One of the problems at the present time is low enrolment, some pupils have had to withdraw because of age limit and transportation facilities are a handicap to enrol some children at a distance.

The Shriners Association of Peterborough have purchased a projector and screen, the donation to Merryvale School which presentation is expected to take place at the regular meeting Monday evening.

BUILDING BOOM

The West German housing ministry reports 7,300,000 dwelling units have been built between 1949 and 1963.

Pioneer Club Donates Board To Retarded

CAMPBELLFORD — The Pioneer Club of the Bell Telephone Company have donated to Merryvale School for Retarded children an outdated switch board. This was the third such switch board to have been donated to Retarded schools, in both of the other cases a child who had not talked before learned to do so. This particular board was the original board in the Cold Springs exchange and has been autographed by all the operators who had used it.

Four telephones are attached with a closed circuit, two seen and two not seen, the purpose of the two not seen is to prohibit the children from watching the speaker as they quickly learn to lip read. A mentally retarded child is apt to become mentally lazy, not so much from lack of initiative as due to sympathy, so much is done for him he does not realize the need to help himself.

At Merryvale School presently two children who have not learned to speak are being trained by use of the telephones.

The Pioneer Club is made up of employees who have given twenty-five years' service or more. They also service the switch board without charge.

Mrs. F. J. Collins, a member of the club gave the teacher, Mrs. Wm. Hoey the necessary instructions in operating.

A picture of Mrs. Hoey and the children around the switch board was taken for the Bell publication.

Ontario

cent of the population.

"I feel there are many people in the lower income groups who simply cannot afford to pay the additional 50 per - cent premium," Mr. Winther said in an interview.

He said it was these low wage - earners who would be most harmed financially by sickness.

Kenneth Bryden of the New Democratic Party said the premium increase "will strike very hard at families of limited means." It would make Ontario's hospital insurance premiums the most costly in Canada.

The increases were designed to bring in an additional $44,000,000 a year. But since they don't go into effect until July 1, extra revenue this fiscal year will amount to only $33,000,000.

SCOPE BROADENED

The scope of out - patient benefits provided under the hospital insurance plan will be widened to include radiotherapy for cancer treatment, physiotherapy, occupational therapy and speech therapy when prescribed by a physician.

The added fuel taxes will provide the government with an extra $30,000,000 in 1964 - 65, bringing the total income from this tax source to $218,000,000 —the province's largest single tax bite.

The budget address said changes would be made in the Corporation Act to allow manufacturing and processing companies greater rates of depreciation if their "degree of Canadian ownership" was increased in line with the federal income tax act.

Mr. Allan told reporters this could cost the province roughly $2,000,000 a year. But it would gain about $7,000,000 this year and $14,000,000 in succeeding years by taking over a part of succession duty given up by the federal government.

This would not directly affect the taxpayer since the total amount of taxes collected by the two governments would remain the same.

The province also decided to return to municipalities the three - per - cent sales tax on buses bought for public transit.

CONSUMER WILL PAY

Immediately after Mr. Allan was finished his budget address major oil companies issued statements saying they would assume no part of the two-cent a-gallon tax increase. It would all be passed to the consumer.

For the driver who fills up this tank with about 10 gallons once a week, the extra cost will be about 20 cents, or $10 a year.

Commercial fishermen and farmers will remain exempt from gas taxes.

The treasurer formally introduced bills in the legislature amending the Gasoline Tax Act and Motor Vehicles Fuel Tax Act, but this legislation will not become law for sometime. Meanwhile, the province has the power to levy the additional tax by regulation.

Besides the gasoline tax, other major sources of revenue to the province will be corporations tax $207,000,000; income tax $200,000,000; three-per-cent sales tax $100,000,000, and liquor board profits $110,000,000.

The total revenues forecast for the province on the so-called ordinary account are $1,207,218,000, while estimated expenditures on the ordinary account are $1,207,563,000, providing a surplus of $355,000.

DEBT WILL RISE

Nevertheless, Ontario will continue to add to its provincial debt. Mr. Allan said that a revenue deficiency of $105,000,000 is forecast because of expenditures for capital works above and beyond the $117,000,000 provided for this in current revenues.

The biggest single chunk of Ontario tax money in 1964-65 will be paid out for education. The total—$412,300,000—is almost as much as all of the province's spending combined 10 years ago. The increase over 1963-64 is figured at $33,800,000.

Highway expenditures for the year will total almost $300,000,000, up $19,000,000. Health costs 000,000; public works $48,700,000, municipal affairs $43,500,000 and lands and forests $34,000,000.

A breakdown of education costs shows $285,400,000 will be paid out in grants to elementary and secondary schools and $7,700,000 in operating grants to universities.

The move to be-established Ontario universities capital aid corporation will make loans totalling $3,800,000 to universities for construction projects. This amount is not included in the budget.

INSURANCE COST HIGH

The cost to the government of the hospital insurance plan during 1964-65 is estimated at $300,000,000—even with the increase in premiums. $15,000,000 for mental hospitals and sanitoriums.

It would have cost the government $86,000,000 to maintain the premiums at their present level, the budget address said. The increases had been made to restore premium income "to the original level whereby it met approximately one-third of the cost of the program."

Mr. Allan said it is hoped the rate of increase in the cost of the insurance scheme will not be as great in coming years.

The budget figured for the current fiscal year — eight months forecast—showed revenues of $1,106,426,000 and expenditures of $1,106,904,000, or a surplus of $522,000 on the ordinary account.

But taking into account capital works not financed out of current revenue, the figures showed a deficit for the year of $111,400,000.

Mr. Allan estimated that Ontario's net capital debt on March 31 will be $1,397,300,000; this reflected a "reasonable" increase for the year of $113,200,000.

The level of the debt was not a cause for concern, he added. It represented only about 7.4 per cent of the gross provincial product each year, compared with 10.4 per cent 20 years ago.

Coroner's Jury Finds Driver Was Drunk

KINGSTON (CP) — A coroner's jury recommended Wednesday that the provincial government intensify its "get tough" policies against drinking drivers. Its inquest was into the death of four persons after a car-truck crash Jan. 28.

John E. Sampson, Frontenac County crown attorney, revealed that Mathieu Dezan, 46, of Kingston, who was allegedly driving the car, was probably intoxicated when his car collided with a tractor - trailer truck about three miles east of here.

Dezan, his wife Nellie, 42, and Louis Hogan, 46, also of Kingston, died in the crash. Hogan's wife Helen, 44, died in hospital here last Saturday from injuries suffered in the accident.

Mr. Sampson said samples taken of Dezna's blood five hours after the accident indicated an amount of alcohol in the system. He urged the jury to start behind a movement to keep drinking drivers off the highways.

vist KGB security agency.

In a statement to rypsters Tsarapkin accused Switzerland of failing to provide adequate security for delegates and demanded the Swiss get Nossenko back.

ISSUES PROTEST

At a press conference in Geneva, Helg said Tsarapkin waited 20 hours before informing Swiss police of Nossenko's disappearance.

Helg declared the Russians declined to give Swiss police a photograph of Nossenko, his birth date or particulars of his background, and refused to allow inspection of his belongings or permit questioning of other members of the Soviet delegation.

Wherever Swiss police went to inquire about Nossenko, they found Russian security agents had been there before them, making their own investigation, Helg said.

"In this circumstances, it is not surprising that our inquiries led to no positive result," Helg said.

Swiss police said Nossenko slipped into neighboring France Feb. 4. There is no indication of his present whereabouts. Monday, the U.S. state department announced he had asked for political asylum in the United States.

Western officials regard the defection as a "serious embarrassment" to the Russians and say Nossenko may give the West some important clues to Soviet disarmament tactics.

Princess Irene's Conversion Topic Strong-Worded Letter

THE HAGUE (Reuters)—Controversy over Princess Irene's conversion to Roman Catholicism continued today in the wake of a strongly-worded letter of disapproval by the Dutch Reformed Church.

The Protestant Church's letter, released Wednesday, was addressed to the prelate who received the princess into the Catholic Church last year.

Th leading Dutch church—which counts Queen Juliana and the rest of the royal family, except Irene, as members—said it was "deeply shocked" by Irene's conversation and the fact that it was concealed for some time.

Irene, 24, whose engagement to Spain's Prince Carlos of Bourbon-Parma, 33, was announced Saturday, was second in line to the throne before she renounced her rights.

Her conversion did not become generally known until a photographer spotted her praying in a Catholic church in Spain two weeks ago.

The reformed church's letter to Cardinal Alfrink did not deny Irene's right to choose her own faith freely. But it charged the cardinal with neglecting the "irrefutable responsibility" of informing the Reformed Church of Irene's conversion.

"We were also most shocked by the fact that her conversion was not immediately made public by you," the letter said.

It said the Reformed Church believed it was within its rights to question whether the "concealment" of Irene's conversion was not "in conflict with the dignity of the princess and the church to which she belongs by virtue of her birth."

The population of The Netherlands is 49 per cent Protestant and 38.5 per cent Catholic. Other denominations, including nonchurch members, compose 20.7 per cent.

Irene's fiance, who visited here from Saturday to Tuesday, is the son of the Carlist pretender to the Spanish throne, Prince Xaviery 74.

Meanwhile, plans for the pending marriage went on.

Premier Victor Marijsen announced that both the civil ceremony and the religious wedding would be held here. No date has been set for the ceremonies.

"We in The Netherlands favor the free choice for every citizen and every heion of the royal house in deciding matters of religion and a life partner," Marijsen said.

The princess said she waived parliamentary approval for accession to the throne when the engagement was announced Saturday.

Three Bandits Attack, Rob Kitchener Man

KITCHENER (CP) — Police said three masked bandits attacked and robbed lawyer Rosalind Reid in his home near here early Wednesday after terrorizing and tying up another occupant of the house.

They said Donald Siemon was tied hand and foot and had a tied hand and foot and had a gun held at his head for three hours until the lawyer arrived. Siemon said the three pounced on Reid and pistol-whipped him.

The two men were left tied to a bed and more than $700 taken from their wallets.

The bandits ripped out two telephones, ransacked the house and fired a shot into one of the tires on Reid's car.

It was several hours before Siemon was able to free himself and go for help. Reid was treated for head cuts.

Oil Companies To Pass Tax Hike to Buyers

TORONTO (CP) — From almost every quarter, the Ontario government's two-cent tax increase on gasoline and diesel fuel is viewed as unpopular and regrettable.

"They feel the automobile owner is again penalized for the use of his automobile which no longer is a luxury but an essential part of our way of life," R. C. Mott, president of the Ontario Motor League, said Wednesday.

A spokesman for Imperial Oil Limited said:

"Gasoline is being taxed like a luxury item although in this day and age it is an absolute necessity."

Right down the line, the oil companies intended to pass the increase to the consumer.

Bills to increase the gasoline and diesel fuel tax were introduced in the legislature Wednesday shortly after Provincial Treasurer Allan completed his budget address.

EFFECTIVE IMMEDIATELY

The increase became effective at midnight.

The provincial tax on gasoline now totals 15 cents a gallon and 20½ cents on diesel fuel. Price for the Toronto motorist is 41.9 cents a gallon for regular gasoline and 46.6 cents for premium gasoline. Diesel fuel moves to 43.9 cents.

The 15-cent tax still is lower than the government levy in the provinces to the immediate. The tax in Nova Scotia and Newfoundland is 19 cents a gallon and in Prince Edward Island and New Brunswick it is 18 cents a gallon.

C. T. Atherton, general manager of the Ontario Chamber of Commerce, said the gasoline tax increase was regrettable because gasoline is already one of the most heavily-taxed commodities.

R. N. Bobbs, manager of the Ontario marketing region for Imperial Oil Limited, said the increase brings federal and provincial taxes on gasoline to about 40 per cent of the total price paid by Toronto motorists.

In the case of diesel oil, he said, the tax represents more than half the wholesale tank wagon price of the fuel.

HIGHER FREIGHT?

A spokesman for the trucking industry suggested the increases may lead to increased freigh rates.

Joseph Goodman, general manager of the Ontario Automotive Transport Association, said the tax will cost the transport industry about $2,500,000 a year.

"With the federal government increasing its subsidy to the railways and with trucking costs continuing to mount, the industry could find it has an unenable position. Truck and car owners now are paying more than their fair share for our highways."

Alberta's gasoline tax at 12 cents a gallon is the highest in Canada. In British Columbia it is 13 cents and in Manitoba and Saskatchewan the tax is 14 cents a gallon. Quebec's tax is 12 cents a gallon.

Hospital Body Ask Sales Tax Exemption

TORONTO (CP)—The Province of Ontario was asked today to exempt hospitals totally exempt from the province's retail sales tax.

In a brief to the Ontario committee on taxation, the Ontario Hospital Association also strongly recommended that the existing federal policy of total exemption from sales taxes be continued.

The brief also recommended a restoration of authority to individual hospitals to levy charges to cover services beyond those paid for by the Ontario Hospital Services Commission.

CONSUMER GROUPS

Earl Germain's consumer societies have 3,500,000 members maintaining 40,000 co-op shops and restaurants.

School Costs Next Year Will Equal Total Expenses Of Province Decade Ago

TORONTO (CP) — Education costs will eat up 35.6 cents of every Ontario tax dollar in the 1964-65 fiscal year, Provincial Treasurer Allan's budget showed.

The over-all cost of education to the government will be $412,300,000 — an increase of $53,900,000 over 1963-64.

"Our education expenditure for next year is thus expected to approach the total net expenditures of the province for all purposes a decade ago," Mr. Allan said Wednesday.

He announced that $101,296,000 will be made available to universities — $47,686,000 in outright operating grants and $53,600,000 in loans for construction. The latter figure was not included in the over-all cost of education.

The amount being given to universities represents an increase of $30,500,000 over last year. Operating grants are up about $12,000,000 and loans about $18,000,000.

As previously announced, $285,400,000 will be paid out in grants to elementary and secondary schools — an increase of $52,100,000.

Mr. Allan said new school construction has been catching up with rising enrolment, which now totals about 1,900,000. He said costs of construction likely would decline in 1964.

Loans to universities are to be administered through a new Crown corporation, as announced earlier in the throne speech. This vehicle will be known as the Ontario Universities Capital Aid Corporation.

WARNS OF COSTS

Mr. Allen's budget statement warned that the increasing demands of education will continue to hit hard at the tax dollar at both the municipal and provincial levels.

Forecasts of enrolment for the next 10 years showed that "the combined wisdom and effort of the federal government, school boards, municipal councils and taxpayers will be required to provide educational opportunities for Ontario's youth."

Chevrier Now in London

LONDON (CP)—Lionel Chevrier, Canada's former justice minister, arrived by air today to take up his appointment as Canadian high commissioner in London.

He was met at London Airport by Benjamin Rogers, the deputy high commissioner. Also on hand were Bert Butler, Canada's senior trade man in London, Bill Bell, the branch chairman of the Canadian joint staff; Jean Cote, a counsellor at Canada House, and Leo Stepler, Canada House press spokesman.

Chevrier drove to the Dorchester hotel, where he will stay while the high commissioner's residence at 12 Upper Brook Street in Mayfair is being redecorated.

The former high commissioner, George Drew, left last weekend for a holiday in Sicily and Italy prior to returning to Canada.

COAL PRODUCTION

More than 63,000,000 tons of coal were produced in 1962-63 to feed India's rapidly expanding power plants and factories.

Survey Shows Large Exodus Of Doctors

By RON MacDONALD

REGINA (CP)—The Saskatchewan College of Physicians and Surgeons says a survey shows a large exodus of experienced doctors since the province introduced its medical care insurance plan.

The college says 1,323 doctors were on its nominal roll or were added to the roll in 1961 and early 1962 before the plan was started in July, 1962. By last October, 290 no longer were on the roll, the list of doctors licensed to practise in Saskatchewan.

It is certain that many, though not all, of these doctors left because of the medical care plan, the college says, but it can not provide an accurate breakdown on reasons for departures.

In 1950 before the plan was announced there were about 950 doctors licensed to practise in Saskatchewan. The number dipped to 811 at the end of 1962 and now has risen to about 950 with the arrival of new doctors.

LOSE EXPERIENCE

One of the greatest losses is the experience Saskatchewan and the doctors represented. The 290 had each served an average eight years in practice, the college says in a prepared statement on the survey.

"These long - service doctors, able to take over some areas the time it was announced in late 1959, For three weeks after it was implemented July 1, 1962, doctors withdrew normal medical services until the government consented to modify the plan to, among other things, allow doctors to work under it only indirectly.

Poor Homes On Canadian Farms - - Hays

SASKATOON (CP) — Agriculture Minister Hays said Wednesday Canadian farms have the worst homes outside of Russia.

Farmers should be able to get loans to erect homes the same as urban dwellers, he told the Saskatchewan Dairy Farmers convention.

"Canada has the worst farm homes, outside of the Soviet Union, of any country that I know and it's time that was rectified. The farmer is prepared to stand on his own feet but has been properly financed to do this."

Assistance in this area, as well as extension of crop insurance and methods to alleviate the high cost of machinery, was discussed with the federal government in an effort to aid farmers, Mr. Hays said.

On crop insurance, Mr. Hays said the federal government would guarantee the provinces some portion of risk by reinsurance until the provincial plans got on their feet.

He added the government could do a better job of advertising Canada's surplus products for sale overseas.

He said Canada spent $900,000 on this type of promotion last year while Denmark spent $12,000,000.

ENROLLMENT UP

TORONTO (CP) — Enrollment at the University of Toronto this year has increased by 2,503 for a total of 26,350, university officials announced Wednesday. Ontario Is in Fourth Year Of 'Economic Resurgence'

TORONTO (CP) — Provincial Treasurer Allan says Ontario is entering the fourth year of an economic resurgence.

In his budget message to the legislature Wednesday, Mr. Allan said the gross provincial product rose at least six per cent during 1963 and personal income was up seven per cent.

By comparison, the consumer price index went up only two per cent. Unemployment in Ontario during the year was 3.8 per cent. The federal average is 5.5 per cent.

"Reviewing the economic conditions of the past year is a pleasure," said Mr. Allan. Ontario continued to experience its longest period of expansion since the Second World War.

The only disappointing factor was mineral production. This showed a moderate decline from the 1962 level of $920,000,000, mainly because of decreased uranium output.

The treasurer said manufacturing production rose 6.5 per cent during the year while overall industrial production was up about six per cent.

RECORDS SET

Automobile production alone was up 23 per cent, to about 627,000 units being produced. Steel production also set a record.

Capital investment in Ontario was estimated at $3,200,000,000 — the highest level since the record year of 1957.

Farm cash income rose 6.4 per cent in the first nine months of the year but a drought curtailed production in southwestern Ontario. In other parts of the province, agricultural output was up.

Mr. Allan said the number of jobs rose by 60,000 during the year and the total of personal income was estimated at more than $13,000,000,000.

Economically, Ontario was entering the new year "under the stimulus of record levels of activity in most of the important areas of the economy."

"In general, the year 1964 promises to provide further gains in production and income."

Mr. Allan noted the percentage of provincial expenditures of the total expenditures of all governments had gone up to 29.3 per cent in 1962 from 22.7 per cent in 1950. This was giving provincial government greater influence on the economy.

"It has been agreed that close cooperation between the federal government and the provincial governments is a prerequisite to healthy national economic development," the treasurer said.

Heavy Spending For Highways Seen in Budget

TORONTO (CP) — Spending on provincial highways and other roads in Ontario will reach almost $200,000,000 during the 1964-65 fiscal year.

The budget brought down in the legislature by Provincial Treasurer Allan Wednesday provided for an increase of $19,000,000 over the estimated $280,400,000 being spent this year.

He said a wide-ranging construction program was planned including further additions and improvements to the 400 system of four-lane divided highways, construction of three new roads in Northern Ontario and improvements to existing roads there.

About $213,000,000 would be spent for new construction and $86,300,000 for maintenance of existing highways and roads.

The bulk of the new construction includes $61,500,000 to be paid out in municipal subsidies.

Mr. Allan announced provincial and municipal roads program for 1964-65 would total approximately $297,000,000, an increase of $26,000,000 over the combined total for the current year.

During 1963 new construction and reconstruction of paved highways amounted to 361 miles the treasurer said.

He said increased highways expenditures reflect the "fundamental importance of our roads program in promoting industrial growth and opening up new areas of the province."

Ontario to Press for More Equitable Share of Major Fields of Direct Taxation

TORONTO (CP) — Provincial Treasurer Allan said Wednesday tax-sharing arrangements with the federal government do not provide "just or adequate recognition" of Ontario's growing economic needs.

During the federal - provincial conference expected next month, he said, Ontario will press for a "more equitable and realistic share of the major fields of direct taxation."

The treasurer said Ontario's money problems result largely from the fact that growth in the province's economy provides more taxation dollars for the federal government than the provincial government.

". . . The major direct tax fields which grow most rapidly with economic expansion are heavily occupied by the federal government," he said.

Regarding tax - sharing with the federal government, Ontario had never expected to receive an equalization payment as given to all provinces except Ontario, Alberta and British Columbia. It was realized these equalization payments must be provided to the have-not provinces.

Mr. Allan strongly believed that "the level of assistance should not be such as to impair or weaken the ability of the revenue-producing areas of the country to grow and expand."

Mr. Allan said Ontario proposes more than 45 per cent of Canada's total revenue. This made it essential that a "strong healthy climate in which business and industry can expand and prosper" be maintained in Ontario.

The province therefore would oppose any change in the equalization formula giving more to provinces now receiving its benefits.

Existing tax-sharing arrangements give Ontario only one-fifth of all moneys collected through personal and corporation income taxes, the treasurer said.

"In view of our expanding responsibilities for such basic needs as education, highways, health and welfare we cannot regard our share of these tax fields as a just or adequate recognition of the growing revenue requirements of the province."

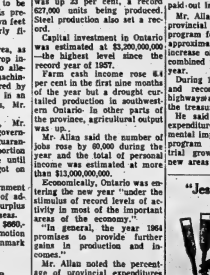
Mr. Allan said that while Ontario would make greater demands at the forthcoming federal - provincial conference, it would be willing to co-operate in promoting national unity and planning for Canada's over-all economic and social betterment.

HAS MOON THEORY

WASHINGTON (AP) — A theory that the moon originally consisted of a mixture of dust and ice was advanced Wednesday by Dr. Charles R. Warren who also suggested, in a paper presented at a meeting of the Geological Society of Washington, that if his dust-over-moon origin hypothesis is true, then the moon's "crust" may actually have contained water briefly some 3,000,000,000 years ago.

Municipal Finance Setup Said Obsolete

TORONTO (CP)—The central Ontario chapter of the Town Planning Institute of Canada said today municipal finance is outdated and "our approach to it is obsolete."



In a brief to the Ontario committee on taxation, the institute said that either the structure of municipal government or the basis of municipal revenue, or both, should be changed.

The successful and efficient use of land and orderly and economical development and redevelopment of urban, rural and regional communities are important elements in the prosperity of the province as a whole.

The existing government and finance set-up is responsible for the "scramble for industrial tax base".

The brief said municipalities that have a sound and effective physical planning program should be favored by the government in disbursement of public funds.

Valentine's Day Marks 35th Anniversary of the Day Bug Moran's Boys Shot Down

The following story was written by Earl Aykroid of The Associated Press Chicago staff, one of the first reporters on the scene of the St. Valentine's Day massacre 35 years ago.

By EARL AYKROID

CHICAGO (AP)—It has been nearly 35 years since the St. Valentine's Day massacre but the ghastly prohibition-era killing of seven men by rival gangsters remains Chicago's most gory crime.

The massacre climaxed a 10-year battle for control of profits from illicit beer and whisky.

The scene, a two-storey, red-brick structure at 2122 North Clark Street, now is a storage company in the shadow of Chicago's gold coast. Thirty five years later it stands unchanged since the day seven members of George (Bugs) Moran's gang were lined up against a wall in the building and machine-gunned.

Al Capone and his gang were blamed but the killers were never caught. The massacre left Capone in undisputed control of the bootleg field. But the atrocity aroused the city. It brought a cleanup that eventually sent Capone to prison and sent Capone to prison.

WAIT FOR CHIEF

On St. Valentine's Day, 1929, the seven Moran gangsters were assembling in their headquarters to wait for their chief.

Across the street, it was later established, three rival gangsters had watched from a rooming-house window as Moran's men arrived.

Six of them were inside when the seventh, Al Weinshank, who bore a close resemblance to Capone, entered. Police later speculated that the lookouts mistook him for Morna and signalled the executioners.

In addition to Weinshank, those inside were Peter and Frank Gusenberg, brothers, two of Moran's muscle men; Johnny May, ex-convict and mechanic who looked after the gang's truck fleet; James Clark, Moran's brother-in-law; Adam Heyer, another muscle man, and Dr. Reinhart Schwimmer, an optometrist, who for some unexplained reason liked to associate with gangsters.

After Weinshank entered, an automobile resembling a police car pulled up. Four or five men, two in police uniforms, got out.

WEEKLY LINED UP

The uniformed men, displaying pistols, led the way in. The seven looked up in mild surprise. Police raids were nothing new and usually little came of them. The seven meekly followed orders to line up against the wall.

As they faced the wall, their visitors unlimbered machine-guns. Too late the victims realized they had fallen into a trap.

As one of the Guenberg's reached for a pistol, the machine-guns began spitting bullets. Soon it was all over. The seven Moran gangsters lay sprawled in a bloody mass. The killers calmly filed out and drove away.

Frank Gusenberg was the only victim alive when police arrive. A policeman asked who shot him.

"Nobody," snarled the gangster. He died 45 minutes later.

Moran arrived later, saw the police and went into hiding. Left without a gang, he turned to robbery, burglary and the confidence game and died, at 66, Feb. 25, 1957, in Leavenworth Prison from lung cancer.

Capone, whom Morna blamed openly for the massacre, died in 1947 after his release from prison.

Rare Cranes Number Only 33

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. fish and wildlife service has given up hope that more wild whooping cranes will show up, so it has put the official total for the wintering flock at 33.

This became plain today when the Interior department announced that the 33 whoopers wintering at Aransas national wildlife refuge on the Texas Gulf Coast are believed to comprise the entire wild population of North America's largest wading bird.

The total includes seven young of 1963, but the apparent loss of six adult birds from the 32 that reached Aransas from Saskatchewan in the fall of 1962 indicates a net gain of only one bird for the year, interior said.

Would Teach How to Smoke Without Cancer

NEW YORK (AP) — A new kind of smokers' clinic — for people who enjoy and want to continue cigarettes — was suggested today by a chest specialist.

The clinics would teach how to smoke without inhaling, said Dr. Alvan L. Barach of New York. He said one method is:

Take a puff of smoke into your mouth. Close your lips firmly. Then inhale air deeply through the nose. Then exhale — of course.

Dr. Barach, speaking to the New York State Medical Society, said "there is no scientific evidence that non - inhaling smoking causes cancer of the lung" and other diseases.

Ontario's Chief Coroner Leaves Trail of Bruises Among His Many Associates

By JOHN LeBLANC

TORONTO (CP) — Upsetting not fit into the pattern of the wise healer whose words are the politico - medical applecart here has become the calling of a doctor-coroner, part-time politician, wealthy stock market operator, world traveller and connoisseur of fine art. They are all the same man.

Dr. Morton Shulman, 38-year-old fire-eater who became chief coroner for Metropolitan Toronto last year, has left a trail of bruises among his associates in both medicine and public affairs ever since. As a result, an angry superior wants his $9,000-a-year job abolished.

Dr. Shulman's rampage through the normal placidity of coroner's inquests by way of the front pages has managed so far to raise the hackles of federal officers, his own Ontario government chiefs and the medical profession. His zeal in looking publicly into hospital deaths has earned him mention in the legislature and got him slapped down by an Ontario Supreme Court judge.

"He pictures himself as a Sir Galahad on a white horse trying to clean up all corruption at once," says Dr. H. Beatty Cotnam, supervising coroner for Ontario.

DENIES CHARGE

Deputy Attorney-General W. B. Common, whom Dr. Shulman accuses of trying to get him to suppress evidence, says this is not true ("I don't like to use the word liar") and that he has recommended to the government that the post of chief coroner, operative only in Toronto and Hamilton, be abolished.

Their blunt opponent retorts: "Their attitude has been that incompetent officials and quacks in medicine deserve protection before the public.

"The medical profession has always considered it should never be called to account before the public. Now, it is no longer possible to bury things in the coroner's office."

Even before Dr. Shulman turned his guns on what he calls the Establishment, he had enough on his hands to keep a couple of men busy. He has a good medical practice and has become independently wealthy at the highly sophisticated "put and call" system of playing the market.

HEADED PC GROUP

He has poked around out-of-the-way corners of the globe—including a look at Red China—and has several hobbies besides collecting objets d'art. He has been energetic in politics and is a past president of the Parkdale Progressive Conservative Association, which has rallied behind him.

Dr. Shulman, who looks 10 years younger than his 38, does one of his first inquests last year brought him into collision simultaneously with federal and provincial officialdom. It was a drowning, and he wanted—and eventually got — federal transport officials to testify as to the adequacy of lifesaving regulations. But he claims a justice department official seeking to shield the government from embarrassment tried to steer him off and that Mr. Common and Dr. Cotnam were called in to help.

"These two officials have called for the abolition of my office because I refused to conceal vital evidence," he says.

CRITICIZED BY COURT

Turning his attention to hospital deaths with the avowed idea of exposing any negligence, he ordered an inquest into the death of a female patient in a private hospital. The jury recommended a major overhaul of practices at that hospital.

But Mr. Justice E. A. Richardson of the Supreme Court nullified the inquest on appeal and the judge advised Dr. Shulman to spend more time reading up on his duties and less launching inquests into deaths at hospitals.

Subsequently, Dr. Shulman says, the deputy attorney-general forbade him to hold an inquest into the death of a woman who died in hospital after treatment with an alleged anti-cancer serum and forbade another coroner to reopen an inquest into a similar case.

Mr. Common denies interference but says one factor in his decision to seek abolition of Dr. Shulman's job has been controversy stirred by his public outcries of interference from politicians and medical colleagues.

As the situation stood in late January, Dr. Shulman was calling for a public inquiry into the coroner's system and laying his political interference claim before Premier Robarts, while Mr. Common was calling for Dr. Shulman's scalp. Attorney-General Fred Cass, saying he had not received any recommendation from his deputy, was making conciliatory sounds.

Leading up afresh, Dr. Shulman let fly with another couple of barrels. He found that no report to a coroner had been made on the death of a woman in a Toronto hospital last November, 18 days after surgery, though an autopsy had shown a pair of surgical forceps left in her abdomen. He called on Mr. Cass to order an inquest, normally not held after burial.

He referred to the attorney-general's department also on allegation by a Toronto man that a chemist had tried to get $100,000 or $150,000 for a serum for his wife, who died of cancer in December.

Attorney-General Cass eventually gave Dr. Shulman a hearing on the interference charges (no verdict was given); he announced in the legislature an inquest into the forceps death; and his department and the Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons of Canada began looking into the serum case.

Later, Mr. Cass at a press conference conceded Dr. Shulman's point that hospital practice in reporting deaths has not always been in accordance with the law. But he said the chief coroner has been overstepping his own bounds in trying to get things done.

Dr. Shulman, barred from conducting the forceps inquest personally because Mr. Cass doesn't want to steam up more heat, left for some minor globe-trotting around the more relaxed Caribbean area.

'Two Chinas' Idea Killed Before It Really Got Started

By BORIS MISKEW
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The move by Taipei to break diplomatic relations with France has just about killed the "two-Chinas" idea before it could become a reality.

This idea gained prominence following President Charles de Gaulle's recent announcement that he would recognize Communist China and at the same time maintain relations with the government of Formosa which claims it still represents the Chinese mainland.

If this idea had worked in France, it could have opened the door to some sort of Chinese settlement by showing the world that it was possible to carry on diplomatic relations with both the mainland Chinese and the government of Formosa.

This might have led to granting United Nations membership to Communist China without expelling the Nationalist government of Formosa.

SITUATION UNPLEASANT

But to continue representation in Paris, the Nationalist government would have had to face the realistic fact that now it merely represents Formosa, a fact that the government of Chiang Kai-shek still refuses to accept.

Chiang by refusing to accept the more humble role in world affairs, has in so doing played into the hands of de Gaulle and the Communist China by relieving them of an unpleasant situation and a possible source of future friction.

Communist China has insisted from the start that she would refuse to exchange diplomatic recognition if it meant that France would recognize both the Communist government and the Formosan regime as representatives of China.

Taipei decided to choose the more noble, though less wise, way out of breaking relations with France shortly after the French foreign ministry announced that de Gaulle's government no longer regarded the Nationalist Chinese as representing China in Paris.

KEPT PROMISE

De Gaulle, at least on the surface, has kept his promise that France did not want to sever relations with Taipei. Communist China got her wish to have the Formosan representative driven out of Paris.

The development now paves the way for full Chinese-French co-operation in Asia and no doubt will strengthen the prestige of Communist China and at the same time place less significance on the Formosan regime.

It will also be more difficult to keep Communist China out of the United Nations when the question comes up in November. The UN members will be forced again to decide which government should represent the world's most populous country.

Biculturalism Leaves Mark on Freight Cars

MONTREAL (CP) — The CNR's long-range plan to make all markings on its 100,000 freight cars bilingual is in full swing after four months. More than 2,000 cars have had the company's name painted in English on one side and French on the other.

The work has been done at shops in Winnipeg, London, Ont., Moncton, N.B., and Montreal.

Passenger cars bear only the CNR insignia, applicable to both English and French, so no changes will be made.

Besides improving the company's relations with Quebec, the CNR says, the bilingual markings will make Canada better known as a two-language nation since the CNR cars find their way into all parts of the United States.

Frank Taylor, car supervisor for the St. Lawrence region, says markings dealing with capacity, dimensions and brakes will remain in English only. He notes that regulations of the Association of American Railroads, of which the CNR is a member, require even Mexican member trains to carry this information in English.

The freight cars are being painted when they come in for overhauls and it could take as long as 15 years before the job is completed.

The CNR has also undertaken the task of making all signs on passenger trains bilingual. And it's a painstaking job, considering that in one sleeping car alone there are 196 signs.

In addition the markings of railwaymen's hats and uniforms have been converted to both languages.

The changeovers are not without repercussions. The CNR's French name is Canadien National and one letter received from an American complained that the word Canadian had been misspelled.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

If the calendar is right—and in this wacky changing world nobody will bet that it is—it will soon be open season on spring and summer sports.

"Not forgetting," remarked the sports desk khibitzer, "that much-maligned, much insulted hero of the baseball and softball diamonds, the umpire.

The masks-and-padders are girding their loins for the coming season, not forgetting a cheek or skin-thickness, their only defence against the abuse of the bleacher mobs and the sometimes silent-scorn of the players.

Be that as it may. While my sympathy lies generally with the blokes who call the plate signals, right or wrong, I revel in some of the stories, true and not so true, that have been recorded "fer-and-ferninst" them.

Like the one about the umps who was being subjected to a torrent of fan abuse. One man in particular was extremely vitriolic in his verbal barrage. Finally he added an insult involving terminology out of dogdom, birth out of wedlock and so on.

The umps called time. He stepped toward the grandstand and called quiet. "I heard that remark," he said through closed lips. "I consider the man a coward who made it. If he has the courage to stand up and admit it, let him stand now."

Every man in the crowd stood up.

On another occasion a huge rat invaded a baseball playing field. It scampered hither and yon while the crowd howled. The umps finally stopped the game.

The rat reached one of the sacks, sat down and started to gnaw on something.

Came a loud voice from the bleachers, "Say, what's the plate umpire doing out there on second base?"

Then there's the one about the batter, who, after having two strikes called on him, offered his eyeglasses to the umpire. To his surprise the umps took them and yelled "Play Ball."

The next pitch came over. "Strike Three," shouted His Nibs—and handed the glasses back to the batter.

In an Alabama League game the batter began yelling and kicking dirt over a called strike. He bellowed and bellowed until the umpire said, "Just a minute son. I want to show you something.

He took a deck of cards from a hip pocket, spread them out and told the batter to take a card.

"You got the ten of diamonds," said the umpire.

The astonished batter forgot his beef and wanted to know how the umps figured it out."

"The same way I figured that last pitch was a strike," snapped the official. "Now let's play ball and leave smart matters to smart people."

Arguments were rare in a certain southern league because the umpire in chief was a stammerer. On this occasion, however, one of his "calls" did not meet with the approval of the entire home team. They surrounded him and the language was torrid.

The clerical umpire called for silence, got it and announced. "Gen'lmen, I'm just a mortal and mortals are weak and got to get guidance at times. I rely on the Lawd for guidance and I calls the plays the way He tells me. He told me the runner's out. Let us play Ball."

The player was a good first baseman and a character. There came the time when a runner was taking a long lead and the pitcher fired the ball to first. The runner made a slide to get back. The baseman noticed that his glove with the ball in it hammered between the runner's foot and the bag, signifying the man was out.

But the umpire called him safe. The first baseman didn't move but yelled "Holy Mackerel, you blind? Look here. His foot ain't even touchin' the bag." The umpire had already seen it.

"How about you lookin' he yelled at the baseman.

"That's your own foot, you dumb ox." And so it was.

Rangers Win Over Braves

St. Paul Rangers gained a 2-1 victory over visiting St. Louis Braves, their first in nine meetings, in Central Professional Hockey League action Wednesday.

In the other game, Minneapolis Bruins fired three unanswered, third-period goals to register a 3-2 win over Cincinnati Wings at Cincinnati.

Tracy Pratt fired the Rangers' winning marker with less than six minutes remaining. St. Louis protested the goal, claiming Jim Paul had too many players on the ice.

Howie Hughes got the other goal for Rangers. Jack Stanfield scored for St. Louis.

Juniors Are Picton Guests Tonight

Belleville "B's" swing back into action in OHA Eastern Junior Hockey League play tonight when they visit the Picton Merchants in "Little Spain."

Belleville has three scheduled games remaining, including tonight's tilt, and all are on the road. The "B's" play in Trenton next Wednesday night, February 19, and completes their obligations in Peterborough on Monday, February 24.

The game in Peterborough will likely be a playoff preview since Belleville must meet the lower-placed team between Kingston and the Monsens in the group's Junior "B" playoff semi-finals. That series is expected to get under way during the last week of the month.

Meanwhile, Picton and Trenton are the local lads' immediate problems and they would like to pick up a win or two. Picton is currently in fourth spot in the loop's top spot so the Merchants will be out for a win at Belleville's expense this evening. Game time is Picton is 8:30.

Glover Hits For 3 In Barons' Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Cleveland Barons were having trouble scoring until they decided to play follow the leader.

Playing coach Fred Glover supplied the impetus with three goals Wednesday as the Barons snapped out of five-game American Hockey League winless streak by walloping Springfield Indians 5-1.

Barons had scored only nine goals while losing four games and tying one. And in the second period, the score was tied 1-1 before Glover scored to put the Barons out front.

Then Joe Szura clicked and Glover again. In the third period, it was Glover starting things off with Cecil Hoekstra, Jim Roberts and Guy Rousseau following the leader. Rousseau's goal was the 100th of his AHL career.

The victory kept Cleveland four points ahead of Pittsburgh Hornets, who defeated Rochester Americans 5-0 as Roger Crozier turned in his second shutout in five games. In the only other game scheduled, Providence Reds ran their winning streak to five games by defeating Hershey Bears 4-1.

Crozier, replacing the injured Hank Bassen, turned away 27 shots while the Hornets fired 38 at Rochester goalie Gerry Cheevers. Warren Godfrey and Ted Hampson fired shots past Cheevers.

Norm Corcoran and Serge Boudreault scored for Providence in the second period for a 2-1 lead, then Jim Bartlett and Stan Balluk put it out of reach in the finale. Chuck Hamilton scored for Bears.

Habs Paste Leafs 4-0; Hawks Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A positive approach to things is just dandy.

But even Punch Imlach's latest venture into the realm of pyschology wasn't enough to bestir his Toronto Maple Leafs Wednesday night.

They took a 6-0 pasting from the Canadiens in Montreal and Bernie Geoffrion scored two of the goals, bounding even with the retired Ted Lindsay among the all-time NHL scorers.

Billy Reay's Black Hawks, with Red Hay supplying the power, meanwhile upended New York Rangers 5-2 in Chicago, retaining a share of the No. 1 spot in the standings with Montreal although for any comparative purposes it should be noted the Canadiens still have a couple of games in hand.

The two teams idle Wednesday night, Boston Bruins and the Red Wings, meet tonight at Detroit in the schedule's only game.

Before a crowd of 13,665 in Montreal, the Canadiens and goalie Charlie Hodge shut out the Leafs for the third time with the last four games between the clubs, leaving Toronto's offensive units at a season-low mark for the club's last 14 games.

Imlach, Toronto's coach and general manager, dropped hints books on the Power of Positive Thinking to his players Tuesday on the theme of meeting Montreal, stealing a trick from Montreal's Bobby Rousseau who credited the same idea season to the hook in part.

But the stratagem obviously failed.

"Maybe they didn't get a chance to read it," said Imlach disconsolately in the dressing room after the game.

Geoffrion's two goals gave him a lifetime total of 365, leaving him behind only Gordie Howe and Maurice Richard in his lifetime total of NHL goals in scheduled play. Lindsay hit 365 before his retirement some seasons back.

The Montreal right - winger celebrates his 32rd birthday Friday.

Dave Balon and Gilles Tremblay were the other Montreal goal-getters.

Hodge turned in a 31-stop performance for his fifth shutout of the campaign, the Canadiens hurled 40 shots at Toronto's Johnny Bower.

IMLACH DESPERATE

Imlach resorted to such desperation methods in the final period that he employed five defenceman and five forwards as units alternately on the power play in a fruitless effort to score.

Geoffrion's "second goal and the one by Balon came while Toronto was short-handed. The teams were playing five men aside when Tremblay clicked.

Hay scored twice and assisted on a third before 14,078 fans in Chicago. Bobby Hull's 34th goal of the season, Kenny Wharram's 29th and one by Eric Nesterenko rounded out the attacks for the Black Hawks.

Rod Gilbert and Andy Bathgate found the mark for New York but the Rangers absorbed their fifth setback in a line.

Two Chicago players were in the penalty box when Bathgate counted and the Rangers were a man short when Wharram scored as well as when Hay got his first goal.

The challengers made up on Stan Mikita, the leading point-collector in the National Hockey League.

Mikita went pointless while his Chicago teammate Bobby Hull added a goal and an assist to move to within four points of Mikita's 70-point mark.

It was Hull's 34th goal of the season, a league high in that department.

Montreal's Jean Beliveau meanwhile picked up a point in third spot as did New York's Andy Bathgate in fourth and Chicago's Ken Wharram in fifth. Red Gilbert and Phil Goyette of New York climbed into a deadlock with Boston's Murray Oliver for sixth, the two Rangers players getting a point each.

Marlies Win 6-2 Over Warriors

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Bob Apps increased his lead over the Senior Intercollegiate Hockey League scoring race Wednesday with a three-point performance that paced McMaster University Marlins to a 6-2 win over University of Waterloo Warriors.

The win put McMaster within one point of league-leading University of Toronto Blues.

In the other game, McGill used a four-goal effort by Doug Fraser to defeat Queen's 5-3.

The win for McMaster at Dundas augured a three-game losing streak and broke a three-way tie for second with Laval and University of Montreal.

Apps struck for two goals and an assist and John Savage, Frank Bushell, Jim McKeeehy and Gary Spoar added one each.

Dave Passmore and Gary Sanders tallied for Waterloo.

John Taylor was the other marksman for McGill. Queen's goals were scored by Neil Hawks, Pete Weston and Bill Colvin.

In Ottawa-St. Lawrence Intercollegiate action, University of Sherbrooke defeated Bishop's University 5-4 at Lennoxville.

Jean-Paul Perron, Gilles Berube and Marcel Laflamme tallied twice for the winners. Pierre Trottier and Nelson Gagnon scored for Bishops.

Bill Bodtker and Doug Staniforth got two apiece for Bishop's. Ray Payne and Colin Nelson scored one each.

Ontario Curling Championship
Hanover Rink Unbeaten In Two

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—Bob Mann and his Hanover rink were undefeated after two rounds in the Ontario curling championships Wednesday, serving early notice they were out to retain the title they won last year.

The victories left Mann in sole possession of first place while six other rinks were tied for second with 1-1 records. Jim Astle of Woodstock trailed with two defeats.

In the opening round Wednesday, experience proved the winning factor as four veterans of Canadian curling championships romped to wins.

Mann defeated Astle 13-10; 1960 titlist Jake Edwards skipped his Kingston rink to a 12-7 win over John Ross of Toronto Parkway; Earle Hushagen, a member of a former Ontario championship rink, skipped his Toronto Highland crew to a 10-6 victory over Dave Brooks of Orillia, and Murray Roberts of Unionville, 1958 Ontario winner, defeated a Hamilton quartet skipped by Ron Kemp 16-6.

TURN TABLES

But the tables were turned in the evening matches. While Mann put Roberts in the losers' column with an 11-6 win, Ross staged a surprise 11-9 upset over Hushagen and Reynolds took an easy 10-7 win over Brooks.

The fourth game of the evening saw Kemp edge Astle 12-11 in an extra end.

Three rounds are scheduled for today with the final two matches in the round-robin bonspiel set for Friday.

Mann had little difficulty rolling down the Roberts rink in the second round. He took a three-etc.s lead in the first end and led 6-4 after six. He maintained it at 8-6 by the end of nine and was two up going into the final end with last rock.

IS THRILLER

The Kemp-Astle, extra - end thriller provided the day's thriller with the score board showing 3-3 after three ends. Astle held a 6-4 margin after six ends but five in the next three, including a four-ender, gave Kemp a 9-7 margin.

Astle took over the lead with a big three in the 10th and Kemp retaliated with two in the 11th to gain an 11-10 edge. Astle knocked it out in the extra end in the 12th and final end of regulation play.

With last shot in the extra end, Kemp drew in for shot.

A big five-ender in the ninth end proved the deciding factor for Ross- Hushagen had taken the early lead but the five-ender left him on the short end of an 11-7 count and he could only manage a double in the final end.

Crothers Meets Dupree In Rematch

Kidd At New York

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A rematch of one of indoor track's most unusual races is in store Saturday at the Golden Gate international meet.

It pits Bill Crothers of Toronto, the world's top-ranked half-miler last year, against Jim Dupree of Los Angeles, the top American at the distance. Norm Hoffman of Oregon State, National College Athletic Association champion, also is in the strong 880 field.

Last week at the Los Angeles Times games, Dupree held off Crothers by about two inches in a 1,000-yard race after Crothers fell and lost 35 yards.

Spills are no rarity in indoor track, where sharp turns and narrow tracks often force middle distance runners together. But when Crothers fell with two laps to go, he didn't limp off the track. He jumped to his feet, blazed the final two turns and nearly caught Dupree. Each was timed in 2:11.8.

The field is expected to threaten Peter Snell's indoor record of 1:49.9. Crothers already has run 1:50.2 and 1:50.0 this year.

NEW YORK (AP)—Sprinter Bob Hayes, miler Tom O'Hara and high jumper John Thomas, all unbeaten in indoor competition in this Olympic year, head an extremely strong field for Thursday's 96th New York Athletic Club games in Madison Square Garden.

Hayes, Florida A and M ace, has equalled the 6-yard dash indoor mark of six seconds flat three times this season, his first major indoor action.

Probably the best bet for an indoor record, however, looms in the return match of Villanova's strong Noel Carroll and Toronto's Bill Crothers in the half mile.

Crothers ran an American record 1:50 in beating Carroll by a yard in the Millrose games half-mile a couple of weeks ago.

Carroll, whose brilliant anchor leg provided Villanova with the two-mile relay mark in Boston's Athletic Association games, has gone 1:47.5 outdoors and is gunning for a sub 1:50 performance indoors.

Bruce Kidd of Toronto, Ron Clarke of Australia and Ireland's Tom O'Riordan are entered in the two-mile event.

Canadians Win At Bolzano

BOLZANO (AP)—The Canadian Olympic hockey team defeated a Canadian-reinforced local team 8-2 Wednesday in an exhibition game in this north Italian city.

The first period was scoreless. The Olympians took a 3-1 lead in the second period and outscored the locals 5-1 in the third frame.

The Canadians, playing a series of exhibition games before returning home from the Innsbruck Winter Olympics, played fast, neat hockey. They were warmly applauded by a sell-out crowd of 5,000 at the indoor ice rink in this alpine resort city.

A Canadian player on the Bolzano team, goalkeeper Siemon, made a series of fine saves in the second and last periods against his countrymen.

Playing on the Bolzano team with Siemon were seven other Canadian professionals, four of whom came from Austria for this game, and three Canadian-born Italians.

The Bolzano side managed to match the fast pace of the Canadian Olympians in the first period, but were overpowered in the remainder of the game by the seemingly tireless Canadians.

Gil Hodges Likes His Senators

NEW YORK (AP)—Manager Gil Hodges of Washington Senators, a bowling proprietor during baseball's off-season, thinks the Senators could get a couple of 10-strikes when they obtained former Yankee Bill Skowron and Marshall Bridges a few months ago.

"Players like Skowron and Bridges have been with winning clubs and that's what I'm trying to do with the Senators. Instill a winning complex," Hodges said Wednesday.

"Guys who haven't been with winning teams don't know what it's like," he said.

Hodges, who played for seven National League titleholders in Brooklyn and Los Angeles before joining the lowly New York Mets in 1962, is surrounded in Washington with players from championship teams.

In addition to Skowron, a first baseman, and Bridges, a relief pitcher, he also has infielders Don Zimmer and Don Blasingame and pitcher Ed Roebuck.

Womens' Curling

Ottawa Rink Ont. Champions

CORNWALL (CP) — An Ottawa rink skipped by Helen Mansfield scored three points in the last two ends here Wednesday to win the Ontario women's curling championship and a berth in the Dominion finals in Edmonton Feb. 24-28.

The Ottawa quartet, tied with Peggy Laurie's Unionville rink going into the fifth and final round, defeated the Unionville crew 9-6 in the sudden-death match.

Mrs. Laurie wound up the three-day, round-robin bonspiel in runner-up spot while Toronto, Schumacher, Beardmore and Grimsby ended in a four-way tie for third.

Both Mrs. Hanright and Mrs. Laurie dropped their opening games Monday, then came back with three straight wins each to create the two-day tie after four rounds.

Mrs. Hanright, 105-pound wife of a Canadian navy commander, lost her opening match 10-7 to the Beardmore rink skipped by Stella Pieson.

She then defeated Toronto's Mrs. H. S. Irwin 13-5, Schumacher's Mrs. C. S. Stevens 13-1, and Grimsby's Mrs. T. A. Winfield 10-7.

Mrs. Laurie had lost 6-5 in the opening round against Grimsby, then she downed Schumacher 13-8, Beardmore 10-5, and Toronto 8-5.

Both the Hanright and Laurie rinks were competing this year for the first time as a unit.

In other games Wednesday, Mrs. Irwin, 1963 provincial champion who lost three games in the first four rounds, defeated Beardmore 14-10 and Schumacher gained a 9-4 victory over Grimsby as the four rinks wound up the bonspiel with identical 2-3 records.

Paying Off In B.C.

Emphasize Fitness In Schools

By ROGER STONEBANKS

VICTORIA (CP)—If another Harry Jerome emerges from the British Columbia school fitness program in future years, the authorities won't really mind.

In fact, they suspect that with more emphasis on fitness it's inevitable that more topnotch athletes will be turned out, even if they don't quite match the calibre of the world - class sprinter.

But the real goal is simply fitness for its own sake, and if the program does no more than instill good habits that will carry on into adulthood, they'll be satisfied.

School children in B.C. are spending 10 per cent more time in fitness training than they did three years ago, and they're not complaining.

"We are aiming at a minimum of three periods a week at all schools," says Education Minister Leslie Peterson who outlined the program in 1960 and had it instituted the following year.

Peterson, who keeps himself in trim with daily exercises plus volleyball sessions at the YMCA, says the objective is mass participation.

NOT AFTER STARS

"There used to be too much emphasis on team sports and reserving of fields and gymnasiums for the top teams to practise. There was not enough mass participation.

"The aim is to produce physically fit children, not star athletes. With greater emphasis on participation there is bound to be some filtering up of talent."

This Saturday, the second provincial amateur sports and physical fitness conference will be held in New Westminster. Among those attending will be federal Health Minister Judy LaMarsh and Jim Worrall, president of the Canadian Olympic Association.

"The purpose of the conference is to bring B.C. sports and fitness leaders together to enable them to discuss trends, development, procedures and to make themselves aware of services available for the improvement of sports and fitness programs," says Peterson.

Encouragement has been given to track and field competitions in conjunction with the Royal Canadian Legion Junior Olympic program but otherwise no single sport is emphasized.

One of Peterson's complaints is that too many parents are leaving the whole fitness field to the school. They should take a hand in promoting fitness among their children, he says.

And he is giving a personal example this direction, working out with his 11-year-old son Raymond for 10 or 15 minutes each morning on the ROAF 5BX exercises.

Pro Golf Needs

Fewer Tourneys-Boss Man

By WILL GRIMSLEY

NEW YORK (AP)—What pro golf needs, says Arnold Palmer, are fewer tournaments and a "big man" to run them.

Also, the golfing star from Latrobe, Pa., added Wednesday, the current television squabble between the sponsors and players is ridiculous and could not occur if the game were placed in the hands of a single, strong executive.

"We need a man such as Joe Dey (executive director of the U.S. Golf Association) to administer our affairs," Palmer said. "He should be an executive, with power to make decisions, such as on this television question.

"It is ridiculous to put such important decisions in the hands of a players' committee. Jay Hebert (chairman of the players' committee) shouldn't be making decisions and announcements on long range policy. Our players' committees change from one year to the next."

NEEDS DIRECTOR

Palmer said the tour needed a director with broader powers than those now vested in Jim Gemple, the present nominal head of the tour.

"Don't misunderstand me, Jim is a very fine guy and quite capable in his field," he added. "But he is a newspaper man. His field is public relations. He knows little about the actual operations of the tour."

"With all respect, I think all the top players would play in all of them, or virtually all of them. I know I would. With more than that, it is necessary to lay out at times for rest and practice, and this agitates sponsors.

"I don't mean there couldn't be more than 30, but there should only be 30 approved events. Others could be held on a non-sanctioned basis, a sort of secondary tour, if the players wanted it."

Oakville Turns Back Sailors 7-5

OAKVILLE (CP) — Oakville Oaks increased their hold on the fourth and final playoff spot in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A league Wednesday defeating Port Colborne Sailors 7-5.

The win widened Oakville's lead over fifth - place Guelph Royals to five points.

Bob Hawkins and Bob Bishop each scored two goals for Oakville. Doug Hillman, Larry Shuker and Ross Dryden had one apiece.

Port Colborne scorers were Jack Gibson, with two, Lyle Shirran, Neal Mahon and Bill Judge.

'Positive' Punch Has Souvenirs

Imlach's A Skating Family

TORONTO (CP) — The Skater's Waltz could be a family theme song for the Punch Imlachs.

Punch, of course, is coach and general manager of the defending National Hockey League champion Toronto Maple Leafs.

He met his dark-haired wife Dorothy in a skating rink.

Their daughter Marlene, 13, is taking figure-skating instruction at the Upper Canada Club.

Son Brent, 17, is a centre with Neil McNeil Maroons, top club in a Junior B hockey league.

It goes without saying that they're partial to the Maple Leafs. Mrs. Imlach and Marlene watch home games from seats at the blue line and they've developed the self-control necessary to keep them from answering fans who heckle the team when it's not doing so well.

Brent sits in the directors' box at Maple Leaf Gardens and, school work permitting, travels with his father to out-of-town games.

The Georg Imlachs live in a comfortable split - level home where, after several years of apartment living in Quebec City, Dodo Imlach gets plenty of opportunity for gardening.

HOCKEY EVERYWHERE

Mementos of Punch's career remind the visitor that he is a successful hockey coach.

A silver tray, presented when the team won the Stanley Cup for the second straight year last season, is on a table in the living room.

Pictures and cartoons of Punch and the Maple Leafs adorn the recreation room which also harbors a miniature of the cup given to members of the Leafs when they won in 1961-62.

A reminder of a less happy occasion is a rag clown hanging by the fireplace with a cotton container marked $1,000 money bag," a wry gift recalling a hefty fine Punch once had to pay.

Because so many hockey fans take the game to heart and like to call the coach for the purpose of criticizing him or praising him, the Imlachs have an unlisted telephone number. And the front door is set up so they'll know who's there before they open it.

In addition to which, there's a seven-year-old collie named Lucky who is a self-appointed guardian for the family.

Hoop Squads Hot

BCI Wins Three More

By ROBERT WILLIAMS

Belleville Collegians won their sixth triple-header victories over Napanee by wide margins for a total of 30 victories out of a possible 31 for the three squads. All the victories were quite convincing as BCI's seniors, juniors and bantams trounced Napanee's squads 60-52, 52-39 and 40-17.

In the senior game both teams started out slow with BCI taking the edge 10-3 at quarter time. BCI bottled up Napanee on fine defensive play and rarely did Napanee break through with the result that BCI had a 26-8 half-time lead.

Murray Swan set up some nice plays in the 2nd half and BCI went on to take a 34-14 lead.

R. Williams with 20, and Murray Swan with 19, paced BCI's attack. Rigby was tops for Napanee with six points.

The junior game was rugged and exciting, highlighted by many long shots. BCI's big three of David Hurst, Alan Mott and Ron Walsh collected 18 points each. Fred Boone and J. Bath did quite well collecting 17 and six points for Napanee.

Rick Loynes, Jim McCreary and Ted Drumm did some fine rebounding and shooting for BCI's bantams resulting in 13, 12 and four points respectively. Lille and M. Grange did their best for Napanee earning eight and four points.

BCI — Chick 2, Anderson, Swan 19, Schleih 2, Burley 5, Deacon, Adams 8, Williams 20, Purcell, Cameleman, Mitchell 4.

Napanee — Coalings 4, McCutcheon 1, Taylor, Fraser 2, Stinson 5, Clancy 0, Rigby 6, Martin 4.

Minor Hockey

Bruins battled their way into the second round of the B.M.H.A.'s Peewee division playoffs last night by blanking Quinte 3-0 in the grouping's only game of the night.

Bruins won the goals-to-count series 6-3. Lynn Burley scored his club's first goal and also drew an assist. Terry Pope and Steven Moore completed the scoring.

Radar Screen Picks up Fast Driver

PICTON (Staff) — "I had no idea there was a radar car at that location," said Davis R. Dick of R.R. 2 Bloomfield, as he was charged with going through a radar screen in a 35 MPH zone, at 40 MPH on Jan. 30.

Picton Constable George Wright testified that he had checked the radar set at 3.15 and at 3.30 the accused broke over the crest of a hill on Bridge St., breaking into the radar range at 40 MPH.

"Are you sure those radar sets are accurate," asked the youth as he walked away to pay a total of $19 including costs.

SLOW BUYING PLATES

"Motorists are not rushing in to buy their 1964 plates, at least not here in Picton," said Charles Hopkins, issuer, today.

"We are about ten per cent down from last year, which means that we will have larger than the usual rush around the end of the month," he added.

"Last year the last day was the 10th of March, and with the last day moved ahead by ten days to the end of February, some people will wait until that time. If people only realized that right now they can come in and be served within a couple of minutes, they might move earlier," he concluded.

Cook Pleads Guilty to Drunk Driving

PICTON (Staff) — Ronald Johnson, a cook at Camp Picton, was sent to jail for seven days when he pleaded guilty to a charge of drunk driving in Magistrate T. Y. Wills court here Wednesday.

The charge was laid by Picton Constable George Wright after he had noticed the accused drive his car very slowly, up Sharpe St. and then parked at the outskirts of town at about 11.30 p.m. on Jan. 31.

The constable told the court that as Johnson pulled into the lot, he stumped over into the passengers side of the front seat and before the officer could walk over to the car, the accused was almost asleep.

When aroused, he showed the usual symptoms of being under the influence of alcohol. He could barely walk, his eyes were glassy and his speech was slurred, and thick.

"He was getting off the road, that is one thing in his favor," said His Worship, in handing down the sentence.

Arthur Stone, 59, R.R. 2 Picton, was remanded for one week in order that the court may have him mentally examined. Stone was charged with attempted suicide on January 24. Accused agreed to the mental examination.

Captain R. W. Wharton, Odessa; R. W. Cooney and Gdsmn. J. J. Collision re-appeared on a charge of parking illegally at Camp Picton. The three appeared two weeks ago and a remand was granted in order that Sgt. Graham of the Provost Corp could ascertain if an order issued by Lieut.-Col. William Malherbe carried any authority in civilian court.

On Wednesday morning, Sgt. Graham announced he would present no further evidence, and the charge against the three members of the Canadian Guards, was instead dismissed.

Income Tax Explained

By C. A. MILLER

Dependants exemptions are $300 for children under 16 and $550 for all others. Taken at its face value, this appears clear enough, but it is surprising how many taxpayers make errors in the amount they claim.

A common error is the claim of $350 for a child born in Dec. ember of the taxation year. It is a common belief that as no family allowance was received for December, they are entitled to an exemption of $550. This is not true.

The Income Tax Act states that the exemption for a child qualified for family allowance is $300. It is not the reciept of the allowance but the child's qualification that is the governing factor. A child born in Canada of Canadian parents is qualified for family allowance immediately at birth.

Another error is often made by claiming only $300 for a child under 16 who becomes deceased in the year. In such cases the claim is $300 as the child was not eligible for the family allowance on Dec. 31 of that year.

In the case of a child attaining the age of 16 during the taxation year, the claim is also $550. This amount may be claimed when the child did not turn 16 until December. The fact that family allowance was received for the entire twelve months does not alter the $550 claim. This offsets the fact that no family allowance was received in the year of birth.

The exemption claims for dependant children are never split. It is either $300, $550 or nothing at all. Following articles in this series will deal with other circumstances regarding dependant children, such as a child starting to work or confined to an institution.

For personal replies pertaining to income tax problems please enclose a self-addressed five cent stamped envelope and 25c in coin for each question you wish answered.

Question: We had a 2-year-old child die Jan. 2, 1963. Are we allowed any exemption?
Answer: Yes. Claim $550.
Question: Our son, 22, a university student, was killed in an auto accident in May, 1963. Can we claim exemption for him? Can I deduct his tuition fees?
Answer: Yes, Claim $550. You cannot deduct his tuition fees on your return as that deduction applies only to him if he had any income in 1963.

May Take Case To Court

Finley Defies League

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Owner Charles O. Finley of Kansas City Athletics and other American League club owners appear on the way to another collision after a session here Wednesday left Finley and the city still far apart over a stadium lease.

In the first collision Wed. 18 in New York, the owners flatly rejected Finley's bid to move to Louisville, Ky., and by a 9-1 vote ordered him to sign a lease in Kansas City by Feb. 1 or face expulsion from the league.

The deadline was extended to Saturday after Finley said he might take his case to court and hired Louis Nizer, famed trial attorney.

It's doubtful a lease will be signed before the deadline and the league is expected to call another meeting for next week. Finley obtained a firm commitment from Oakland, Calif., Jan. 27 and it's likely he'll ask the league for permission to move the club to Oakland.

MAY SEEK COMPROMISE

The club owners doubtless will first try to get Finley and the city together on a compromise three-year pact. Failing that, the owners would then seem to have only two other choices:

1. Grant him permission to move the club to Oakland.
2. Follow through with their threat to take over Finley's franchise, thereby risking a law suit.

The owners want to avoid a law suit if possible because they fear a change in the baseball's exemption from anti-trust laws.

All talks of a compromise evaporated at the session Wednesday when Finley insisted at the outset he couldn't and wouldn't sign for more than two years.

GORDIE HOWE'S HOCKEY

By GORDIE HOWE

Montreal has been quite successful in scoring from a faceoff either on a shot by Jean Beliveau from the faceoff itself, or on a play on which he teams up with Bernie Geoffrion.

For instance, if a faceoff is from the circle to the goaltender's right, then Beliveau, being a lefthander is on his forehand shot towards the net.

Jean is big, strong, and quick. When the puck is dropped, he'll give it a real whack towards the net.

As soon as the puck is dropped, Geoffrion heads directly for the left corner of the net. As a rule, anything slapped over in that direction, if it's hard enough, may go across in front of the net, hit the boards and carom out to the point.

Consequently Geoffrion doesn't have to worry about that. But if the goaltender stops it it's going to be on the left hand side of the net. And Geoffrion will be right there to get the rebound. He darts right in that hole.

Another bit of strategy on the faceoff revolves around having a second player getting the puck. Some players have a habit of just going for your stick when the puck is dropped. I'll tell Alex Delvecchio I'm going to run him. As soon as the puck is dropped I charge forward as fast as I can, hoping the puck will stay where it is dropped and Alex will get a shot away.

When you have someone who is good at winning the faceoff, there is another play that is quite effective at times, when you're in the opposition's end and to the goaltender's left.

Station a right winger about 20 feet behind the faceoff and stick a fellow over there to block the exit of the boys coming out to check.

If the boy on the faceoff gets it directly back he can get a good shot away. With that fellow holding up the defense and the winger coming out, there's enough congestion to make it a screen shot, tougher for the goalie.

AMEND WATER BILL

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario legislature has come up with two quick amendments to a bill passed at its current session. The original bill, designed to guarantee loans to farmers hit by drought conditions, contained no limiting clauses. It would in effect have empowered the government to guarantee loans of any amount for any farm purpose. One of the approved amendments limits the amount of any one loan to $2,500. The other limits the loans to buying or transporting water.

Boring Hour of Television Was Show Produced by CBS

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Jules Verne's Around the World in 80 Days was transformed from a science fiction adventure novel into an utterly delightful screen comedy, Wednesday night, CBS Chronicle took another of his point fantasies fiction tales and, in an attempt to be funny, converted it into an unbelievably boring hour of television.

Chronicle is the program that tackles frivolous, even frothy, subjects in the time spot usually for sober, earnest CBS reports.

They tripped and fell over Verne's story about an attempt to shoot an enormous bullet holding a party of scientists from a gigantic cannon to the moon. This situation all by itself could have been vastly amusing if played straight.

But they couldn't leave well enough alone. The producers inserted endless gibs from old Mack Sennett comedies. At one point they stitched together ancient mob and battle scenes in what was supposed to be a comic history of the Confederate Civil War — and on Lincoln's birthday, too.

Chronicle's treatment of the Verne story was as confused as it was boring. Instead of a straightforward narrative, we had a series of interviews with the characters, who kept breaking into the story to explain what was happening.

Even the commercials were dull.

Better Product Boosts Movie Theatre Business

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The movie theatre business, an industry that was supposed to curl up and die, is showing amazing life.

Eugene V. Klein, president of National General Corporation, which runs 222 theatres in 16 states, declares:

"We feel the theatre business bottomed out some time ago. The climate has been extremely good for theatres recently. There were times at Christmas when every one of our theatres was sold out, and that hasn't happened for five or six years.

"What has caused the theatre revival? Better product. There has been some disenchantment with television, but an awful lot of people still watch it. The major reason for the increase of theatre business is that Hollywood has been making pictures.

"I think Hollywood has gotten the message. People won't go to see any grade B garbage. They won't go to message pictures. They'll pay $2.50 without complaining to see something they want to see."

EARNINGS UP

Gene Klein is a plain-spoken man with a sense of what the public will buy. This is demonstrated in National General's latest statement: Earnings in fiscal 1963 at $3,459,000 vs. a loss of $6,605,919 two years ago.

The film chain had suffered a series of red-ink years prior to 1962. The change in fortune resulted from a modernization campaign that now has the corporation selling only movie entertainment but houses, dried figs and bootmanny zingers.

"But theatres will always be the major portion of our business," said Klein. "We have modernized. There were too many theatres and too many seats in the heart of cities. We have shut down or sold some and cut the seating capacity in others; some had 3,000 - 4,000 seats while 950 is a more sensible number today.

"Like any other business, we have had to take our merchandise to the public. We are now half-way through our building program of 50 new theatres, mostly in new suburbs."

"Lines on Life'

By Dr. Stuart E. Rosenberg

A learned discussion took place. Each speaker described the contempory problem as he saw it and went on to offer suggested solutions. They spoke of Berlin, Laos, space, bombs and the Cold War. But the last speaker spoke differently.

"It was definitely not solid-ified," said Nazzaz Hamby Dietrict Attorney William Cahn. "We do not know whether it was military strategy, or political, we do know he was alive and breathing when the fire broke out."

LOOKS SUSPICIOUS

"There were no signs of physical violence, but it looks suspicious and needs looking into." Translated, carrying it right now pending the results of a toxicological examination."

Cahn said Nugent admitted he steered male clients to the home of girls, some of whose husbands baby-sat at home while they moonlighted in sinful assignations with other women, known to the call-girl trade as "Johns."

In searching Nugent as a willing source of information, Cahn added:

"He was definitely an integral part of the investigation—a very important figure. He supplied names and addresses of 200 businessmen known to have been customers of the women who acted as call girls. . . ."

Existence of the ring came to light last week when 16 women were picked up, including Mrs. Barbara Jo Cain, 32, a thrice - divorced Long Island mother of three. Most were held as material witnesses, but she was charged with inducing women into prostitution as madame of the ring.

U. S. Exports To Cuba Reach All-Time Low

By HAROLD MORRISON

WASHINGTON (CP)—United States commercial exports to Cuba, which reached a peak of $818,000,000 in 1957, plunged to an all-time low of $4,000 last year, a U.S. commerce department official estimated Wednesday. The $22,000 estimate was $409,000 in 1962, he said.

Aside from commercial exports to Cuba, the U.S. shipped about $50,000,000 in food and medicine to Cuba during 1962-63 but this was to pay for foodstuffs for the prisoners captured by the Castro regime during the unsuccessful 1961 Bay of Pigs invasion.

This was a special deal—described as "ransom" by some U.S. authorities—demanded by Premier Fidel Castro in exchange for the prisoners. This deal is not considered part of normal commercial trade.

The U.S. bans all trade with Cuba with the exception of food and medicine. All Cuban assets in the U.S. were frozen by the American government last July. EXPORTS DROP

While commercial U.S. exports to Cuba declined during the last two years, a recent department compilation shows the allies of the U.S. shipped a total of some $1,000,000,000 worth of goods to Cuba during the 18-month period of January, 1962, to June, 1963, the official said.

During this 18-month period—the latest overall figures available—Canada was estimated to have shipped about $18,000,000 worth: The Netherlands, $15,000,000; Britain, $15,000,000; Japan, $11,000,000; West Germany, $7,000,000; France, $4,100,000.

The allies, in this case, include all the North Atlantic countries and Japan. These have a group which has agreed to bar the shipment of strategic goods to Communist countries.

Salesman's Death May Spring Lid Off Big Scandal

By ARTHUR EVERETT

MINEOLA, N.Y. (AP) — At the outset a week ago, it looked like little more than a sordid ring of suburban housewives handed together in a loose $200,000-a-year sex-for-sale arrangement.

However, the death of a salesman for the ring has threatened to tear the lid off a full-fledged prostitution scandal in Long Island's split-level society. There were hints that the U.S. national crime syndicate—the so-called Cosa Nostra — might have a hand in the operations.

The salesman was Edmund (Teddy) Nugent, 40, a bartender with underworld links in his past. Authorities said as many as 200 Long Island businessmen and politicians were beguiled by discreet over-the-bar hints from Nugent and others of forbidden pleasures available at $25 to $100 a date.

Nugent was found dead Tuesday in a flaming car parked curbside the home he managed in a Jericho motel.

Cahn said Nugent admitted he steered male clients to the call girls, some of whose husbands baby-sat at home while they moonlighted in sinful assignations with other women, known to the call-girl trade as "Johns."

In searching Nugent as a willing source of information, Cahn added:

"He was definitely an integral part of the investigation—a very important figure. He supplied names and addresses of 200 businessmen known to have been customers of the women who acted as call girls. . . ."

Existence of the ring came to light last week when 16 women were picked up, including Mrs. Barbara Jo Cain, 32, a thrice - divorced Long Island mother of three. Most were held as material witnesses, but she was charged with inducing women into prostitution as madame of the ring.

100 Years Ago This Month Spark Lit for Confederation

By JAMES NELSON

OTTAWA (CP)—One hundred years ago this month the government of Upper and Lower Canada took a decision which probably was the spark that brought the long-smouldering fire of Confederation into flame three years later.

The government, which then had its capital at Quebec City, decided to push the exploration of a route for a railway linking the settled parts of Quebec with New Brunswick and Nova Scotia.

What's more, the decision was that the route should be surveyed at the "sole expense" of the government of the Canadas of that day.

It came after long negotiations with the two Maritime colonies and with London for a division of the costs and for financing the project. The negotiations collapsed when Britain and the colonies could not agree on how a sinking fund for the railway should be invested.

The idea of a confederation of all the British colonies in North America, and a concurrent proposal for a union of the Maritime provinces alone, had long been discussed, debated, endorsed and rejected in turn.

PLAN FOR UNION

One of the earliest plans on paper was prepared by Sir Edmund Head, who was first a lieutenant - governor of New Brunswick and later a governor-general of Canada.

In 1851 he prepared a secret memorandum for the colonial office in London suggesting a federal union of the British provinces in North America to make "a powerful and independent state under the British crown."

As he saw it, the new union would have a uniform currency, a mint of its own, a distinctive flag and "a national destiny."

But Head's thinking was running ahead of the times—particularly on the question of a distinctive flag. He stored his secret memorandum away and supported the idea of a union of Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island.

Newfoundland was regarded as a possible fourth member of the union, but it was widely regarded as too remote from the other colonies to be really much of a consideration.

Nova Scotia was anxious for the Maritime union, dreaming of it as the old colony's historic destiny made manifest — the younger settlements in P.E.I. and New Brunswick, in effect, returning to the Nova Scotian fold.

BITTER OVER RAILWAY

P.E.I. never displayed undivided enthusiasm either for Maritime union or for the larger confederation with Upper and Lower Canada. Yet, as history would have it just nine months later, Charlottetown was the site of the conference which agreed in principle on the grand scheme of Confederation.

During the winter of 1863-64, just 100 years ago, there was great bitterness in the Maritime provinces over the failure of negotiations on the Intercolonial Railroad. Talk of Maritime union as opposed to their union with the Canadas was growing again.

Then Viscount Monck, the governor - general of Canada, wrote his fateful letter on Feb. 20, 1864, to A. H. Gordon, lieutenant - governor of New Brunswick, and Mal-Gen. Hastings Doyle, Administrator of Nova Scotia, saying Canada would survey the route of the Intercolonial "as its own responsibility and at its sole expense."

Sandford Fleming, the noted railway pioneer and civil engineer, was assigned the task with such urgency he was told not to wait for written instructions, and he set to it despite the winter weather.

The urgency he displayed and the attitude of the government at Quebec City revived the idea of Confederation and though it ran into other storms and delays it was carried through.

Makarios Rejects International Police Force

Will Take the Issue To the United Nations

CP from AP-Reuters

NICOSIA — President Makarios today rejected the British-U.S. proposals to land an international peace force on embattled Cyprus and will take the matter to the United Nations immediately, authoritative diplomatic sources said.

Sporadic fighting persisted between Greek- and Turkish-Cypriots.

There was no immediate official statement from Makarios or from U.S. Undersecretary of State George Ball, who ended three days of discussions in Nicosia.

The American-U.S.-British plan is for an army of about 10,000 men to be recruited from members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, with the United States putting up perhaps 2,000, to keep the peace between Cypriots of Greek and Turkish extraction.

Ball flew to Ankara to report to Turkish officials on his talks with Cypriot leaders and to urge restraint on Turkey. He then will go to Athens on a similar mission to Greek authorities.

Makarios is believed to be ready to ask the UN Security Council resolution which would prevent any one nation from intervening in Cyprus and to protect Cyprus's territorial integrity. This would be aimed primarily at Turkey.

Diplomats said the United States and Britain believe a solution must be found to settle the differences on the island which might possibly lead to a war between Greece and Turkey, who are allies in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Both British and U.S. officials tried to convince Makarios that he might not get the results he desired from the Security Council, where the Soviet Union would have a voice concerning the island's future.

The force would call for Turkey in a U.S. Air Force plane, Ball issued this statement at the Nicosia airport.

"I had discussions with President Makarios and other members of the government. I think we leave with a better understanding of each other's position. As far as my participation is concerned, we have not abandoned the search for ways to bring about the reduction of sports spelling out its ideas and proposals.

GREEK CYPRIOTS CARRY THE WAR TO TURKS — Supported by men crouched behind a heap of rubble, Greek Cypriots advance upon a Turkish Cypriot strong point in Limasol during violent fighting. The 50,000 inhabitants of the second city of Cyprus, a busy coast port of the island, were awakened Tuesday by the sound of exploding mortars, bazookas and machineguns, as an uneasy truce exploded into full scale fighting. Today, after three days of bloody fighting, relative calm reigns. (AP Wirephoto by cable from London)

Railway Debate Shapes Up

OTTAWA (CP)—A great railway debate is shaping up for the coming session of Parliament.

It will centre on government legislation to streamline Canada's railways.

Government sources say that at the session starting Tuesday top priority will be given to the legislation based on the MacPherson royal commission report on transportation.

The legislative package, it is understood, involves amendments to the Transport Act and the Railway Act and repeal of the Canadian National-Canadian Pacific Act.

The MacPherson legislation is expected to:

1. Scrap government regulation of freight rate increases.

2. Set up new machinery whereby the railways will be free to peg their prices in the competitive marketplace, subject only to a ceiling to protect so-called "captive" shippers.

3. Create a brand-new federal agency—the branch line rationalization authority—to set the pace for abolishing down hundreds of miles of unprofitable branch lines, chiefly in Western Canada.

4. Abolish a series of railway and freight rate subsidies now totalling more than $90,000,000 a year.

5. Provide a new set of federal subsidies amounting to about $100,000,000 in the first year, but rapidly diminishing over the first five years.

The new subsidies would cover railway losses on passenger trains and branch lines that are operated in the red.

The core of the legislation will be the new freight rate structure.

The railways have endorsed the recommendations of the royal commission, appointed in 1959 by the previous Conservative government. Headed by Regina lawyer M. A. MacPherson, the royal commission spent more than two years in a cross-Canada study of railway problems, then delivered three re-

Police Guarding Every Entrance To Beatles' Miami Beach Hotel

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Police guarded every entrance to the Miami Beach hotel where the Beatles were vacationing today, repelling attempts of teen-age girls to sneak in for a glimpse of the British rock 'n' roll quartet.

The mop-topped stars planned to relax and possibly do some swimming in the warm Atlantic waters.

A mob of teen-age boys and girls pursued the Beatles from International Airport to the hotel.

Approximately 30 of the riotlike crowd were cut by flying glass. Motorcycle Patrolman Jack Allen was in hospital with injuries suffered when a car hit him during the turmoil.

"It was great—the reception was much better than we had hoped," one of the Beatles commented in a press conference held after their arrival at the hotel.

At least 4,000 young people showed up at the airport. As the Beatles' jetliner taxied to the terminal, hundreds of teenagers smashed through police lines and swarmed down stairs and escalators to the ramp and lower level.

Finding a waiting room door locked, groups of boys picked up metal chairs and began pounding out windows and attempting to batter down heavy wooden doors.

Brian Somerville, the Beatles' press manager, said he decided the mob was nearly out of control and ordered the Beatles whisked off to the hotel.

May Strike Gold Coin In 1967

By JAMES NELSON

OTTAWA (CP)—Pressure is reported to be mounting on the government to strike a gold coin to mark Canada's 100th birthday of Confederation in 1967.

Canada has not minted a gold coin since pre - Confederation days, but the Royal Canadian Mint produced gold sovereigns for the British government just before the First World War. Some of them now are worth hundreds of dollars to coin collectors.

But the government and its agencies are playing their cards close to the vest on the current suggestion that a $10 or $25 gold piece be circulated for 1967.

A $1 silver coin marking the 1964 pre-Confederation conferences in Charlottetown and Quebec City now is in circulation.

The pros and cons of putting a 1967 gold coin in circulation are being discussed by the Centennial of Confederation Commission, the department of finance, and the mint, it was learned. Coin collectors and numismatists are keenly interested and are promoting the idea.

VALUE WILL GROW

Proponents of the plan say a gold coin would be a centennial memento with intrinsic value which will grow over the years, that it can be profitable to the treasury, and a new use for some of Canada's gold production.

Opponents say gold used in minting the coins won't be sold to the U.S., an important part of Canada's U.S. dollar earnings, that its encouragement for the gold mining industry will be negligible, and that the difficulty of distribution will amount to a headache in which the government need not involve itself.

R. Thomas Swanton, an Ottawa rare coin merchant, said in an interview that an issue of

Govt. Indicates Minimum Wage Areas to Be Increased

TORONTO (CP)—An extension of Ontario's minimum wage legislation was indicated in the legislature Thursday, but the new areas to be covered were not revealed.

Two members of the legislature asked whether the law would be extended to their constituencies but Labor Minister H. L. Rowntree would only say he will make a statement later in the session.

Questikks by Bernard Newman (L — Windsor-Walkerville) and George Bukator (L—Niagara Falls) were touched off by the minister's statement that new orders are being written to apply the Minimum Wage Act to other industrialized areas of the province.

The law—introduced June 30, 1963—now covers the Oshawa-Toronto - Hamilton "golden horseshoe" section.

"Our studies indicate that certain modifications will be required in this pattern for the enforcement of the orders in other less industrialized portions of Ontario," Mr. Rowntree said.

This was taken as an indication the new areas will not have as high a minimum wage as the areas now covered. The minimum now is $1 an hour for men, 85 cents for women and $1.25 for construction workers.

Mr. Rowntree also said the labor department had made a survey of 4,000 large businesses and 6,000 businesses with fewer than 15 employees to establish the minimum wage levels.

The proposed labor department budget totals $14,663,000, up 15 per cent over the current budget.

Two New Democrats asked Mr. Rowntree for legislation to set up compulsory checkoff of union dues.

The minister told Reg Gisborn (NDP—Wentworth East) and party leader Donald C. MacDonald that if the checkoff is to be introduced a forthcoming amendment to the Labor Relations Act would be the place for it.

Elmer Sopha (L — Sudbury) was to have resumed a speech began last Tuesday during the throne speech debate but was kept silent because of laryngitis. The first confidence vote of the session thus was postponed until next week.

Sarnia Constable Charged With Assault, False Arrest

SARNIA, Ont. (CP)—A Sarnia man testified Thursday he was choked by a police constable until he collapsed in the Sarnia police station where he attempted to go to the aid of his unconscious brother.

Arthur George Williams, 27, was testifying during the hearing of a damage suit against Const. Richard Gunn of the Sarnia police department by William Williams, 29, and their father, George W. Williams.

They are seeking damages for assault and false arrest in a hearing before Mr. Justice E. L. Haines of Ontario Supreme Court.

Counsel for William Williams alleges that William Williams suffered brain damage that left him with the mentality of an eight-year-old, blind in the right eye and partially blind in the left, and semi-paralyzed in the right arm and leg following a beating by Const. Gunn. He said William was unconscious for two weeks after he was committed to hospital.

Arthur Williams said police had come to the apartment he shared with his brother last April 27 and questioned them about a break-in at the next

Guarding Dumps Is Costly

By DAVE McINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP)—It's going to cost more than $8,000,000 a year to guard the storage dumps where nuclear warheads are kept for Canada's armed forces, informants said Thursday.

This figure includes dog food.

But not the nuclear warheads themselves. The United States supplies them free.

The dog food bill will be fairly substantial because the RCAF has bought 34 German police dogs to help guard the two dumps on the airfields at Goose Bay, Labrador and Baden-Soellingen in West Germany.

The dogs cost $100 each. The other nuclear dumps are or will be at: Werl and Hemer in West Germany for the army's Honest John rockets; at North Bay and La Macaza, Que., for the Bomarc anti-aircraft missile, and at Chatham, N.B., for the Voodoo jet interceptor.

There are no immediate plans for security dogs at the dumps in Canada.

NEED HUNDREDS

While guarding the defence department, at a time when it's trying to cut overhead costs, is vital it will require literally hundreds of men—one source said more than 1,000—to guard the dumps. The RCAF said the number of guards is a military secret.

There are four security rings to guard at each dump, which is merely a bunker somewhat like a second World War air raid shelter.

In the shelter itself, around the warheads, all the American military personnel who have custody of the weapons. In the case of the Bomarc base, where the warhead is actually fitted into the missile, there are 26 Americans at each site.

Then there's a corridor of barbed wire around the bunker. The dogs, with their handlers, patrol this corridor at the dumps in West Germany. Outside this enclosure are more armed sentries.

There's more security all around the entire station itself. Computers display placed hundreds of airmen on radar watch. There men now have been put on warhead watch.

Erhard Wonders About Effects Of French Policy

By DAVID SELLS

PARIS (Reuters)—West German Chancellor Ludwig Erhard and President Charles de Gaulle of France met privately at the centre at the start on the French leader's estimate of the impact of his new Asian policy on Russia.

West German officials said Erhard was especially interested in de Gaulle's opinion of how French initiatives toward Communist China and South-east Asia were likely to affect Soviet policy in Europe.

Erhard arrived earlier by train with one quarter of his cabinet ministers. The five senior advisers will have bilateral talks with their French opposite numbers.

Britain Will Continue Trade With Cuba

Sir Alec Makes Point Clear in Johnson Talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — British Prime Minister Douglas-Home set out for home today with the expressed hope that the accomplishments of his visit with President Johnson will benefit "a great many other countries also."

State Secretary Dean Rusk seconded Douglas - Home's theme in a brief farewell ceremony marking the winding up of the British leader's two days of conferences on issues around the world.

The prime minister took his official leave from the grounds of the U.S. Naval Observatory adjoining the British Embassy. A cluster of U.S. officials headed by Rusk and a guard of honor saluted him in the helicopter which transferred him to his transatlantic plane at Andrews Air Force Base in Maryland.

Rusk said the parley, the first of any significance between Johnson and Douglas-Home as heads of government, "was in the best sense of working meeting" which covered some 30 different international topics.

GOOD AVERAGE

Referring to the publicized U.S.-British disagreement over sales to Cuba and Russia, Rusk jokingly noted that there is "a rumor we didn't agree on one or two" of the 30 items. But he said this score shows "a very high batting average" which is good not only for Britain and the U.S. but for many other countries.

Douglas-Home had made it clear his country will continue trading with Cuba and is willing to grant credit to Communist nations in the same way it does to others.

The British leader and President Johnson Thursday concluded a two-day Anglo-American summit meeting. Main purpose of the meeting, spokesmen stressed, was for Douglas-Home and Johnson to get "to know each other before each is caught up in the whirl of election campaigning."

Britain faces a general election by next October and the U.S. next November.

In this respect the get-together was a complete success, said a high American official.

"The farmer from Scotland and the farmer from Texas understood each other perfectly."

Rearguard Action

Reds' Likely Redeye 'Shot Down' CF-104

OTTAWA (CP) — The likely Soviet counterpart to the American Redeye was the connection with beer and tomato juice—in one reason the government cancelled further orders for the CF-104 low - level nuclear jet bomber, intelligence sources say.

Redeye is the code name for a small U.S. Army battlefield rocket which can be fired at planes by ground troops.

The weapon is a heat-seeker that is, it seeks out the hot exhaust pipe of a jet plane and literally flies up inside the aircraft where it detonates. It carries a conventional high explosive warhead.

Intelligence sources here say it must be presumed that the Russians have a similar weapon or can develop one without much difficulty.

Partly for this reason, they say, Defence Minister Hellyer rejected an RCAF request to obtain 66 more CF-104 bombers for the eight squadrons in Europe.

Authorities said this is a good example of how military decisions are based in large measure on intelligence reports on what a potential enemy is up to in the field of new weapons. Others are:

The army's adoption last year of two French anti-tank missile systems designed to pierce the heavy steel plate — reputedly nine inches thick — of Soviet tanks.

Defence Research Board's heavy concentration on missile detection work, including a new type of radar which can be "skipped" over long distances on the earth's surface like a flat stone. Normal radar does not bend over the horizon.

The government's decision in 1961 to acquire the Voodoo jet interceptor when it was learned Russia had developed a new jet bomber, code - named the Blinder.

Britain Will Continue Trade With Cuba

Sir Alec Makes Point Clear in Johnson Talks

LONDON (AP)—Plans to sell British road building equipment to Cuba and to extend a huge credit to Russia for massive purchases of factories were reported today.

The disclosures came as Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home headed home from Washington after making clear to President Johnson Britain intends to continue trade with Cuba and the Communist bloc. He says Britain must trade to survive.

Three Cuban government officials arrived to negotiate for the purchase of road graders and earth-moving equipment, said to total $250,000 ($1,350,000).

At the same time, a group of London banks was reported preparing a credit to finance a deal with the Soviet Union for up to £100,000,000 ($280,000,000) worth of British fertilizer plants and machinery.

Colin Ryan, managing director of the Aveling Barford plant at Grantham, said his firm is negotiating to sell road rollers and earth-moving equipment to Cuba. He did not give the value of the transactions but said the amount is substantial.

"We are waiting to see what the prime minister has to say about this thorny question," he added. "Sanctions by the United States do not bother us particularly, because America is one of our smaller export markets."

Part of the order is understood to be for 35 tractor shovels powered by Leyland engines. Leylands this month agreed to supply Cuba with 400 buses. An option for 1,000 more buses also has been signed.

Terms of the credit deal for the Soviet Union were not disclosed.

Financial circles said the money would be used for factory purchases in British firms, including fibre plants, fertilizer and other non-strategic chemical plants.

The Russians already have signed an agreement covering £95,000,000 worth of factories, plant and technical knowledge. The Mail reported Mrs. Robert Doman and Claude Aubry, both of Ottawa.

N. Z. Government and Publishers Move to Freeze Out Roy Thomson

LONDON (CP) — Government ministers and newspaper publishers appear determined to keep Roy Thomson from getting a foothold in the New Zealand press.

Prime Minister Keith Holyoake's cabinet is reported to have been holding special meetings to consider legislation prohibiting foreign control, while Australian and New Zealand publishers are reported to be up with money bids designed to freeze out the outsider.

The latest offer came Thursday night from Rupert Murdoch, 33-year-old young proprietor of Australia's Murray group. He paid $2,200,000 ($6,600,000) for Wilson and Horton Limited, newspaper publisher in Wellington, New Zealand's capital and largest city after Auckland.

Wilson and Horton Limited, owners of the New Zealand Herald of Auckland, made an earlier bid of $1,200,000 in shares and cash. Two other offers from New Zealand interests are reported in prospect.

The flurry of interest in The Dominion results from the original offer made by Thomson in mid-January. Thomson bid was $1,650,000 in cash.

Commenting on the Australian and New Zealand press, Thomson said tersely today: "We are still interested, and we are by no means out of the picture. We don't know all the details yet of Rupert Murdoch's bid. We're waiting to see how things develop."

Reports in British papers say that Holyoake's government party has decided to legislate to prohibit any action needed to limit newspaper takeovers. One report said the party is also legislating in favor of legislation against overseas ownership.

In Fleet Street, London's newspaper row, cynical opinion suggests that the government's negative attitude results from pressure applied by New Zealand press interests. As seen from Fleet Street, publishers are intent upon preserving the cozy, almost paternal empire built up in the tiny but prosperous Commonwealth country.

Warning Flashers Should Augment 'Stop Signs' Says Coroner's Jury in Fatality

Warning flashers should augment stop signs where obsolete provincial highway spans intersect with new by-passes.

This was the suggestion of a coroner's jury in Belleville last night after hearing evidence on a fatal accident at just such an intersection—the new Highway 14 - Madoc County Road bypass and old Highway 14 west of Foxboro.

The inquest also heard an OPP constable testify more than a score of drivers have been charged for failing to observe stop signs at the spot.

Victim of the two-car accident January 4 was 69-year-old Mrs. George Alver, of Madoc. Four other persons were injured when the car in which she was a passenger was struck broadside by an automobile driven by Albert Colleen son pioneer Ephraim Roy, 53, of 5 North Park Gardens.

The reconstruction was included in the verdict of accidental death. No blame for the fatal collision was directly cited by the jury.

The road junction was created when the Highway 14 Foxboro bypass and a new link to the Madoc County road opened last fall. The new, obsolete hitchway strip curves through Foxboro to the intersection.

Mr. Ray was driving the old road with his wife Bertha as passenger when the collision came with the car driven by Madoc schoolteacher Anne McIntosh. Under he now his wife could recall any incidents of the crash for the jury of coroner Dr. John Stock.

NO RECOLLECTION

Mr. Ray's last recollection was driving through Foxboro.

"What was the first thing you remember after the accident?" asked crown attorney John Prindiville.

"When I came to I said 'what happened' and the wife said 'I guess we've had an accident.'

"Your condition was normal. You hadn't been drinking any intoxicants that day?"

"No."

"What was the mechanical condition of your car?"

"It was supposed to be good. We had spent quite a bit of money on it this fall."

"And were you aware of the bypass being opened?"

"Yes."

Mrs. Ray, her right arm still in a cast since the mishap, said she had been reading as her husband drove.

"I don't remember anything else until I woke up after the crash."

"You don't remember seeing any other vehicles?" asked Mr. Prindiville.

"No."

"Or whether you stopped at the stop sign?"

"No."

"You were knocked unconscious?"

"Yes. I pulled my head out from under the dash."

Miss McIntosh said Mrs. Alver was in the front passenger seat when the collision happened. Near the intersection she noticed another automobile approaching on the old highway "which I presumed would stop because it was a stop street — and then he hit."

WAS FLAGGED DOWN

First on the scene were Belleville fire inspector Harvey Fair and his wife Rosalie. Neither saw the actual accident but the first place — although they drove up only seconds later.

Inspector Fair described being flagged down by one of the injured with a frantic plea for help. He noted the transverse survey of the injured and after giving instructions to uninjured passengers left Mrs. Alver's pains.

"There was none. Then I took another good look at her and she had a real coat on top of her," he concluded.

OPP constable Robert Grierson, investigated the fatality, said overhead lights had been installed at the intersection since the accident.

Warning signs previously were posted within 750 feet of the intersection however, motorists had been spotted driving through the stop sign.

"I would say there have been 25 people charged with failing to stop at that junction," he testified.

The jury inserted an ironic comment about the advance warning signs in its verdict.

It tersely observed that "other signs" on the old highway approach were more prominent than the actual stop sign.

No Reason To Bar Burton Says Dept.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. state department said Thursday it can find no reason for barring Richard Burton from this country.

Representative Michael A. Feighan (Dem. - Ohio), who asked for a review of the Welsh actor's visa on grounds of what he called immoral conduct, took sharp issue with the finding.

"It is shocking and runs contrary to the clear intent of Congress and the facts in this case," Feighan said.

Feighan said last week that "the conduct of Richard Burton and Elizabeth Taylor is a public outrage and highly detrimental to the morale of the youth of our nation."

Burton and Miss Taylor now are in Toronto.

In a letter to Feighan, Frederick G. Dutton, assistant state secretary, said a review uncovered "no information which would warrant a finding of ineligibility or revocation of his visa."

Burton is rehearsing in Toronto for a Hamlet production in Belleville's Broadway. He and Miss Taylor have said they will marry, as soon as Miss Taylor is divorced from singer Eddie Fisher.

NEW YORK (AP) — Singer Eddie Fisher returned from the Winter Olympics at Innsbruck Thursday and said he had been so busy in Austria he was "out of contact" with the state of his divorce proceedings from actress Elizabeth Taylor.

Fisher supervised the entertainment portion at the Winter Olympics. He is to leave Sunday for night club appearances in Puerto Rico.

Statement on Air Policy To Be Delayed

OTTAWA-(CP)—The government's policy statement on air policy has been put back a few months, reliable sources say.

A full, formal declaration of Canada's air policy for the next 10 years has been promised for the last five years—but never enunciated.

A succession of transport ministers—George Hees and Leon Balcer during the Conservative administration, then George Mcilraith and now J. W. Pickersgill—faced the problem of setting out the nation's long-term aviation needs in terms of international, transcontinental and regional air services.

Mr. McIlraith let it be known he hoped to make the policy decisions public before the end of 1963.

When the subject went untouched in the pre-Christmas cabinet crush of business, the target date for the policy statement was shifted to late February.

Then Mr. McIlraith was transferred to another portfolio and Mr. Pickersgill moved into the transport job.

Mr. Pickersgill is unlikely to have time to whip the policy paper into final shape for cabinet approval this month.

He declined in an interview to put any new target date for announcement of the government's air plans for the future.

Canada Not Yet Committed To Send Troops - - Chevrier

LONDON (CP)—Lionel Chevrier, Canada's new high commissioner in London, said Thursday Canada is not yet committed to contribute troops to any proposed Cyprus peace force, but is studying the British request for 1,000 men "with sympathy."

The formation of the force, he told a press conference, depends on a firm decision from Archbishop Makarios, president of Cyprus.

On the question of Anglo-Canadian hockey he said in Canadian government committees is studying the problem and "there should be an improvement of the position in 1964."

Chevrier arrived by air from Canada Thursday. Tuesday he will take up his new appointment.

POST IMPORTANT

"I consider the post in London to be the most important one in this field of activity," he said.

He said he considers his duties here as both administrative and representational.

"There are important economic questions to be dealt with and there have always been political ones."

He looked on himself as neither a French-speaking nor an English-speaking Canadian but "purely as a Canadian." Asked about separatism, he said:

"It is all to the good of Canada that there should be this tremendous awakening by Québec people to take their rightful part in national affairs."

Vandals Break School Strap In Three Pieces

Vandals last night broke into Queen Mary public school and sliced principal Bernard Wright's punishment strap in three pieces.

It was the least of a string of malicious incidents — but may be the most significant.

Police say it may indicate those responsible for wreaking damage in classrooms last night may have had a grudge against school authorities.

Doors were damaged as the vandals ranged through a woodwork shop and home economics room, damaging tools and spilling fruit from cupboards.

The vandals broke a rear window and entered the school through the boiler room.

Margaret Tynes Enthralls Audience With Fine Voice

By EUGENE LANG

It is doubtful if anyone came away from the debut recital here of Margaret Tynes, Soprano, last evening at the Collegiate Auditorium with any feeling of dissatisfaction at the program presented. To be truthful, it was one of the most enjoyable presentations of the local Community Concert Association in a long time continual attendance. Miss Tynes made musical news overnight when she sang the title rols of Richard Strauss' "Salome" at the Festival of Two Worlds in Spoleto, Italy in the summer of 1961. Since that time she has been in steady demand throughout Europe both as a concert and operatic star. During the winter of 1961-62 she was the first American singer to be engaged to sing at the Budapest, Hungary Opera since the end of World War II. She has just returned to these shores in the last few days and is now commencing on her second Canadian-American tour, which, if last night's performance is any indication, will be a rollicking success in all its aspects.

Three selections by late 17th and early 18th century composers opened the recital. The Purcell, Alessandro Scarlatti and Piccini excerpts from early operas of these composers were all given their rendition by Miss Tynes from the tragic and lamentable "When I am Laid in Earth" from Dido and Aeneas" to the light and frothy "Se Florindo e Fedele". The seldom heard Scarlatti aria "Gia Il Ciel Mi Divide" by Piccini was a convincing item that rounded the first group off in epiomb and applause from singer and hearers.

Seven examples of 19th century German Lieder were given excellent voicings by Miss Tynes. What it was the delicate and tender phrases of 'Auch kleine Dinge" or humorous gaiety of "Mausfallen-Sprüchlein" both by Hugo Wolf, or the powerful intensity of "Hat dich die Liebe berührt" matched the nocturnal yearning of "Waldesliight", these latter two numbers from the pen of Joseph Marx, the soloist imbued each with a knowledge of loving endearment for the meaning of each song. The three works of Richard Strauss were likewise sung with a feeling of mixed emotions from the intense fervour of "Ruhe, meine Seele" through the majestic measures of "Zueignung" (One of the loveliest of all German Art Songs) to the joyful gustiness of "Kling." No one could cavil at all these profound interpretations so artfully put forth.

Miss Tynes possesses a voice that even though categorized as soprano does reach into the contralto range often, and when lowered into these more resonant depths produces a rich voice of beauty appeal. Such were the tones that emanated in various measures of Verdi's famed aria "O Patria mia" from "Aida" which was vociferated with a feeling of operatic stage reality. Miss Tynes puts herself completely into roles such as this and the end result is not only a great singer, but a fine act of characterization as well. In an area such as this both tremendous power and yet lightness of tonality were equally realized by the singer's voice.

After the intermission two Spanish Folk songs arranged by Manuel de Falla acted as balance weighs against the pair of Creole Folk songs arranged by Camille Nickerson, the entire four being presented by the artist with conviction and persuasive appeal. Three Negro Spirituals were entwined together into a vocal weaving of affection and dedication in the polished manner in which they were projected. The putting of three together is one medley is much preferred to the common practice of making three separate numbers of them as many singers are wont to do.

The final trio of offerings d were gathere from popular Broadway productions of years gone by. The tragic and heartbreaking "Suppertime" from "As Thousands Cheer" again attested to the acting ability of Miss Tynes in her compelling realization of same. The short and enticing Strawberry Vendor's Song from "Porgy and Bess" served quite admirably as penultimate to the stirring "You'll Never Walk Alone" from "Carousel," always a favorite and excitingly sung by Miss Tynes. To the very appreciative applause of the audience two encores were given, first, the Intermezzo of Mascagni's "Summertime" and then the regal passion of "Vissi d'arte" from Act II of Puccini's Tosca" by Puccini. These were two fitting finishers to a recital that could be typified as A-1 in every way.

Jonathan Brice, the accompanist added greatly to the program by his pianistic shadings that heightened the voice of the soloist. His Strauss and de Falla accompaniments were noteworthy, for romantic underthings in the former and semi-gypsy abandon in the latter.

Following the very enjoyable musical evening Miss Tynes and Mr. Brice along with the executive of the Association were entertained at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Donald M. Scott, 150 Dufferin Avenue.

Puppet Shows Put on by 14 Children

MONTREAL (CP) — Fourteen suburban St. Eustache children are picking up experience in the theatre and at the same time entertaining other children.

They are members of the Make - believe Theatre of St. Eustache sur le Lac, Que., which presents puppet shows for any children's organization requesting one.

The children design and build stage and scenery, fashion puppets and marionettes, use their own voices for characters and provide all sound and special effects.

"You'd be surprised at what some of these youngsters have in them," says theatre director A. D. McDermott. They are aged 10 to 15.

"At present, our repertoire consists of six plays, including such favorites as Rapunsel and Hansel and Gretel, which calls for the use of 100 different puppets and marionettes.

"Plans are being made to enable the youngsters to tape scripts in French so that they will be able to provide bilingual puppet shows."

Reject Charges Jesuit Priests Plotted to Overthrow Govt.

day lead Jesuits rdp bgt

MONTREAL (CP)—The Canadian Jesuit Thursday rejected charges that 16 Canadian Jesuit priests and brothers plotted to overthrow the government of Haitian President Francois Duvalier.

The priests and brothers arrived in Montreal by air Thursday, a day after their expulsion from the Caribbean Republic.

External Affairs Minister Martin called the Haitian charge d'affaires to his Ottawa office to express the Canadian government's "great dissatisfaction" with the expulsion of the priests and brothers.

Mr. Martin told the Haitian diplomat that Canada does not accept Haitian allegations that the Jesuits' activities were improper.

The allegations said the Jesuits "had a plan of general subversion looking to the overthrow of the regime," a Canadian source said.

The Jesuits also were accused of bringing into Haiti literary reviews of articles from the international press particularly offensive to the regime and members of the government.

NO MORE ACTION

No further steps were planned by the Canadian government in the matter.

In addition to those arriving in Montreal, two other Canadian Jesuits were expelled. They are waiting in the Dominican Republic for passage home by ship.

Between 400 and 500 Canadians, mostly missionaries, live in Haiti.

Mr. Martin said the Haitian actions were harsh, unjustified and arbitrary.

Rev. Gerard Goulet, 52, of Montreal, said on his arrival home that the charges of political activities were "false, of course, complete nonsense." Father Goulet was superior of the Canadian Jesuit mission in Haiti.

One priest, Rev. Paul Laramee, 51, of Montreal and Brother Francois-Xavier Rose, 43, of St. Luc de Lamothe, Que. were imprisoned for 13 days prior to their departure from Haiti Wednesday.

Father Goulet said he had anticipated "difficulties" at the mission since the expulsion by Haitian officials of two bishops and 12 priests from France two years ago.

Father Laramee, who managed a religious radio station run by the order, said the Duvalier government "seemed to think we were doing some political job, but there was absolutely nothing political about our work."

Premier Lesage Gives Answer To Separatism

QUEBEC (CP)—The legislative assembly heard a five-word denunciation of separatism from Premier Lesage Thursday night.

"It (separatism) would be a disaster," the premier said in a brief exchange with Opposition Leader Daniel Johnson.

Mr. Johnson suggested that if there is "separatism in the air" explaining the end we seek" the possibility of separatism would have to be considered.

The exchange came as the house waded through details of a bill which updates and simplifies the Companies Act, adopted in principle by unanimous vote.

Mr. Johnson said one of the articles of the bill was copied from section 125 of the similar legislation existed elsewhere in North America.

ARTICLE NECESSARY

He conceded the article is necessary in Quebec law, but it was an obvious case of surroundings influencing legislation.

"As long as we live in North America, I will not be easy to isolate ourselves in certain fields. Not everyone realizes that."

Countered Premier Lesage: "To isolate ourselves, perhaps," Mr. Johnson replied to a weekend speech by the premier who said Quebec cannot isolate itself from the rest of North America. Mr. Johnson said this "practically closed the door" to separatism as a last resort.

"That's clear," said Mr. Lesage.

Merchants Want Liquor Store Left in the Downtown Area

Merchants in downtown Belleville would like to see the Ontario government liquor store remain in the downtown Front Street area instead of being moved to a new location on Station Street as is currently planned.

The Ontario Liquor Control Board has purchased property on the south side of Station Street as a location for a proposed new liquor store. The site has been levelled and plans were to soon call tenders for construction of the new building.

But it seems that a Front Street visit in which Liquor Control Board inspectors were originally interested in, is now up for sale and merchants would like to see the liquor store remain in the downtown area.

The property in question is that immediately to the north of the Park Theatre which takes in a restaurant, barber shop and used car lot.

MANY WALK TO STORE

Local liquor vendor Glenn Thompson said he would like to see the liquor store remain in the downtown area.

"A lot of people walk to the store to purchase their requirements," he said.

Jack Ireland, chairman of the Downtown Merchants Association said he had received a number of calls from merchants asking what might be done about the Front Street location considered as a site for the liquor store.

"I have called a meeting of the downtown merchants for Monday morning to see if the interest in keeping the liquor store downtown is general and, if so, what might be done about it," Mr. Ireland said.

Box of Dried Bones Not Yet Identified

LILLOOET, B.C. (CP)—Someone, somewhere, knows the identity of Mr. "X"—a box of dried bones sitting on a shelf in the RCMP detachment in this Cariboo community.

Police have appealed to the public, seeking the name of the man whose dissected body was found 15 miles north of here 11 months ago by two Indian cowboys.

Laboratory tests on the remains show the man in life suffered a rare back injury and that he was murdered about two years ago.

Police say the killer stripped the victim of clothes, identification and personal belongings. He then ripped his victim to pieces, stuffing the remains in potato sacks.

Louis and Robert Joe, found sack containing two arms while herding cattle last March 25.

RCMP found two more, one containing a torso, the other thighs. Police surmise a fourth sack contained a head and the lower legs, but it has not been found.

Police say the man weighed about 177 pounds at death, stood about five-foot-10.

Examination showed the man suffered severe injury to the sixth dorsal and third lumbar vertebrae, probably causing him to walk with a stoop. Police believe the doctor who had treated Mr. X would remember, but a check of Canadian and American hospitals provided no clues.

RCMP said that once the man's identity is determined, little progress can be made toward solving the crime.

Not So Painful

Hon. James Noble Allan increased taxes in his Ontario budget on Wednesday.

Yet, in many quarters, Mr. Allan will be more warmly appreciated today than he was a week ago.

This is an almost unprecedented experience for a politician who has been forced to increase the size of the bite he imposes on his fellow-citizens' pocketbooks.

It results from the fact that Mr. Allan's bite has proven much less frightening than the barks which preceded it.

It was freely forecast that he would be obliged to increase a wide variety of taxes.

Instead he made only two jabs at the bank account, one a comparatively harmless two-cent boost on every gallon of gasoline, the other a more painful hike, over fifty per cent, in the amount of premiums for hospital insurance.

There was a third, and less defensible raid, an increase in the already exorbitantly high cut which the province gets from liquor sales. But this increase was announced prior to the budget and for that reason it is, quite unnecessarily, being considered as having no connection with it. Moreover, this is interpreted by a goodly number as a tax on sin, and as such to be applauded rather than deplored.

On the whole, though, even when the increase in liquor prices is considered, Ontario residents got off lighter than they had expected. The real question is whether they got off lighter than they deserved—whether the increased revenues are adequate to meet unavoidable increases in expenditure. The easy answer, that the budget provides for a surplus, can be deceiving. The trouble is that this is on "ordinary" account. It is possible to manufacture a surplus almost at will by transferring certain expenditures to "capital" account. That has been Ontario's trouble of late—its debt has been mounting steadily. Estimates show capital expenditure for 1936-37 estimated at $368,837,000, over $21,000,000 more than in the year 1935-36. Only a searchi study by an expert will indicate whether all these expenditures are justifiably charged to capital account, or whether we should be paying some of them as we go, out of ordinary revenue.

Of the two tax increases, that for hospital premiums is likely to draw the most criticism. The graph which appeared on The Ontario Intelligencer's front page on Thursday indicated that the "take" from gasoline tax will exceed highways expenditures by a large margin, but this is on ordinary account which, we repeat, is deceiving. Capital account shows estimated highways expenditures of over $213,000,000, approximately the same amount as the estimated total yield of the gasoline tax.

As for the increase in hospital premiums, it can only be attacked if one accepts the contention that care of the sick is a legitimate charge on the public purse and that the individual bears no responsibility for hospital bills, except as a taxpayer. Relatively few people will accept this viewpoint; the fact that hospital insurance is now paid through the government, rather than through some private agency such as Blue Cross, should not alter the principle so generally accepted a short time ago that the solvent individual ought to be prepared to pay for hospitalization just as he pays for transportation or housing.

Even with the increase in premiums, the government will have to subsidize the hospital scheme heavily out of taxes. The premium boost will merely restore the original position, in which these premiums met a third of the cost. The increase may be a shock—but we should not lose sight of the fact that these premiums are providing wider coverage than was offered by most private plans before the institution of the government scheme. Moreover, the scope of service is to be further broadened.

Consistent?

On the same day, courts in London and Boston ruled "Fanny Hill" is an obscene book.

The Boston ruling goes well with the history of Massachusetts. The Pilgrim Fathers would approve.

Britain, however, finds itself in the somewhat strange position of forbidding people to write about what they are permitted to do.

There is no law against being a woman of pleasure, but it is illegal to kiss and tell.

The terrible thing about dying is to vanish without having understood. The crime of death is not in killing us, but in conferring eternity on our anguish by cutting it off.—Jean Rostand.

Spain-Cuba Ties Close

New York Times

One of the most intriguing developments in Europe today is the growing relationship between France Spain and the Soviet Union, and if in line with Spain's open desire to trade with Castro Cuba.

These parties do not for one moment mean any weakening of Generalissimo Franco's international friendships with Britain. They are a reflection of Palmerston's interest opinion: "We have no perpetual allies and we have no perpetual enemies. Our interests are perpetual." After all, if Hitler and Stalin could get together, why not Franco and Khrushchev?

There are good reasons for Spain to build up trade and cultural relations with the Soviet bloc, and even, in time, diplomatic relations. Most other nations in the West, including our own, have done so. Spain has had some trade dealt with the U.S.S.R., Poland and Czechoslovakia in the past years, and there have been sports and cultural exchanges.

So far as Cuba is concerned, the United States would do well to remember the special and powerful sentimental and racial ties between the "Mother Country" and her lost island. Cuba is culturally Spanish. There are between 40,000 and 50,000 Spanish nationals in Cuba today. Hardly a Spanish family is without relatives in Cuba. Before the revolution the island was the Spanish Empire's last possession in the Western Hemisphere, had only in 1898.

If Spaniards take a sardonic pleasure nowadays in the United States' difficulties with Cuba, this is all too human. Britons, after Hitler came to power, felt a feeling the same way about the United States' dispute with Panama. Spain has sent many ships for Cuba in exchange for sugar. If the United States is really unhappy about the trend with the Castro regime could mean the loss of American access to it, there is a remedy in a duty answer. Spanish pride is as fierce in these days of national eclipse as it was in a greater era.

Hockeyists' School Bills

Niagara Falls Review

With education costs so high as a responsibility in the event of our Niagara Falls tax dollar on the subject of free tuition to out-of-town hockey players assumes importance.

There is no standard set across the country to govern the situation. The case in St. Thomas is one in point, where school trustees are to pay $2,000 which they claim should be paid to the municipality for the services given to out-of-town hockey players.

In contrast, Niagara Falls provides free tuition to the out-of-town members of its Junior A and Junior B clubs. Currently there are 19 of these children getting schooling here. The city applies for and receives, grants covering 40 percent of the tuition costs, which in round figures amounts to $200 per student. Taxpayers are putting up an additional $300, for each one.

Any municipality half a moral obligation to provide free education for all those who live in its midst. It is fair to assume that in each instance a local taxpayer's children are helping to support the education of that town's youth.

Hockey is a professional enterprise. It does not fit the category of the private resident who expects free education for a youth whom he might take into his home to help him.

If the operation of hockey necessitates importing players to a municipality, then such a town must unfair that such a hockey club should assume whatever local costs are entailed in educating those players.

Toronto Stocks

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market eased on 180 fronts in light morning trading today.

There was no definite trend on the industrial board. Papers were mixed to lower while chartered banks edged ahead slightly.

Three special size transactions helped brighten the picture—Consumers Gas traded a special size bloc of 10,000 shares at $11.25, Simpsons, Weston A 15,000 shares at $16 a share and Falconbridge 2,000 shares at $61.50 a share among base metals.

Speculative issues were generally unchanged. Noranda was up one cent to 33 cents on 54,500 shares. Northgate gained 10 cents to 63 cents and Chibb declined 12 cents to $1.03.

On index, the Exchange index dipped .05 to 141.05, golds .37 to 132.55, western oils .07 to 82.94 and base metals .01 to 61.37. Volume at 11 a.m. was 846,000 shares compared with 1,000,000 at the same time Thursday.

Several special size transactions marked an otherwise drab day Thursday.

Canadian Breweries was one of the heaviest traders on the board with a turnover of 150,000 shares. Others included three special size transactions of 25,500, 50,000, and 69,000 shares at $9.80 a share.

The issue, however, closed unchanged at 10.

Banks were stronger than they have been for several days. Montreal advanced ¼ and Nova Scotia, Royal and Toronto-Dominion ¼ each.

Elsewhere on the industrial board, steels softened, with Dominion Foundries and Steel off ¼, while utilities made gains. Bell Telephone up ½.

Candore was the most active speculative, off 5½ cents to 32 cents on 192,000 shares.

The exchange index was ahead .18 to 131.85, industrials .17 to 141.10, western oils .76 to 82.47, golds 1.07 to 132.92 and base metals were off .04 to 61.38. Volume for the day was 3,387,000 shares compared with 3,971,000 Wednesday.

Liquor Red-Hot Issue

By JACK PICKETTS

CHARLOTTETOWN (CP)—It isn't as hard to buy liquor on Prince Edward Island as it was five years ago, but the law still does not permit public cocktail lounges or taverns and that's a red-hot issue on the island today.

The issue seems to have been brought to a head this week by a county court decision that refused to restore a liquor permit to a private club.

The club's licence had been revoked earlier because minors had been served.

There are about 60 of these private clubs on the island, supposedly serving liquor to members only. In some, such as Canadian Legion branches, golf and curling clubs, the liquor is incidental to other activities.

But others would be hard put to find an airtight excuse for existence for any other reason but to serve liquor. Anyone can become a member by paying a membership fee, usually about $2.

MAY BE ILLEGAL

The decision by Judge C. St. Clair Trainor in Queens County court intimated that operation of all clubs selling liquor openly to members is illegal.

The Act based in Section 28 of the province's Liquor Control Act which in effect states that no person other than the government can sell liquor to any person.

The province's 1948 Temperance Act, since renamed the Liquor Control Act, originally prohibited the sale of liquor by the quart a week. This has since been repealed, and islanders can now buy all they want from government stores if they buy a 26 annual individual permit.

Clubs have been operating under a special permit, allowing the applicant to purchase liquor "for the purpose named in the permit."

Until recently clubs and organizations operating under such permits were largely unknown to the general public. Now they are operating more openly.

The government isn't sure yet what it will do. Attorney-General Alban Farmer said the government has the power to license clubs selling liquor under consideration.

Premier Shaw intimates he wants to see a survey made.

Drug Recalled From Market By Producer

TORONTO (CP)—Supplies of a drug used to give better x-ray pictures have been recalled by the Toronto pharmaceutical manufacturer following reports linking it to more than a dozen deaths in the United States.

The drug, Orabilex, a capsule which is swallowed, makes the gall bladder show up on x-ray film.

The Food and Drug Administration in Washington said Wednesday the firm that distributed the drug in the U.S. had taken it off the market.

A similar request for withdrawal was made by the food and drug directorate in Ottawa. Canada usually follows the U.S. lead in such cases.

The CFDA approved the drug for sale in 1958, but reports from doctors and hospitals linking Orabilex with deaths and in some cases, kidney injury, spurred the U.S. action.

Louis D. Craig, president of Bell-Craig Limited, Canadian manufacturer of Orabilex, said the company is running additional tests and he feels the drug will be cleared Feb. 3, will soon be reinstated by the food and drug directorate.

Judge May Appear as Govt. Witness

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) — The judge who tried James R. Hoffa for conspiracy in 1962 may appear today as a government witness in the Teamsters president's jury tampering trial.

The government asked U.S. District Judge William E. Miller of Nashville to tell about his dismissal of a juror at the start of that trial. The government plans to end its three-week-old case against the president of the International Teamsters Union today.

The jury-tampering charges on which Hoffa, who is 51 today, and five others are being tried here result from that 1962 trial—which ended in a deadlocked jury.

A number of defence motions and arguments remained to be disposed of by U.S. District Judge Frank Wilson before the government actually rests its case. Hoffa's lawyers do not expect an open date before Monday.

Miller called the 1962 meeting in his office to tell lawyers in the conspiracy trial that juror James C. Tippens had reported the offer of a $10,000 bribe.

DEFENCE PROTESTS

Tippens, a Nashville insurance man, testified Thursday over bitter defence protests that what he said was the "rankest hearsay."

Under conditions laid out by Judge Wilson, Tippens told of being accosted tentatively on the jury, of a conversation with Lawrence W. Medlin and then of his meeting with Judge Miller.

"I simply told Judge Miller I felt unqualified to serve on the jury," Tippens said.

Tippens was not permitted to tell the jury details of his conversation with Medlin—a Nashville sandwich maker indicted at the same time as Hoffa. Medlin is scheduled to be tried at Nashville later.

In a statement released by the court at the conclusion of the 1962 trial, Tippens said Medlin offered him $10,000 to $100 bills if he would vote for Hoffa's acquittal.

Judge Miller refused to allow that testimony because it was made outside the presence of Hoffa and his five co-defendants—and thus was hearsay under the law.

Pres. of Firm Slain, Bandits Take Payroll

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP) — The president of a firm of readymix contractors died in hospital early today, eight hours after he was shot at his office by armed and masked bandits who stole a water-front payroll.

Hugh S. Gregory, 63, had been rushed to hospital following the supper-hour shooting in the offices of H. S. Gregory and Sons Limited.

A son, Alexander, 44, was slugged with a pistol in a scuffle with the three thieves and left unconscious. He suffered cuts, bruises and shock.

New Brunswick police authorities spread out in search of two men, one in his late 20s and the other about 40, both older. Maine border authorities were put on the alert during the night, and in Woodstock Wesley J. VanWart of Saint John had every available policeman on duty as the city was systematically combed.

The robbers vanished with an undetermined amount of cash scooped from a box in Mr. Gregory's office. The payroll was to have been handed out today.

They left four female employees and a bridgeman who was looking for back pay tied up in the company offices. Witnesses said the men wore hoods or stocking-like masks.

Police said Mr. Gregory was shot in the side by one of the men, who burst into his inner office and fired almost immediately. The gun was fired when he tackled the bandits. A .32-calibre slug was found on the main floor of the office.

The men fled after ripping telephones from the office walls and smashing glass.

LOVE WINS OUT

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—"I love him and he loves me," said Mrs. Lea Eigart, during a court that her bandleader husband had beaten her. Mrs. Eigart, 21, who was taken unconscious to a Miami Hospital with two black eyes and body bruises, told a justice of the peace: "I must have been sleeping and passed out. . . . I fell off the bed and hit my head." Police charges were dismissed.

Blacks Treated 'Like Animals' Says Student

LONDON (CP) — Communist China is wooing the African with soft - spoken assurances that she understands the problems of a colored skin. But how much do Africans believe her?

One who went to see life in Peking for himself came back with the bleak truth that black men were treated "like animals." He became convinced "we Africans must civilize the Chinese, not vice versa."

Now Emmanuel John Hevi, 31, has written a book called An African Student in China. It's a bitter indictment of racialism and oppression as bad as anything Africa had formerly blamed on the white supremacists.

Hevi found that, far from Marxist equality, Africans were forbidden to associate with Chinese women and debarred from some shops and hotels, insultingly treated in others.

He was shocked, too, at cradle - to - grave indoctrination, the class structure in the supposedly classless society, the wretched poverty of the masses and the continual, cynical exploitation of the individual by the state machine.

"The kind of system I saw practised in China is an insult at once to the body and mind. . . . God forbid that the people of any part of Africa should ever have to suffer the abject humiliation which is now the lot of the masses in China."

Beatle Trouble

GLASGOW (AP) Forty girls went on strike today screaming Yeah, Yeah, Yeah. They struck for the right to wear a picture of one of their favorite Beatles.

Nan Reid, 18, was wearing a picture of George Harrison, one of the Liverpool group of singers now in United States. She had tucked the large photograph in her overall.

John Milne, manager of the cardboard box factory where Nan works, told her to "get rid of the Beatle." He said the photograph was in danger of catching in the machines. Nan refused to obey and walked out in a huff. Forty girls walked out with her.

They marched to the striking chant of Yeah, Yeah, Yeah, to union headquarters and presented their case.

"There will be discussions at a high level," said a girl spokesman.

Dan Chisholm, organizer for the Transport and General Workers Union, listened to the girls and began negotiations with Milne.

EASTER VISITS OFFERED

BERLIN (AP) — The East German government said Thursday night it is willing to reopen the Berlin wall during the Easter and Whitsun holidays to West Berliners who want to visit their family in the Soviet sector of the city. Easter Sunday is March 29 this year and Whitsun is seven weeks later.

Money to Burn

CHELMSFORD, England (AP)—Handling money every day as a cashier proved too much for Mrs. Joan Rogers. He burned £685 ($1,385) in £5 notes in the basement of his office.

"I could not stand the sight of money any longer and had to burn it," he told his boss as he showed him a waste-paper basket full of ashes.

In court Thursday, Rogers, 40 and the father of two, pleaded guilty to larceny. He was placed on probation for two years.

Rogers earns £735 a year as a cashier in the treasurer's department of Essex County council.

"It just gets you," he said. "You go on counting money day after day and it means nothing to you. You don't think of it in terms of money. You don't think of it as belonging to anyone."

A psychiatrist said Rogers acted because of frustration caused by overwork.

Propose Boom To Prevent Huge Ice Jams

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP) Two power agencies proposed Thursday construction of a 12,000-foot-long boom at the outlet of Lake Erie to prevent massive ice jams in the Niagara River.

The boom would cost $500,000, the N.Y. State Power Authority and the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission said.

James A. Fitzpatrick, power authority chairman, and W Ross Strike, Ontario Hydro chairman, told a press conference the boom would "help to alleviate severe ice conditions which are a yearly problem in the river."

Huge cakes of ice flow from the lake into the river and over the falls. They often pile up at the water intakes of the power agencies, forcing a reduction in the production of electricity.

Fitzpatrick and Strike said it was planned to erect the boom at the close of the navigation season and remove it in the spring.

MADE OF TIMBERS

The boom would be made of large timbers connected by steel cables and held in place by anchors 400 feet apart. It would extend about one mile each side of the international boundary.

Its purpose would be to keep ice cakes from swirling into the river.

The power agencies said they would ask the International Joint Commission, which regulates use of boundary water, for permission to construct the boom about three miles above the Peace Bridge linking Buffalo and Fort Erie, Ont.

If the boom were successful, it probably would prevent the giant ice buildups in the lower Niagara river, below the falls. At present, the ice rises in some places to a height of 70 feet.

Some of the ice damages river-front property annually.

FORESTING HALTED

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. Both sides indicated extra time might permit them to reach a permanent solution to the picketing problem which halted construction here for two days earlier this week.

president as "very good and very useful," an estimate which was supported by the private comments of officials on both sides.

Although Thursday's joint communique mentioned only points on which Sir Alec and Johnson agreed, both sides conceded there were issues on which the British leader put it at a later press conference—"differences in emphasis" exist. They were trade with Cuba and trade with and credits to Communist countries. British views on trade are Hirshhead and, as Douglas-Home put it, does not believe in boycotts.

The two leaders and their foreign policy chiefs, Foreign Secretary Richard A. Butler and State Secretary Dean Rusk, devoted most of their time not to old and familiar problems, such as Berlin, disarmament or NATO headaches, but to the crisis in Cyprus.

H. S. Board May Obtain Administrator

PICTON (Staff) — According to a statement from Herbert J. Colliver vice - chairman of the Prince Edward District High School Board, word has been received that Mr. J. C. Thommon, Secretary Ontario Association of School Business Officials, and also Business Administrator of The Lakeshore Board of Education, Toronto, together with Mr. Jack Huggins, Business Administrator of the Central Peel High School Board, of Brampton, will address a special meeting of the local High School Board on Wednesday February 19th at 7.30 p.m.

The special meeting was scheduled in respect to the hiring of a full time Secretary-Treasurer-Administrator for the Prince Edward High School.

It is anticipated that both men will speak to the Board on the functions, duties, and importance of such a person, which will be followed by, a question and answer period.

Questioned by the Intelligencer as when such a man would be hired, Mr. Colliver said, "I am of the opinion that an ad for this man should be placed imm-diately after this special meeting. To my way of thinking, we should have an administrator as soon as possible.

"The person selected should be of the highest calibre, he should have a bookkeeping and accountancy background, combined with solid business sense. He should also be familiar with purchasing in all of its aspects," he added.

"It is an accepted and proven fact that when a High School reaches the point where there are 50 teachers, as we have now, that a qualified and competent administrator can save his salary in purchasing alone, and this is only a small portion of his duties," Mr. Colliver concluded.

Car Hits Tree, Woman Suffers Broken Leg

PICTON — One woman is in Prince Edward Memorial Hospital with a broken leg suffered in one of three accidents which occurred in the county yesterday due to the very slippery road conditions.

Mrs. Frances Gaylord, 42, of R.R. 4, Picton, suffered a broken lower right leg when a stationwagon driven by her husband, Edward A. Gaylord, 47, left the road and struck a tree, 12 miles south east of Picton.

Mrs. Gaylord escaped the accident unharmed, His automobile was considered a complete write-off.

At 8.15 p.m., John Fraser of Northport was driving north on highway 41 when he drove into the back of a parked truck owned by David H. Vanzeser of R.R. 2 Picton, which had been left parked on the shoulder of the road with no lights or flares.

Damage to the two automobiles was estimated at approximately $500. Fraser suffered minor lacerations to his forehead. Police are continuing their investigation.

Damage was estimated at $250 on Thursday afternoon when a car being driven north on King Street in Picton, by Mrs. C. Webster, skidded into the side of a parked car whose owner as yet (this morning) remains unknown.

Police said Mrs. Webster pulled to the right of the street to avoid an oncoming car and skidded into the parked vehicle. Police investigated the accident and took note on the windshield of the parked car for the driver. The accident occurred within a short distance of the police station.

gold coins would be eagerly sought by foreign collectors, particularly in the U.S., perhaps at premium prices which would be a new source of American funds for Canada.

He suggested a series of perhaps three gold coins, in $10, $15 and $25 denominations, making a set for collectors. The smaller coins might be minted in greater numbers than the largest, which would rapidly become a collectors' item while the smaller coins would be more general as keepsakes.

CAN PRODUCE COINS

A spokesman for the mint said it can produce the coins if the government decision is favorable, but the decision is a political one for the government to make.

The Centennial Commission has endorsed the issue of a centenary medallion for distribution to school children in 1967. No decision has been made on the design other than a recommendation that it should include a representation of the Canadian flag, assuming one is designated by 1967.

The medal to be used in the medallion is still undecided. It can be produced by the mint or by private firms which have equipment for turning out medallions in large quantities.

Other authorities said that if the government decides to issue a gold coin, a decision should be made soon and a national contest held for its design.

apartment. He said he denied any knowledge of the break-in and had turned back into his apartment when he felt a blow on the head.

'STARTED SWINGING'

"So I turned around and started swinging," said the 20-year-old younger Williams, who was subdued and taken to the police station.

He said he saw his brother later being dragged unconscious into the station between two other policemen. When he tried to go to him he was grabbed and Const. Hand "smoked me until I went down on my knees." He said he woke up in a cell.

Const. Harold Johnston, who accompanied Const. Gunn to the Williams apartment, testified he saw the other policeman swinging his night stick and "believe his stick struck William Williams."

Dr. T. E. Hodgkiss, who examined the unconscious William Williams at the police station, said he noted dilated pupils, indicating brain damage, and immediately ordered removal to hospital.

Dr. M. D. Thorp said the man's IQ was just above that of a moron with the mental age of an eight-year-old. Williams was unconscious for two weeks and in hospital for four months where treatment included brain surgery.

and order in Cyprus and create conditions for a settlement."

Foreign Minister Spyros Kyprianou saw him off.

There was no reaction to the blast issued in Washington sources that Makarios wants an international peace force of British commonwealth nations excluding American soldiers.

Cyprus has been a Commonwealth member since Independence from Britain in 1960.

WANTS UN CONTROL

Presidential palace sources said the bearded Greek-Cypriot leader still was insisting that any international force be under control of the UN Security Council. A government spokesman said a Cypriot delegation remained ready to speed to New York and ask Security Council intervention.

Hall again delayed his departure from Cyprus to hold talks with Makarios for the third straight day. He then will visit Greece and Turkey again. The two nations have treaties to defend Cyprus from aggression.

Greece and Turkey keep small garrisons on Cyprus for that purpose.

Turkey is determined to protect the Turkish-Cypriot minority, which charges Makarios wants to curb its rights by constitutional changes. These set off the fighting that began last Christmas and brought in more British troops as a truce forces.

The cease - fire reached after savage fighting Thursday at Limassol on the south coast restored relative calm in this eastern Mediterranean island.

Sporadic shooting was reported, however, in the western coast city of Paphos this morning and there was an unconfirmed report one Turkish Cypriot was killed.

Police in Limassol reported today that the city was quiet during the night as the British-arranged cease-fire still was in effect. At least 16 Turks and one Greek were killed and more than 30 Turks were wounded, according to the British Army. The Greek wounded was not determined.

But the Greek - Cypriot - controlled Cyprus Broadcasting Corporation station was reporting 50 Turks killed and 100 wounded. Both British and Turkish authorities discount this, however.

TAKES COMMAND

British Maj.-Gen. Richard Carver was expected here from Britain today to review the situation before taking over command of the tripartite truce force on Cyprus from Maj.-Gen. Peter Young, who returns to his duties as commander of the Cyprus district.

Two hundred British officers and other ranks arrive tonight to give what the army says will be assistance in the event of any further evacuation of British service or civilian families from the island, and also to give support and relief to headquarters personnel of the truce force who have been on duty continuously since the fighting broke out during Christmas.

The battle at Limassol raged for five hours. At the end, after another cease-fire was arranged by British troops, the white, yellow and green flag of Cyprus fluttered from Turkish strongholds. The 6,000 Turkish - Cypriots of Limassol—there are 31,000 Greek-Cypriots in the city—were surrounded in the maze of narrow streets.

Young and both sides agreed to remove illegal fortifications and strongpoints. The Turks had established machine-gun nests in a smart new restaurant and a small hospital.

When Men Fear Sanity

Psychology reveals to us that personality is much more complex than most of us imagine. As one of the poets has said, in each of us there is a crowd. We have tendencies both to be proud and to be humble, to be arrogant and penitent. With the same self love we love our friends and hate our enemies. It is as if many people live inside us, now one in control, again another in control.

COMPLEX BEINGS

In the very same chapter, Jesus refers to Simon as Peter and Satan. Which was the real Simon? Both were. Simon did have in him the qualities of an apostle, but he could also let himself be used for evil purposes. This is our problem, too. We can be saint or sinner. We can lok pious and yet harbor evil thoughts. At one and the same time, we are members of a family, a worker, a lover of sports, a citizen, a religious or irreligious person. We remember the past, live in the present, and anticipate the future. We can be complex beings. In a sense, our name also is "Legion," meaning that many factors and tendencies live in each one of us.

Most of us can control our thoughts and inclinations. We have normal fears, but we do not let them get out of hand. We may have secret delusions of grandeur, but we do not go around imagining we are Napoleon. While many people, however, something goes wrong. Some physical or psychological injury results in mental or emotional imbalance. Instead of being sick in body they are sick in mind. Previous articles are being made in ministering to such people. Where the fear of self is not aroused, often cures are affected by medical and psychological attention.

The Uniform Sunday School lesson for February 16: "The Gadarene Demoniac (Temperance)," Luke 8: 26-39.

In Jesus' day there were no mental hospitals. Insane people seemed like people possessed by devils or evil spirits. Such person lived in Gadara People lived in fear of him. They bound him with chains, but his power was so strong he broke them. They closed their doors and hearts against him, but this poor man lived naked in a tomb in the cemetery, a victim of devils seemed to live in him.

Perhaps today we would call these devils delusions, obsessions, complexes, fears, feelings of guilt. Whether of psychological or demonic nature, there were so many devils in him, people called him "Legion," meaning "many." Jesus' order whatever was bothering him to come out of him. At Jesus' voice the healing came, and the man sat at Jesus' feet, "clothed and in his right mind."

PIGS VERSUS PEOPLE

In the course of the healing, a strange thing happened. Some pigs rushed over a cliff and were drowned in the sea. When the owners of the pigs came out, they were frightened and incensed. A tormented man had been healed, but their pigs were gone. And thinking more of their property loss than the wonderful cure of the man, they begged Jesus to "depart from them."

Times haven't changed. Today millions of lives are tormented by alcoholism, but those whose pockets are filled by the liquor traffic tell the church to "preach the gospel" and let them alone. Pornographic thoughts rob many a youth of peace of mind, and fill his life with devils of guilt. Still, like the demoniac, many resist spiritual help, and cry out arrogantly: "What have we to do with thee, Jesus, thou Son of God?" Still Christ remains the great Healer. Devils of guilt and despair and self-condemnation are cast out when they come to Him speak. Instead of feeling naked before God, through repentance and faith, men can go clothed with assurances and joy in His presence.

AFRAID OF SANITY

When the people of the village saw that the man had been healed, we are told they were afraid. Here is a strange turn to the story. A man haled, and yet they were afraid. Afraid of sanity! The burden of the armaments race gets heavier every day. Yet men hate this for nations to do is to disarm, but we are afraid of sanity. Justice for all, regardless of race, would seem to be the only way for people to live, but millions reject such sanity.

A life of temperance and self-discipline, a life of devotion to God and friendship toward one's neighbor — surely this is the only sane way to live. Yet we are afraid — afraid it will miss some fun — afraid it will cost us too much to follow Jesus — afraid we'll lose our sense of superiority if we treat all men as our equals. So we contribute to the insanity of the world. To many, Jesus' way seems idealistic and impractical. It is the only way, and the only sane way for men to live.

Former Galt Girl Now Paints Fake Old Masters

GALT, Ont. (CP)—Fake old masters complete with cracks and worm holes are being painted in New York by a former Galt girl.

Barbara Mercer works on commission for a gallery called Fabulous Fakes. Under the direction of the gallery owners, she copies famous paintings and they're sold—as fakes.

"It's like being back at school," Miss Mercer says. "I'm learning the techniques of the masters. Right now I'm working on a copy of a Russian icon, painted in tempera on wood.

"When I've finished, it will be sprayed to make the paint crack, gouged to make worm holes, and sold as a fake."

One of her suggestions was adopted by the gallery. She paints portraits commissioned by living subjects in the manner of the masters. A portrait of a woman customer might be done in Dutch or Italian Renaissance style. A school boy might be turned into a latter-day Blue Boy.

THREE SHOWS

Miss Mercer has been visiting Galt and Toronto because she had shows in both cities. And her own sketches and monoprints will be included in a group show in a Madison Avenue gallery in Manhattan this month.

Miss Mercer got her first encouragement in Galt where her teacher, G. L. Gluhbin, entered her sketch of a horse's head in the fall fair exhibit without her knowledge. It won first prize.

Much of the work in her shows at the Galt Public Library and the Gallery Pascal in Toronto was done when she lived in Toronto. The work includes sketches of musicians and actors at work, and one of these, a drawing of composer Igor Stravinsky, has been donated to her hometown library. The rest of the show is made up of mono-prints based on a visit to a mental hospital in North Bay, Ont.

"My career has been developing so fast in the past years I can hardly believe it," she says. But things haven't always been so smooth. She recalls that when she arrived in New York six months ago her income for three weeks came to $7.50. It was earned doing sidewalk portrait sketches at $2 each and she lived largely on peanut butter sandwiches until her luck took a turn for the better.

Church Not Opposed to Birth Control

TORONTO (CP)—Lady Rama Rau, president of the International Planned Parenthood Federation, says the Roman Catholic Church in India is not strongly opposed to birth control programs.

Speaking at a press conference, she said:

"Of course, the priests may say what they like within the church. But they are certain that to carry on a public campaign against the program would put them in disfavor with the government."

She said India, with a population of 440,000,000 and a steadily increasing birth rate, is concentrating more and more on education of men as an effective means of control.

Robert W. Prittie, NDP member of Parliament for Burnaby-Richmond, said he intends to continue his fight to legalize birth control in Canada.

Mr. Prittie, who with Lady Rama Rau was interviewed before a meeting of the Toronto Planned Parenthood Association, is author of a private bill to legalize birth control in Canada.

Approval of the bill, he said, would make it legal to sell, advertise or give advice on the use of contraceptives. The bill, introduced last May, will be reintroduced during the session opening next week.

Mr. Prittie objected to what he said was Criminal Code prohibition on contraceptive data because "it is an attempt to legislate moral and, as such, is an intrusion on what should be a private affair with the family."

He said the law prevents public agencies such as hospitals and welfare agencies from offering birth control information to families where it is needed.

He personally believes opposition from the Roman Catholic Church to birth control in Canada is over-estimated.

Mr. Dowling said in an interview the estimate is based on attendance at courses the association has been conducting in the last few months for new members of some 25 real estate boards.

Ann Landers

Replying to Compliment Difficult for Tongue-Tied

ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS — What is the right thing to say when someone tells you they think your boy friend is very good-looking?

This happens to me all the time and I am stuck for an answer. Sometimes I just say, "Thank you." Lately I have been saying, "Yes, I know he is." Neither one of these answers seems right.

I realize this is not a very important problem compared with some you get, but it has been causing me a lot of trouble and I would appreciate any help you can give me. Thank you — TONGUE TIED GIRL.

• • • • •

DEAR GIRL — Untie your tongue and say: "Yes, he's good-looking, but it's much more important that he's such a fine person."

And if he doesn't happen to be a fine person, you might say, "He is a lot of fun . . ." or something closer to the truth.

• • • • •

DEAR ANN LANDERS — I'm another one of those "crazy" wives who telephones her husband at the office several times a day. If my husband's secretary is driven to distraction by my "nutty" calls, well, that's just too bad. She'd better quit and go to work for a bachelor or a married man who is not a worrier.

My husband used to get into his car and drive home in the middle of the day to see why I didn't answer the phone. It never occured to him that I could be in the bathtub, outside emptying the trash, sweeping the walk or just talking to a neighbor. He just assumed the house burned down or that I had a horrible accident in the kitchen and was lying unconscious on the floor.

The dear man can't seem to conquer the worry habit, so I make it a practice to let him know whenever I wander outside ear-shot of the phone. This may seem silly to his secretary but it's terribly important to her boss.

Thank you for listening to the other side of the story — ANOTHER TELEPHONE FEST.

• • • • •

DEAR T.P. — Thank you for "the other side." I've said it before, but once more won't hurt. The telephone calls between a husband and wife are strictly their own business. If the wife makes a nuisance of herself — and some of them unquestionably do — it's up to her husband to tell her.

• • • • •

DEAR ANN LANDERS — I know my mother means well but she is ruining all my friendships. I will be 15 soon and I can't afford to go through life without friends.

The trouble with my mother is that she wants to run everybody's life. Before she got married she was a lieutenant in the WAC and she has been giving orders ever since.

Last week the lieutenant told one of my girlfriends her posture was awful and she should stand straight and hold her chin up. I almost died of embarrassment. The next day she told another friend that her blouse was too dressy for school. The girl felt just awful because she had spent one whole weekend sewing beads on that blouse and she thought it looked beautiful.

Yesterday she told my very dearest friend her hair looked like a haystack and to cut it off and stop bleaching it.

What can I do about this problem? — ELOISE.

DEAR ELOISE — Your mother means well but she doesn't realize your girl friends are far more sensitive to her criticism than she imagines. Ask her to go easy on your friends — and if you think it will help tell her Colonel Landers suggested it.

SPEAKING OF MANNERS BY PATRICIA LEWIS

WHAT'S YOUR E. Q.?

How are you at greeting people? Do you exhibit warmth and interest, or do you merely go through the formalities automatically?

Let's see:

1. When you're the hostess, do you greet guests at the door with a warm smile and handshake?
2. When introduced, do you try to remember names correctly?
3. When you're on a receiving line, do you say something gracious to each guest, instead of offering only a limp handshake?
4. Do you take time to greet your children's guests in the cheerful word of welcome?
5. In the office, are you cordial and correct in the type of welcome you give to callers?
6. When introduced to someone, do you pay attention to what he is saying, instead of looking over his shoulder to see who else is around?
7. If you can't remember a person's name, do you refuse to repeat it, so he knows you're genuinely interested in establishing who he is?
8. Do you try to start a conversation immediately with someone you've just met, instead of turning your back or coldly walking away?
9. After meeting a newcomer, do you make sure he meets others in the group, as well?
10. When introduced to an elderly person, do you make time to sit and chat for a while, instead of immediately dashing off to join a younger, more vivacious group in the room?

Thai Women Do Not Rely on Modern Drugs

BANGKOK (Reuters)—Many Thai women rely on amulets instead of modern drugs to relieve the pain of childbirth.

The amulets have long been associated with superstitions about the dangers of pregnancy.

One amulet, called the "trakrud," is a thin strip of metal engraved with magic incantations. Another is the "pimol"—a palm leaf folded into a square with charms written on it, tied up with thread and fastened to the body.

With these amulets, a pregnant woman can ward off natural disasters, if an accident occurs, it is the work of the "pi pral," that is, the ghost of a woman who died in pregnancy.

GHOSTLY TROUBLE

This ghost is considered the most powerful of all. Its main purpose is to cause trouble for pregnant women.

In Thailand, many superstitions are attached to pregnancy. A prospective mother must not see another woman giving birth. This may make her baby shy and when the time for delivery comes, it will refuse to appear.

She is forbidden to tell lies, to kill animals, to go fishing or to nail or pin anything. She must not see any item such as the mouth of a pillow, for this may close the baby's exit.

For the same reason, she must not stand, sleep or sit in a doorway.

She may not pause on the stairs, for this can cause the baby to pause on its way into the world.

The only time that she may use scissors is during an eclipse of the sun or moon, to prevent the unborn child from being cross-eyed or deformed. A harelip, supposed to resemble the eclipsed sun or moon, is especially feared.

AVOIDS UGLINESS

A Thai woman in a family way lets no one ugly or weak stay close behind her as her child may be infected by these characteristics. She looks at beautiful things, so that the child will be handsome.

Exercise in pregnancy is important. Pounding rice and carrying water are recommended, to strengthen the stomach muscles and ensure that the baby is born easily.

The golden lotus, which abounds in Thailand, plays a key role in the idea of pregnancy. Many woman take home the lotus offered to the Buddha at pagodas. They boil it and eat it to strengthen their child and also as a remedy for morning sickness.

I.O.D.E. Hears Of Jamboree

CAMPBELLFORD — Seymeyade Chapter, I.O.D.E., held its annual dinner at St. John's Auditorium on Tuesday evening. About 125 members and guests were present.

Guest speaker at the evening was Queen's Scout Dwight Bennett, who was one of ten boys chosen from the region between Lakefield and Belleville to attend the World Scout Jamboree in Greece in 1963. There were 16,000 Scouts representing 85 nations at this jamboree. The Canadian delegation had 350 Queen's Scouts. Mr. Bennett showed pictures of his trip and gave a fine commentary.

Musical numbers were given by two groups, one a teen-age group of high school girls, daughters of Semenyde Chapter members under the direction of Mrs. Donald Bennett and the other a double trio, including Mrs. J. Meeks, Mrs. A. Whitfield, Mrs. William Craighead, Mrs. R. B. Bennett, Mrs. Jack Bennett and Miss Carol MacArthur.

The guest speaker was introduced by Mrs. R. B. Bennett and thanked by Mrs. F. M. Rutherford.

The retiring regent, Mrs. G. Vice, was presented with a gift by Mrs. W. Kingston.

KING GEORGE

The February meeting of King George Home and School Association was held on Monday with parents being able to visit the rooms and teachers of their respective children.

Miss B. Makar of the Children's Aid Society of Hastings spoke on the "Recognition of Emotionally Disturbed Children" — how one can recognize this in younger children and how to try to help them. She stated the emotional development and behavior is learned early in life, breaking this down into three different patterns. In older children emotional disturbances show up in which different ways, stating that emotional attitude of parents to each other, emotional attitude of parents toward the child and the philosophy of how to bring the child up were main factors and in order to give these children a sense of security, discipline and consistency are important.

A open discussion followed Miss Makar's address in which many parents participated.

"ANOTHER SNEAK PREVIEW"

Miss Judy Johnston, chooses a gown from Rachael's, of lovely simplicity. This season's colors of pinks and soft greens are so feminine.

This and many other fashions will be shown at the annual "FANTASY IN FASHIONS", sponsored by the W.A. Medical Society, at B.C.I. Auditorium, Wednesday, February 26th, 1964.

Inside Out New Fashion In Footwear

Feminine footwear fashions flip "inside out" this spring. Women will mix and match leather lining colors and textures to create leather shades and finishes in new shoes.

The popularity of this new fashion direction was underscored at a pre-season showing in New York by Shoe Fashion Service of Leather Industries. About equally favored in the collection of over 500 shoe styles were leather linings that took their cue directly from the outer leather and those which contrasted with the basic leather, color. Another important innovation was the combining of soft suede leather linings with polished leather shoes and vice versa.

The use of soft pastel colors in leather linings — from rose pink to ice blue — spread this year from evening pumps to daytime spectators, pumps and sling-backs. With the new shoes more open to view, women become more conscious of the overall picture of new shoes.

WHITE LININGS

White leather linings will be seen quite often, chiefly in all-white or combination spectators. Black and gold leather linings are more popular in late day and evening shoes.

The sale of warm weather, of course, makes genuine leather linings a must for comfort. Every shoe is composed of a collection of natural fibres, if shoes are to maintain to evaporate and fresh air to enter right through the sides of the shoe. When the lining is genuine leather, it builds a barrier to the exchange of moisture and odor, and keeps your foot is wet and warm.

Because leather linings are packed with supple leathy, uppers and flexible leather soles — offer an assist in preserving the shape of the shoe. They help create and hold the look of spring's slender silhouette. Soft colored leather lining gives "body" without weight to the leather upper which is drawn out finely to lend new slim silhouette.

The soft, wrinkle-free leather lining is a budget stretcher, too. Its very smoothness safeguards stocking feet at "wear points". No snag can travel up from shoes whose inside seams are lined leather.

Honored With Beautiful Gifts

On Wednesday evening 40 Alliance Church women gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alf Rodgers, 30 Holloway St., in honor of the one-month-old chosen son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Allan, of Octavia Street, and to present the new mother with a host of lovely baby gifts.

Mrs. Sackville Palmer and Mrs. J. Chumbley had charge of the evening's activities which consisted of a number of interesting games.

Following the games a social get-together was enjoyed after which the hostess, assisted by Miss Rhea Green, carried in a pretty blue and white basinet filled to over-flowing with many beautifully wrapped gifts, placing them before the new mother.

After the various parcels had been unwrapped and duly admired by all, a bonnet-shaped from the lovely blue and white rosettes which had adorned the presents, was presented to Mrs. Allan along with a ceremonial rose and silver rosette corsage with long streamers.

Mrs. Allan, on behalf of her husband — who was at home baby-sitting — and herself, extended a heart-felt appreciation to all for their kindness, and for the beautiful gifts received.

Refreshments of tea, coffee, sandwiches and cake were served.

Women Save Sin King God Industry!

By JAMES HUSSEY
Canadian Press Correspondent

CROW HEAD, Nfld. (CP) — The women of this tiny settlement on Twillingate Island in Notre Dame Bay may be leading the way to a revival of Newfoundland's light-salted cod fish industry.

The fishermen of Crow Head have managed to get their womenfolk back to a job that once was vitally necessary to the island's economy — drying the fish.

To do this the men came up with a simple way of curing fish. Instead of the back-breaking work of spreading and turning the light-salted fish on platforms made of poles and covered with spruce boughs known as flakes, the fish is hung on racks and turned in the sun.

Women drifted away from the work after Newfoundland became a province in 1949 and family allowances and old age pensions became available.

Consequently, with the men busy catching fish and no one left to dry it, the light-salted fish fell off. In recent years the province has exported mainly heavy-salted or the pickled, unsalted variety.

PRICES ARE GOOD

A fishery conference in St. John's last fall was told that since women had left the fishery it was difficult to obtain enough light-salted fish despite the fact Spanish buyers were willing to pay top prices.

Another incentive for women to return to fish-drying is that they now are paid employees of the local fishermen's cooperative and thus are eligible for unemployment insurance benefits.

Crow Head is not the only place where women are actively returning to the centuries-old work.

Guy Earle, manager of Earle Brothers Fishers Ltd. at Carbonear, Newfoundland's largest salt fish exporter, says a large number of women are returning to the industry in the Conception Bay area.

And Rose Barbour, Liberal member of the legislature for Bonavista South, says fish plants in his district have set up wire flakes and women are helping in drying fish.

Club Activities

AVONDALE NEIGHBORS' AID

Avondale Neighbors' Aid met at the home of Mrs. George Day with seventeen members and three visitors present.

Dorothy Maclean presided, opening with a reading appropriate to Valentine Day.

Devotional period was in charge of Erma Reid and Win Dorrance who followed the World's Day of Prayer program.

The roll call was answered by an exchange of valentines.

Each member was asked to donate an article to be auctioned off, which was capably done by Win Reed. An assortment from jewellery, home baking, to aprons proved amusing and profitable.

It was decided to give $10 to the March of Dimes fund.

Refreshments were served by Olive Mayell, Marion Wallbridge and Margaret Twiddy.

Readers' Friday Column

QUESTION:

Thank you for your pineapple chiffon cake recipe that I have tried but it still isn't perfect. The bottom of it was soggy and heavy. I followed your recipe closely and gave it extra baking time. I have a good electric stove and bake pies, cookies, tarts, rolls, bread etc., perfectly. I used a 9" tube pan in place of a 10". Would this make a difference? — Vera B.

ANSWER:

When I read that you had a failure with my recipe for Pineapple Chiffon Cake (Aug. 30) we hastily went to our kitchen and made another and it turned out perfectly. You should not use double-acting baking powder. Use single-acting. Also I think that you did not beat the egg whites long enough (see below) and maybe your oven is not really registering 325 deg. Fahr. If you have a suspicion that your oven is at fault and does not bake things as quickly as my recipe suggests, raise the temperature to 350 deg.

Because this yields such a beautiful chiffon cake I will repeat the recipe for the benefit of other readers.

Dinner Menu

FRIDAY
(Valentine Day)

Tomato Soup; Baked Haddock Fillets; Hard-Cooked Egg Sauce; Baked Carrots and Celery; Tiny Buttered Cauliflower Polonaise; White Jelly (see Wednesday) topped with red jelly heart cutouts; Valentine Cookie Couples (see Wednesday); Coffee.

PINEAPPLE CHIFFON CAKE:

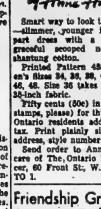
NOTE:

This cake may be stored in the freezer for weeks if it is carefully wrapped to exclude all air.

2¼ cups sifted cake flour, 1½ cups sugar, 1 tablespoon single-acting baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ cup cooking (salad) oil, 5 large egg yolks, ¾ cup unsweetened canned pineapple juice, 1 cup egg whites (about 7), ½ teaspoon cream of tartar.

Sift together the sifted flour, sugar, baking powder and salt into a large bowl. Make a deep well in centre and add oil, egg yolks and pineapple juice and beat this mixture until it is perfectly smooth and creamy. Add cream of tartar to egg whites and beat with rotary or electric beater until very stiff peaks form — at least 10 minutes. Beat whites until so stiff they cannot be broken down. Pour the egg mixture over the whites gradually, gently folding together with a rubber spatula until blended. Pour into ungreased 10" tube pan (not 9"). Bake in 325 deg. Fahr. for 65 minutes. But test it: if top springs back when lightly touched with fingertips cake is done. Invert pan over a funnel or large neck bottle to hang and cool. With thin knife loosen sides and centre and pour cake out with fingertips. You may have to rap it sharply on table to loosen it. Serve without frosting.

Pearson Says Govt. in Quandry



OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson told a delegation from the National Council of Women Thursday that he received an "almost equal" number of letters opposing changes in Canada's divorce laws as he did letters advocating changes. The prime minister, who met with the delegation for more than 1½ hours, said that his parliamentary task is a quandary about the laws on divorce and sometimes because no clear majority of public opinion seemed to be shown.

He said the problem would have to be given much greater consideration before any action could be taken.

Included in the 17-page brief presented to the prime minister and members of the cabinet was a resolution recommending that a royal commission be set up to study the divorce laws.

Successful Living

In View of Circumstances Befriending Boy Not Wrong

DEAR DORIS — I don't really know if I have a serious problem on my hands or not. I am a mother of six children and one on the way. I'm happily married. In the summer I work, and there is this boy of 18 who always came to me with his problems.

Now that the season for working is over he comes to the house (only when my husband is at home); he brings gifts for me and the whole family. They are just small things, but my mother told me we shouldn't accept anything from this boy.

He tells my children that he is their big brother, he calls me Ma and my husband Pop. Should I tell this boy to stay away from us and not accept gifts or should I continue being his so-called Ma? — TROUBLED.

DORIS CLARK

DEAR TROUBLED — If a happily married mother of six can't reach out in friendship to a boy of 18, I don't know who can. That's as long as your husband approves and if — as I suspect — your mother is just being a bit prim!

• • •

DEAR DORIS — Our new rector has been at our house for supper several times. Sometimes I think he is interested in me, as he has asked me to go places with him in connection with church work which ordinarily would be handled by older members of the parish.

He also has invited me to spend an afternoon or evening at the rectory which I did, taking friends with me. However, he has stated on several occasions that he is a bachelor by choice and not by necessity; but then at times speaks of a family life, for example, what he is going to name his children!

He never asks for a date; it's always to help him do something. Is he wasting my time? — PUZZLED.

• • •

DEAR PUZZLED — Ministers are people. He has the same longings for home and family as many another. Every daughter's mother sees him as an extremely eligible male — and there's the rub! While making up his mind, he has to fend off the girls!

Sooner or later he'll take stock of where he's going. It would help if you weren't always available — because of the interest of another eligible male.

• • •

DEAR DORIS — When we came home from dinner at a friend's place, my mother bawled me out for remarking how good the steak was. She says polite people never mention the food.

It seemed to me the hostess appreciated my mentioning it. She positively glowed. What do you say? — IN DOUBT.

• • •

DEAR IN DOUBT — You don't have to act ravenous or discuss food exclusively. It's best to assume that you are accustomed to three meals a day.

But I'll go along with you in paying a compliment to the hostess about her cooking. Doesn't your mother like it when you praise what she does?

• • •

(Putting your problems on paper helps. Doris, who is a trained social worker, will send you a helpful, private reply if you enclose a five-cent-stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

Interest in Art Grows But

It Takes a Good Row to Pack 'em In

By BEN WARD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Interest in art is growing slowly and steadily in Canada with more people showing up at galleries each year and an increasing amount being spent on purchases.

But those who run the country's 11 biggest public galleries frankly admit it still takes a lively controversy to arouse any real public response to art exhibits.

A Cross-Canada Survey by the Canadian Press shows attendance figures are running about 50 per cent higher than five years ago, although spending by galleries on new acquisitions is not keeping pace with the growth of interest.

The galleries really bulge when an art controversy hits the headlines. Most recent example was in 1962 when the National Gallery of Canada in Ottawa staged an exhibit of 187 paintings owned by Walter P. Chrysler, son of the famous auto family and one of the continent's best-known collectors.

CALLED FORGERIES

Before the exhibit opened, New York critics triggered a major art scandal with charges that some of the paintings in the $6,000,000 show were likely frauds. The suggestion of forgery touched works attributed to some of the greatest names of the last century—Degas, Manet, Van Gogh, Cezanne, Renoir.

While accusations and denials flew, more than 54,000 people flocked to the five-week showing. It was the second biggest turnout for an exhibition in the National Gallery's history.

Much the same thing happened at the Art Gallery of Toronto in 1956 when the gallery paid $90,000 for Tintoretto's Christ Washing His Disciples' Feet. A Toronto artist, Kenneth Forbes, said the gallery had been hoodwinked and an art restorer branded it "a labored copy."

Furnaces clicked merrily when that incident boiled over into a front-page feud and there was a repeat performance three years later when $3,000 was spent to prove the authenticity of the painting, the most expensive ever purchased by the Toronto gallery.

KIDS LOVED IT

Almost every gallery has at one time or another touched off a crowd-pulling uproar over abstracts.

In 1962 the Edmonton Art Gallery paid $400 for a work by Alfred Pellan, a French Canadian who had great success in Paris. The Edmonton Journal printed a picture of the painting with a caption suggesting it looked like a map drawn by a Grade 1 child. It was seen a lot with school children ever since.

School children, in fact, are a growing factor in gallery attendance. Most cities offer special art appreciation tours for elementary classes. The Allied Arts Centre in Calgary instructs 2,000 children at weekly painting classes and takes 250 into a summer art school.

Nobody can prove it, but the feeling among gallery directors is that the youngsters help to interest adults at home in good art.

This is important because the public galleries depend largely on membership drives and public fund-raising activity for the money to operate. Grants from municipal and provincial governments help, but generally the galleries have had little success in recent years convincing the authorities of the need for greater support.

SHORT OF MONEY

Apart from the National Gallery and the Toronto gallery, none has available the kind of money it takes to purchase internationally important paintings. The smaller galleries make most of their purchases in Canadian art, much of it contemporary, and depend on bequests for expensive works.

Even the National Gallery, which is financed solely by the federal government, has been notably absent from the major art market in recent years. It gets $200,000 a year for its purchase account and puts most of this to Canadian art.

That last big purchase by the National Gallery was inaugurated in 1953 when the government allotted $2,000,000 to buy a series of masterpieces from the Prince of Liechtenstein collection.

In 1958 the new Conservative government rocked the art world by cancelling an almost-completed deal for a $350,000 Breughel landscape owned by Baron von Foelnits of Bavaria and a $90,000 Madonna by Lorenzo Monaco from the Liechtenstein collection.

A bitter controversy ensued in which the government slashed the gallery's 1958-59 purchase budget to $25,000 and gallery director Alan Jarvis resigned. The Canadian art world still is divided on the issue, and the National Gallery has been passing up the choicest temptations of major art dealers ever since.

Dr. Charles Comfort, who succeeded Mr. Jarvis, has laid emphasis on the gallery's extension program under which art exhibits are sent to other cities for special showings. Last year 250,000 persons attended such exhibits while the Ottawa gallery itself drew 363,000 visitors.

Here is a brief rundown of the situation across the country, with highlights of each major gallery's collection:

Beaverbrook Art Gallery, Fredericton: Established in 1959 and still maintained by Lord Beaverbrook, the Canadian-born British publisher, it has 50,000 visitors a year. Curator Edwy Cooke says there is a "tremendous" growth in interest. The 400 paintings include Colonel Nugent, by Gainsborough and Helena Rubenstein, by Sutherland. Main crowd-stopper, however, is the massive Santiago El Grande by Salvador Dali.

FRENCH COLONIAL

Provincial Museum, Quebec City: Visited by a record 153,000 in 1962, it has 2,000 paintings including a large collection from the French colonial period. Works from the 300-year-old Quebec Seminary are often exhibited. Its prize items are Women's portraits by Francois Beaucort and Antoine Plamondon and a landscape by Joseph Legare. The museum is financed by the provincial government and has a budget of $40,000 for purchases this year. In 1961 it spent $9,000 for a painting by Canadian Jean-Paul Riopelle—its most expensive purchase.

Montreal Museum of Fine Arts: Oldest public gallery in Canada, it was founded in 1860 and has built up a collection of 100,000 art objects, 1,625 of them paintings. It is financed by private support and ran a $130,000 deficit for the fiscal year ended June 30. During the year 179,152 persons visited the exhibition galleries and membership rose by 501 to 3,836.

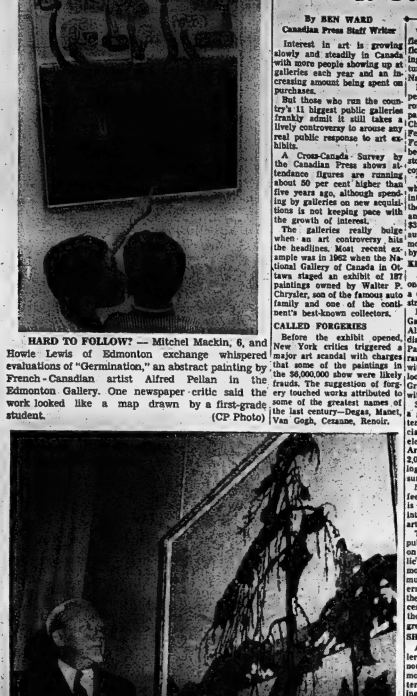
As the annual report put it: "The better the business, the more broke we are. We are suffering from success." The museum acquired 578 new works this year through purchases and gifts, and displayed 5,180 arts objects in its various exhibitions. Among Evan Turner lists among its best: Portrait of a Young Woman, by Rembrandt; portraits of the Marques and Marquesa de Castrofuerte, by Goya, 'and an altarpiece by 15th-century Venetian master, Neri di Bicci. Attendance has reached the saturation point and the museum hopes to expand if it can obtain sufficient funds.

National Gallery of Canada, Ottawa: Since moving into its new $6,000,000 home in 1960 the gallery has become one of the most popular tourist' stops in the capital. Its 11,000 paintings, of which 1,500 to 2,000 are on view at any one time, make up the country's leading collection of Canadian art and largest group of masters. Dr. Comfort likes best among the Canadian works Tom Thomson's The Jack Pine and an abstract by Paul Bordeau. Among the best examples of Italian masters are The Toilet of Bathsheba by Rembrandt, and Vulcan and Aeolus by Piero di Cosimo. He selects Corot's Le Pont de Narni and Daumier's Le Wagon de Troisieme Classe as tops in the French works. The annual operating budget of the gallery tops $1,000,000.

Art Gallery of Toronto: Its 3,614 paintings include the country's largest collection of modern American art and 1,425 works by Canadians. It budgets $100,000 a year for new purchases but some of its finest selections have been donated. Regular contributions from 300 firms and 50 individuals are the financial mainstay of the gallery, which is badly in need of new facilities. Only 300 items from the collection can be displayed at once and even though the gallery is off the tourist lanes if is often hard-pressed to handle peak attendances from among its 6,000 dues-paying members. Director W. J. Withrow says the gallery has nine special items it shows to visiting curators but declined to identify them other than by names of the artists—Reubens, Poussin, Claude, Hals, Rembrandt, Gainsborough, Degas, Picasso and Chardin.

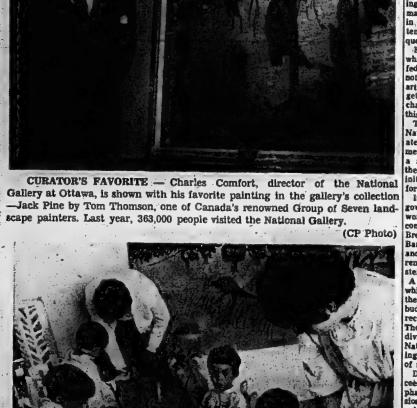
Winnipeg Art Gallery: The 51-year-old gallery stresses contemporary Canadian work and has one of the world's finest collections of Eskimo sculpture as a sideline. Its total budget of $90,000 is almost double that of five years ago but its purchase fund in recent years has varied between $5,000 and $15,000. Grants from the city, province and Canada Council make up half the income, with public dries and fees from 900 members providing the rest. Items include a French harbor scene by Dufy, now estimated to be worth $40,000, 400 works by the late Manitoba painter L. Fitzgerald and a collection of 16 Gothic panels.

Norman Mackenzie Art Gallery, Regina: Founded in 1953, its basic collection is that of the late Regina lawyer for whom it was named. It now has 1,000 works of art ranging from stone age artifacts to abstract oils and the current budget includes $2,000 for new works. Most of the financing is by the University of Saskatchewan but it is open to the public and drew 16,000 last year. The stress is on Canadian and modern and memberships bring in the rest, including about $1,500 a year for purchases.



Edmonton Art Gallery: All of its 400 paintings are by Canadians with about 40 on view at one time. Children's art classes are a major activity with only about $1,000 a year allotted for purchases. The gallery gets $10,000 a year from the city, $1,000 from the province and raises about $35,000 oh its own. Art director John Macgillivray says public interest is very low compared with Eastern Canada but has skyrocketed in the last two years. Rated the best items are Red Oak by Homer Watson and Passing Shadow by Cutor-Cole.

Allied Arts Centre, Calgary: A small collection of 125 paintings is described by director A. F Key as "a hodge-podge of stuff we've picked up here and there." The policy now is to collect international contemporary graphics and Canadian oils but purchases are limited to the interest from an $11,000 endowment fund. Main activity is art instruction.



Vancouver Art Gallery: It has a permanent collection of 500 paintings plus 270 works of Emily Carr held in trust for the provincial government, with facilities to display between 200 and 250. The civic grant was $45,000 last year, double that of only five years ago, but makes up less, than half the total budget. Private donations and memberships bring in the rest, including about $1,500 a year for purchases.

The stress is on contemporary Canadian and British work. Director Richard Simmins rates portraits by Joseph Higmore and Sir. Thomas Lawrence and an oil by Graham Sutherland as the best of the collection. Mr. Simmins came to Vancouver after he resigned as chief-of exhibition extension work at the National Gallery in 1962. His resignation letter, written after the Chrysler controversy, said he had lost faith in the National Gallery director.

Art Gallery of Greater Victoria: Backed by 1,350 active members, the gallery has grown tremendously in the last five years, now has 850 works of art. Oriental art has become a specialty but the purchase fund of $9,000 a year covers Canadian and European work as well. About 135 items are on display with abstracts playing an increasing role. One-third of the budget is covered by grants. Director Colin Graham lists the three best works as a harbor scene by Eugene Boudin, 19th-century French painter; portrait of a woman by Dutch master Cornelis van Ceulen and an abstract by Mark Tobey of Seattle.

SIGNS OF AUTHENTICITY — Richard Simmins, director of the Vancouver Art Gallery, points to detail work in Joseph Highmore's portrait, of Miss Elizabeth Hervey that demonstrates its authenticity. Controversy stirred by suggestions that masterpieces have been faked usually results in sharply increased attendance at art shows. (CP Photo)

Teen-Age Canada Organization Offers Many Wonderful Trips

By JACK HUTTON

What are your plans for this summer? Have you thought about climbing in the Rocky Mountains, cycling through the Maritimes, driving through Quebec — or just getting out in the fresh air?

Do not laugh.

It's all possible, thanks to the Canadian Youth Hostels Association, an organization which celebrates this summer its third decade of getting young people to look at their own country.

If I were fancy free — and free of the demands of my editors — I would leap at the chance to take any one of a number of tours that have just been announced by the CYHA.

The CYHA in case you're not familiar with it, is part of a worldwide organization which provides overnight accommodation for an average fee of 50 cents or $1.

IN EUROPE

Europe is spattered with youth hostels. Canada hasn't a continent-wide chain, but has developed certain areas very well. The United States has a quickly growing chain. Even Russia is in the act.

It costs $5 to join, if you're less than 18 years old. Over that age, it costs $12.50 — or $3.50 if you are attending school. This gives you access to the chain, wherever you want to go.

Let's see, where do we want to go? Three groups are cycling between Banff and Jasper (they don't go very fast) during July and August. The cost: $90 for two weeks, including food, accommodation and other basic expenses.

Want to see French Canada? Groups are cycling through the Eastern Townships starting July 4 and Aug. 1. Cost is also $90. Or how about walking through the Rockies? Groups leave Banff July 4 and Aug. 1 for two-week trips.

Or, what about Boston and a chance to sample that eastern sea food? You can cycle through this historic part of the U.S. for two weeks, starting either July 18 or Aug. 15 for $90.

If you're a canoe enthusiast, two-week trips costing $75 are available in Temagami Provincial Park, Ont., or Quebec Provincial Park, Que. That price includes the canoes, tents, canoe packs, food and cooking utensils.

The prices as far as I know, are real bottom. But you can travel for shorter distances by yourself for whatever you want to spend. Some people I know plan to work part of the summer and take two weeks to cycle in the fresh air with friends.

Visiting Europe is never inexpensive, but I think the youth hostel movement is a cheaper plan than anything else I know. It's possible, for example, to cycle through the British Isles for six weeks for $350.

How can you find out more about the CYHA? The best plan is to contact your provincial organization.

You've got absolutely no excuse for feeling this will be a dull summer. If you can walk, the world is right at your doorstep.

Do you want to see more of Canada's outdoors? Teen-age Canada today describes how you can take a two-week canoe trip for only $75, including the cost of equipment.

Some Examples of Double-Talk

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Now is a good time to pep up on your double-talk.

Double-talk, you must remember, is merely the fine art of oral camouflage. It enables you to be honest with yourself while still putting the healing salve of the spoken word on the small vanities of others.

As a guide, here are some examples of double-talk, with their actual meanings in parentheses:

"Darling, that new dress fits you like a glove." (And believe me, the glove I have in mind is a catcher's mitt.)

"Well, if you insist, all right, but be sure and make it a small one." (What did you pour that last drink from—a thimble?)

"George, what in heaven's name ever gave you the idea that I thought you were homely?" (Ugly, yes — but homely, never.)

"When I first laid eyes on you, I knew you were different from most girls." (I guess it was that fright wig you were wearing that tipped me off.)

"And now, let me show you some interesting color slides Grace and I took of the Grand Canyon way back in 1947." (If that won't bore you into going home, I don't know what will.)

"After all, J. P., you're the big chief, and I know I'm just one of the Indians." (And how I'd love to sink a tomahawk into your big thick skull!)

"So that's your new baby, eh? My, he's a cute little feller." (If my wife came home from the hospital with one like that, I'd make her take him back and demand a refund.)

"Glad to hear from you. What can I do for you?" (Whatever it is, the answer is no.)

Health, Economic Policies Among Items Discussed In Five of Eight Houses

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Health and economic policies were among chief items discussed in five of eight provincial legislatures in session Thursday.

A private bill to establish a dentist-operated pre-paid dental service was given second reading in Nova Scotia, recommendations of a royal commission on hospital privileges were discussed in Saskatchewan and economic development and public health programs were criticized in Manitoba.

The speech from the throne in Alberta forecast a government investment fund which would pay higher rates than chartered banks. A bill aimed at protecting borrowers was given detailed study in Quebec.

Health minister Richard A. Donahoe of Nova Scotia said he doubts there are enough dentists available to carry out the Dental Service Bill introduced by James H. Vaughan (PC—Halifax North) earlier this week.

The bill would empower a corporation, composed of government members, to arrange a pre-paid, non-profit scheme for dental care, treatment and services.

BROAD COVERAGE

The bill states that the corporation may arrange with dental associations in New Brunswick, Newfoundland and Prince Edward Island to provide dental care in these provinces.

Other legislature business:

P.E.I. — Opposition Leader Alex Matheson criticized the "bureaucracy" in the unemployment Insurance Commission and the P.E.I. workman's compensation board.

Que. — The legislative assembly gave unanimous approval in principle to a bill which Attorney-General Rene Hamel said is designed to protect borrowers against "the nets of lenders."

One of the key articles would permit courts to cut down the cost of loans if it is found that interest is excessive and the "operation harsh and unconscionable." It also provides for 60 days notice before a lender can seize property for non-payment.

Ont.—Labor Minister Rowntree indicated Ontario's minimum wage law will be extended to other parts of Ontario this year. It now is applicable only in the Ottawa-Toronto-Hamilton area.

SURVIVE VOTE

Man.—Premier Roblin's Progressive Conservative government easily weathered its first non-confidence vote of the current session.

The legislature rejected NDP leader Russ Paulley's amendment to a motion of non-confidence made earlier by Liberal Opposition Leader Gil Molgat.

Sask.—Mrs. Marjorie Cooper (Moosomin) said it is her "fervent hope" the CCF government will act on the major recommendations of the Wood royal commission on hospital privileges.

The commission recommended that the College of Physicians and Surgeons repair the breach between community clinic doctors, who generally support the province's medical care scheme, and other doctors who oppose it.

Alta.—The throne speech forecast a government investment fund authorized to grant loans to new industries. The speech also expressed concern for financing all levels of education.

B.C.—David Barrett (NDP—Dewdney) urged Attorney-General Robert Bonner to use his influence to prevent Ottawa from continuing with a new $7,000,000 federal treatment clinic for narcotics addicts being built in his riding.

He said the clinic will resemble one built 27 years ago at Lexington Ky. He quoted the Lexington supervisor as saying, after spending $80,000,000 to rehabilitate narcotics addicts, the ultimate cure-rate was three things: that narcotics addicts had an insatiable desire for drugs and that they like chocolate cake."

Justice McRuer Withholds Judgment in Libel Action

OTTAWA (CP)—Chief Justice J. C. McRuer of the Ontario Supreme Court reserved judgment Thursday in a libel action against Time magazine by Maj. W. A. Platt of Ottawa. The action is based on a May 18, 1962, were true and had not directly Time article about opium smuggling by Canadian soldiers in Viet Nam. He seeks $200,000 damages.

Chief Justice McRuer did not indicate when he would hand down his judgment. The case opened shortly before a jury which was dismissed after a juror said he did not understand enough English to follow the proceedings. Lawyers for both sides agreed to continue without a jury.

The Time article, read in court, described the courts martial of four non-commissioned Canadian soldiers in connection with opium smuggling alleged to have occurred while they were serving with the international truce commission in Viet Nam. All four were convicted.

The last paragraph of the article linked the name of Maj. Platt, who was not charged in connection with narcotics, with those of the four.

The major later was brought before a court martial on charges in connection with golf —but not opium — smuggling, and convicted. He drew a reprimand and a $500 fine. This verdict later was quashed by the court martial board which found the officer innocent of any wrongdoing.

QUESTIONS STATEMENT

During Thursday's summation of the case by opposing lawyers, Chief Justice McRuer asked S. G. M. Grange, a Toronto lawyer representing Time, whether a statement made in a defence document before the court constituted a republication of the alleged libel "in a more serious form."

He was referring to a defence contention that a soldier in one of the earlier courts martial had implicated Platt in opium smuggling. The chief justice said this contention appeared to be false. Mr. Grange had argued otherwise.

R.-K. Laishley, counsel for Maj. Platt, said that Time lawyers made no attempt to prove this statement, which might have been a valid defence if it could have been proved.

Mr. Grange argued that the sense of the magazine article is a quest for truth" is purely a question of interpretation of what the words implied.

"Time has researchers, writers and senior editors drawing conclusions from the mass of material before them," he said. If this led to error, it was not a malicious act.

Mr. Laishley said Time had refused to print an apology and this should be taken into consideration by the court in assessing damages. There also has been no publication in regard to Maj. Platt's subsequent acquittals.

At one point Chief Justice McRuer said the Time article drew a picture for the public which replaced Maj. Platt in the opium smuggling activity at a time when press reports of this activity were receiving wide attention.

He rejected Mr. Grange's request that Ottawa newspaper articles about the smuggling case be accepted by the court for consideration in assessing whether the Time article might have caused to Maj. Platt's reputation. —

Butter Surplus About Same As Last Year

OTTAWA (CP)—The chronic butter surplus was 204,478,000 pounds, Feb. 1, or about the same as a year ago the bureau of statistics reports.

Creamery butter stocks of 124,827,000 pounds were higher than the 124,216,000 pounds a year ago but holdings in butter oil of 79,500,000 pounds were down somewhat due to exports to below-cost prices.

At the same time however, production has been trimmed over a year to 15,021,000 pounds in January, against 15,422,000 pounds a year earlier.

Butter is supported by a consumer subsidy costing about $24,000,000 annually for the last two years and there has been speculation that this assistance —to get more people to eat butter without reducing farm income—may be altered when the new dairy year starts May 1.

January output of cheddar cheese at 5,672,000 pounds was some 340,000 pounds higher than a year ago, while 15,699,000 pounds, nearly 12 per cent, from January, 1963.

EXPORTS RISE

LONDON (CP)—Britain's exports to Russia rose by more than £13,000,000 last year, an increase of 22 per cent, said the chairman of the Russian section of the London chamber of commerce. British imports from the U.S.S.R. rose by more than £6,000,000 in 1963.

Club-Sponsored Bingo Game Broken Up

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Police raided the London Arena here Thursday and broke up a Optimist Club - sponsored bingo game.

When plain clothes officers rushed into the hall, many of the 500-odd persons attending the game thought it was a holdup but as uniformed officers appeared at every door, an officer announced: "This is a raid. We wish you all to pick up your chips and leave quietly."

Police seized equipment, cards and the money.

Judgment on Pea Received In Weekly Court

TORONTO (CP) — Judgment was reserved Thursday on a plea by John Darrell Peters, 31, a former United States geology student, to set aside 20 years in prison terms for crimes he claims he did not commit.

Prof. Stuart Ryan of Queen's University, who volunteered to act for Peters, claimed in Weekly Court at Osgoode Hall that an earlier Magistrate's Court proceedings were void when Peters pleaded guilty March, 1960, to eight offences.

The professor said Peters imprisoned for offences including armed robberies and a shooting, did not argue the 1960 hearing before Magistrate C. A. Thobarn.

Prof. Ryan claimed the hearings were void when Peters was incorrectly arraigned with a co-accused on 12 charges and tried as though they were one.

Peters claims he was in a state of mental shock when he was brought to magistrate's court, where he pleaded guilty. Two years ago he held five hostages at knifepoint for 28 hours at Kingston Penitentiary to bring his case to the attention of the justice department.

Parks Board Will Replant Ready-Grown Trees in City

The Belleville Parks Board is going to get the jump on Mother Nature this year.

Instead of purchasing seedling trees and waiting for several years to have them grow it's getting "ready grown" trees to start off its 1964 park land improvement program.

The ready-grown trees will come from the former Bleeckers' Woods area along North Front Street, parts of which are now under development by Elliott Motors Ltd. and for a new Tops Motel.

Yesterday Alderman Don Joss, Parks, Recreation and Arena Committee chairman, along with recreational director Lloyd "Red" Doran, new parks superintendent Lloyd Syer with Mr. Elliott and Charles Wener, Tops Motel manager, surveyed the woods area to be bulldozed with the view of selecting trees suitable for re-planting.

196 COULD BE SELECTED

Mr. Joss said that over 100 trees could be selected for replanting in various parts in the city.

Transplanting of the trees will be under the direction of Park Superintendent Syer, who recently took up his new duties in the city.

Mr. Syer comes to Belleville following five years as chief horticulturist with the Welland Ship Canal at St. Catharines. He took a three-year horticultural course with the Niagara Parks Commission and also studied landscape art in a one-year special course.

His previous experience also includes a one-year term as arborist for the Port Hope Division of the Ontario Department of Highways and gardener with the R.C.M.P. at McLaughlin at Oshawa. Aged 35, he is married with two children.

GOING INTO BUSINESS

Former Parks superintendent Gordon Nicholson is leaving city employment to go into business for himself.

Alderman Joss said the ground work for the new crash program to bring the city parks and recreational facilities up to date is progressing satisfactory and that an announcement will soon be made regarding the many projects to be undertaken.

Parliamentary Notebook

By JAMES NELSON

OTTAWA (CP)—If no hitches develop in the tangled process of inter - party negotiation, House of Commons committees may be set up and ready for work within a week of the opening Tuesday of the new parliamentary session.

Normally, the 14 Commons committees required each session by parliamentary rules are not struck until the session is well under way, special committees much later.

This means that sessions get off to a leisurely beginning. About mid-session the pace begins to quicken with the committees work and towards the end of the session there is a frantic race with the clock and the calendar.

It is not unusual towards the end of a session for several important committees to be meeting simultaneously with the Commons and the Commons itself extending its hours into morning, afternoon and night meetings.

COULD CHANGE

But all this would be changed if the committees adopts a recommendation made last session by the special committee on procedure, presided over by Speaker Alan Macnaughton.

The proposal is that committees be struck at the beginning of a new Parliament and continue in existence from session to session.

The proposal wasn't acted upon before the last session ended in its pre-Christmas rush.

Government Whip James E. Walker (L—York Centre) is proposing to re-establish last year's standing committees in the new session with the same membership lists.

Approaches have been made informally to the opposition parties and they appear to be in agreement, parliamentary sources say.

Willingness to go along with the move seems to mark a new egalism among many MPs that by demonstrating a willingness to get down to the hard work of the new session within a matter of days they will improve their public image.

Suggests Three Types Of Protection

TORONTO (CP)—There were enough cars stolen in Canada last year to give one to every man, woman and child in New Westminster, B.C., or Sydney, N.S., according to a survey by British Motor Corporation of Canada Limited.

The company said there were 33,665 cars stolen, about one in every 199 in operation.

It suggested three types of theft protection:

1. Have the horn wired so that it goes into a continuous blast when the ignition is on, unless a hidden switch is flipped;

2. Have a dog in the car;

3. Have a secret ignition switch, keeping the original as a dummy. When a thief has trouble starting a car, he quickly leaves.

Support Could Evaporate Over Some Key Issues

By RON LEBEL

OTTAWA (CP)—The minority Liberal government can look forward to support from the New Democratic Party at the parliamentary session opening Tuesday, but this support could evaporate over a number of key issues.

NDP Leader Douglas indicated in an interview that his 17-man opposition group is less interested in opposing the Liberals than in prodding and pressing them to implement their 1963 election promises.

"The great majority of the Canadian people don't want an election now," he said. "The government must be given a reasonable period of time to bring in its legislative program."

He served notice, however, that the NDP will fight the government over recent changes in the Canada pension plan, the gradual acquisition of nuclear warheads that began New Year's Eve and any Canadian participation in a NATO or Commonwealth peace force for Cyprus.

ONLY UNDER UN

Participation in a Cyprus peace-keeping force should only take place only under direct control by the United Nations, Mr. Douglas said.

The UN peace missions in Egypt and The Congo had worked well and should serve as models in Cyprus, he said.

The NDP would look for action on such Liberal promises as a medical care plan, schoolarships for university students, protection of a Canada development corporation to invest public funds in the private sector, two-price system for wheat, a minimum wage of $1.25 and other improved labor standards.

Abductor Is Identified

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Frank Sinatra Jr., testifying Thursday at the trial of three accused of kidnapping him, identified defendant Barry Keenan as the second man who allegedly abducted him from a Lake Tahoe motel last Dec. 8.

Young Sinatra also said he cooperated with his alleged abductors in getting past a police roadblock and stopped to question them.

He said he was afraid and "in fear of mind also was to offer no resistance, not try to escape."

Reappraisal of Banking System Will Be Faced By Parliament at Opening

By DON HANRIGHT

OTTAWA (CP)—For the next two years, perhaps longer, Parliament will be going through an agonizing reappraisal of the country's financial structure.

It will involve money and credit, banks and banking, every other financial institution—in fact everything from financing a new car to the profundities of international liquidity.

These five developments at the parliamentary session opening Tuesday will set the stage:

1. In about six weeks, the government will get the massive 400,000-word report of the Porter royal commission on banking and finance. It is the first intensive study of the financial system since 1933 and could lead to far-reaching amendments in federal law.

2. This is also the year for the once-a-decade revision of the Bank Act, the ninth such review since 1871. The act—the operating licence for the chartered banks—expires July 1 but may have to be extended a year to give Parliament time to digest the Porter report.

TWO PETITIONS DUE

3. Parliament will get petitions for two new chartered banks, one based in Winnipeg, the other in Vancouver with B-C. government participation. There have been widespread rumors of other petitions pending.

4. Finance Minister Gordon has strongly hinted he will move to prevent future foreign incursions into Canadian banking. When the First National City Bank of New York purchased half the shares of the Mercantile Bank of Canada last summer, he was powerless to intervene. The law now restricts foreign approval to sales of assets by one Canadian bank to another.

5. As if all this weren't enough, by year-end the Carter royal commission on taxation hopes to submit its report. The recommendations could lead to tax changes affecting the status of competing financial institutions—notably the credit unions and banks.

Much of this debate will overflow into 1965, possibly even 1966.

SPOTLIGHT ON BANKS

The banking business likely will hold the spotlight this year in the guise of the long-established "branch banking" versus the new proposals for regional banks; the competition between the existing banks and their "near bank" competitors, such as trust and mortgage companies and credit unions.

The Porter commission, headed by Chairman Dana Porter of Ontario, heard lengthy arguments that the banks, competing with the near-banks in attracting deposits from the public, are handicapped by the statutory six-per-cent interest ceiling on bank loans, which in turn holds down the bank interest on savings deposits.

The banks want the ceiling removed.

Sir Alec Makes Clear U. K. Will Continue Cuban Trade

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The Anglo-American summit conference has shattered any remaining U.S. illusions that the allies somehow could be persuaded to co - operate in mounting an economic blockade against Cuba.

Just before Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home and President Johnson began their two - day talks, there were widely-circulated American reports that the Johnson administration planned to exert new pressure on the allies to restrict trade with the Communist regime.

But in his private discussions with Johnson and his public statements later, Sir Alec made clear Britain wanted no part of discrimination, restrictions or boycotts on trade with Cuba or any other part of the Communist camp.

In fact, British planned to step up trade with the Communists, rather than reduce them. Britain lived by trade, he said, and Britain believed a fat Communist is less likely to be aggressive than a lean, hungry one.

COMMUNIST CONTRACTS

Moreover, in response to the U.S. plea that the allies refrain from providing extensive credit for Communist trade, Sir Alec said Britain hopes to land a number of new contracts in Eastern Europe including power plants, and Britain's credit terms in those cases might be extended to 12 or 15 years from the present five.

All this is rather hard for the Johnson administration to swallow at a time when the president faces increasing pressure at home to do something about Premier Fidel Castro's regime, whose actions, such as cutting off the water supply at the Guantanamo naval base, continue to add to American political embarrassment.

From the American viewpoint it is difficult to see what Britain can gained from his first formal talks with the British Prime Minister. Sir Alec insisted on having achieved harmony with Johnson on the world's big questions, but it appeared the two leaders differ on what these big questions may be.

Sir Alec said Britain and the American military policy in South Viet Nam; to co-operate with the U.N. closely in Cyprus; keep a round of tariff bargaining th year and to pursue with the U.S. any openings that may lead to more arms-control actions with the Soviet Union.

DISAGREE ON CUBA

But Sir Alec did not see eye-to-eye with Johnson on Cuba, or on Communist China, or on trade with the Communists. The U.S. opposed admittance of China to the United Nations; Sir Alec said such admittance would be a good thing.

The U.S. maintains a ban on all American trade with China and wants an allied economic blockade against Cuba; Sir Alec said Britain doesn't believe in blockades.

The U.S. wants to see Britain fully support the proposed seaspring, mixed-man North Atlantic nuclear force; Sir Alec said the proposal has political advantages but he still isn't sure of its military merit.

It appears that in their first formal encounter, the prime minister and president sized each other up; pledged to keep the Anglo - American alliance strong but virtually made no changes in the policies that existed before the talks began.

Pressure Mounts for Japan To Recognize Red China

By JOHN RODERICK

TOKYO (AP) — Japan's left wing and some businessmen are applying the pressure on their government to follow the example of France and recognize Communist China.

Prime Minister Hayato Ikeda refuses to be stampeded into abandoning his policy of non-recognition, but he shows signs of wavering on some points.

In debate with the Socialists and Communists in parliament Wednesday, Ikeda conceded that a new situation would arise should Red China be seated in the United Nations this fall as the sole representative of the Chinese people.

If that happens, Foreign Minister Masayoshi Ohira told Socialist Shichiro Homumi, Japan will "reexamine" its diplomatic relations with the mainland. He did not use the word recognition. However, this position leaves the conservative government room to manoeuvre once the issue reaches the decision making stage.

UNDETERMINED POLICY

Ohira said Japan has yet to determine what policy to follow toward the question of seating the Red Chinese in the United Nations. This appears to be a retreat from declarations that Japan and the United States would consult closely with the view of staving off Red Chinese entry.

Americans here said in Washington are reported to be reconciled to the likelihood that Japan cannot long resist if the cash bread and butter of recognition by other states results from France's move.

Business sources fear the closer ties with Peking has come from firms that believe a considerable trade can be built up between the two countries is possible. Such leaders of Ikeda's Liberal Democratic party as former prime minister Tanzan Ishibashi and former ministers Ichiro Matsumura and Tatsunosuke Takasaki share this view.

TRADE LIMITED

Ikeda's answer is to point out that the government is trying to up economic exchanges on a non-governmental, non - political basis. Japan's trade, totalling $123,000,000 in 1963, is limited. This figure could be enlarged considerably if Japan were to extend generous credit.

The United States and the Chiang Kai-shek regime oppose any arrangements which could be interpreted as aid, not trade, with Red China.

The international trade and industry minister, Hajime Fukuda, told the legislators that Japan could not extend de-ferred payments to Peking. Despite China's rapid economic growth, he said, it remains relatively weak and unstable. Japan's European and Latin American have priorities for such favorable trade agreements.

Paris Store Promotes Sale Of Chinese Goods

PARIS (AP) — Silk kimonos from Shanghai, rice wine from Fukien and carved teak chests from Peking are a few of the items on display this week as a leading Paris department store opened a month-long campaign to promote the sale of imports from Communist China.

The display, scattered over an entire floor of the store, was another indication of the practical effects of Frenchman de Gaulle's diplomatic recognition of Red China.

Throngs of shoppers swarmed for a Tuesday afternoon, flocked to the store.

For the gourmet - minded Frenchmen, there was a bar and food counter where shoppers could sip litchi nut wine or munch frozen kumquats from Canton.

Stacked behind the bar were exotic oriental foods, including frozen sweet and sour pork with bamboo shoots, bean sprouts and packaged Chinese soup.

In the middle of the display, surrounded by a jade garden of bottles of irish beer. A thirsty shopper also could refresh himself with French wine or take home a frozen package of Vietnamese food.

The entire floor was done in a Chinese motif. Shopgirls wore gaily red and black kimonos.

Another indication of the closer ties between Red China and France comes when the Peking Opera opens a Paris run Feb. 21.

There also are reported to be negotiations for the possible sale of French-made Caravelle jet transports.

25TH ANNIVERSARY

On Saturday evening the neighbors of Mr. and Mrs. Melville Tanner, Mill Street, Stirling, tendered them a party on the occasion of their 25th wedding anniversary. Mr. Charles Dreslin read an appreciative address and Mrs. Frank Harding made the presentation of a coffee table.

On Sunday they were "at home" to relatives and friends. The bride's mother Mrs. S. Danford presented them with a silver tea service. Mrs. Tanner is the former Margaret Danford, daughter of Mrs. S. Danford and the late Mr. Danford of Madoc Junction and Mr. Tanner is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Tanner of Stirling.

They were married in St. John's Anglican church in Stirling, February 4th, 1939, by Rev. A. S. McConnell. They have three sons, Marvin and Allan of Brampton and James of Oshawa. They have always resided in Stirling since their marriage.

The sons were in charge of the guest book, and presented their parents with a silver casserole and relish dish. Members of the lawn bowling club did the catering. Stirling friends extended best wishes to them.

OTTAWA (CP)—The Geological Survey of Canada is being deluged with junk but it's not asking that the avalanche be stopped.

The junk is in the form of queer looking rocks, odd-shaped chunks of granite and twisted pieces of black metal—all suspected by their finders to be meteorites.

The flow started last August when the survey—a branch of the mines and technical surveys department—published a pamphlet to help laymen identify meteorites.

At the same time the survey offered to pay more than $100 for every genuine meteorite found in Canada and accepted by the survey. They are required for research in space travel and to determine what the interior of the earth is like.

Since publication of the pamphlet, the survey has received more than 70 objects from various parts of Canada. None has proved to be the real thing.

WILL BE PATIENT

However, Dr. K. R. Dawson of the survey's petrological sciences division says he is not discouraged.

"Meteorites are not something which are found every day," he said. "We didn't expect that we'd get any right away and we're prepared to be patient.

"We've received a lot of useless material, but if we were in any way to discourage people sending us objects they think might be meteorites we might miss a chance to obtain one."

Some 3,000 English copies of the pamphlet and 1,000 French copies have been distributed by the survey, mainly to farmers and residents of rural areas. They are in the best position to observe meteors plunging to earth and pinpoint an area where a meteorite might have landed.

Due to interest shown by agricultural organizations in urging farmers to watch out for meteorites, an additional 7,000 English and 3,000 French copies of the pamphlet will be distributed. Several agricultural organizations will help in the distribution.

FLEW TO SCENE

Dr. Dawson urged persons receiving the pamphlet to study it carefully so they will be in a better position to determine what is not a meteorite. He said this might help in reducing the amount of non-meteoritic material now being shipped to the survey.

Dr. Dawson had one unhappy experience in investigating one suspected meteorite find near Woodstock, N.B.

Information received in December from Woodstock indicated that a large meteorite had been found on a farm. Dr. Dawson said the circumstances were convincing since the object had apparently created a new hole on the farm and was black in color, indicating it had been subjected to great heat.

Dr. Dawson flew from Ottawa to Woodstock to examine the object. It turned out to be a 116-pound chunk of limestone which had been blackened by vegetation.

The rock had always been on the farm, buried under the top soil. Ground under the rock had given way, allowing the rock to drop sufficiently to cause the top soil to collapse. This gave the impression that the rock was sitting in a newly created crater.

METEORITE OR MERE JUNK? — D. W. Crawley, technical officer with the Geological Survey of Canada, examines suspected meteorite in the survey's laboratory. Canadians have been submitting such material since the survey, a branch of the mines and technical surveys department, published a pamphlet to help identify meteorites and offering to pay more than $100 for genuine meteorites. Oxford's Quiet Cloisters Shattered by Sex Debate

By DOUG MARSHALL

LONDON (CP)—When strong words like "hypocritical" and "myopic" shatter the urbanity of Oxford's quiet cloisters and common rooms, you can bet the university is preoccupied with sex again.

The latest row started when an American student was caught at a suggestive hour with a girl in his bedroom closet. After due deliberation he was rusticated — which means suspended for one term.

Soon students and dons were locked in "a great sex debate" about moralities old and new, charity, punishment and the university's place in society.

Most students thought the punishment too severe because it would jeopardize the student's career. Dons thought it "just and rational."

ATTACKS DONS

The next Sunday the church entered the fray with a sermon from Rev. Graham Midgley, 40-year-old bachelor dean of St. Edmund Hall College. He attacked the dons as "cowardly" for refusing to give a lead to Britain on sexual morality.

An article in the Oxford magazine, journal of the senior members of the university, had said no public lead could be given because the university "is more and more a public institution under public pressure."

Midgley disagreed. He called the university "a great Christian foundation."

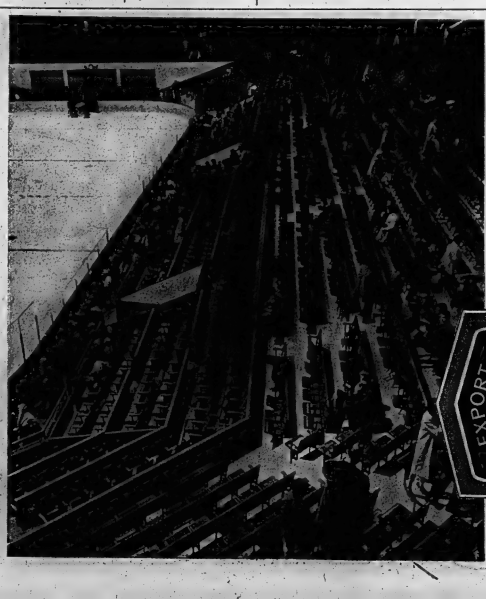
"If the drift is towards promiscuity, we should be leading in the opposite direction. Fornication is nothing like the sin to end all sins but it is a sin and ought to be treated as such."

'NEW MORALITY'

But he also opposed the "new morality" gaining currency in student circles. This asserts that where there is real love normal rules are unnecessary.

The university takes the parents' place during term time and the standard of behavior in colleges should be the same as those observed in good hotels, he said.

Some students apparently thought colleges should be considered in the same category as cheap one-night hotels, which he called "unstaffed brothels."



Not all the students are clamoring for greater freedom. Girls at St. Hilda's College have voted against later visiting hours for men.

"We don't want men around when we are wandering about the quad in our curlers," explained one undergraduate.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Canada's Miracle Men, that fearless foursome who rode to victory over Europe's finest in the Olympics' bobsled championship and pinned her lone gold medal on the bosom of Our Lady of the Snows, have admirers—or counterparts here in the city.

Don't be misled by that report you read out of Kingston that a Belleville entry in a bobsled race sponsored by the Limestone Carnivalers won the "booby" prize. That's just plain damn jealousy.

"Shaker" Baker, stocky Agnold Barclay and Phil Bennett of the Ox Point Bennetts, formed the doughty crew that carried the colors of the Old Lady of the Metro far afar when went.

They didn't win anything against a field of eleven slip-and-sliders. But they set a course record for thirty feet in fifteen seconds.

The Limestoners gave them the spot of honor. They permitted the Belleville crew to be the first to take off down the hazardous slope of old Fort Henry.

Over four hundred hardy carnivalisers lined the sled-run bleachers. I wouldn't say they were bloodthirsty, but I am told a lot of them were drooling in anticipation of an early "kill" of the upstarts from Belleville.

They weren't disappointed.

The "Shaker" pulled up his parka. Barclay, the centreman, shuffled under his all-weel underwear. He was carrying the weight. Bennett, a sort of tall lanky straighteen type, looked over his life insurance policy and muttered a prayer.

Then they were off—then it was over.

The Shaker pecked from his parka depths. Then he realized that somebody injected water into his figure eight gas tank.

Barclay came up from under and whispered, "Geez, I forgot to put the runners on the sled.

Bennett riding tail, saw disaster ahead. The Shaker was shaking. The craft was out of control.

"Stand by for sticking," yelled the Shaker. The doughty crew didn't have time. As the Shaker hit, I am told, a carefully prepared roadblock, the crew went sky-high while the faithful Limestoners yelled their approval.

They had travelled exactly thirty feet, my unseen and beheled buddy Hugh Barclay tells me. "And they established a course record for the distance."

Here's the way Mr. Barclay described the event.

"About 400 people lined the course waiting for the first run. "Shaker" and his crew prepared themselves at the top of the hill. The starter dropped the flag and the Belleville snow-borne Queen Mary took off in a cloud of the white stuff after a mighty heave by Phil Bennett.

"After traversing the course for about thirty feet they struck the embankment and turned turtle. The three doughty crewmen were all entangled among themselves and were more or less helpless with laughter.

"The spectators rolled on the ground and cheered as the Bellevillers with faces slightly red, started their sled again to officially open the Bobsled Races.

"Later the Shaker and crew, like true sportsmen, accepted the 'Booby Prize' for being the most colorful entry in the race."

Gordie Howe Back In Scoring Stride

By HARVEN MOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

You take a chance when you make book on the Gordie Howe task bed.

Leo Boivin did it Thursday night.

GORDIE HOWE

The repercussions, you might almost say, were predictable.

Boivin is the Boston Bruins defenceman with the fire-hydrant build, the guy they say dishes out the stiffest body checks in the National Hockey League.

He got a good piece of Howe and spilled him.

Gordie bounced back to steal the puck from Leo and score the first of two goals in the first period that broke up a tight game and carried Detroit Red Wings to a 4-1 decision.

The league leaders can refrain from peering over their shoulders for him. Now we know if they had been so disposed lately.

CAN'T FINISH FIRST

Boston's mathematical chances of finishing first, for the record, were wiped out with the setback.

Howe's Red Wings meanwhile made the fifth place cushion ahby more comfortable for themselves—they have a seven-point pull on New York Rangers now — and strengthened their run to catch the sagging Toronto Maple Leafs in third place.

Heading into the weekend shuffle, Detroit at 81 points is four shy of Toronto. But the Maple Leafs also have a game in hand.

Howe's two goals gave him 18 for the campaign and although it's only a so-so year for him all told it would appear he's going to salvage the 30-goal distinction. He's made that select level for 14 consecutive seasons.

The 35-year-old six-time NHL scoring champ also picked up an assist in powering the Red Wings to their fourth consecutive win—in the night's only game.

On hand at the Detroit Olympia was a crowd of 9,941, one of the season's poorer gates and an obvious reflection of Boston's pitiful lack of standings.

Floyd Smith and Norm Ullman were the other Detroit goal-getters while Johnny Bucyk counted for the Bruins.

TWO PLAYERS INJURED

Terry Doug Barkley, the defenceman who was shaded so narrowly by Kent Douglas of Toronto for the NHL's rookie award last season, and Boston's rookie forward Gary Dornboser both suffered fractured cheekbones and will be sidelined indefinitely.

Dornboser was perhaps the outstanding performer on the attack with the Bruins since joining the club 18 games ago. He scored nine goals. Thursday night he was benched unconscious by Larry Jeffrey's great slither and played the last two periods wearing a protective device around the head.

Barkley got hurt in a collision with Jean-Guy Gendron.

The Red Wings fired 46 shots at Boston's Eddie Johnston while the Bruins had only 18 at Terry Sawchuk. But it was a close match until Howe's bit of larceny at Boivin's expense in the final period.

The Red Wings' run into injury trouble earlier and called up Howie Menard Thursday from Cincinnati of the Central Professional League—as a replacement for Newfoundland's Alex Faulkner—for a weekend home - and - home series with Montreal Canadiens.

Faulkner, up from the minors as a replacement himself although he started the season with Detroit, has a sprained right ankle.

The Red Wings meet the Canadiens in Montreal Saturday night and back in Detroit Sunday night. Chicago Black Hawks go against the Maple Leafs in Toronto Saturday night and take on the Bruins in Chicago Sunday night. The Maple Leafs and Rangers tangle Sunday night in New York, rounding out a five-game weekend.

The Big Seven

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Gordie Howe, the six-time winner of the scoring title in the National Hockey League, bounded into a three-way tie for seventh spot in the listings with a three-point performance in Thursday night's game.

Howe's two goals and assist gave him 18 goals and 32 assists for the season, leaving him in a 30-point tie with New York's Rod Gilbert and Phil Goyette.

Boston's Murray Oliver, formerly tied with the pair, picked up his 32nd assist and his total to 31 points.

Chicago's Stan Mikita leads with 70 points, his teammate Bobby Hull is tops in goals with 34 and Andy Bathgate of New York shares the No. 1 spot in assists with Montreal's Jean Beliveau at 56.

Minor Teams Meet Kingston In Playdowns

It's a big night for three of this city's minor hockey teams.

Belleville Peewees, Bantams and Midgets venture down the Ontario Minor Hockey Association playdown trail here tonight against their counterparts from Kingston.

These will be the first games in home-and-home, total goals-to-count series, the second games of which are scheduled for Kingston next Saturday, February 22.

Belleville and Kingston teams are in the OMHA Major "A" class. Winners in each division will continue on in search of Ontario titles.

Tonight's schedule here calls for the Peewees to open the activities. Belleville MacCormack's meet Kingston at 7.00 p.m. This is the youngest and perhaps the most entertaining division in playdowns.

The Bantams take over at 8.30 with Belleville Oddfellows, considered to be one of the centre's strongest entries in the playdowns taking on Kingston's Bantam crew.

Final game of the evening, at 10.00 pits Belleville Midget All-Stars against the pick of the Kingston midget grouping.

All three teams will be giving their best for the city and will greatly appreciate some support, both at the gate and vocally.

It should be a good evening of hockey.

ABC Shuns Protest Of Telecasts

NEW YORK (AP) — The American Broadcasting Company announced Thursday that it definitely is going ahead with plans to televise five Friday night National Football League games despite protests from colleges and high schools.

The colleges and high schools insist it is an infringement on their traditional Friday night domain and violates a 1951 federal statute dealing with antitrust legislation in sports.

The ABC, in confirming an earlier report on the projected five games, said there is no violation because the programming deals are being made with the individual clubs and not with the league itself.

The ABC said Ford Motor Company would sponsor the Friday night pro games. The particular games, or clubs involved, were not named.

The proposed plan drew immediate blasts from both the colleges and high schools.

Asa Bushnell, commissioner of the Eastern Collegiate Athletic Conference and director of the college TV program, said he was "disturbed by the report."

A similar protest came from the National Federation of State High School Athletic Associations, with a membership of more than 12,000.

Women's Giant Slalom Won By Austrian

GARMISCH - PARTENKIRCHEN, Germany (CP - AP)—Edith Zimmermann of Austria, Olympic silver medallist in the downhill, today won the women's giant slalom of the 50th Kandahar races, last major post-Olympic ski meet of the season. Nancy Greene of Rossland, B.C., was third.

Marielle Goitschel of France, winner of the Olympic giant slalom, placed second in 1:33.62 and her sister Christine, Olympic slalom gold medallist, was third with 1:34.23.

RADAR AND RADIO

LONDON (CP)—Trains of the future may be controlled by radar and radio, says a British Railways spokesman. But first the equipment must be proven safe, reliable and reasonably cheap.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP) One win in today's final two rounds of the Ontario curling championships will make Bob Mann of Hanover the first skip in 18 years to win the provincial title two years running.

Mann remained undefeated after the fifth round here Thursday, two games ahead of his nearest rivals and sure of no worse than a tie for top.

The single victory would make Mann the first skip to take the title twice since Jerry Hall of Kitchener accomplished the feat in 1945 and 1946.

The Hanover quartet with Ken Bantam, third, Keith Mann, second and Rich Palmer, lead, swept in the championship with seven straight wins last season and wound up with a 6-4 winless record and a fourth-place finish in the Canadian championships.

Bunched in second place Thursday night with three wins in five games were Murray Roberts of Unionville, John Ross of Toronto Parkway and Jake Edwards of Kingston.

IN FIFTH

In fifth place with two wins after five rounds were Ron Kemp of Hamilton and Earle Husbagen of Toronto Humber. Dave Reynolds of Guelph and Bill Astle of Woodstock were in the cellar with a win each.

Mann's rink, which lavers a 10-0 takeout game, got off to a fast start by trouncing Astle 13-10 in the opening round Wednesday afternoon.

They disposed of Roberts, another first-round winner, 11-8 in the second round that evening and overwhelmed Edwards 13-6 in the third round Thursday morning.

Husbagen was their fourth victim winding up on the short end of an 8-4 count and they re clinched first-place with, a 10-8 win over Reynolds in the fifth and final round of the day.

Roberts, after losing to Mann in the second round, edged Reynolds 8-6 in the third round Thursday morning and kept pace, one game back of Hanover, with a 9-8 win over Ross in the afternoon.

Husbagen defeated Roberts 10-9 Thursday night.

LOSES TO ROBERTS

Ross, after suffering one loss in Wednesday's twin bill, defeated Astle 12-7 in the opening round Thursday before losing to Roberts.

He picked up his third win by edging Kemp 14-10 in the fifth match.

Edwards also wound up the first day's action with a 1-1 record before losing to Mann in the first round Thursday. He improved his record to 2-2 with a 9-8 win over Kemp in the fourth match and created the threeway tie for second by edging Astle 8-7 in the fifth game.

In the other two games Thursday, Kemp edged Husbagen 7-6 and Ross defeated Astle 12-7.

Reynolds gave Mann the hardest test of the bonspiel. Mann led 7-3 in the sixth and tuck battle after six ends but Reynolds cut the lead to 8-7 after nine ends. However, Mann led 8-8 going into the final end in the last rock and claimed a two-stone win.

Edwards held a 5-3 lead over Astle after six ends but the Woodstock crew tied it at 7-7 in the 11th. Edwards took advantage of last rock in the final end to squeeze out the win.

CHAMPS TO RACE

TORONTO (CP)—Three 1964 Olympic skiing gold medallists have turned professional and will race at Devil's Glen, Collingwood, Feb. 23, it was announced Thursday by sponsors of the event. The trio are Egon Zimmermann of Austria, winner of the downhill, Francois Bonlieu of France, winner of the giant slalom and Joseph (Pepi) Stiegler's of Austria, winner of the slalom at the just-concluded Innsbruck Olympics.

$40,000 Nightly Bet In Chicago

Break Up Hockey Bookie Ring

CHICAGO (AP)—A $40,000-a-night bookmaking operation at Chicago Stadium hockey games, broken up Wednesday night, was controlled by reputed Cosa Nostra gangster Felix (Milwaukee Phil) Alderisio, police said Thursday.

Detectives arrested three men after allegedly accepting bets during Chicago Black Hawks-New York Rangers National Hockey League game. Five others were charged with being patrons of a gambling house.

Alderisio was not in the Stadium Wednesday night, police said. But they said they had spotted him in the past apparently giving instructions to one of the men arrested on charges of bookmaking.

The bets, police said, ranged from $10 to $2,000 on individual goals scored, on points made during game periods, on winning points scored by individual players and on the outcome of the game.

Crothers, Kidd Win New York Events

Indoor Mile Record

NEW YORK (CP)—It was enough to dismay any right-minded track coach.

Tom O'Hara and Bruce Kidd, two fellows who run with their elbows flapping as though they were trying to fly like birds, managed to prove Thursday night that they could move faster than competitors whose style was flawlessly orthodox.

O'Hara, a red-haired, freckled little man from Chicago's Loyola University, turned in the fastest mile ever run indoors as he won the event at the New York Athletic Games in three minutes, 56.8 seconds.

And Kidd, the University of Toronto student who has never been beaten at Madison Square Garden won over two miles in 8:42.4, sloping Bob Schul of Oxford, Ohio, by two feet. It was his eighth consecutive victory in the Garden track and his third in as many years in the same event.

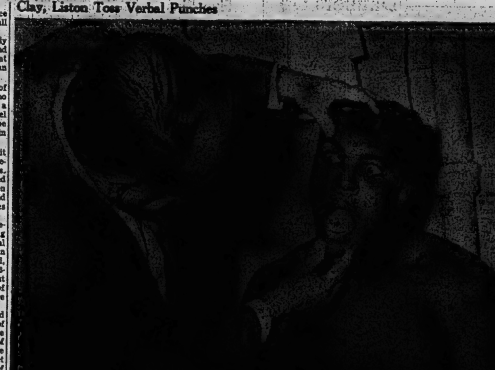
A second Toronto athlete, Bill Crothers, won the 880-yard event in 1:50.8, a tenth of a second off the track record and a yard in front of pace-setter Robin Lingle of Missouri.

PREDICTS 3:52

But top honors belonged to O'Hara, whose coach, Jerry Welland, confidently predicted he will run a 3:53 mile someday.

His time was a full two seconds faster than the old mark, set a year ago Saturday by Jim Beatty of Los Angeles in a race in which O'Hara pushed him all the way.

The man in his own unlikely way, his arms flapping, head wagging and hands plucking at his running togs like a shy man with broken suspenders.



Kidd, a 20-year-old member of the East York Track Club who is staging a comeback after a lengthy layoff because of a heel injury, came nowhere near the meet record of 8:39 he set in the same race last year.

He took the lead late, lost it to Schul and bolted from behind to win in the final strides. Schul, timed in 8:42.2, finished a full second ahead of Ron Clarke of Australia, the world record-holder over six miles and 10,000 metres.

Crothers also came from behind to win his event, moving up from last place in the final lap. Noel Carroll, an Irishman attending Villanova, was third, a yard behind Lingle. The 25-year-old Toronto pharmacist set the U.S. indoor record of 1:50 at the Millrose Games here earlier this year.

Bob Hayes of Florida A and M equalled the indoor mark of six seconds flat in winning the 60-yard dash. Gary Gubner of New York University won the shot put with a heave of 65 feet 2¼ inches and John Uelses of LaSalle University topped the pole-vaulters with 16 feet 1¼.

At Least For Season Says Imlach

Big M Stays With Leafs

TORONTO (CP)—It looks as though the Big M will be staying with Toronto Maple Leafs.

Coach Punch Imlach indicated Thursday night he wants to keep Frank Mahovlich for the balance of this National Hockey League season.

"Greenbacks won't play hockey for you," Ballard said in an interview. "If you remember, we were once offered $1,000,000 for him."

Imlach gave out orders Thursday re-uniting Mahovlich with his former linemates, centre Red Kelly and winger Bob Nevin. The line reunited 99 goals in the 1960-61 season.

SET FOR SEASON

"I don't care if you never score another goal," Imlach said. "That's it—period—for the rest of the season."

The Leaf coach has been experimenting to get some scoring power into the third-place Toronto attack.

Mahovlich, who collected 36 goals and 37 assists last season, has been in a scoring slump this year. To date he has 20 goals and 22 assists.

Since the halfway point in this year's schedule, he has scored only five times in 17 games. Kelly has two goals and Nevin none in the same time playing on different lines.

"I don't know about those other lines," Imlach said, "but the Kelly line is it."

Frank got 48 goals with them one time (in 1960-61). Who knows?"

Two Penalty Shots Miss

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Bill Goldsworthy of Niagara Falls Flyers had the distinction of being awarded two penalty shots in one game Thursday—and failed to score on both.

The rarity occurred during the Flyers' 3-0 Ontario Hockey Association junior win at shutout over Oshawa Generals.

Goldsworthy's first penalty shot was nullified when referee Tom Smith ruled he was not ready. When Goldsworthy got his second attempt, he poked his stick into the Oshawa bench as he skated past. There was some scuffling with the players along the boards but no penalties were called.

Meanwhile in Montreal, the Junior Canadiens blew the best chance they had all season to make serious trouble for the league - leading Toronto Marlboros by losing 3-2 to St. Catharines Black Hawks.

The Marlboros, three points up on the Canadiens, opened the door for Montreal when they lost 7-3 to Peterborough Petes.

The other league game saw the sixth - place Hamilton Red Wings edge tail-end Kitchener Rangers 1-0.

BULL SCORES TWO

Dennis Hull, a good bet to join brother Bobby with Chicago Black Hawks in the National Hockey League, fired a pair of goals for St. Catharines to bring his total for the season to 41.

Ken Hodge tallied in the final minute to give the Hawks the victory. Yvan Cournoyer clicked for his 54th of the season for Montreal while Leo Thiffault got the other.

Ted Neill and Brian Bradley scored one goal each to provide the Flyers with the shutout.

Ron Ward got Hamilton's attack on the Marlboros with three goals. Others went to Jim Sproat, Ron Grant, Brian O'Byrne and Mickey Redmond. Mike Wallon fired two for Toronto, and Bert Marshall one.

MICKOSKI NEW COACH

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Norman (Bud) Polle was ousted as coach of the moribund San Francisco Seals Thursday and replaced by another National Hockey League veteran, Nick Mickoski, the club's leading scorer last year. Coleman E. Hall, president of the Western Hockey League franchise, said Polle would remain as the Seals' manager, a job he has also been handling.

Underdog Rated Favorite

NEW YORK (AP)—Frankie Narvaez, an untried New Yorker with an unbeaten streak of 11, makes his big-time debut tonight as a surprising 8-to-5 choice over lightweight contender Luis Molina of San Jose, Calif., at Madison Square Garden.

On the basis of his record and the calibre of opponents he has met, the 25-year-old Californian figures to have the edge over the less experienced Rican-born Narvaez. The odds seem out of line.

Molina, an aggressive fighter with a knockout wallop has a 24-3 record, including 17 knockouts. He holds victories over Joe Lopes and Leo Matthews, one-time contenders, and over former lightweight champion Kenny Lane. He never has been stopped.

Narvaez, 24, has a 17-1-1 record, including only three knockouts. His only loss was a decision to Roland Kellem and he whipped the Jamaican in a return bout.

"If You Whup Me, I'll Kiss Your Feet"

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK (AP)—"If you whup me, I'll crawl across the ring on my hands and knees and kiss your feet. If you lose, will you do the same? Answer me, chump, will you do it?"

Cassius Clay, who seems unusually interested in foot kissing, was challenging Sonny Liston Thursday at a unique press conference. The later TV-retiree Television, which will handle the Feb. 25 heavyweight title match, arranged for special closed-circuit TV from the fighters' camps in Miami Beach, Fla., to their lab on Long Island, N.Y.

"About kissing my feet, Cassius," said the heavyweight champion "If you last through the third round into the fourth, I'll kiss your feet." Clay replied to questions from reporters, then the hand and forth from jawed back and forth from opposite ends of Miami Beach.

"You want to fight me, winner take all?" asked Liston, a challenge that would have warmed the heart of the late Jack Kearns. Jack always was proposing fight-to-the-finish, winner-take-all battles.

"I tell you what we'll do," said Clay. "Your backers take their cut and mine take theirs and I'll meet you at the front door."

'I'LL GIVE YOU HALF'

"Listen, Cassius," said Liston. "I'm gonna give you half of mine if you show up."

Earlier, Clay had boxed one round, exhibiting an ability to back away after sticking a left jab in his partner's face. This may come in handy later when the seconds leave Cassius all alone with Sonny and the referee.

"All I have to do is corner him off and clobber him," said Liston. "He'll still be talking on the way down."

Sonny sat at ringside without a smile while Clay tried to bait him with his prediction:

"I'm gonna upset the whole world. I'm bigger than he is. I'll be about 221 pounds. This is not going to be a giant fighting any Floyd Patterson. This man is scared to death. He'll still try to back out of the fight."

ASKED ABOUT MUSLIMS

When asked whether he belonged to the Black Muslims, a Negro supremacy organization, Clay replied:

"This is fight talk. I have no answers to that kind of question. I want two whole hours on television to tell my whole story after the fight. If I am bad and done wrong, I'm ready to go to jail. I haven't set the dogs on anybody. I'm tending my business."

Liston was asked whether he hated Cassius and got this type of an answer:

"I want to have him with his pretty face so he can get by with it."

Oh yes, Cassius the poet said it again:

"I'm predicting eight to prove I'm great."

The whole show lasted 45 minutes. That may be about 43 minutes longer than the fight.

Come From Behind To Win 5-4

Picton Rally Nips Juniors

By JACK FAWKES

PICTON — The Picton Merchants went about 400 fans home happy as they came from behind a two goal deficit to eke out a 5-4 win over the Belleville Juniors in the last home game of the regular schedule last night here in Picton.

The Merchants must wait until Monday to see the results of the game between Napanee and Gananoque to see if they land at the top of the league. Picton is one point up on Napanee at the moment.

Without a doubt, the most outstanding player on the ice last night was Bob Kiser, who took over between the pipes for the visitors. He was using ordinary hockey skates, instead of the usual goalie's blades, his stockings kept falling down, but he played one whale of a game in the nets.

The summary shows that Picton fired 46 shots, some of them labelled, but he got in front of them somehow. He was in no way to blame for those that eluded him. He was fantastic.

Picton took a one goal lead into the second period on a goal by Bill Hopkins who was tied in Bob Brown's goal mouth pass. The four penalties called in the initial frame all went to the visitors. In fact the first two goals of the game, one each, were fired while they had the odd man advantage.

Belleville came roaring out for the second period and at the 5:10 mark, Stu Muirhead fired one that tied it all up at one each.

Larry Holmes, Picton's netminder, aggravated a groin injury and had to be replaced halfway through the second period by Rick McPherson. Bob Boyle, who had originally played about 90 per cent of the game, put his team one up and the 10:07 mark, and Jim Rutherford made it 3-1 at the 16.18 mark to give Belleville a two edge on the game.

It was Picton's turn to do some roaring and at the start of the last period Bob Thompson finally beat Kiser, but Jim Rutherford bounced a high one to get that one back, and with less than ten minutes to go, it seemed as if Picton would lose their last home game.

The forward line of Haddock, Hiscock and Hopkins had other ideas and proved it by firing three goals in the last eight minutes to wrap it up.

Belleville pulled Kiser with one minute left to go, put him back in for a face off, drew him again for the balance of the game and in spite of putting some terrific pressure on McPherson in the Picton nets, they could not come up with the equalizer.

Belleville took the edge on the 16, penalties called by an 11 margin. Of these the Hagerman brothers accounted for five.

It was a good game to win, a tough one to lose.

North Shore Hockey

Stinson Construction blasked Consecon 8-0 and Wellington outlasted Melville Shorellners 9-7 in a pair of Prince Edward North Shore Hockey League games in Wellington last night.

The loop's regular schedule winds up next Thursday night.

Sub goalie Gerrard Geneseaux was in the nets for Stinson's and turned in a fine game to earn his shutout. It was 4-0 and 6-0 by periods.

He got good scoring support from Royce Doxtator, who scored three goals, and Gary Genereaux, who triggered a pair. Reg Ell, with a goal and two assists, plus Billy Genereaux and Keith Dicker, with one of each, completed the Stinson scoring.

Wellington built their victory margin in the middle frame, opening up a 6-3 lead after the teams tied 2-2 in the first period. The game was very clean with only one minor penalty called, that to Wellington.

Three players looked after all the winners' scoring. Joe Scott fired four goals and one assist, Gary Pyke had three and one and Al Rawlke two and one.

Harry Wight paced Melville with three goals and one helper. Jim Dunlop got two and one, Rod Cannons a goal and assist and Wayne Cruickshank the other goal.

Defeat Moira 52-40

Quinte Srs. Win Big One

By ROBERT SNEFIELLA

The Q.S.S. senior basketball team came up with its most important victory of the season in Bay of Quinte COSSA play by defeating Moira 52-40.

In the junior contest the score was 86-36 in favor of Quinte, while Moira bantams downed Quinte 37-26.

The senior game was one of the most exciting games played this year as Quinte came from behind to win and thus keep their playoff hopes alive.

The game started out to be very close, as Moira led 11-10 after the first quarter.

The second quarter was one of Quinte's worst of the season. Moira pumped in 14 points to take what looked like a commanding 25-14 lead.

Quinte was an entirely different team in the third quarter as they outscored Moira 19-8 and led at the game's 33-33. Bill Leslie was the hero as he scored 12 points and dominated his defensive backboard.

Leslie added 6 points in the final minute to help Quinte win with a 12 point spread.

High scorer of the game was Bill Leslie, who hooped a total of 20 points. Grant Hancock, although not scoring a lot of points, came up with some big rebounds and good defensive play. Ian Glen and George Pugh played a fine game for Moira.

The Junior game was closer than the score indicated, the difference being that while Quinte's shooting was excellent, Quinte's was phenomenal.

Tony Meddings and Marion Merrick paced the winners with 22 points apiece. Steven Bytma of Quinte potted 11 points. For Moira Dave Beresford was high man, scoring 19 points. Carmen Milligan hooped 16 for the losers.

Hoard and Beresford led the Moira Bantams to their victory with 14 and 8 points. Middleton and Emerson of Quinte had 9 and 6 respectively. Phil Buddle did a good job rebounding for the losers.

Seniors: Quinte (52): Leslie 30, Hancock 11, Peppard 6, Morton 3, McBride 2, Champagne, Hardy, Stallard, Eves, Medvid, Middleton.

Moira (40): Dunsmore 8, Graham 5, Pugh 4, McKibbon 8, Baily 4, Glen 4, Jury 3, McMartin, Newell, Richie, Woodcock.

Campbellford Close Second

Moira Matmen Win Title

Moira Secondary School Trojans fought off six other schools to retain the Bay of Quinte COSSA Wrestling champion-ships at Campbellford this week.

Trojans compiled 118 points while the second place Campbellford squad had 106. Moira receives the Major Tanner Trophy for another year with the victory.

Moira will be the scene of the COSSA championship coming up on Saturday, February 29 when 14 schools will be competing. All seven Quinte area teams, plus last year's COSSA champs from Anderson High School, Whitby, will be among the entries.

Trailing Moira and Campbellford in the team standings for the Quinte title was Trenton 67, Norwood 37, BCVS 29, Albert College 26 and Madoc 16 points.

Moira needed six firsts, three seconds and two fourths to turn back the Campbellford challenge in the 3-way competition.

Champion Fires 67 5-Under-Par

MARACAIBO (AP) — Defending champion Jim Ferree fired a five-under-par 67 to grab the first round lead in the Maracaibo Open golf tournament in Venezuela Thursday.

Ferree holed six birdies, four on the front nine, and only a late surge by veteran Art Wall prevented the 32-year-old U.S. pro from running away from the field in this opening tournament of a four-stop Caribbean tour. Four players tied for third with 70s. They were Adrien Bigras, from Montreal who plays out of Tampa, Ariz., and American Bob Gebda, Billy Capps and Jay Dolan.

Belch Whips SACOS 5-2, Daubers Up

Horlock Electric edged Ter-Hae Daubers 5-4 and Belch Construction slipped SACO a 5-3 setback in windup of the Quinte Hockey League schedule last night.

Playoffs are expected to get under way next Thursday.

Horlocks and Ter-Haer each scored twice in the first period and once in the third but the Electric squad held a 3-1 edge in the middle heat to provide the victory margin.

Bobby Wannamaker had a terrific night for the winners, scoring four goals. He bagged one in the first, as did Ab Wright, got two in the second and another in the third. B. Burrows drew two helpers, B. Hill and Wright one apiece.

G. Duggan, T. Morgan, W. Pringle and B. Thompson were the Dauber marksmen. Pringle, D. Moore, B. Paisley, and H. Pointer drew assists.

Belch's jumped into a 3-0 lead against the first-place SACO team and led all the way. It was 4-1 after two heats, each club scoring once in the third.

Larry Westfall triggered three Belch goals, including both first-frame markers, and also earned two assists. D. Hallam with one and three, and B. Yome, also scored. G. Webb drew four assists to complete the winners' scoring.

H. Reid and Jack Calnan scored for SACO, C. Allenby and B. Porteous getting assists.

Olympics Showing Reflection On Society-LaMarsh

Canada Should Be More Sportsminded

OTTAWA (CP)—Health Minister Judy LaMarsh said Thursday that Canada's poor showing in the Winter Olympics is more a reflection upon Canadian society than on the individual athletes involved.

"The people of other nations seem to attach more importance to sport and indeed to physical fitness than we do," the minister told a Kiwanis club meeting.

Canada simply didn't have as many athletes to choose from as other countries and those chosen didn't enjoy the same facilities, training and support as the competition they met in Europe.

"It is something like taking a group of Sunday tennis players from Kapuskasing or Aklavik and sending them to California to represent Canada in the Davis Cup," said the minister.

Miss LaMarsh, who was in Austria for the Olympics, said she wasn't trying to belittle the efforts of the Canadians. All had given their best.

SEES NEED

But there was a need for Canadians to become more sportsminded. The government had a part to play but "I am afraid there is more than that could and should be done in the family, in the school and in the amateur sport."

"Somehow, our children must be taught that sport is important, physical fitness even more so."

Miss LaMarsh said she was encouraged by the work going on by the fitness directorate of her department to promote fitness and amateur sport.

But she hoped the government-sponsored program could be expanded to encourage fitness in all sports—including perhaps athletic gardening.

"I would like to see our youngsters given the opportunity to train and practice under Olympic conditions, even if this means sending them out of the country to take advantage of the best facilities available anywhere."

At the same time facilities must be improved in Canada.

Miss LaMarsh said it was ironic that Canada's only gold medal winner at the Olympics was won by the bobsledders who had to leave Canada to train.

LIKES HOCKEY PLAN

Miss LaMarsh also called the formation of a national hockey team to play in the Olympics "a step in the right direction." The team under Rev. David Bauer impressed everyone with its courage and sportsmanship, she said.

Sport has become a part of international politics and "proof that one has the best in the world in sports becomes a part of the international propaganda-lists."

"I am not suggesting for one minute that we ought to follow suit and draft the Toronto Maple Leafs into the army just long enough to prove our superiority in our national game over the Russians and Czechs," the minister said.

"Much as I would like to see this in some ways, I don't think that is the Canadian way of doing things and I think it is a long way from the Olympic spirit."

It was better, concluded the minister, to stick to principles of amateur sport but at the same time to persuade young Canadians of the value of sport, and give them the equipment to meet any competition anywhere on equal terms.

George Murphy Has Chance To Win Republican Primary

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "Right this way, senator."

George Murphy beamed and followed the Brown Derby head waiter toward a booth. He stopped to table-hop along the way, and one pal told him, "say, George, you may win the Republican primary."

"And the general election, too," Murphy replied.

At the booth, he talked of his new career with the same cheerful confidence he brought to his career as hoofer and actor.

Now it's George Murphy, corporation executive, world's fair showman and candidate for United States Senate. With only financier Leland Kaiser in the Republican race so far and the Democrats in a state of confusion over the health of Sen. Clair Engle, Murphy's candidacy is being taken more seriously by party pros.

He was asked what brought about his change from an acting career.

LIBERALS PREFERRED

"I wasn't working," he said. "It seems that political activity doesn't hurt a liberal who is an actor, but it can hurt a conservative.

"I could see the handwriting on the wall when Louis B. Mayer was kicked out of MGM and the Dore Schary group took over. I was under contract, but they always found reasons to cast someone else in roles I was up for. When a top network official told me he couldn't hire me for roles, because of my political activity, I figured it was time to look around.

"I decided to see if I could earn a living from what I had been doing for nothing."

His activities had been stage-managing the Republican national conventions, helping the Eisenhower campaigns and doing public relations chores for the film industry. The latter earned him an academy award.

Suggests Interleague Scheduling

SEATTLE (AP) — Ted Williams suggested Thursday that interleague scheduling may be a means of stimulating interest in baseball.

"Baseball is still the greatest game there is," said the former Boston slugger after hitting great, but he added that football has been permitted to take over the national spotlight.

"I'm so far removed from the game I hesitate to tell the owners how to run their business," he said. "but it's obvious they're not advancing with the times."

The interleague play would help a lot. And they've got to do something to speed the game along.

"Football owners have done everything they can to make it more interesting for the spectator.

"When colleges get so crowded they're forced to go full blast the year around, college football will become a big thing. Maybe it will even become to baseball what college football is to the pros, with a draft to level off the competition."

Pair Leads TucsonOpen Tournament

TUCSON, Ariz (AP)—Ernie Vossler of Oklahoma City and Rex Baxter of Amarillo, Tex., tied for the first round lead in the $20,000 Tucson Open golf tournament Thursday with six-under 64s.

Vossler took the lead early in warm sunshine, while Baxter just made it in the chill of the evening.

Freezing greens delayed the start of the tournament one hour in the morning a dozen golfers weren't able to finish ahead of darkness.

The 37-year-old Baxter was in the last threesome in finish.

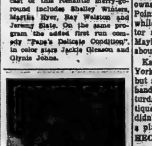
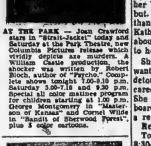
Two Canadians, Al Balding of Toronto and Al Johnston of Montreal, also were overtaken by darkness.



Bob Rosburg of Toronto came in with a 33-38—76 Jean-Guy Perlard of Quebec City shot 40-41—81.

When the flare went up signifying suspension of play, Januarry was playing one stroke under par through 11 holes.



Co-favorite Gary Player of South Africa had a 72.

Kathy Crosby Wants to Do Part in One of Bing's Shows

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—Kathryn Grant Crosby, Bing's pretty young wife, wants an acting job —and, 8,000 miles from home and husband, she is finding trying to do a terrible thing if she doesn't get it.

"I'd love to do a Breaking Point episode, she said, "and if they don't get me a part in Breaking Point, I'm going to get on Dr. Kildare.

This is pretty drastic talk. It happens that Bing's company owns and produces Breaking Point, ABC's psychiatrist series while Dr. Kildare is a rival doctor series on another network. Maybe there's a company rule about moonlighting.

Kathy Crosby was in New York for three days this week, but so busy talking up her husband's CBS musical special Saturday night and hunting antique French chairs that she didn't even have time to go to a play.

HECTIC FIVE YEARS

The hectic schedule is routine for the Texas - born brunette after five years of marriage to Bing Crosby, and time she has borne three children, completed a full nurse's training course—and won her cap—at Queen of Angels Hospital, Los Angeles, learned to play golf, and four hundred—has even found time for an occasional television appearance.

Saturday night, on Bing's guests, she will make her public singing-dancing debut. The show was taped more than three months ago, and Kathy seems a little nervous about how the public will react to her talents.

She says that she "always wanted to be a singer," so she detoured to a promising film career when she married Bing. She expects to take her state board examinations to become a registered nurse next month. Recommended Viewing:

Tonight: Destry, ABC, 7:30-8:30—premiere of a new Western series. Saturday — Bing Crosby Special, CBS, 8:30-9:30 p.m.—with Frank Sinatra, Dean Martin and Kathryn Grant Crosby; Sunday — Paris: A Story of High Fashion, NBC, 10-11.

More Money To Be Spent On Defence

LONDON (CP)—The annual defence white paper Thursday announced a $180,000,000 ($650,000,000 increase in military spending and again underlined the government's determination to keep Britain's independent nuclear deterrent.

The total defence bill for 1964-65 will be close to $2,000,000,000 ($6,000,000,000). This is about seven per cent of the gross national product—the yearly value of goods and services produced —as compared with about 13 per cent in Russia and nine per cent in the United States.

Less than 10 per cent will be devoted to nuclear defences although this proportion probably will increase gradually in subsequent budgets until Britain's first nuclear submarine is delivered in 1968.

The paper's emphasis on the deterrent suggests again that Prime Minister Douglas-Home is anxious for an all-out battle on the question as a major issue in the general election which must be held this year.

Observers regard it as a disguised budget speech.

And the first clash will come when the defence debate opens in the Commons Feb. 28.

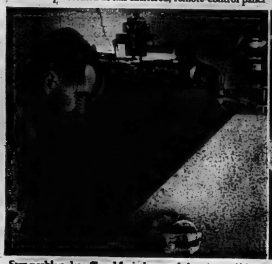
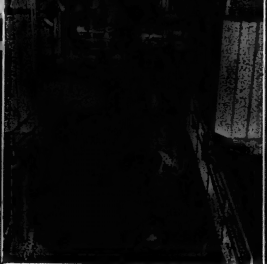
Canada's New Star Fixer Amazingly Accurate



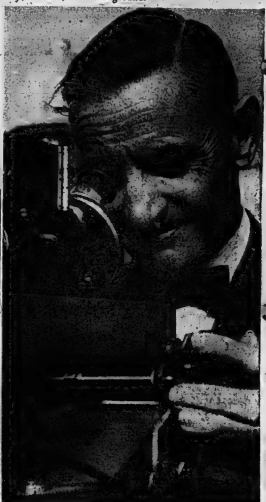
Operation of complex telescope during night-time observations is performed at this sheltered, remote-control panel so that astronomer's body heat does not upset delicate functioning.

Slicing sidereal time into fantastically thin slices, a revolutionary Canadian telescope is fixing the stars in the heavens with greater accuracy than ever before. Designed and built at the Dominion Observatory in Ottawa, the Mirror Transit Telescope is a complex of servo-mechanisms, electronics and special recording cameras. Its twin north-and-south pointing telescopes are rigidly aligned along the meridian on massive concrete foundations. Into these telescopes the light from stars being observed is reflected by an 11-inch-diameter fused quartz mirror which is flat to within one-tenth of a wavelength of visible light. Operated by remote control so that the body heat of an attendant astronomer will not interfere with its extraordinary precision, the mirror transit telescope is photographically recording data of vital importance in the fields of astrophysics, celestial navigation, missile guidance, space travel and the determination of time to an incredible exactness. Canada's new star fixer is providing the nation's scientists with a leading place in the specialized realm of positional astronomy, is a technological triumph of Canadian ingenuity.

NATIONAL FILM BOARD PHOTOTORY



Revolutionary-type telescope is housed in cross-shaped white building, above. Sixty-year-old Dominion Observatory, Ottawa, is in background.



Star-position data filmed by telescope is later recorded on machine then transferred to punched cards.

Malcolm Thomson, reflected in fused quartz mirror, talks with telescope's designer, George Brealey.

Malcolm Thomson, chief of positional astronomy, sights through one of many recording devices on telescope.

Ducks Unlimited to Spend Million in Northern Sask. To Breed More Waterfowl

By JIM NEAVES

WINNIPEG (CP)—An international conservation organization is spending $1,000,000 in northern Saskatchewan and Manitoba to encourage wildfowl breeding.

Ducks Unlimited hopes to have the dams, dikes and other water control structures—to retain water in marshy areas—completed in about two years. They cover 320,000 acres of the Cumberland Marsh in Saskatchewan just west of the Manitoba boundary, and projects in and south of the Carrot River triangle in Manitoba and Saskatchewan covering another 135,000 acres.

These areas are west of The Pas, Man., 314 miles northwest of Winnipeg in the Saskatchewan River delta.

The projects have taken on added importance since the Manitoba government's Grand Rapids hydro development, expected to be completed next fall, will create a lake that will drown a potential 975,000 acres of wildlife habitat, about 1,500 square miles.

WILL REDUCE LOSS

However, the loss of wildlife habitat created by the Grand Rapids dam—at the outlet of the Saskatchewan River into Lake Winnipeg—is expected to be reduced under plans proposed by the Manitoba government that would cost about $880,000.

The plans call for construction of dams and dikes to protect the area, reducing the loss to about 463,000 acres.

Water control management on the two DU projects, at Cumberland Marsh and the Carrot River triangle, will help offset the loss of wildlife breeding grounds.

Chuck Lacey, provincial biologist for Ducks Unlimited at Winnipeg, says "it's hard to tell at the moment" whether the two projects would entirely compensate for the loss.

VITAL AREAS

"The two northern areas, both bordering on the Saskatchewan River, are most valuable because of the insured water supply which with control measures can become highly productive to wildfowl seeking alternate breeding grounds during severe drought conditions in southern areas," he said.

This possibility of drought in the south is one of the reasons for the move to northern areas.

"While the southern areas, where DU has undertaken most of its work, remain the most productive for wildfowl, the northern breeding grounds are of extreme importance and are becoming more so each year."

The biologist said Ducks Unlimited has already spent about $700,000 in the two areas, and to complete the development it is estimated that an additional $300,000 will be required.

WORK HAS STARTED

"Much of the additional work for dams and dikes to control waterflow to and from the marshy areas of the Cumberland Marsh and the Carrot River triangle is in the preliminary stage," he said. "Some structures are under construction, others are under negotiation with the government and still others remain on the drafting board."

How do such conservation projects come into being?

Engineers and biologists employed by Ducks Unlimited jointly consider, survey and all their findings for any given area must be correlated before any decision is made on construction.

The engineers' survey estimates the feasibility and costs involved to maintain the area at a permanently satisfactory water level to promote the nesting and breeding of wildfowl.

The biologists' role is to recommend the program of water management which would best be suited to stimulate the highest possible wildfowl production.

OBTAIN LEASES

Negotiations for the land follow, before the project is turned over to the construction crews.

"Leases for the Cumberland Marsh were obtained from the Saskatchewan government in 1960," said Mr. Lacey, "and for the Carrot River triangle in 1962."

He said "considerable concern" was voiced by conservation groups when the extent of loss to wildlife habitat by the Grand Rapids development was made known. One report showed value of fur animals, wildfowl and moose would drop to $154,000 annually compared with a pre-development value of $580,000.

Since its establishment in Canada in 1938, a year later than its parent body in the United States, Ducks Unlimited has spent more than $8,200,000 on more than 600 waterfowl conservation projects across the Canadian prairies. It is supported by Canadians interested in wildfowl conservation, but the major portion of its operating expenses is realized through contributions from people in the United States.

MR. MELTZER ON REAL ESTATE
"What's Your Problem?"

By BERNARD C. MELTZER

When a real estate broker accepts a listing he is bound by duty, as agent for the owner, to serve energetically the interest of his client. At the same time he is concerned with satisfying the desires or needs of the purchaser. Even when successful on both counts, however, he is sometimes subject to criticism.

• • •

Dear Mr. Meltzer: My husband is a wonderful man but about as impractical as a dreamer can be. To surprise me he made a deposit on a ramshackled 'genuine' old coach house that probably saw its best days a hundred years ago. He had a vision of fixing it into a dream house.

Not wanting to tell him his dream would be my nightmare, I used logic. It had no yard and I told him that a garden was my fondest wish. Convinced, he went dutifully to ask for his deposit back.

Not only did he not get his deposit back, but the same salesman sold him another old house next door that could be torn down to make room for a 'really beautiful garden space!'

Surely real estate men aren't dreamers, too! How could this salesman have allowed my husband to make such a foolish purchase?

Answer: A good real estate broker is a careful combination of both dreamer and practical man. It is this mixture of qualities that allows him to match the desires of purchasers with his responsibility to his client.

Your husband made his choice and purchased of his own volition. In selling him the coach house — not to mention the space for "your fondest wish" — he has served your husband's desires and at the same time served his client's interest which is, after all, his primary responsibility.

• • •

Dear Mr. Meltzer: I am a recent widow and badly frightened. After 30 years of payments, I don't even know if I own my home.

I have searched my husband's papers and have not found the deed to our property. He was very meticulous and if we had a deed it would be with his papers.

We built our house, and worked and saved and went without to pay off our mortgage. Paying for our son's education required a second mortgage but we paid that off, too, and thought we had a place free and clear for our old age.

Now I have nothing to prove that I own the property. I have receipts and two mortgages marked paid but no deed.

I'm even afraid to ask anyone about it for fear they will learn I don't own my property and evict me. Please! Is there anything I can do?

Answer: You have nothing to fear. I am certain that you own your property. The fact that you had two mortgages is proof in itself. No lending institution will grant a mortgage without proof of good and marketable title.

If you desire further reassurance without discussing it with anyone else, go to the Office of Recorder of Deeds of your county and ask to inspect the records for your property. You will be able to confirm your ownership with your own eyes and, for a small fee, secure a copy of the deed.

• • •

Dear Mr. Meltzer: The last time I had a dandruff problem I asked my doctor for advice. This time I am asking you for advice because it's my house that has developed dandruff.

We have owned a nice red brick house for two years, and each month the white powder stains on the outside get larger and larger and flake more and more. It is very unsightly and our house looks shabbier all the time. Can something be done about this condition?

Answer: The white stain on your brick work is known as "efflorescence." It is a crystalline deposit of salts that is drawn to the surface by the evaporation of the water that has soaked into the brick during rainstorms.

Curing this condition is a two step process. The stain must be removed. This can be done by washing them with a solution of one part hydrochloric acid to 20 parts of water. The bricks should then be sealed by painting them with a clear, transparent waterproofing compound. The materials can be purchased at most hardware stores.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: We are preparing our household budget for the coming year. Among the items of home maintenance is a new sidewalk. We have never put in a sidewalk before, however, and aren't quite certain how much to allow for it. The walk will be 4 feet wide and 200 feet long. How much will it cost us?

Answer: Pouring a concrete walk of the usual, 4-inch thickness as a rule costs approximately 40 cents per square foot. This may vary because of special conditions or requirements, but can be used as a rule of thumb. On this basis you should set aside $320 in your budget for your new walk.

• • •

Mr. Meltzer welcomes your letters and comments. Unfortunately he is unable to enter into personal correspondence with readers, but will attempt to answer as many letters as possible through his column.

Uneasy at Pension Plan, Robarts Not Rejecting It

TORONTO (CP) — Premier John Robarts expressed misgivings about the Canada Pension Plan Friday, but said he was not completely rejecting the plan.

"Full and through public inquiry into the plan and its relations to provincial plans and proposals in the welfare and pension field" was essential, the Ontario premier said in a letter to Prime Minister Pearson, tabled in the legislature.

Changes in the plan are not in accord with Ontario requests, the premier said.

Asked outside the legislature whether this means Ontario is rejecting the plan out of hand, he said:

"No it doesn't—that is what you would like me to say—but it doesn't."

In Ottawa, a spokesman said Prime Minister Pearson would have no comment until he studied the letter.

The premier's letter, breaking a long silence on the pension subject, was in answer to a Jan. 11 memorandum on Ontario's revised proposals for the plan.

The revisions announced by Ottawa lower the maximum benefit payable to a person aged 65 who has been paying into the plan for 10 years to $150 a month from $175. The revisions provide an income-ceiling of $4,500 compared to $4,000 previously. The ceiling would be raised in line with increases in national average earnings in future years, as would the $150-a-month benefit. But the $75-a-month old age security benefit that forms half of the maximum pension would remain constant.

Ontario felt this was inequitable because a person who reached age 70 before the plan goes into affect would receive only $75 a month the rest of his life.

Ontario argued that pressure would be put on the federal government to raise the old-age security payment as the pension fund built up to its estimated $2,500,000,000.

"We are convinced the Canada Pension Plan will cause major disturbance to existing pensions and no progress appears no suggestions are made as to how the plans are to be integrated," the premier told Mr. Pearson.

The integration and other difficulties "centre around three features of the Canada Pension Plan—namely the short maturity period before maximum benefits are paid, the large subsidies to those retiring in early years and the automatic adjustment of pension according to an earning index."

A closer relationship between contributions and benefits, as suggested by Ontario, would remove many of the difficulties, the letter said.

The premier said the provinces should have 90 per cent of a $2,500,000,000 reserve fund available for their own investment purposes and the federal government the remaining 10 per cent.

Ottawa's proposal to keep half the pension fund for its own investment purposes was excessive."

Today's Chuckle

A yawn is at least an honest opinion.

THE WEATHER

Synopsis: Colder weather will return to Northern regions today, while a storm over northern Oklahoma will spread cloud and snow into southern Ontario tonight. On Sunday the precipitation over southern regions will change to snowflurries followed by a gradual clearing and colder tempera-

Tax on Building Materials Causing Damage Says Dief

OTTAWA (CP) — Opposition Leader Diefenbaker called Friday for removal of the sales tax imposed in the last budget on building materials and production machinery.

The Progressive Conservative leader said in an interview his opening speech of the parliamentary session, which gets under way Tuesday, will deal with government taxation policy and the cabinet reorganization carried out since the last session.

In the economic field, the detrimental effect of the sales tax on production machinery and building materials is being felt," he said in discussing the issues that will develop during the session.

"We intend to press the government—if it won't remove the three-per-cent sales tax imposed last June on production machinery and, building materials—at least to pass legislation so the additional four per cent that takes effect March 31 and the further three per cent at the end of the year will have no effect."

Among other issues, he listed the "obvious failure" of the government's trusteeship over Canadian maritime unions, nuclear arming of Bomarc missiles in Canada and the cabinet reorganization.

On the maritime trusteeship Mr. Diefenbaker said president Hal Banks of the Seafarers' International Union of Canada "still reigns supreme."

"I said from the beginning he should be removed, that as long as he is in there will always be the danger of trouble."

In the economic field, he said that has taken place—apparently referring to U.S. cutbacks in its Canadian purchases—indicated that the stand of his government last year against accepting nuclear warheads on Canadian soil at that time "was the proper stand to take."

With the Commons facing a heavy legislative list, Mr. Diefenbaker said MPs should be sitting longer hours right from the start of the session.

He said the dinner-hour adjournment from six to eight o'clock should be devoted to debate on non-contentious legislation and private members' bills, which now take up the hour from five to six.

Wants Juvenile Delinquents Whipped by Father in School

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A bill to authorize public whipping of juvenile delinquents has been introduced in the Michigan legislature.

State Representative Arthur Law of Pontiac, a Democrat, said his bill would revive "an American institution—the old-fashioned whipping with a switch or a belt."

"I don't think this will lead to the whipping post such as Delaware has on the books," said Law, but it's time we quit theorizing about what causes delinquency and do something to curb it."

Law, 35, an Oklahoma-born grocer and veteran of three two-year terms in the legislature, would authorize public corporal punishment, preferable administered by the offender's father, on order from a probate judge.

This punishment would be in addition to other sentencing and would be administered by the father of the child or peace officer designated by the probate court," the bill, introduced Thursday, says. "The court shall designate the place and time of punishment."

"I think the judge should order it to be done in the school, in front of the other students," Law said. "They could call an assembly for it.

"If this were done in front of the kids and in the neighborhood where the delinquent acts were committed, it would be far more effective."

May Cut Foreign Control Over Canadian Industry Without Increasing Tax

WASHINGTON (CP) — Finance Minister Walter Gordon hinted Friday he may achieve his aim of reducing foreign control over Canadian industry without the need for increasing the Canadian withholding tax on dividends to 20 per cent from 15 next year.

He said also that just because the U.S. reduces income taxes does not necessarily mean that Canada should follow suit in relation at the same time. The situations in the two countries are not comparable, he said.

Gordon conferred with Treasury Secretary Douglas Dillon on a number of cross-border economic issues.

These included the withholding tax problem—outlook for the proposed U.S. tax on foreign securities, the Canadian tariff incentive program for expansion of automotive production and the exploration by the two countries into the possibility of establishing a special set of economic principles to guide future Canadian-U.S. relations.

The withholding tax issue is one of the main sensitives between the two governments. Canada reduced the rate on repatriated dividends to 10 per cent from 15 for those foreign-controlled companies which offered at least 25 per cent of their stock to Canadian purchasers. However, the rate will rise to 20 per cent in the next year for those which do not make this minimum offering. The U.S. interests have described this latter action as discriminatory.

Gordon told a press conference following his talks with Dillon that Canada continues to be greater assurance that the proposed U.S. income tax legislation will be approved by congress. He said there had not been much hope that they would be passed. He noted that under the new U.S. corporation income tax would be reduced to

Divorce Court Writes Finis To Unique English Harem

LONDON (AP) — A man who lived with three women simultaneously in one bungalow was relieved of one of them—his wife by the divorce court Friday.

The man was Donald M. Goodman, 37, and his manyspiendored love life was described by Mrs. Gwyneth Rees as "bizarre in the extreme."

The divorce decree was obtained, by Swiss - born Mrs. Anita Goodman, 28, on cruelty and intolerable conduct. She testified that at one and the same time Goodman, a company director, maintained in the bungalow:

Herself, his legal wife (he had been divorced by two previous ones).

Miss Dorothy Busey, 24, by whom he had already had an illegitimate child.

Mrs. Gwyneth Spooner, 31, his secretary, who served him after office hours in other ways.

Mrs. Goodman said Mrs. Spooner's father was tipped off to the odd quadrangle and persuaded his daughter to come home to mother.

"If anything could be more remarkable than what then happened I have never heard of it," said the judge's incredulous comment.

He said Goodman urged his wife and Miss Busey to share Gwyneth back to the bungalow because he was unhappy without her. But the women agreed to try. They succeeded, and life went on as before, for more or less.

At one point the bungalow contained Goodman, the three women, Miss Busey's son by Goodman and one of his sons by one of his previous marriages. Later Goodman and Mrs. Spooner were pregnant at the time.

After three years of this, Mrs. Goodman decided her marriage was being a bowling success. She filed for divorce, and got it.

Turkish Invasion Reports Launch Waves Of Concern Across Embattled Cyprus

Rumblings Bring New Threat To US Peacemaking Mission

CP from AP-Reuters

ATHENS — George W. Ball, U.S. undersecretary of state, held urgent talks today with Greek officials as military rumblings from Turkey brought a new threat to his Cyprus peacemaking mission.

Turkish troop-carrying warships were said to have embarked from the port of Iskenderun, less than 100 miles from Cyprus. The reports sent a wave of fear across the embattled island of an imminent Turkish invasion.

The Turkish chief of staff Gen. Cevdet Sunay, was quoted as saying the ship movements were manoeuvres, not an invasion.

Greek forces also were said to be on an alert.

Reuters news agency reported that unofficial reports in Ankara said that Turkey had decided to use her right of intervention in Cyprus, but had delayed action for 48 hours at Ball's request.

Ball was reported to have assured Turkish officials Friday of U.S. support in the event the Greek forces did not withdraw their troops in Turkish ports, and Sunday said "our troops are holding exercises in that area."

Turkey's communications minister, Ferit Alpiskender, confirmed the gathering of the troop transports but said supplies would be shipped to the Mediterranean island republic.

But unofficial reports said a Turkish army division in the area was at alarm stations and its commander, Gen. Nurettin Heper, was wearing battledress.

Ball was scheduled to leave for London on talks of conferences with British officials on a new tact in the perilous situation.

Premier Inonu warned Ball in Ankara Friday that Turkey might have to intervene to protect the Turkish-Cypriot minority unless peace is restored.

Ball left Cyprus after he failed to persuade the island's Greek-Cypriot president, Archbishop Makarios, to accept an international peace force free of UN control to keep the warring factions apart.

With the renewed military preparations, Ball now sought to head off confrontation between Greece and Turkey in their top-of-war cyprus. Both are members of NATO.

IS FEARFUL

In London, British Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home expressed fears upon his return from Washington that the civil strife on Cyprus could embroil the alliance partners in a direct conflict. He said more British troops would be sent to Cyprus if necessary.

New fighting between Greek- and Turkish-Cypriots took the lives of three Turkish-Cypriots and one Greek in the western towns of Polis and Paphos - Kitma Friday.

The Greek-Cypriots said they captured 30 Turkish - Cypriots when an armored bulldozer broke into a Turkish - Cypriot stronghold in Kilma, adjacent to Paphos.

The Greeks attacked the Turkish quarter after claiming Turks tossed grenades into a cable office, killing a Greek-Cypriot employee.

New firing broke out today in the Kilma area and there was an explosion, according to a British military spokesman.

With no peace in sight, Makarios planned to appeal to the

Noranda Armory Robbed

MONTREAL (CP) — Three men were arrested in the Noranda section an hour after a break - in at an armory there, the army said today.

A spokesman at Quebec Command headquarters said the Noranda police also recovered four FN rifles, four sten submachine carbines and one brenlight machine gun stolen during the break-in.

He said the watchman at the armory, of No. 9 Field Squadron, Royal Canadian Engineers, discovered the break-in early today and gave the alarm as the thieves were fleeing from the scene.

It was not immediately known here how they gained entry into the armory.

The army spokesman said none of the stolen weapons was in serviceable condition because their firing mechanisms were all stored "elsewhere".

Noranda is 300 miles northwest of Montreal.

3 New Senators Named

By JAMES NELSON

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson appointed three new senators Friday and spent most of the day putting the final touched to his government's policy and personnel plans for the new session of Parliament opening Tuesday.

He named to the Upper House Daniel Lang, 44, Toronto lawyer; Nelson Rattenbury, 56, Saint John, N.B., businessman, and Eric Cook, 54, St. John's, Nfld., lawyer.

It was learned that Mr. Pearson will announce, probably Monday, the appointment of one or two new parliamentary secretaries from among Liberal MPs and a shuffle of assignments for some present secretaries originally appointed last spring.

The speech from the throne setting out the government's legislative program was completed Thursday. The cabinet met Friday and will meet again Monday, according to present plans.

THREE SEATS VACANT

Three Senate seats still remain vacant, one each in Newfoundland, Quebec and Ontario. There was no indication when these might be filled, but political sources said it is not unusual to leave some open at the start of a new session.

There now is one vacancy in the office of 18 parliamentary secretaries, created by the appointment to the cabinet last month of Yvon Dupuis, former parliamentary secretary to the state secretary.

One additional vacancy may be created by the retirement because of ill health of Alexis Caron (L—Bristol), one of Mr. Pearson's parliamentary secretaries. Mr. Caron will continue, however, until June.

CAUCUS MEETS SUNDAY

While Mr. Pearson made the last-minute preparations for the administration, the Liberal caucus chairmen Guy Rouleau (L—Montreal Dollard) announced that pre-session caucus meetings of Liberal MPs and senators will be held Sunday and Monday.

Mr. Pearson will attend the opening session of the caucus Sunday and speak for a time. The speech will be off the record, the usual rule of caucus meetings applying.

Mr. Pearson will also attend a plenary meeting of the caucus Monday morning.

Caucus meetings of the other parties are expected Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday before and after presentation of the throne speech.

Standing in the 265-seat Commons: Liberals 129, Conservatives 94, New Democrats 17, Creditiste 14, Social Creditors 11.

Maritime Union Opens War On New Front Against SIU

OTTAWA (CP)—With the full blessing of the powerful Canadian Labor Congress, the fledgling Canadian Maritime Union has launched a membership drive among seamen members of its arch-foe, the Seafarers International Union of Canada.

The drive is being staged with military precision and great secrecy in a bid to sign up a majority of seamen employed by a small group of selected shipping companies.

The organizations' forces opened with a special letter mailed to the homes of certain seamen from Newfoundland to the Lakehead, and is being followed up now with personal calls on the seamen by CMU organizers.

The campaign is the first open clash between the CMU and the SIU since the government imposed a three-man trusteeship in the maritime field. The trustees are empowered to manage and supervise the SIU, the CMU and three other maritime unions.

Several affiliated unions in the CLC are reported to have contributed staff organizers to help off-set organizing the seamen to join the CMU.

The CMU was set up in 1961 after SIU was kicked out of the CLC for raiding another union's membership.

In the letter to seamen signed by CMU secretary - treasurer James Todd, the CLC union says: "The Canadian Maritime Union would like to have you as a member."

The letter asks the seaman-recipient to support the CMU by filling in and signing an application for membership and returning it to the CMU along with a $3 initiation fee.

A CLC official said fewer than 1,000 letters were mailed.

A mixed response to the letters is being received in the CMU headquarters here. Some were eager to join the new union and wanted more information, while a few registered their opposition in some choice phrases.

The surprise move by the CMU may lead to intervention by the government trustees, who have been trying to preserve what they regard as the status quo in the maritime field.

They have told the five unions under trusteeship that competition for unorganized seamen was fair game for all maritime unions, but they said they would frown on inter - union trespassing.

It remains to be seen, however, whether the trustees will attempt to halt the CMU drive immediately or wait until applications for certification are submitted to the Canada Labor Relations Board.

His Feelings Hurt

OTTAWA (CP) — William J. Smith, national president, of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers (CLC), said Friday the government's marine union trustees have made unwarranted allegations that the CBRT is undemocratic.

Mr. Smith was reporting to a bulletin mailed by the trustees to some 14,000 marine workers belonging to the five waterfront unions under trusteeship.

"The communication contains grave allegations that the brotherhood is undemocratic," said Mr. Smith. "That's just not true. No attempt was ever given a clean bill of health by Mr. Justice T. G. Norris and I challenge the trustees to cite chapter and verse where they find otherwise."

Common Opposition Likely To Cry for Head of Banks

OTTAWA (CP)—An opposition outcry for the head of Hal Banks of the Seafarers' International Union of Canada appeared to erupt at the session of Parliament starting Tuesday.

With the shipping season about seven weeks away, opposition spokesmen say they will press for action by the trustees in early report from the three-man board of trustees over maritime unions on what they have done and plan to do in restoring democracy to the SIU.

Labor Minister MacEachen is expected to receive the trustees' report this month, and to table it in the Commons promptly.

There are indications, however, that the report may do little to mollify MPs who felt the ouster of Banks would be the first action by the trustees in assuming management and control of the SIU and the four other maritime unions.

Banks in Court

MONTREAL (CP) — Defence counsel argued Friday that a conspiracy charge against President Hal Banks and six other officials of the Seafarers' International Union (Ind.) should be quashed because of legal deficiencies.

Judge Emile Trottier took the motion under advisement until Feb. 20. The charge concerns alleged conspiracy to persuade seamen to leave their ships during last October's SIU march on Ottawa.

London Bingos Will Continue Despite Raid

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—A number of organizations here indicated Friday they will continue to operate Bingo games daily despite a police raid Thursday night on an Optimist club-sponsored game that resulted in the arrest of three persons.

Three London men, two of them described by police as Optimist Club members, were arrested on a joint charge of conducting a lottery after more than some 20 policemen and police women raided the London Arena, scene of the city's biggest bingo players from the hall just as a woman called "bingo" to claim a $250 jackpot.

Douglas Oliver Campbell, 30, John Bowen, 36, and Eugene Milton Hood, 57, all of London, were allowed bail of $1,000 each Friday and remanded to Feb. 21. Police said Campbell and Bowen are members of the Optimist organization.

TWO OTHERS QUIT

Police say they are also seeking two other men on warrants in connection with Thursday night's raid.

Chief Constable Finlay Carroll said Friday that the raid does not represent a crackdown on bingos in the city. He described it as resulting from "an investigation that got out of hand when it seemed apparent there were certain irregularities in the game."

The investigation, he said, in no way reflects on the integrity of Optimist clubs or any other clubs.

A meeting of the central Optimist bingo committee here Friday decided that bingo games will continue despite the raid. Other organizations also announced they will continue.

Seven Entries In Village Death Stakes

BALERNO (AP)—You can lay a bet today in the village betting shop on who'll be the seventh person to die in this Scottish village.

At the moment, the legalized gambling den has seven runners in the death sweepstakes. Anybody can bet, including the seven whose names are on the board for all to see. No one has collected—yet.

As each man catches cold, he suffers any form of illness, the odds change.

Favorite for the grave Friday was widower Jimmy Orr, at 11-4 odds. Jimmy downed his whisky at the pub and said:

"When one of us falls to turn up either at the local pub or the betting shop, he is automatically a bit of a favorite. Only a few weeks ago I was in bed with bronchitis and was made 4-6 favorite."

Archie Marshal at 7-2 is the oldest man in the betting. He is joint second favorite at 6-1.

Archie Dickson, 39, is a worker and the youngest man on the board. The other entries contend he now is drinking himself instead of whisky so he can outlast the others and collect bets on death.

Some years ago a former local official said Balerno, a working class village of less than 1,000 population, was "notorious for its drinking and fighting."

Sinatra Jr. Denies Kidnap Was Staged

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Frank Sinatra Jr. testified Friday he did not stage his own kidnap who had stopped the car of his alleged abductors because he did not want to be involved in crime.

He resumed some daring cross examination by Mrs. Gladys Towles Root, counsel for one of the men charged with conspiracy of kidnapping young Sinatra from Lake Tahoe, last Dec. 8. His father was freed 16 hours later after his famous father paid $240,000 ransom.

Mrs. Root: True, Mr. Sinatra, asked Mrs. Root, "that you did not want to see anybody?"

Sinatra: "I've told you, I did not want to see anybody."

Mrs. Root: "Why?"

Sinatra: "Because, Mrs. Root, the number one man stated before we got to the road block that there was going to be a shooting. I did not want a sudden and frequent move to cause this man who was stupid enough to kidnap me to voluntarily blow the brains out of this office."

"I did not want to have on my conscience the death of an innocent bystander.

"I would rather face these men alone than have that."

Mrs. Root then asked "is it not true that the real reason you did not cry out was because you had conceived and staged this kidnap and didn't want anyone to thwart it?"

Sinatra: "No, Mrs. Root, that is not correct."

Rev. E. P. Smith Is Inducted By Bishop

SHANNONVILLE — This small Anglican community in this area was packed to the doors Thursday night to welcome the bishop who has seven runners in the death sweepstakes. Anybody can bet, including the seven whose names are on the board for all to see. No one has collected—yet.

As each man catches cold, he suffers any form of illness, the odds change.

RECEIVES KEYS

Following the institution the Reverend E. P. Smith was conducted into the "real, actual, and corporal possession of the Church with all the rights, privileges and emoluments thereto belonging" and received at the hands of his Church warden the symbolic presentation of the keys of the church.

Before outlining the duties of the minister and of the congregation the Bishop instructed the people to express their assent to the responsibilities placed in them by making the proper responses.

Guest preacher for the occasion was the Venerable Archdeacon Jack Creeggan of Kingston. Mr. Creeggan had been Rector of Christ Church, Belleville, during Mr. Smith's duties there as assistant.

The preacher mentioned his early connection with the Shannonville congregation through the office of his clergyman-father and in different light than that of the first 'sent' disciples at Antioch.

He stated that "the task of the church was carried out by men as fallible and scruples" and that it was only because they had accepted the Lord's discipleship that they were able to accomplish such great things.

"There were still a great many things to accomplish," he said and cautioned that they be done in a spirit of love. He pointed out to the congregations of Shannonville and Pt. Anne that the Reverend Smith would ably serve them in this regard for he knew that he had shown this love to people and that this would be his great asset.

Following the service the Bishop blessed a processional cross, an alms bason, collection plates, the new altar frontier and dossar, for use in the parish.

The gifts were the offering of the choir and Sunday School of Point Anne and of Mr. Herb Cavalier, Kingston, who had been assisting the congregations in their worship prior to the new rector's induction.

Assisting in the service were the Venerable Archdeacon A. S. McConnell of Belleville, Belleville, and Rural Dean R. deBlois Wright, of St. Mary Magdalene's, Picton, and Reverend D. W. Sinclair of St. Thomas, Belleville, acted as Bishop's Chaplain.

The Reverend Mr. Smith met with his parishioners and guests following the service at the home of Mr. and Mrs. McKenzie of Shannonville.

Mr. Smith will continue to live at his home on Coleman Street in Belleville and will assume in addition to his pastoral care of Shannonville and Point Anne the position of Chaplain to the Belleville General Hospital.

Says Trenton Strike Caused Confidence Loss

TORONTO (CP) — In the Ontario Legislature yesterday Donald C. MacDonald, leader of the New Democratic Party, said the government's handling of the Trenton hospitals strike has caused a loss of confidence in the province's labor department.

PROMISED LAW

His said Labor Minister Rowntree had promised to introduce legislation to provide for a compulsory arbitration in a dispute at the hospital, but did not do so during the two-day session of the legislature in October. As a result of Mr. Rowntree's promise the union changed its strike deadline from the end of September to the end of October, the strike was settled early this month.

Mr. MacDonald said the cabinet overruled Mr. Rowntree and he should have resigned.

The NDP leader said Health Minister Dymond was misinformed when he denied in the House that the Ontario Hospital Services Commission had given the hospital money to break the strike.

W. G. Noden (PC—Rainy River), chairman of the committee of supporters considering the labor department estimates, would not allow Vernon Singer (L—Algoma East) to speak because the minister Mr. Singer said should be heads up the canvass captains.

Dogs Plague School Pupils

DESERONTO—A dog's bark may be worse than his bite as far as some students at Centre Glocster of this town isn't happy about either.

Residents have been complaining lately about the bands of dogs roving the streets of Deseronto and each year there has no dog-catcher the police chief has been challenged to do something about it.

One of the chief areas of complaint is from the public school where children have to run a gauntlet of dogs when they leave the classrooms at noon and at the end of the day.

Ownership of the animals is not too certain in some cases. The only description the chief has of two of his prime suspects is that they are mongrels.

Although the police chief is loath to condemn to death any dog, the persistent nuisance they have caused to many residents through their maurading and scavenging has caused him to insist that the dogs be tied up or destroyed.

Somalia Ready to Comply With African Truce Order

MOGADISHU, Somalia (Reuters)—Somalia is ready to comply with a cease-fire ordered by the Organization of African Unity, an information ministry spokesman said Friday night.

Ministers at an OAU meeting in Dar Es Salaam, Tanganyika, Friday called on Ethiopia and Somalia to observe an immediate cease-fire.

Relations between the two countries have been strained for some time. Ethiopia has accused Somalia of "expansionist programs," while Somalia claims sovereignty over a border region of Ethiopia as part of "greater Somalia."

The Somali spokesman added his government's decision had also been influenced by appeals from individual African leaders.

Earlier, a government source announced that four Ethiopian planes had bombed Somalia villages 5 miles from the border, killing two persons and wounding 14 at a Somali border training centre.

While the Ferfer border area, scene of recent fighting, was reported quiet, the government Somali News said Ethiopian forces had attacked the village of Dolo, in southwest Somalia near the Kenya northern frontier district.

Official sources in Addis Ababa, Ethiopia, said fighting had been broken out over the border near Ferfer, with both sides understood to have suffered heavy casualties.

Post $20,000 Bond for Longshoremen

CHICAGO (AP) — A $20,000 appeal bond was posted Friday on behalf of 24 longshoremen who refused a court order last summer to halt a boycott against a Canadian shipping firm.

Local 418 of the International Longshoremen's Association is appealing a $41,800 fine assessed by Judge James B. Parsons of U.S. District Court for the local's failure to obey the anti-boycott order.

The longshoremen refused last summer and fall to load two ships owned by Upper Lakes Shipping Limited of Toronto. The union members were acting in sympathy with the Seafarers' International Union (Ind.), which objected to Upper Lakes hiring members of the rival Canadian Maritime Union (CLC).

Parsons reduced the bond from $41,800 Monday when Irving M. Friedman, Local 418 lawyer, pleaded the union lacked funds to meet the bond.

Friedman said he will file briefs next month with the U.S. Court of Appeals.

C of C Names Chairmen for 10 Committees

The Belleville Chamber of Commerce monthly directors' meeting adopted a report by "Committees and Committees," Chairman J. C. Houston, listing 10 committees, and appointing their respective chairmen. These are:

1. civic affairs and town planning, 2. education — provincial and national affairs, Chairman, N. Moore. 3 public relations, tourist and convention, chairman, R. Keel; 4 industrial promotion, chairman, D. Boyd; 5 conduct, program and membership, Chairman, G. Hume; 6 transportation, chairman, N. Keith; 7 liaison committee, chairman, G. A. Freeman; 8 business information service, chairman, D. J. Barrett;; 9 businessmen's counselling service, G. A. Wishart; 10 agriculture, chairman, I. Shulman.

Since it is the purpose of a committee, broadly speaking, to study and report, to recommend or to act in certain cases, these committees were selected, Mr. Houston said, "because it was felt they could best assist the Chamber to carry out its program of work for the community and Chamber members."

After the reading of a letter from the Parks and Recreation Committee of the city, requesting suggestions from the Chamber on "How to Beautify Belleville," the directors instructed Chamber manager, Earl Dickenson, to conduct a survey of the membership, and, working closely with the civic affairs chairman, A. Revell, to submit a brief containing ideas and suggestions for the next directors' meeting for approval and transmission to the Parks and Recreation committee.

A motion by Mr. N. Keith to hold a general meeting of Chamber members, April 15, was adopted. Further details regarding site, time and agenda will be decided by the program committee. This will be the first of four such general meetings for 1964, decided upon to keep the members better informed on what the Chamber has done and is trying to accomplish.

The date of the general meeting will complement plans being formed by the program committee for Chamber of Commerce Week, April 12 to 18th this year. Suggestions and ideas for a membership drive during this week are also being explored.

It was unanimously agreed that the regular meeting date of the directors would be the third Thursday of each month. Special meetings will be called at other times as necessity demands. Mr. G. A. Wishart said that the establishment of a monthly meeting date would aid committee chairmen who had reports to be submitted for the directors' approval.

Municipal Board Approves Part of 5-Year Works Plan, Will Rule on Rest Later

Although the Ontario Municipal Board gave only what might be termed "lukewarm" approval of the city's proposed five-year capital works program, city officials were pleased from their trip to Toronto Friday quite satisfied with results.

City hall officials, along with representatives of the public and high school board, met with Board officials seeking approval of the city's proposed five-year capital works program, estimated to cost in excess of nine millions dollars.

Of the above amount, seven million was earmarked for spending in the next three-year period.

What the board did was to cut this seven million figure for 1964-5-6 to six million, give immediate approval for the proposed Bleecker Avenue bridge on Sidney Street, and the public utilities one million dollar program for water, electrical and municipal hydro facilities and ask the city to re-submit its application for the balance of 1964 expenditures after staging details are worked out.

TO STUDY PROPOSALS

Mayor Jack Ellis said that on Monday city council would be asked to approve expenditures for the police building and renovations (the YMCA building), municipal garage, works building and a number of other small items.

At the same time council will be asked to approve of a recommendation for the city's approval to proceed with the Belleville General Hospital extension of which the city's share is estimated at $1,925,000.

All of the above expenditures would come out of the six million dollar capital works budget allotment approved for the next three years.

The municipal board indicated the proposed new high school would be approved for the 1964-5-6 period providing the city could keep within the gross amount allotted for the three-year period.

PLAN HEARD FRIDAY

The city is asking for one month in which to prepare for presentation to the board of its proposed five-year capital works program.

The board heard city officials plan meetings with school board officials and representatives of ratepayers' groups missions to discuss staging of expenditures and allow the board to get on with its program of capital works.

Urges National Effort For Role in Space Age

OTTAWA (CP) — A co-ordinated national effort to enable Canada to play a significant role in the space age was urged here Friday at a space research symposium.

The call was issued by scientists and industrialists at concluding sessions of a two-day meeting, sponsored by the Canadian Aeronautics and Space Institute, on Canada's present contribution to space research and what it should do in future.

The speakers said Canada—government and industry—must put more money into space research if it wants to make an important contribution in this field.

A. W. Bethune, chief of materials research for de Havilland Aircraft of Canada Limited, said unless something is done soon the industry "increased capability in producing materials for space work "we are not going to be participating in any extensive space programs."

He suggested that the aerospace industry in co-operation with the federal government should set up a co-operative research organization similar to the Pulp and Paper Institute.

Dr. J. H. de Leeuw of the University of Toronto said Canada's space effort does not compare favorably with other countries. University research required additional government support and there was no procedure in Canada by which a competent scientist with a sound research proposal would have it tested in a satellite.

Dr. J. C. Arnell, scientific adviser to the chief of the air staff, opposed suggestions that Canada should have its own satellite launching facilities. He said Canada should make a greater effort to take advantage of existing satellites which are transmitting information to earth rather than waste money on building launching pads.

Roberts Rejects Back-Benchers' Pay Demands

TORONTO (CP) — Premier Roberts has turned down a request for more pay from Progressive Conservative back benchers of the Ontario legislature, it was reported Friday.

Several out-of-town members told the premier at a private caucus meeting Thursday they find it difficult to make ends meet on the combined indemnity and expense allowance of $7,000 a year.

Premier Roberts said the present session was not an opportune time for a pay increase. The government has raised taxes in several fields since the September election.

Roseneath Cub Gets Top Award For Gallantry

OTTAWA (CP)—Fifteen boy scouts and wolf cubs from across Canada are to be honored by the governor general for gallantry and chivalry in 1963.

The boys will receive awards for such exploits as preventing a passenger train derailment, risking their lives to rescue others and helping a Mountie to nab four cattle smugglers.

The awards were announced today by scout headquarters to mark the opening of the annual boy scout week. Awards for special services to scouting are going to 28 adult leaders.

The top award this year, the Silver Cross, goes to cub Daniel Rylance, 9, of Roseneath in the Northumberland district, for gallantry with considerable risk.

Danny was cited for fighting off a berserk ram with only a pitchfork at the family farm last Oct. 24. His intervention gave his mother time to snatch his two brothers, aged 2 and 6, from the ram's pen.

Florida Train Is Derailed By Dynamite

Three Injured In Car Crash East of City

A family of five from Markham Ontario, and one woman from Toronto are reported in satisfactory condition in Belleville General Hospital this morning following a one car accident on Highway 401 near Marysville last night.

Taken to hospital by La Salle Ambulance of Belleville was driver of the car, 39-year-old William J. Armstrong, of Parkway Avenue, Markham, suffering leg and mouth injuries; his 39-year-old wife Irene, suffering facial lacerations and back injuries, and their three children, Sandra, six and Thomas, four years. Both children were slightly shaken-up. Also taken to hospital was the Armstrong's two month old baby girl, Barbara, who escaped the accident unharmed, and Mrs. Armstrong's mother, 54-year-old Mrs. Margaret Dougan. Mrs. Dougan received lacerations to both legs and face.

The family was enroute to Brockville from Markham, Ontario when the accident occurred. They were to have visited Mrs. Armstrong's sister in Brockville.

It is believed Mr. Armstrong, who is a draftsman student, lost control of his east-bound vehicle where the dual lane divided, merged into single lane traffic. The vehicle left the road and careened into the ditch. Mr. Armstrong said he lost control of his vehicle when he swerved to the right hand lane after spotting something on the road in front of him.

What Mr. Armstrong saw were bales of hay sacked at the side of the road indicating single lane traffic ahead.

The accident investigated by Belleville OPP occurred about 5:30 p.m. A nurse passing the scene of the accident, rendered first aid to the accident victims while awaiting arrival of the ambulance.

WILL CHECK ADS

QUEBEC (CP) — Starting Monday, no film may be shown in Quebec Province until its advertising has been approved by the Quebec Film Censors Board. The decision was announced in a letter, made public Friday, from Andre Guerin, chairman of the board, to the province's film distributors. The letter said the board of governors requested the ruling because newspaper and billboard advertising of movies has taken on "abusive proportions."

Dallas Site Of Ruby Trial

DALLAS (AP) — The judge ruled Friday that Jack Ruby must go on trial in Dallas Monday for the murder of President Kennedy's accused assassin.

District Judge Joe B. Brown said he still might move the trial to another Texas city, as the defence has demanded—but first the lawyers must try to find 12 impartial jurors here. That will be the true test of whether Ruby can get a fair trial in Dallas, Brown said.

A Task for Brotherhood Week

Next week will be Brotherhood Week in Canada.

It is sponsored by the Canadian Council of Christians and Jews, Inc.

Its aim is "the promotion of justice, amity, co-operation and understanding among the many racial, religious, ethnic and cultural groups that make up the population of Canada."

Nothing less than the realization of this objective will be completely satisfactory. Often, though, it is wise to have short-range goals, as steps towards the long-range objective.

There is in Canada today a pressing need for the establishment of the principle of brotherhood between two of the largest, strongest, wealthiest and most useful groups in the country. We refer to French-speaking Canadians on the one hand and English-speaking Canadians on the other.

Some things which are being said and done by French-speaking Canadians are ruffling the tempers of English-speaking Canadians. These things would not be said, would not be done, if English-speaking Canadians had not in the past irritated their French-speaking fellow-countrymen.

Would not healing this grievous breach of understanding be a worth-while short-term goal for Brotherhood Week?

There are some hints that such a policy may have occurred to the executive of the Canadian Council of Christians and Jews, Inc. The publicity folder is printed in both English and French. The publicity committee has English-speaking and French-speaking co-chairmen and those in charge of promoting Brotherhood Week in daily newspapers, weekly newspapers, on the radio and on television are similarly paired. The first two of several press releases in English deal with Pope Paul and Pope John. "Our country has been built by men and women whose racial origins and religious convictions are as richly varied as our other resources," says Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson in his Brotherhood Week message. The Council has sponsored a change visits of French-speaking and English-speaking students.

So this year we might concentrate on being brothers with those who are truly our brothers, but whose racial extraction is French, where ours may be English or Scottish, or Welsh, or Irish, or German, whose religion is Roman Catholic, where ours may be Protestant, whose customs and values may differ from ours, but who are still, like us, Canadians.

Brotherhood Week is as good a week as any to think about this. But the best time to do something about it is next summer, when vacation time rolls around. Go down into Quebec, find out how friendly the average French-Canadian is to any English-speaking visitor, how beautifully different yet pleasantly familiar is the land. Come home and feel ashamed of some of the harsh criticisms of the French-Canadian—and be prepared to shame the English-speaking French-Canadian who visits English-speaking Canada by treating him with the same courtesy and kindness accorded you by the great bulk of his ethnic group.

When that is done, there will still be much left to accomplish before the ideal of brotherhood is firmly established in this land—but it can never be achieved as long as these two major racial, religious and cultural groups look at each other askance.

Future Problem

The two-home family will supplant the two-car family as tops among Toronto's status seekers.

That is the prediction of Harvey Keith.

The well-spring of his prophecy may be wishful thinking. Keith is a real estate agent. He was addressing the Ontario Association of Real Estate Boards when he peered into the future and caught glimpses of the Promised Land.

Three out of four families will own two homes, he predicted, one in the city and one in the country. Apparently he was thinking of something more elaborate than today's "summer cottage" for the second one.

Keith also forecast that by 2,000 A.D. most people will be working a 25-hour four-day week. This is not short enough. With two front lawns to mow and clip, two sets of storm windows to put on in the fall and take off in the spring, two backyards to clean up in the fall and to plant in the spring, two basements to be tidied, two attics to be filled and emptied periodically, two kitchens and maybe as many as four bathrooms to paint, by 2,000 A.D. it will be going to be lucky if he has any time at all left for work.

Ottawa Offbeat
Tory Hi-Jinks Leave Ottawa Shaken and Shaking

By RICHARD JACKSON
From The Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Comes next week the opening of Parliament. Then, at months' end, the annual round-up and political rodeo of the National Liberal Federation's Executive Council.

It is a toss-up which promises the livelier entertainment.

But even now, almost what may, at either political extravaganza, it could scarcely hope to compete for sheer comedy and drama with last week's Conservative convention, from which the shaken and shaking National Capital is still recovering.

It was a rollicksham.

Now that the dust is beginning to settle, some of the brighter, fun-and-games moments come glittering through.

NEEDLE'S EYE

Item: Like the case of the well-heeled camel and the needle's eye, a goodly hunk of he-man, weighing in at more than 200 pounds, who disappeared from sight when he had locked his key in his Chateau Laurier room and didn't want to have to climb his way back down through the honeysuckling mob scenes to the hotel desk for a duplicate.

So he bet a half-fellow-well-met-MP that he could wiggle through his room's transom.

And, by cracky, he did, squeezing himself, incredibly, through the 10-inch-by-24-inch aperture over his door, and dropping, plop, to the floor with thump.

Trouble was, he colored himself so black and blue with bruises gotten through this door top-wringer that he could hardly lay his return home four days.

Just didn't know how to explain those bruises to his good wife. And wisely, was pretty sure they would be swallow any tales as crazy as his transom story, even if it were, so help him, true.

WHEE

Item: The predicament of the night-hawking delegates who looked longingly at the parked elevator, tried to run it up to the ninth floor, managing only to hit the top floor and stall there.

There they spent a couple of cooling-out hours until their erks and distress were heard in other elevators sipping up and down past them, and a-steal upon the night-hawks' ears by tales as crazy as the transom story, even if it were, so help him, true.

WHEE

Item: The succession of night-hawking delegates who looked longingly at the parked elevator, tried to run it up to the ninth floor, managing only to hit the top floor and stall there.

There they spent a couple of cooling-out hours until their erks and distress were heard in other elevators sipping up and down past them, and a-steal upon the night-hawks' ears by tales as crazy as the transom story, even if it were, so help him, true.

WHAT'S GOIN'

Item: The souvenir ashtrays done up in the form of the Alberta bankroller breakfast. Only a hundred of them, each worth a cool $10.

Fashioned of flaest crafted porcelain, in royal Tory blue.

Complete to wagon-wheel-and-Stetsons they were. And decorated with real — honest to goodness, genuine dyed-in-the-Carat-gold, they swore.

Said they'd gun down any variant who doubled their word. Nobody did.

Dig the arithmetic of those souvenirs: 700 at $10 the copy — runs $7,000.

But what's all the talk about. Pedlers, they asked. Wasn't theirs the wheat, beef and oil country, and didn't they strike it rich?

DRAW DOWN

Item: Those two rootin' tootin' chemical co. pitchers "Big Red" Wallowski of Bow River and Hugh "Doc" Horner of Jasper, Alta., in the big red-and-white Stetsons, stalking the corridors of the Chateau like a couple of ranch hands straight out of "Gunsmoke."

Had fun, too, did "Big Red" and "Doc" Horner, when each had a "Big Iron" on his hip.

Gunning for "them fresh young squirts," the political set-up, campus and Montreal's blue-stocking Mount Royal and Westmount districts, they allowed.

"Big Red" could even drop into a convincingly deadly crouch, just like he was going to start blasting from the hip with his imaginary "Hawg's Leg."

But they weren't just a play-acting' all the time.

There was a replay of "High Noon" about them, for they were a-gunnin' for "them that interviewed" them had been trying to do Diefy in.

Actually, "them fresh young squirts" were the Young Conservatives, the Young Intellectuals, the political set-heads, taking time out from the University quad to teach their Conservative party grandpappies like "Doc" Horner and "Big Red" Wallowski the facts of avant garde political life.

They wanted to dump Diefy and his "old guard" cohorts brain-storming session, possibly at Queen's University, to re-plan party policy and election strategy.

They had all sorts of what "Big Red" and "Doc" called "Nice Nelly" arguments. About how politics had become simply too complicated for the average Joe to understand, and should be left to the brains who crowd the college campuses.

When the young eggheads got the old political cowboys got together in chew out their differences, you could hear "Big Red" and "Doc" a-bellering "Horse Collar" from a dozen rooms and two corridors away.

It was a great and glorious show. And did Diefy, when he got them laughing and busy with his big speech, proved once again that he is the greatest political showman on the Canadian Parliamentary stage in more years than anybody cares to remember.

Guess where he's booked, come May?

Strictly Personal
Alcoholism Is Slavery And Freedom

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

It is commonplace these days to say that the alcoholic drinks so heavily as a means of "escaping" from himself. This is a seductive half-truth: drinking is surely a means of fleeing from something, but it is also something more than that.

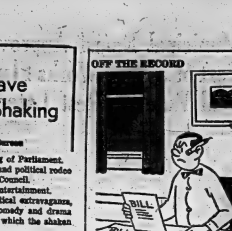
Like most fundamental human problems, it is a paradox. Drinking is both an escape from reality, and a flight into reality. Only they are different kinds of reality.

What happens to a man when he drinks is a great deal? Two things at once: first, his own identity becomes blurred and fragmented. He loses the "sense of himself." He is unable to see himself, to judge himself, to command or control himself. He relinquishes his internal authority.

Secondly, and just as important, he sees the world more sharply, more clearly, more objectively. He is able to "pick up" things about other people that would never get through to him in sober moments. He can state inner feelings, hidden attitudes, vibrations of meaning and relationships that are lost to him in his normal state.

"In vino veritas," the Romans used to say — in wine there is truth. The truth apparently denied to the drunk is not about himself, but about others. This is what makes it so gratifying to him.

For there is something in the makeup of the alcoholic (either chemical or psychological, or both) that does not hold these two realities in equilibrium. While sober, the reality of the self is overwhelming, and the reality of others is indistinct; drinking reverses this balance, and enables him to escape from himself and into others.



Unless we understand this, we will be making moral judgments about him and failing to grasp the good thing he is trying to do (however ineffectually) in his drinking. He wants to escape not into oblivion but into a world of external reality, of other people.

An unusually high percentage of alcoholics can be seen to be, in their normal state, shy, sweet tempered people. But the root of this shyness is the inability to project, to relate, to expand the confines of the self, which often shrunken boundaries. Drinking becomes the way of breaking out of this shell into the outer world.

It is slavery, but it is also, in a peculiarly pathological way, freedom. It is (temporary) emancipation from the prison of looms too large and too threatening. The alcoholic is not drinking to kill himself (as is popularly supposed), but to make himself come alive. This is the only way he knows how to do it; a tragically futile way. He is looking for fellowship, and can only obliterate himself to find it, or his sad and transient counterfeit.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FILES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

FEBRUARY 13, 1944

All Canada has been doing honor to "the Grand Old Man," Sir William Mulock, who on Wednesday marked the one hundredth anniversary of his birth.

Sir William is a man of great vitality and on the eve of his centennial anniversary he officiated as Chancellor of the University of Toronto in conferring the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws on Crown Prince Olaf of Norway. The aged Chancellor, whose mind is as bright as ever it was, might be taken as a symbol of the youthfulness of old democracy which is steadily crushing the forces of aggression and tyranny and which will continue to flourish on the earth.

Sir William Mulock was honored on the floor of the Canadian house and is, by the Dominion on his natal day. The Prime Minister of Canada, the Right Hon. W. L. M. King, and many others from all walks of life, paid honor to a statesman who has been tireless in his devotion to the interests of Canada and who for many years ago was first elected to the Commons and who occupied the seat for the township of York for the period of 23 years until his retirement. He had never lost an election.

Forty-eight years ago he became Postmaster General of the Dominion and in his nine years in that post he brought in penny postage and introduced the Canada-Australia Imperial Cable. He served from 1900 to 1905 as head of the Department of Labor which he had reorganized, and at the same time retained his portfolio as Postmaster General. To the Province of Ontario he gave years of great service as Justice of the Exchequer Division of the High Court of Justice and the famous Chief Justice of this province.

To Your Good Health
Mother of Three Admits To Alcoholic Problem

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: I'm writing this with a hangover. I drink beer too much. I can't quit but I want to. I'm the mother of three children — 11, 8 and 5 years old.

There is always beer in the refrigerator. If I get disgusted with something, I'll open a quart and then go on and on. I'm sure I must be an alcoholic.

I'm getting worried more now because I don't remember about the night before. Today, I drove through a red light. I have never done this before.

Last weekend I woke up in a strange bed in a settlement house. I don't remember driving there but my car was parked on the wrong side of the street. The motor ran but the key in the ignition and the parking lights on.

How can I stop drinking? Isn't there a pill that makes a person feel sick to even look at beer?

I feel someone is put on this earth to help me. Please frighten me into stopping. — Mrs. L. M.

You certainly have the typical signs of a full-blown alcoholic and I'm glad you are worried because being that upset may mean that you are ready to do something about the problem.

The drug antabuse makes you sick at your stomach if you drink alcohol in any form. But the weak point is that you have to take the drug every day or the effect soon wears off.

It is a powerful drug and has to be taken under supervision of a doctor. The doctor can't follow you around and watch you take the pills every day. So with this, as well as other methods of wearing off, in the final analysis it comes down to you. You are the only one who can give up alcohol. Nobody else can do it for you.

Others can help, though, and a lot, if you really want to stop.

You live in a big city which has all sorts of facilities to aid you. Ask your doctor or you may not be able to manage your case.

But you have alcohol clinics, and if you can't find one in the phone book, then call the Health Department.

There is also that fine and reliable group, Alcoholics Anonymous. It has chapters in all of the big cities and most of the smaller ones, too.

Dear Dr. Molner: I'm in the classified directory. Call the number, if you really want to quit the bottle, and Mr. Anonymous will give you the help you need. They have all been through what you are going through. They know you can succeed because they did.

But don't rely on having anyone, including me, "frighten you into it." There at least three perfect reasons that are better. Their ages are 11, 8 and 5.

• • • •

Dear Dr. Molner: I am 46 and have had this trouble for many years but now it is getting worse — an undesirable discharges from the navel. — Mrs. T. K. J.

Such a discharge is always undesirable. It means a chronic infection of some sort, fungus or bacterial. Not knowing what kind of infection it is, I can't give you a ready answer. But it's well worth telling your doctor about, and getting it cleared up.

• • • •

Dear Dr. Molner: After a total hysterectomy, for cancer of the uterus, is it necessary to take hormone shots? — Mrs. J. G.

No, it isn't necessary in most cases. Either, it is more a matter of relieving such symptoms of menopause as may occur from the operation — hot flashes, and so on. With somewhat older patients, there may be no occasion for hormone shots. In short, it is a question to be answered on the basis of the individual case.

Price control, introduced during the Second World War, ended in Canada 14 years ago today—in 1950. The powers of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, originally established to control the supply and prices of the "necessities of life," were broadened in 1941 to cover price control of all commodities and services, including property rentals. Controls gradually began to be removed in 1946-47.

Sherbrooke La Tribune—In certain circumstances Mr. John Diefenbaker can show himself to be a truly extraordinary man. He gave a new demonstration at the Conservative convention in Ottawa, during which he was confirmed head of the functions as leader of the party.

Despite this visible and personal triumph of Mr. Diefenbaker, the Conservative party appeared deeply divided. The leader's speech was capable of repairing some cracks but it could not suffice to restore at once all the necessary to an opposition party aspiring to regain power.

Mr. Diefenbaker remains the undisputed leader, without doubt, but it is in order to point out that the convention delegates had no choice. If they had withdrawn their confidence from him, as a prime minister, they would have put themselves in the ridiculous position of a party that denies its leader but forgets to choose a replacement for him. Such was the case against Mr. Diefenbaker had no successor to propose.

Barring sudden and unforseen changes, Mr. Diefenbaker will thus lead the Conservative forces in the next federal election. We shall have to see if Liberals the care of evaluating their chances of winning, but it remains certain that Mr. Diefenbaker is capable of striking big blows and seriously weakening the Liberal position. . . . (Feb. 6)

Quebec Le Soleil — Two great events in Conservative convention in Ottawa will stand out above all else: the overwhelming victory of John Diefenbaker, who was confirmed in his functions as party leader, and the nomination of Leon Balcer, member for Trois-Rivieres, as leader of the Quebec Conservative wing, which will entitle him to play the role of official spokesman for Quebec in the party and to become one of the chief, if not the chief, collaborators of Mr. Diefenbaker.

While admitting that the initiative did not come from the province of Quebec, but from the Quebec Conservative group, it must be recognized that he approved it, and any resistance or hesitation to the choice (of Mr. Balcer) made at the Quebec caucus, in Mr. Diefenbaker's presence, on motion of Paul Martineau, former minister, . . . (Feb. 6)

• • • •

For the member for Trois-Rivieres this official recognition must have a flavor all its own and it ought to make him forget how slowly he climbed the Conservative hierarchy. It has not been forgotten that he was one of the most tenacious opponents of Mr. Diefenbaker at the convention called to choose a leader after the defeat of Mr. George Drew, and that he had to wait almost three years before getting an important cabinet post, after occupying the post of solicitor - general following the 1957 and 1958 elections. . . .

His task now will consist of regrouping the Conservative forces, to emphasize the presence of the French-Canadian group in the party, not only in matters concerning the leadership, but also in working on a program under the inspiration of policies that will take into account present conditions in the crisis the country is experiencing. Parents Should Not Play Cupid for Their Children

ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS — My father is constantly urging me to accept dates with his Boss' son. Chauncy digs me but he is a creep.

In the first place, Chauncy doesn't dance and has no desire to learn. He thinks my friends are weirdies and I think his friends are stuck-up and boring.

Every time I light a cigarette Chauncy gives me a lecture on lung cancer. If I order French fries he goes on and on about fried food and stomach trouble.

Chauncy's idea of a blast is to go somewhere with his parents. My idea of fun is to get as far away as possible from the old museum pieces.

I'm 16 and mature enough to pick my own friends. Please say so in your column and get my father off my back. — SACRIFICIAL LAMB.

DEAR LAMB — It's always a mistake for parents to try to play Cupid for their children. Some perfectly good romances are knocked right in the head because of parental sponsorship.

In this case it's especially unfortunate because if you had discovered Chauncy on your own you might have liked him —and perhaps even learned something in the bargain.

• • •

DEAR ANN LANDERS — What can I do about a husband who expects perfection in all our friends? Last night I counted 20 couples with whom we were once on very good terms. We don't see these people anymore because my husband has picked them to pieces.

The longest we've been able to maintain a friendship is about two years. After that the woman's laugh becomes irritating, or the husband brags too much, or he cheats at cards or his wife wears too much eye make-up.

Last night it happened again. After Mr. and Mrs. X left, my husband said, "Well, that's enough of them. Can you imagine anybody in his right mind supporting Scranton for President? Don't invite them here again and don't accept any invitations to their place."

Please tell me what to do. — RUNNING OUT OF FRIENDS.

DEAR RUNNING — I checked your envelope and am happy you live in Minnesota. At the rate your husband is going, you'll need to look in a different city for friends, and it's nice that St. Paul is close.

People who are severely critical of others are essentially displeased with themselves. When your husband thinks better of himself he will then have a better opinion of others.

• • •

DEAR ANN LANDERS — My 24-year-old daughter was divorced in 1961. Since that time I have been taking care of her children while she works. The oldest is in the first grade and the youngest will be ready for kindergarten next fall.

I love my grandchildren very much but they wear me out and tie me down. I've been looking forward to the time when both children would be in school so I could take it easier.

Yesterday my daughter told me she is pregnant. The man is not able to marry her as he has a wife and family. I want her to go to a home for unwed mothers and put the baby up for adoption, but she wants to keep the child. When I told her I don't have the strength to raise another child, she called me a terrible mother and said I was letting her down when she needed me most.

Now I feel guilty. Please straighten around my thinking. — BIG DECISION.

DEAR DECISION — It's the same old story — "What have you done for me lately?"

Don't ask your daughter — tell her that you will not raise the child and let her know she has no choice. Your suggestion is by far the best for the child, the mother, and for you.

UN Security Council next week, despite Kaily warning that this would give the Soviet Union a chance to enter the dispute.

In New York, Cypriot Ambassador Zenon Rossides accused Turkey of making "warlike preparations" and said he would ask for an earlier meeting of the Security Council if what he called the Turkish threat heightens.

The Cypriot envoy also circulated among council members a proposed resolution supporting an international peace force under UN auspices composed of disinterested countries approved by Cyprus. He said such a force could ensure the island's territorial integrity.

Makarios has refused to accept a multi-national or Commonwealth force of 10,000 men suggested by the British and Americans, unless it is linked to the United Nations.

The United States and Britain do not want forces under the UN Security Council because of Russia's veto power.

Dr. Fazil Kutchuk, Cypriot vice-president and leader of the Turkish-Cypriots, said in Cyprus that Turkey had the right and obligation to intervene, if the three guaranteeing powers could not act in concert.

He said Turkey's motives would not be with the objective of invading the island, "but for the purpose of restoring peace and order." Kutchuk has previously stated he supported partitioning of Cyprus.

Britain, Turkey and Greece are guarantee powers of the 1960 constitution which gave independence to the former British colony of Cyprus.

ask Henry

DEAR HENRY — Recently there has been another debate about books like the Bobsey Twins and the Hardy Boys. Some say it is "literary garbage," and a very poor introduction to the world of reading. This is an adult point of view. What is yours?

MRS. H. L.

DEAR MRS. H. L. — When I started reading for enjoyment, the first books I read were the 17 volumes of Hardy Boys books.

The change from TV to books is extremely difficult for the young reader. Unless there is excitement packed into every chapter, the young reader gets tired of the book.

Later, improved reading ability and change of age will make him pick up a biography and a classic.

HENRY

DEAR HENRY — In reference to the answer you gave to a boy about a man hiccoughing for eight years, I would like to know how he finally got rid of them.

I am interested because my father has had them for months (at one time for a month steady without a let-up). He was under observation for a month, and specialists couldn't find the cause.

I would appreciate any information you can give me on this subject.

MRS. S. O.

DEAR MRS. S. O. — The man that hiccoughed 160,000,000 times straight for eight years said he was finally "cured" by a prayer to St. Jude.

The prayer was a suggestion of an interested person that wrote. I will pass on any suggestions that readers have for a cure. Good Luck!

...lans First Christian Cathedral in World's Largest City

Fred Wooding, supervisor of information for the Anglican Church of Canada, is on a church assignment in the Orient. In this story, written for The Canadian Press, he describes plans for a cathedral in Tokyo.

By FRED WOODING

TOKYO (CP)—Rt. Rev. David M. Goto, scholarly Anglican bishop of the world's most heavily populated city, is a man with an ambition.

If he succeeds—and it seems likely he will—Tokyo will have a new landmark.

The 54-year-old bishop intends to give this extraordinary metropolis its first Christian cathedral.

On the surface the plan doesn't appear exciting, for cathedrals are commonplace in Western countries.

But to build one in Tokyo, with only a few Christians among its 10,500,000 people, is both imaginative and daring.

"No one believes the power of the Christian enterprise resides in its buildings," Bishop Goto concedes, "but one spires did centre for worship and evangelism in this city could win a new kind of attention for the Christian message, and a far wider hearing.

"Tokyo is made up of a material civilization, unable to stop and look or listen unless the eye be caught or the ear compelled. Tokyo needs such a soaring symbol."

MASSIVE SIMPLICITY

The proposed cathedral, expected to cost about $2,000,000, will stand on land adjacent to Tokyo Tower, a 1,092-foot structure in the heart of the city.

The idea is to build a "thing of commanding simplicity, speaking in fresh accents in an architectural language a great modern nation can quickly grasp."

"It will reflect the contemporary Japanese personality."

Supporters of the scheme note that the Japanese are accustomed to beauty and dignity in their shrines and temples but that Christian churches in Japan tend to be indifferently designed, poorly located and often shabby.

One feature of the cathedral that won't be Japanese will be the set of six kneelers made by Canadian Eskimos of sealskins. Three of the beautifully matched skins bear the words "Holy, Holy, Holy." The gift of T. W. Kober of Oakville, Ont., the kneelers were presented to Bishop Goto when he attended the Anglican world congress in Toronto last year.

The proposed cathedral, which has the support of Archbishop Howard H. Clark of Winnipeg, Primate of the Anglican Church of Canada, is to be more than a place of worship.

In addition to providing facilities for a college of preachers, it is to be developed as a cultural centre for religious drama, art exhibitions, gatherings of theologians, philosophers and students of ethics.

Happy Group Has Completed Twenty Years of Quilting

By GLADYS WARD

Every Thursday, whether the weather is mild or wild, scorching or freezing, for twenty years a small group of women has met to quilt in a classroom of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church. This is the "Happy Group," with Mrs. W. Mantle as group leader, and they are indeed happy at their work.

"We look forward to Thursdays," said Mrs. Mantle. "Quilting day is an event each week."

Last Thursday a quilt in a Dresden Plate pattern was framed with thumb tacks to the wooden frame, and seated around it, busy plying their needles to make a petal design in the quilting were: Mrs. Chesna, Mrs. N. H. McConnell, Mrs. Stewart Hay, Mrs. T. Rollins and Mrs. Mantle. Mrs. W. Chesman and Mrs. I. Eggleton were absent.

With an average attendance of six, it is surprising to find that this group finishes 15 or 16 quilts a year, and last year made $206 for the work of the Women's Guild of the church.

NEVER HAVE TO WAIT

"We've never had to wait for a quilt to work on," Mrs. Mantle said. "There is always one in the frame. Some have gone to Toronto, Ottawa, the United States, and one went to Germany."

The Dresden Plate quilt which is the current project, was pieced by Mrs. Adams. Each plate had a yellow circle in the centre with colored petals of print radiating from it. Squares like window frames were outlined in delft blue in the centre of the quilt, and the whole was on a white background.

The quilting designs are created by Mr. Mantle and there are about 20 of them, including fan, leaf, diamond, oak leaf and geometric.

Sometimes the quilters bring their lunch and make a day of it, when there is a hurried order for a quilt. On most days though, they come early in the afternoon, and before they leave they have a cup of tea, with cookies or sandwiches which each brings in her turn.

MANY DESIGNS

Quilts are made in numerous patterns, and this group has done pinwheels, crazy quilts, country garden, tulip, snowball, fans, maple leaf, sunbonnet lady, buttercup, bear's paw, double Irish chain, star quilt, sunflower, nosegay, and sailing ship.

One might think with the popularity of electric blankets that quilting had become one of the lost crafts like spinning, or something that pioneer women did, but this group of quilters expects to be busy right on as they have for the past twenty years.

Many a bride will receive as heirloom that will be passed on for generations. Or one for a hanging a child tucked warmly under a quilt that looks like a country garden, and the mother saying the equivalent of the Scottish mother's "Bairnie, cuddle doon." What could such a child have but pleasant dreams?

World Day of Prayer Held In Bridge Street Church

Yesterday, around the world, Christians of all confessions, of all nations, of all races united in prayer each for the other and for the needs of the world, as they observed the annual World Day of Prayer.

In Bellevile, a large number attended the service held in the Bridge Street United Church based on the theme "Let Us Pray". The service this year was prepared by Dr. Madeleine Barot, one of the executive secretaries of the World Council of Churches, Geneva, Switzerland.

Mrs. Bryson Leslie of the host church, as first leader was in charge of proceedings and was assisted by five other leaders including Mrs. R. Taylor of Holloway Street United; Mrs. Morris of the Salvation Army; Mrs. Willis of St. Columba Presbyterian Church; Mrs. Gamble of the Standard Church and Mrs. G. Ringnalda of the Christian Reformed Church. The choir was well represented with two members from the various churches in the city. Miss Gay McFarlane favored with a lovely vocal solo.

INSPIRING MESSAGE

The guest speaker, Mrs. Ross Jefferies was unable to attend due to illness and Mrs. H. A. Davis, wife of the church minister capably stepped in and gave an inspiring message based on the power of prayer. She said that in facing difficult times, prayer is the answer. "One is never as near our fellow man as when we pray for others, prayer and help go together," she stated. "When one ceases to pray it comes to a point of carelessness and indifference, and with the lives of all inter-related, one cannot indulge her life. Many channels by which one affects another is by prayer." She continued, "we are constantly for others — there is a steadying sense of His presence through prayer." Mrs. Davis concluded her talk with the well-known quotation, "More things are wrought by prayer than this world dreams of."

The offering was taken and it was noted that the 1963 offering was the largest in history. Donations received in Canada will help support the Bible Societies, of Canada, Japan, Korea, Indonesia, Egypt, Burma, the West Indies and Brazil; various Christian literature societies and it will provide Christian literature for medical colleges; Bible libraries for Asian countries; Christian literature for five African countries and various other worthwhile causes.

Mrs. Leslie expressed appreciation for the fine attendance and to those taking part. She announced that the service in 1965 would be held in Tabernacle United Church.

Club Activities

CONTACT CLUB

Before the Monday meeting a successful rummage sale was held. Later in the evening Christ Church Contact Club members held an enjoyable social evening under the direction of Ruth Owen's group.

The members participated in a game of Password, emceed by June Fisher, the winners were: Joan Hoff, Joan James, Dot Montague and Mary Romeo.

A riddle game, "Name the Beloved Enterprises" was directed by Pat Pelling, the winners were June Woodley and Joan Fisher.

President Shirley Harris introduced five new prospective members: Jean Weaver, June Rose, Iris Foster, Betty Guthrie and Joan Burgess. A vote of thanks goes to the membership chairman, Irene Weatherstone for a job well done.

It was decided to have name tags for each member.

SUMMER COMMUNION

The members were reminded of Corpotate Communion on Sunday at 8 o'clock, after which breakfast will be served. Next week will be a study group meeting.

After the fun and games a delicious lunch of two cakes, one shaped as a heart in swirls of pink frosting, adorned with ribbon rosettes, an equally beautiful chocolate layer, topped with miniature multi-colored balls, accompanied with tea and coffee were served by hostesses Pat Spencer and Bev Brinkman.

Church Groups

ST. ANNE'S C.W.L.

St. Anne's C.W.L. meeting was held recently at the home of Mrs. J. Buckley with 12 members and one guest present. A note of thanks was received from Father McGee in appreciation for his Christmas gift and a letter was read concerning resolutions when each member was asked to give some thought about it previous to the next meeting.

Various reports of the group were given. Members decided to purchase one card table a month; also to restock dishes. It was decided also to have a study club every Wednesday during the Lenten devotions at 8.30 p.m. in the school.

The meeting was adjourned and after a few hands of euchre the hostess served lunch.

SPEAKING of MANNERS

PATRICIA LEWIS

MAIL CALL

Question: How should one take cube sugar from the bowl when it's served with tea or coffee? Is it supposed to be taken in the fingers, or should a spoon be used? Mrs. C. L., Riverside, Conn.

Answer: Sugar tongs should accompany the bowl of sugar cubes. If the hostess neglects to provide tongs, the cubes should be picked up with the tip of a spoon. The spoon, of course, should be dry. If it isn't, and the hostess hasn't spotted her error and remedied it in the meantime, then the guest has to resort to using fingers very gingerly, but this should be done only as a last resort.

Going Places

Games, Beaches and Low Costs Part of Lure of Argentina

By SHIRLEY & BOB SLOANE

BUENOS AIRES. — Going south for the winter, sí. But 5,000 miles? To dispense with the mundanities, the jet fare is about the same to Buenos Aires from New York as it is to Bermuda, Vienna, or Stockholm, less than to Rome or Athens. Per mills, it is considerably less than any east or west foreign destination.

Not that South America is a substitute for any of those destinations— no place is really a substitute for any place else in travel — but it does offer that increasingly rare experience of stepping into another world. What with bowling alleys and strip joints blossoming from Tokyo to Teheran these days, the places that have gone their own ways without complicated benefit of the tourist dollar have become fewer and farther between.

Argentina is one of the cheapest places in the world to visit. Those famous Argentinian steaks still cost no more than $3.00 for a complete dinner even in the distinguished basement ceilings of La Cabana Restaurant. At one of the Papa Soufflés or one of the 50-odd small aromatic carritos on Costa Nera Ave., complete with views of the port and River Plate, a dollar will do it.

MUCH FOR A DOLLAR

You can ride all over town in a cab for a similar dollar, or for a dollar and a quarter get in with it. The rates are similar for entry into either of the dazzling modern auditoria of the San Martin Theatre. Clean comfortable rooms, $4.50 single, cleaner and better ones only a couple of dollars more.

If your fast dwindling money is spending it on shopping, you can go broke on alligator purses and luggage, hand tooled, and velvety gloves made of carpincho, described to us as a cross between a guinea pig and porcupine.

One thing you need not fear about shopping here is the beckoning hit by a cab while crossing the street. Florida St., a kind of Lincoln Road that South, and closed to traffic as the other Florida street.

Buenos Aires — and Argentina in general — is one of the most sports-minded places you are likely to find in the hemisphere. The boulevards of the big city are paved with wall after wall enclosing swimming clubs, tennis clubs, soccer stadiums that make Soldier's Field look like a sandlot, and a big establishment known as the San Yaidro Jockey Club. Its boudoirs encompass two golf courses, four polo fields, and a many-grandstanded horse track. An Argentinian, unless to Argentina, is a game called "pato," a combination of polo and basketball with a little wrestling thrown in.

The object of the opposing teams' affections is a ball about the size of a soccer ball with four long grips on it. When it's tossed into play, opposing players try to swoop it off ground on the pitch or away the trick riders do in the movies, and toss it into a net on their team's goal mouth. As there is no limit to each other, opposing players are entitled to 60 seconds to try to wrest it away, if they can get their hands on it.

HARD ON DUCKS

The game derives its name from the fact that it used to be played with a live duck in a case, with his head sticking out and his neck for the hand grip. Since this was hard on the pato population, the ball was substituted eventually. But the sport is still rough enough to suit everyone but Argentine gauchos have ducked it.

Gauchos are far from being as extinct as the American cowpuncher. There are many still present in Argentina, and these fiercely individualistic horsemen are a common sight in the interior. They still effect the floppy boots, baggy pantaloons, flowing ties and dazzling colors covered bells that are their trademark.

Once inside, and closer to the heart of the tourist, is the seaside resort of Mar del Plata, an hour by air or six by car south of Buenos Aires. A century ago it was a seaside fishing hamlet. Today it has been transformed into a Riviera of 300,000 whose population is increased five-fold by visitors in summer.

GIANT GAMBLING SPOT

Though there are 1,200 hotels in town — plus a profusion of fine front chalets and high rise apartments — most of the population most of the time seems to be crowded into the Casino Provincial, said to be the world's largest gambling house.

We believe it. The building is four blocks long and two blocks wide and encompasses its own hotel. The guest rooms don't get nearly the patronage of the gambling rooms, which have been known to accomodate 20,000 at a clip — er, time — at some 100 tables.

When losing money palls, it can be spent legitimately at restaurants, shops, beauty and barber salons, and other enterprises on the premises. When shorn of money, you work off your frustrations at two basketball courts, a swimming pool and ping pong room or just sulk in a concert hall or movie theatre all within the confines.

For outdoor types, Mar del Plata has five miles of beaches, usually five miles deep with people.

The ski slopes, streams and lakes of Bariloche, 1,000 miles to the south, are mighty catacets of Iguazu Falls; and the 50-cai-know-it-an-hour of the Rio-Cuni River deep in the Patagonian pampas, are just a few of the other magnets of the Argentine, which means silver because that's what the conquistadors expected to find when they named the area. If he manages to draw across 5,000 miles, they may yet turn out to have been right.

Second Glance

By Viva Richmond Graham

AN AFTERNOON TEA

"The flag is the embodiment, not of sentiment, but of history. It represents the experiences made by men and women, the experiences of those who do live under that flag." — Woodrow Wilson.

Would you come for tea?

A tea is reminiscent. The guest of honor: the wives of the Golden Hawks. The place: at the home of Chris. Hare, 34 Hazel Street, Queen Street, and wife of the commanding officer, Wing Commander Hare.

As a matter of fact, this gathering was arranged so that the wives of men released of the Golden Hawks disbandment, upon expected posting to Metz N.B., in 1959 and for the last year was stationed at Trenton, Ontario might have time to file application, and if chosen, has been elected from many applicants, for the Golden Hawks are between 20 and forty. While they're about 30 men and two women, who have flown as Golden Hawks, the number of Golden Hawks may be more or less, since the earlier members were mostly single men.

The purpose of a Golden Hawk is to be an "air widow" for ten months of the 24 month international posting, when they are "on tour" giving performances from coast to coast and other international shows, from May to October. Such flying requires daily practice (". . .it's surely a labor of love," says one of them . . ." commented a Belleville man who commutes weekly to Trenton). However it is necessary to insure such precision flying. . . .

So here . . . how to meet these charming girls we note how they (and their absent husbands) represent much of Canada: (in alphabetical order)—

Beverley Barker comes from Toronto. Her husband F-L Dave Barker is from Port Credit and you have been thrilled at the sight of his flying as "The Red Night." They are the parents of Lynda, age 7, Raymond, 5, Christine, 4, and baby Catherine Ann, 7 months.

Patricia Grover is from Dauphin, Manitoba and her husband P-O Brian Grover from Calgary Alberta and have a four month old daughter. Fay Elizabeth.

Florence Grip and her husband F-L Bill Grip are both from British Columbia, she, from Kamloops, he from Youbou, and have four children: Heid 9, Louise 8, William age 4 and Margaret 4.

Doreen Hubbard claims Regina, Sask. and S-L Lloyd Hubbard is from Delia, Alberta. Doreen is their two year old daughter.

Betty Peterson, from Edmonton, her husband F-L Reginald Earl Peterson lived in nearby Edson Alberta and have two children, Deborah 9, and Lynn 11 years old.

Ell, wife of F-L Craig Warner, from Prituaness, Germany, while her husband comes from Pine Falls, Manitoba, and they have a 20 month old daughter, Marian Lee.

Geraldine Young and her husband F-L Tom Young are from Stewiacke, N.S., and are the parents of two children, Malcolm, 8 and Sandy 6.

Our hostess, Claire Hatton and her husband Frank Hatton, Wing Commander, are both from London, Ontario. They are parents of three children: two sets of twins: John and Mary Frances age 17, Ruth and Robert 16, and Christopher 13.

These are the wives of the Golden Hawks. And as such, are representative of wives of many Canadian airmen. They have all lived abroad and are both proud and grateful for the experiences. As mothers and wives, they know what it is to "pull up roots" at a moment's notice, to settle again in another community, be it for a few weeks, months, or years, and by adjusting as well and smoothly as possible keep their flying husbands happy.

"We find people wonderful wherever we go" (to paraphrase a summary of their convictions) "and while we wives enjoy knowing each other, we like having others interested as well, in the communities wherever we are stationed. Civilians everywhere have a hard and difficult job. The Forces as men and women who have at heart solid citizens who buy homes (none of which are gifts of the government, even the Golden Hawks received no increase in salary), have families and enter into community spirit as much as time allows them. . ." Really, it is a splendid experience and life, being in Canada's Airforce.

There's pardonable pride in having met these young women who have stood by, waited for and made a worthy life for the men, who have in such a short length of time, given Canada, comparable to none, an unparalleled prestige in flying skill and achievement, forever known as the Golden Hawks.

Question: You are absolutely wonderful, your recipes are so good. I live from day to day to get the paper. I wonder if you have a recipe for the Scotch Parkin with the almond in the centre? I cook for a gang on a farm and to me cooking is fun.

Mary McL.

Answer:

SCOTTISH PARKIN (makes 24)

½ cup unsifted all-purpose flour;
½ cup plus 2 tablespoons oatmeal (not rolled oats);
¼ cup sugar;
½ teaspoon ginger;
½ teaspoon cinnamon;
¼ teaspoon nutmeg;
1 teaspoon soda;
6 tablespoons shortening;
½ beaten egg;
3 level tablespoons corn syrup.

Thank you for an enthusiastic letter.

Question: I was given some figs. Wish I had some way of baking them into a biscuit — the commercial type we had as children.

Louise S.

Answer:

FIG BARS

Cookie Dough: ½ cup shortening;
1 cup sugar;
2 medium-sized eggs;
2 level tablespoons thick cream;
1 teaspoon vanilla;

Cream shortening, cream sugar in until fluffy, beat in eggs, stir in cream and vanilla. Sift together and stir in dry ingredients. Chill until firm. Divide dough into 2 parts. Refrigerate one-half while you work on first. Roll out to ⅛" thickness in oblong 8 x 12". Use minimum of flour on board. Cut in halves lengthwise. Spread ¼ of filling. Bake on greased pan at 400 deg. Fahr. for 8 minutes. Do not overbake.

Filling: One and one-half cups ground soft figs, ½ cup each sugar and water, 2 tablespoons lemon juice. Boil slowly, stirring, 3 minutes. Cool.

Note: You may use chopped dates instead of figs in the filling.

The Golden Years

Hubby Finds Battle of Sexes Does Not End When You're 65

By THOMAS COLLINS

The battle of the sexes does not stop at retirement age, and it is the wise husband who — along in his late fifties — begins looking to his defences.

A case in point came to the fore this week when a successful real estate salesman gave a candid account of how he lost, and then regained, his domestic paradise when he retired.

"I coasted in to 65," he said, "I had a pretty good job, and when I turned 60, I began a gradual program of pulling out of my career. First the civic things and luncheon clubs, then the business associations and journals. Finally I reached a status quo point on the job where I could sit things out until the pension.

"I was looking forward to going home and taking it easy. . ."

But about five years before he let his job slide, his relationships at home had begun to slide. This, he wasn't aware of.

The initial stage of it, he thinks, was when sex had gone to sleep. It didn't bother him at the time because all his energy was going into the job. Nor did he realize then that a husband must find a substitute for it — some new force to hold the marriage close.

MAMA RUNS SHOW

"As my energies went into business," he said, "my wife's energies went into the 'topping out' of our four children. College, parties, clothes, examinations, love affairs, and finally weddings swirled through our family. Always I was busy, always Mama was running the show. In that period I became a kindly fellow named Pop who loafed around the house on holidays and Sundays."

This, he said, was when he should have been making his greatest effort to cultivate his family in preparation for retirement.

"But by the time I reached 60 my wife had completely taken over our children, and was as jealous of her affairs with them as a setting hen. She knew we were expecting our first grandchild six months before she told me."

With the children married and gone, his wife began branching out into club affairs and politics — and stayed branched.

"I knew in time that things had gotten pretty far away from me," he explained. "I was cooking more of my own breakfasts now, and writing more cheques for dress shops and beauty shops, than at any time in my married life. But it never occurred to me that the boat wouldn't be righted as soon as I came home.

"This was a very bad assumption. My wife, in whom the happiness of my retirement was to rest, was virtually gone from me. She was married to her children, to her club affairs, and to her political party. She didn't dislike me, and of course there was never any thought of divorce. I just didn't matter.

"And when I retired, with a modest pension replacing the big pay-cheque — that was it."

He said that a man's status must necessarily drop somewhat when he retires and nobody calls him Mister any more. When he's no longer needed in the important and mysterious world downtown. If a severely reduced income is added to this, and if a man has let his family be weaned away from him, he comes home to a void.

"There were some scenes when it dowsed on me," he said, "which always resulted in my cooking more of my own breakfasts. And there was no use putting on a mad. My wife just wouldn't notice — she was dressing for another meeting."

BACK TO SCHOOL

So the husband enrolled in a real estate school — an evening school, on purpose. He told his wife only the barest details of what he was doing. He began visiting real estate offices in the mornings — she had her meetings in the afternoons — and again told her little.

"By the time I got my real estate license and began to tell he said, 'my wife's star on the club and political circuit was fading. We were both 57 by now. And as her interests waned, and mine increased, a new warmth moved into the living room. Slowly, you understand. But surely. . ."

He began bringing fresh money into the house. He asserted his authority over how it was to be spent. He spoke just enough about his new career to maintain the mystery of it. He demanded, and got, a full share in all dealings with the children.

"I don't cook my breakfasts anymore," he smiled. "And at long last I matter again in my own home.

"A lot of these busy boys of 55 had better take a leaf from my book."

'Wipe Out Ignorance Of Canadian History' - Dief

By KEN KELLY

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadians could do a lot in the years leading to the 1967 centennial of Confederation to wipe out ignorance of the romance of Canadian history, Opposition Leader Diefenbaker says.

In an interview, he said he had seen recent reports that Toronto high school students couldn't identify Sir John A. Macdonald, Canada's first prime minister.

"Our television facilities aren't being used as they should be. The young can tell you all about that fellow with the coonskin hat, (Davy) Crockett, and his part in American history.

"But they don't seem to know about the heroes of our country—its heroism and romance is unknown."

How many people know that Canada has some notable "firsts" in this country's history, he asked, leaning back in a swivel chair in his parliamentary office.

"Why, Canada abolished slavery by law long before Britain or the United States. That was in 1792.

"And we gave religious freedom in this country in 1175—10 or 60 years before Britain did.

"We are the first Commonwealth country to have guaranteed Jews the right to sit in Parliament. The first was Ezekiel Hart in 1826."

Sir John A. Macdonald, whom the Toronto students identified as "the first governor of Toronto" was one who "organized a revolution against the government," had clearly foreseen the Commonwealth of today back in 1864. He had talked of the parts of the then British Empire reaching equal status with Britain, Mr. Diefenbaker said.

The apparent ignorance about Canadian history was one reason he had suggested a Freedom Train a few years ago.

It could tell of the Riel rebellions of 1870 and 78, Gabriel Dumont, Riel's chief of staff and "the greatest buffalo hunter of them all and recognized ... the greatest military genius the Indian nations ever produced."

"And what a shrine that is in Dresden, (Ont.) the cabin where Uncle Tom (hero of Harriet Beecher Stowe's novel, Uncle Tom's Cabin) lived from the time he escaped from slavery in the states in 1830 until his death in 1884.

Great Train Robbery Trial Has Aspects of Movie Script

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN

AYLESBURY, England (CP) — The huge was the haul in Britain's great train robbery that the trial of suspects at the Buckingham assizes here has an odd air of unreality to newspaper readers.

If the public expected sensation it has been disappointed so far in the case in which 30 persons face charges arising from the robbery of £2,631,784 ($7,-350,552) from a mail train in predawn darkness Aug. 8.

At least £332,000 of the loot has been recovered from history's biggest cash raid, which made Jesse James look like a piker. The standing reward of £30,000 is itself greater than bandits had ever taken in any previous British raid.

The jury began hearing defence testimony Friday after 20 days of legal submissions by defence counsel before Mr. Justice Edmund Davies.

Crown Prosecutor Arthur James completed his case Tuesday after 17 days in which 206 witnesses were heard in 83½ hours of testimony. The trial is expected to last at least another month.

12 ARE CHARGED

Nine persons—three of them women—are to face separate trial later, mostly on receiving charges. There are two husband-and-wife teams among the defendants, who include a florist, a mechanic, a solicitor and a driver.

All those involved pleaded not guilty except Roger Cordrey, 32. He admitted conspiracy but the Crown accepted his plea of not guilty to taking part in the robbery itself.

And Mr. Justice Davies Friday directed a jury verdict of not guilty for John T. Daley, Irish-born antique dealer, on a charge of conspiracy.

Prosecutor James, in his 10-hour opening address, discounted speculation that a criminal mastermind plotted the commando-like operation, manipulating the accused like pawns.

WORKED SMOOTHLY

Mastermind or no, it was a smoothly working gang that robbed the Glasgow - London train near Cheddington, Buckinghamshire, in a drama that one man described as "like a Hollywood movie."

That man, fireman David Whitby, 36, said he was the first person to encounter the robbers after engineer Jack Mills, 57, stopped the train when he saw a red signal where a green should be—the green had actually been covered with a glove and the red actuated by dry-cell batteries.

Whitby alighted to find cut telephone wires beside the track and a shadowy figure between the cars.

"What's up, mate?" he asked, in perhaps the most pregnant question ever heard at that railway point known as Sears Crossing. "Come here," was the reply, and then the robbers went into action.

Mills testified that, after being tricked into braking to a stop from 80 miles an hour, he was overcome and beaten with clubs by men in green balaclava helmets who swarmed into his cab.

In 22 minutes flat they uncoupled the locomotive and two "high value" mail cars from the rest of the train, smashed their way into the cars with axes, picks and crowbars, cowed the mail clerks, forced Mills to pull ahead three-quarters of a mile to Bridego Bridge, and removed 120 mailbags to waiting trucks.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

The bald, perhaps unprecedented move of the physical directors and coaches of the Quinte District of the Central Ontario Secondary Schools Association, to provide their own football officials seems to be paying off, at least, in the initial stages.

Stan Barbour, phys-ed director of the BCI and this writer stood in the main corridor of the school the other night. Mr. Barbour waved a hand toward a classroom where some 42 aspirants hugged desks intently following the verbal-chalk-blackboard lecture of chief instructor Quinte's Jack Sisson. Mr. Gordon Mutter is assistant instructor.

As has been noted in this column, the move to secure city and district football officials, was made to reduce the exorbitant cost of importation of these men from Kingston, and other faraway points.

It was felt by Mr. Barbour and his football colleagues that there were men in the city and immediate environs who, through a special course of instruction, could be brought a standard of efficiency that would enable them to take the place of highly-paid "imports."

"The response to our appeal through the press of the district was terrific," Mr. Barbour said. "We have had 46 replies and the weekly Tuesday night lectures brings out almost that many."

The graduates of the school of instruction will be reimbursed financially. Was this fact part of the reason for the unexpected turnout of aspirants, Mr. Barbour was asked.

"No," he replied. "Before the first lecture started these people were told what to expect. In other words they could take it or leave it. Not one demurred."

Many attending the lectures came from out-of-town centres. Attendance is holding up extremely well. There have been little or no dropouts.

A number of members of the Belleville District Umpires' Association are taking the course.. These include Al Kelleher, the Hurst brothers, Tom Hulme, Jim Tebworth, among others.

There is a marked difference in officiating football games and umpiring diamond pastimes or hockey matches, Mr. Barbour pointed out. "A football official must use preventitive measure rather than penitive ones," he says. "He must be in control of the play all the time. He must remember his charges are young high school students."

There has been a lot of criticism of injuries in high school football, Mr. Barbour said. The instructors of this course are placing special emphasis on the prevention of injuries by keeping play under the closest scrutiny at all times.

All of the people attending the course are not "rookies", so to speak. Not a few are former football players and officials. Two or three came with exceptionally fine records both as players and officials.

Mr. Barbour, who is the administrator of the course is bringing the best instructors available. At next Tuesday night's lecture the class will see films of Queen's University football games with comment by the instructors.

Lster, Jack Gurney, of Toronto, senior Intercollegiate Football Union official, will address the class which will be featured by a question-answer period.

The present course lasts about ten weeks with lectures every Tuesday. This September the men will officiate at a number of exhibition games.

By perhaps strange coincidences, Mr. Barbour points out, the number of officials required for the schedules of the senior "A" and "B" and the juniors in both classes is approximately the same as are attending the course of instruction.

"With fourteen games a week scheduled," he says, "we shall be able to see everybody."

Slumping Leafs Meet Hawks Tonight

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Know who leads the National Hockey League in GAWS? Or how about the TGF leader?

Give up?

It's all part of a statistical mumbo-jumbo issued by rookie NHL statistician Ron Andrews covering play through the first 140 games or two-thirds of the season.

Everything short of how a fellow likes his eggs done in the morning appears to be listed in the 16 columns of data provided on the work and whatnot of each performer.

GAWS, for example, is an abbreviated heading for "goals against own team when shorthanded and on ice." And TGF? "Total goals by own team when on ice."

Bringing in the figures, what they show is that the opposition scored 36 times while Johnson was doing penalty-killing work for the Bruins and Pilote's Black Hawks netted 94 goals while he was on the ice.

OTHER FACTORS

In any analysis of this nature, certain other factors should be taken into consideration to get a more accurate reflection of things.

For instance, in Johnson's case, the Bruins rate him as defective a defensive asset, they throw him out there almost all the time when short-handed and his work in penalty-killing capacity has been perhaps more extensive than others around the league.

The Bruins in fact have indicated they're more than willing to go along if Johnson —who'll be 36 next Tuesday— wants to give it another whirl next season.

But Andrews' plethora of figures meanwhile affords a number of interesting sidelights as well as a mass of obscure information.

Among other things, they show that:

Jacques Plante, New York's redoubtable goalie, was peppered with more shots by the opposition than anyone else, it worked out to an average of 38.4 a game.

At the other extremity was Montreal's wee Charlie Hodge with a mark of 28.6.

LEAFS WEAKEST

Toronto's slump-ridden Maple Leafs threw out the weakest power-play — they counted a meagre 36 goals with a manpower advantage 166 times— and the classiest penalty-killing record—permitting but 21 goals while short-handed 172 times.

For comparative purposes, best power-play Chicago with 52 goals while holding a manpower advantage 190 times. Poorest penalty-killing mark New York, allowing 27 goals while down at least one man 32 times.

But the statistics indicate why Camille Henry of the Rangers is considered one of the greatest opportunists in the game although he weighs only 138 pounds. He was the most precise, economical man with the shooting among players with 10 or more goals, clicking for 27 goals on 119 shots.

The top scorer, Chicago's Bobby Hull, piled up 33 goals in the same period but his shooting mark was well below Henry's. He took 279 shots to get them, also a league high. SCOPE EXPANSIVE

Andrews also supplies a category called IG or "important goals." But the scope is so expansive—first goal, tying goal, insurance goal or a goal that raises the team behind to within one goal of the opposition's score—it would appear to be valueless in effect. The same applies for IP or "important points." Nonetheless the figures are there if anyone wants them.

The weekend schedule means while proffers five games, sending Detroit Red Wings against the Canadiens in Montreal and Chicago against the Leafs in Toronto tonight. Sunday night it's Montreal at Detroit, Toronto at New York and Boston at Chicago.

Detroit's sophomore defenceman Doug Barkley, who suffered a fractured left cheekbone in a collision with Boston's Guy Gendron Thursday night, is expected to play, wearing a protective device.

Rangers, in the throes of a five - game losing streak, swapped one of their defencemen to Red Wings, denoted another and called up a defenceman and a forward from Baltimore Clippers, their American League farm club Friday.

The fifth-place Rangers sent Larry Cahan, 30, a star point getter to Baltimore in exchange for defenceman Mike McMahon, 23, and Rangers also called up Jean Ratelle, a 22-year-old centre.

'Haven't Considered Rebuilding'
Denies Gardens To Be Replaced

TORONTO (CP)—Harold Ballard, executive vice-president of Maple Leaf Gardens, Friday denied a report that Maple Leaf Gardens would be demolished and a new rink would be built.

"We haven't considered rebuilding," he said. "It would be too expensive to rebuild in the city and any rink built outside the city would be a flop."

"We're close to the hotels and convention trade," he said. "People don't want to pay a $5 or 35 taxi fare to see a hockey game."

Mayor Philip Givens said that if the Gardens built a new rink in Toronto it would have to provide one parking space for every 10 seats.

"The way land costs are in the city, I can't see them building it inside the city," the mayor said.

Mr. Givens said he was disappointed the legislature's private bills committee Thursday refused to allow Toronto city council to permit a 4,000-seat addition to the Gardens.

John Bassett, principal shareholder and chairman of the board, declined to comment on the possibility of a move. Stafford Smythe, president and the third principal shareholder, was unavailable for comment.

To Detroit For Ingram
Rangers Trade Langlois

NEW YORK (CP)—New York Rangers, in the throes of a five-game losing streak, swapped one of their defencemen to another National Hockey League club, demoted another and called up a defenceman and a forward from Baltimore Clippers, their American League farm club Friday.

The fifth-place Rangers sent veteran Al (Junior) Langlois, 29, to Detroit Red Wings for Ron Ingram, 30, in a straight player deal. Larry Cahan, 30, was sent down to Baltimore in exchange for defenceman Mike McMahon, 23, and Rangers also called up Jean Ratelle, a 22-year-old centre.

Young Pro Gets Nod Over Molina

NEW YORK (AP)—Unranked Frankie Narvaez of New York, a pro only two years, made a smashing big time debut Friday by pounding out a majority decision over lightweight contender Louis Molina of San Jose, Calif., in a bristling 10-round fight in Madison Square Garden.

The 24-year-old Puerto Rican-born New Yorker, an 8-5 favorite in his first main event at the Garden, staggered the highly ranking contender three times, opened cuts over and under Molina's right eye and had him bleeding from the nose in the free-swinging scrap.

Judges Burl and Tony Rossi each had Narvaez ahead 7-3 in rounds. Referee Tony Olivieri called it a draw. He had it 4-2 with four points for each. The Associated Press scorecard had it 5-5 but gave Up to Narvaez on his harder punching.

WANTS ROBSLED RUN

MONTREAL (CP)—Vic Emery, captain of the Canadian bobsled team that won a gold medal at the Innsbruck Winter Olympics, says Montreal should have a bobsled run on Mount Royal. He told a press conference his push for a practice of the city "offers everything to make this country's first bob run a whining success."

Stan Musial Given Top Post

ST. LOUIS (AP)—President Johnson announced Friday that retired St. Louis Cardinal baseball star Stan Musial will head the United States physical fitness program.

"There are few men who have served as American heroes with such dignity," the president of Musial. "He has brought his profession simple honesty and deeds of character."

The president made the announcement during his visit Friday to St. Louis to open the city's bicentennial celebration.

Musial, who retired after 22 years with the Cardinals, is a vice-president with the National League team. He said he will continue in the position while handling his duties in the president's program.

He will be the second man to take over the job.

Fod Wilkinson, former University of Oklahoma coach, was named to head the program by the late President Kennedy, who initiated the idea. Wilkinson quit the post and his coaching job at Oklahoma to enter the 1964 race for the Senate.

Hanover Rink In Ontario Finals

Twice In Row

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP) — Bob Mann skipped his Hanover sharpshooters to their second straight provincial title here Friday, defeating Ron Kemp of Hamilton 13-4 in the final round of the Ontario curling championship.

The Hanover crew will represent southern Ontario in the Canadian championships at Charlottetown March 3-6.

Mann is the first skip in the last 18 years to win the Ontario title twice running and the first ever to win it twice in round-robin competition. Perry Hall of Kitchener accomplished the feat in 1945 and 1946 in double knockout play.

The last-match victory came after John Ross of Toronto Parkway handed Mann a surprising 14-3 loss, his first in two year's of Ontario championship play.

Mann had finished the first five rounds undefeated in this year's round-robin bonspiel to hold a two-game margin over his nearest three rivals going into Friday's final rounds.

Ross also won his fifth game in the final round, defeating Dave Reynolds of Orillia 12-9 to grab runner-up spot.

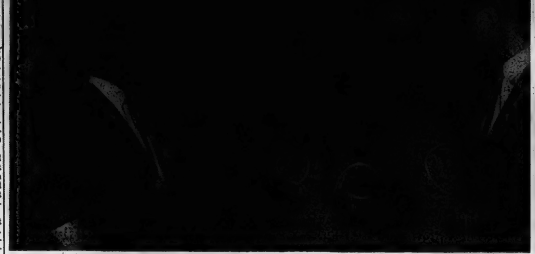
Jake Edwards of Kigston finished third with a 4-3 record.

Murray Roberts of Unionville, Earle Hushagen of Toronto Humber and Bill Astle of Woodstock were tied for fourth with three wins in seven games.

Kemp and Reynolds finished in the cellar with two wins each.

Friday morning, Reynolds defeated Kemp 10-4, Astle edged Roberts 9-7 and Hushagen beat Edwards 11-8.

In the other two afternoon games, Edwards squeezed past Roberts 7-6 and Astle defeated Hushagen 10-8.



Mann with Ken Buchan, third; Keith Munro, second and Richr Palmer, lead, won six of 10 games in the Canadian championships at Brandon, Man., last year. They were tied in the standings with Doug Gathercole, the Northern Ontario entry.

The Mann crew soured Friday morning, missing consistently as Ross took an early 3-0 lead.

The Hanover quartet picked up a single point in the third but lost three in each of the fourth and fifth ends. They collected two stones in the sixth end but were outscored 5-2 in the remaining six ends.

Mann got off to a shaky start in the final round against Kemp. He gave up a point in the opening end before blanking the second and scoring two in the third.

Then he found the range and took command, collecting two more in the fourth and three in the fifth end.

BOB CHICK

(B.C.I.)

DANIEL SMYTHE
By Bradley Mann
(St. Michael's)

Since coming to BCI 3 years ago Bob Chick has shown a rare combination of aggressiveness, perseverance and devotion to whatever spot he has taken part in. He is 5 ft. 11 inches, weighs 160 lbs., is 18 years old, and will finish his Grade 13 course this year.

On coming to BCI in Grade 10 he quickly fell into the sports picture by making the junior basketball team and moved up to seniors.

Bob has since played football for 2 years and senior basketball where he was co-captain on the team last year that won the Bay of Quinte championship. He has also been on 2 interform championship teams and takes part in all interform games.

Upon completion of Grade 13 Bob plans to take engineering at the University of Toronto.

At fifteen Dan is certainly a well-rounded and well-experienced athlete. His early training in Edmonton, Fort Churchill, Man. and Trenton has provided Belleville with an athlete of whom it can be said has a keen sense of fair play and a remarkable potential for sports.

Since coming to Belleville, Dan has participated in basketball and junior basketball and was one of the five representatives from S.M.A. on the C.B.C. senior football squad in 1953, displaying his talents at both end and defence.

With Dan his only desire is not that one of his sports, his first thoughts being toward his academic responsibilities and the minute he has served up the highest academic position in his class, he is immediately back at it at sports, perfecting his talents and helping others to do the same.

Bantams, Midgets Lose To Kingston

Peewees Set Fine Example In Close Win

By GARRY ALEXANDER
Staff Sportswriter

Belleville MacCormack's Peewees salvaged a single victory for this city in an Ontario Minor Hockey Association playdown triple-header here last night, when a lot of friends while doing so.

The Peewees, coached by Lionel Boyle, shaded their Kingston counterparts 3-4 in one of the closest and most exciting games witnessed at Memorial Arena in some time.

Kingston had-pretty much its own way in the other two divisions. Belleville Oddfellow Bantams went down to a 7-3 defeat while Kingston's smooth midget squad whitewashed Belleville 12-0.

All games were the first in home-and-home, goals-to-count series.

Play lasted from 7.00 p.m. until 12.15 a.m. Return games are in Kingston one week from today. Belleville Juveniles, 11-3, play their second game in the Limestone City today.

The Peewee game was a nip and tuck affair from start to finish. Belleville led no less than five times but on the first four occasions Kingston ripped back to tie the count as the winners scored on the deciding clearing from their own end.

It was 2-1 after one period and 2-2 going into the third. Steve Moore fired what finally proved to be the deciding goal at 16.45 of the third, as Charlie Powell's pass, just over a minute after Kingston had tied it 4-4.

Every player on both sides gave it all they had in the exceptionally clean but hard-fought game. There was only one penalty called, that to the losers.

Bob Harrison, MacCormack's goalie, was on the spot with key stops, especially in the third.

Kingston's Jim Draysers also played well but had a lot of luck on his side. He was beaten twice on clean breakaways but in one instance Dennis MacCormack hit the post and minutes later Terry Meagher shot behind the goalie but the puck came out the other side without crossing the goal line.

Besides Moore, Belleville goals were scored by Daryl Demers, Dennis MacCormack, Bill Storms and Terry Meagher. Fred Sickle, Charlie Powell, Meagher, Bruce Harrison, Dick Fobert and Bill Buchanan earned assists.

Bill Hay potted two Kingston goals with Dwain Carlyle and Colin Loudon netting the others.

Play ranged from end to end all night as the pint-sized stars stole the show from their "bigger brothers" in the later bantam and midget games.

In the Midget tilt, Kingston simply had too much of everything from goal out. The winning club did not show a weakness while piling up four goals in the first period, five more in the second and another trio late in the third against Cliff McGrimmon's game but outclassed Belleville crew.

Centre Syl Apps, son of the ex-Leaf star by the same name, played tremendous two-way hockey to spark Kingston. He earned two goals and three assists. Mike Flanigan, Tim Shea, Scott Nicholson and Alan Breen also starred for the winners.

Rick Smith, John MacKay, each with one goal and two assists, also starred on the attack.

Kingston drew the lion's share of the game's penalties as the disciplined and well-behaved Belleville squad stuck to hockey despite the whipping. Only one fight developed, late in the game between MacKay and Steve Holmes. Belleville goalie Paul Smith was badly overworked and made a number of fine saves despite a leg injury that delayed the game.

In the Bantam tilt, Belleville Oddfellows trailed 1-0 and 4-0 by periods but concentrated more on belittling the referees during the game's second half than they did on playing hockey. Team officials Wilson and Cole led the verbal attack on the officials, adding little to their club's hopes for victory or at the worst, defeat in good sportsmanship. The losing players shook hands with the opposition at games' end despite their coaches' protests.

Pete Fleming got a goal and assist for Belleville, Larry Moore firing the other goal and Clint getting an assist.

Paul Gavel and Ron Lawson were tops for Kingston with two goals and two assists each. Phil Huestis, Don Best and Larry Brook scored once each for the close-checking crew.

Penalties were five aside, all minors.

Hornets Bomb Tars 11-1

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The cellar-dwelling Port Colborne Sailors aren't going anywhere in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series this season but they do allow opposing players to fatten their points production.

Take Joe Hogan of Galt Hornets. Prior to Friday's game in which the Hornets bombed the Sailors 11-1, Hogan was 19th in the individual scoring parade.

But a six-point performance, including a hat trick, enabled Hogan to move a few notches up the ladder.

Ron Hergott, the loop's top scorer, picked up two goals—his 36th and 37th—to increase his lead. Jim Dahmer collected a goal, his 25th, and as assist to grab a share of third place.

DEADLOCK REMAINS

In other games, Woodstock Athletics remained deadlocked with Galt by dumping Welland Buriloks 8-5, while Guelph Regals edged Oakville Oaks 7-6.

Bob McKnight also picked up a two goals in Galt's win with Earl Reid, Ron Tennant and Ran Brain getting the others. Jack Gibson ruined Dave Dryden's shutout bid with a third-period goal.

TIME OFF FOR VISIT

QUEBEC (CP)—Premier Lesage had some welcome news for legislature members Thursday—the House will only sit three days next week.

Juniors Meet To Arrange Playdowns

Eastern Ontario junior hockey officials will meet at Memorial Arena here next Wednesday night to draw up playdowns schedules.

In the "B" division, it looks at the moment that Belleville will meet Peterborough in the semi-finals, the winner taking on the Kingston leaders.

Picton is leading the "C" division by a scant point over Napanee. The latter club has a game to play and would take over top spot with a victory.

Four "C" clubs will go into the playdowns with the top club having a choice of opponents.

The meeting is scheduled to start at eight o'clock sharp.

GORDIE HOWE'S HOCKEY
By GORDIE HOWE

The matter of timing and knowing the habits of the referees are two important factors in winning faceoffs. That's why I'd say Bill Gadsby is the best man on the Red Wings for taking faceoffs in our end.

Bill is in his 18th season in the National Hockey League, a real workhorse.

Some referees just drop the puck in the faceoff circle. Others fire it in and you have to be much quicker in your moves.

If he is accustomed to firing the puck to the ice, you watch his hand. You know the position of your stick as soon as he makes a move to release the puck you go into the centre faceoff spot with your stick.

You run it straight in then turn the blade and turn the upper hand out to throw the stick sideways and at an angle. You pull the puck out as fast as you can.

In a lot of cases, believe it or not, when a referee just lobs the puck in you're in and out of there with your stick before the puck hits the ice.

A fast man many times will beat you to the ice with the puck. You have to be equal quick with him. It's all timing.

Gadsby doesn't get much of the puck when he faces me. He just touches the puck and tries to get it behind him or around his feet.

Then he follows through and tangles the men he's facing off with, back him up real good.

Teeder Kennedy of Toronto used to be one of the league's standouts in winning faceoffs.

Alex Delvecchio, the Red Wings' captain, is a good fellow for stealing the puck or getting the puck back to us on the faceoff.

Red Kelly, my ex-teammate is talented, particularly adept in controlling the puck with his feet. Another Toronto player good at faceoffs is Bob Pulford.

Don McKenney of the Rangers and Fleming Mackell, who used to be with Boston are some of the others.

"WIVES AND LOVERS"

Spicy New Screen Comedy Stars Janet Leigh, Van Johnson and Shelley Winters

When a man suddenly becomes wealthy, he tosses away his shabby suit, trades in the old jalopy for a shiny new car —and sometimes figures on trading in the "old" wife. That's the premise of Hal Wallis' sophisticated comedy, "Wives and Lovers," which opens Monday at the Park Theatre. This Paramount release has a star-studded cast headed by Janet Leigh, Van Johnson, Shelley Winters, Martha Hyer, Ray Walston and Jeremy Slate.

"Wives and Lovers" is the hilarious story of today's young moderns, and their problems with money, not too little, but too much! Johnson is seen as a struggling writer, while his wife (Miss Leigh) gets a job to keep the hamburgers burning at home. The sudden sale of Johnson's book, as a novel, a play and a movie, brings them instant wealth, which goes to his head—and another woman's boudoir.

Helping in the romantic merry-go-round are Shelley Winters, Martha Hyer, Ray Walston and Jeremy Slate. Miss Winters, former Academy Award winner, portrays a wise cracking divorcee, at home in Hollywood, New York or any cocktail party. Martha Hyer, as a sophisticated model girl, plays the chic literary agent, whose interest in her clients does not always stop at his typewriter.

Ray Ralston, remembered on stage and screen for "South Pacific" and as the Devil in "Damn Yankees," stars as Miss Winters' boy friend, Jeremy Slate, previously seen with Elvis Presley in "G.I. Blues" and "Girls! Girls! Girls!" Slate stars as a dashing young actor devoted to the pursuit of happiness, regardless of color, shade, blonde, brunette or redhead. A bright, young newcomer, Chris Pincus, proves that old axiom about children. Hollywood insiders say this is the child who will definitely be heard.

The added comedy in Technicolor, "Papa's Delicate Condition" stars Jackie Gleason, Glynis Johns and Charlie Ruggles. One complete show, starts at 7.30.

AT THE BELLE — Animal Heroes of Walt Disney's Technicolor feature, "The Incredible Journey," pause for a moment during their 200-mile trek through the Canadian wilderness. The Buena Vista release, based on Sheila Burnford's best-selling novel, is narrated by Rex Allen and is now playing at the Belle Theatre.

Destry Gallops Into Town But May Face Rough Ride

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Friday night a new western galloped into television when Destry shoot-out against great odds.

ABC's Destry replaced 77 Sunset Strip, which a change of format could not save.

Destry, from the same Revue stable that has produced Wagon Train and The Virginian, faced two hazards: Television westerns are on the decline; seldom has a mid-season entry scored a success.

These hazards are viewed realistically by John Gavin, fifth notable to play Destry, the reluctant hero. The others: Tom Mix, James Stewart, Audie Murphy on the screen, Guy Griffith on Broadway.

"Of course I think it was a rat-fink trick of the network to put me on in mid-season when the odds so heavily against us," said Gavin. "But I think we have a reasonable chance of succeeding.

"At least our chances look better to me now that we have reached a semblance of agreement on what the character of Destry is to be. There was much confusion at the start and a change of production personnel so that the concept wasn't clear at all.

"It would be senseless to attempt the standard type of western hero. Destry is a non-hero, yet he is no Maverick type of con man. And he certainly isn't a coward—the audience wouldn't buy that.

"He is the kind of a man that things happen to. For example, Una Merkel will a nice little lady who likes to rob banks. He feels sorry for her and so finds himself digging a tunnel to the bank to put the money back.

AT THE PARK — Jackie Gleason's family in the new Paramount comedy "Papa's Delicate Condition" consists of his wife, Glynis Johns; his oldest daughter, Laurel Goodwin; and his little daughter, Linda Bruhl. In technicolor, "Papa's Delicate Condition" opens Monday at the Park Theatre for a 3 day engagement only. On the same program comes stars, Janet Leigh, Van Johnson and Shelley Winters in "Wives and Lovers". Both hits are first showings. One complete show starts at 7.30 p.m.

Litz Hits For Three In 6-3 Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Toronto Maple Leafs, whose sharpshooters haven't been able to hit the side of a barn lately, cut a passage Friday from their old pal Eddie Litzenberger.

The 31-year-old veteran, demoted to the American Hockey League this season after serving with the Stanley Cup champions for the last two years, returned from a five-week layoff with a knee injury and took personal charge of Rochester by scoring three goals in a 6-3 victory over Buffalo Bisons that solidified the winners' chances of a playoff berth.

The news was equally bad for Springfield Indians, cellar occupants in the Eastern Division, who took a 7-3 beating from Baltimore Clippers and found themselves 16 points shy of the nearest playoff spot with 29 games left in which to catch up.

MADE FAST START

Litzenberger, working on a line with Les Duff and rookie Mike Corbett, scored one goal and set up another by Corbett before the first period ended at Rochester.

Buys Three Top Fillies

TORONTO (CP)—Dr. E. Norman Anderson of Pinehurst Farm at Oak Bank, Man., acting for an unnamed syndicate, purchased three of the best-bred fillies in Canada for an undisclosed price, it was announced Friday.

Dr. Anderson purchased the three yearlings from Joe Tomlinson, who maintains several brood mares and racing stock at the National Stud Farm near Oshawa, Ont.

CHARLOTTETOWN (CP) — Co-chairman Davidson Dunton and Andre Laurendeau of the royal commission on bilingualism and biculturalism met with Premier Shaw and Prince Edward Island cabinet members Thursday. Rangers Nip Omaha 5-3, Braves Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Omaha Knights are so far ahead of the rest of the pack in the Central Professional Hockey League that it doesn't hurt them to drop a game once in awhile.

Friday they did just that, losing 5-3 to St. Paul Rangers, but they still have a 13-point lead over the second-place St. Louis Braves.

Meanwhile, the Braves rallied for five goals in the third period to register a 6-4 victory over Minneapolis Bruins.

Omaha 3-0 before the Rangers counted three unanswered goals in the middle period.

Wayne Hall knotted the score midway through the second and Bob Cunningham and Jack McCombe put St. Paul ahead to stay. Other Ranger goals went to Bob Wortywinch and Tom Taylor.

Flyers Tie Red Wings

Marlies Thump Rangers

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Toronto Marlboros unveiled a new version of "two-man platooning" Friday as they stretched their lead in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series standings to five points.

Regular goalie Gary Smith had a 2-0 shutout going for him in the second period against Kitchener Rangers when he suddenly became ill. The call went out to standby goalie Bill Henderson.

Henderson kept the door closed as the Marlboros moved into the third period leading 6-0. Then Henderson received a knee injury during a scramble around the Toronto net and was, in turn, replaced by Smith.

The Marlboros allowed the Rangers three goals in the final period and then pumped home three more to finish on top 9-3. The win enabled Toronto to open a five-point lead over the idle Montreal Junior Canadiens.

The only other game saw Niagara Falls Flyers close within two points of third place by virtue of a 2-2 tie with Hamilton Red Wings.

SCORES 2 GOALS

Ted Champagne fired two goals to pace Toronto. Others went to Peter Stemkowski, Mike Walton, Grant Moore, Wayne Carleton, Jack Chipchase, Ron Ellis and Ray Winterstein.

Gary Sabourin had a pair for the losers with Bill Hway adding the other.

The Wings, behind the superb goaltending of Alan Frank, built up a 2-0 lead going into the third period on goals by Peter Mahovlich and Jimmy Peters.

Niagara Falls took advantage of penalties in the final period to tie the score. Bill Bannerman clicked with the Wings two men short and Bud Debrody added the equalizer with Hamilton one man shy.

Jim Ferree Tops At Maracaibo

MARACAIBO (AP) — Defending champion Jim Ferree continued his dreadful putting Friday for a three-under-par 69 and a two-stroke lead at 136 at the-halfway mark of the Maracaibo Open in Venezuela, first stop on the Caribbean golf tour.

Ferree, a 32-year-old pro who won this tournament last year, went two strokes up on Art Wall and Jay Dolan.

Eight strokes back at 144 was George Knudson of Toronto.

Wilf Homeniuk of Winnipeg shot a 73-74—147, Andre Gagnier of Montreal had a 75-73—148, Andrien Bigras of Montreal had a 76-79—145, Harry McIlree of Hamilton had a 73-80—153, Ken Duggan of Agincourt, Ont., wound up with a 76-78—154, Norman Hunt of Montreal with a 78-82—157 and Murray Tucker of Toronto with a 82-85—164.

KUENN TAKES CUT

48 per cent from 52.

Certainly it is true that under the 48-per-cent rate, the situation will be different from that under the 52-per-cent rate," he said. "I am not prepared to say anything more than that, except that a new factor would be introduced."

When asked whether this new factor" would be a consideration in changing the present Canadian withholding tax as far as the present higher 30-per-cent rate is concerned, Gordon said that it would.

When a reporter phrased his question to ask whether there would be a "change again," Gordon replied with a smile that he is sensitive about the word "again." If this word is left out, he added, the reply would be "yes."

Gordon did not make clear why a progressive decline in the U.S. corporation income tax rate may make it less necessary to push the Canadian withholding rate to 30 per cent next year. However, some experts believe that when the U.S. corporation rate declines, the present Canadian withholding rate of 15 per cent would have sufficient "bite" to encourage U.S. firms in Canada to open their stock to Canadian purchasers.

HAS SOME BEARING

Gordon said the subject is very complicated, but that a decline in the U.S. corporation rate would have "some bearing" on the Canadian withholding tax. The assurance that the proposed U.S. income tax reductions would be approved by Congress had indicated a "new factor" in the issue.

Under the existing Canada-U.S. tax convention, the U.S. withholding rate on dividends repatriated to Canada would rise to 30 per cent from 15 next year if Canada imposed the 20-per-cent rate. Canadians earn about $90,000,000 a year in dividends in the U.S., while Americans earn about $425,000,000 in Canada.

Gordon said he didn't believe anyone would want to see the U.S. rate rise to 30 per cent. If this happened, he might come under pressure at home to take similar action against the Americans.

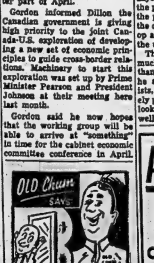
He added also that the present Canadian withholding tax rate averages out to about 15 per cent at the present time and "I think this is reasonably accepted." He did not believe anyone would like to see it doubled.

When asked why Canada should not reduce its income tax to match U.S. rates in reductions, Gordon noted that it takes a long time to get tax changes approved in the U.S., whereas the Canadian Parliament acts at once. It was an advantage for Canada that it did not have to wait 6 to 10 months for changes as is the case in the U.S.

DEPUTY CONSIDERABLE

The situation between the two countries was not comparable, he added. In comparative terms, the U.S. budget deficit was smaller than the one in Canada. However, if the U.S. tax cuts stimulated the economy, the result would be "good for all of us."

Gordon said he would like to see Congress deal with the proposed U.S. tax on foreign securities as quickly as possible. The uncertainty over the future of this was causing difficulties for Canada in borrowing funds in the U.S. However, he had been advised by Dillon that the bill, which had been passed by the house ways and means committee, would likely be pushed through Congress within the next month or so.



In discussing the Canadian automobile pact signed last year with Dillon, Gordon said he was able to assure him that this Canadian production-sharing policy, which had been sharply criticized by Commerce Secretary Luther Hodges, was worked out without much fanfare or excitement in Canada. He believed the pact would be successful, "without it being nearly as disruptive as some U.S. officials had anticipated."

TO START BUDGET

Gordon said also he will start working on his new budget next Tuesday after next week's Cabinet caucus Monday and that the next meeting of the Canada-U.S. committee, on economic matters, will meet at Ottawa in the latter part of April.

Gordon confirmed Dillon the Canadian government is giving high priority to the joint Canada-U.S. exploration of developing a new set of economic principles to guide cross-border relations. Machinery for this exploration was set up by Prime Minister Pearson and President Johnson at their meeting here last month.

Gordon said he now hopes that the working group will be able to arrive at "something" in time for the cabinet economic committee conference in April.

DESERONTO

B. McMillan Resigns From Police Force

DESERONTO — Chief of Police Ken Gloster announced this week the resignation of his full-time assistant, Barry McMillan, from the police force.

Constable McMillan had been sharing the heavy duties of policing this community with Chief Gloster for some time, each working an 84-hour week.

Chief Gloster says that "a place such as Deseronto is an ideal spot for criminals working east and west to make a hit-and-run raid.

He said that with modern police methods it was possible to know in advance that known criminals were heading in the direction of Deseronto. Often the policeman's work consisted in seeing that they continued on through without exercising their profession.

He added that apprehensions had been made on occasion when the town had become a target for operation but that generally speaking it was often considered a good place to hit.

Chief Gloster stated that Constable McMillan had more than done his share of the work. He gave no indication as to where the former constable had gone.

Mr. McMillan was not available for comment.

Need to Preserve Natural Beauty Stressed at Sportsmen's Club

CAMPBELLFORD — Harry Bradley, history teacher at Campbellford District High School and former MP for Northumberland riding spoke to members of the Campbellford Sportsmen's Club here Tuesday night, pointing out to them, and to the public at large, the value, both real and intrinsic of Ferris Memorial Park, the development of which is the club's major project.

In his talk, Mr. Bradley referred to former U.S. president "Teddy" Roosevelt as one of the great conservationists, and of his efforts to establish national parks within the United States. In pointing out the need for present day man to preserve natural resources, Mr. Bradley made reference to the Cedars of Lebanon, destroyed forever through lack of foresight. Today, architects and planners of cities and towns often spend large sums of money to ensure ample green belts and parks, knowing these areas add greatly to the appearance and to the economy of a community.

"Today, more than ever," Mr. Bradley said, "there is a need to preserve our natural resources, particularly in this area, where areas which have not taken steps to conserve and preserve nature have lived to regret their lack of foresight, and dwindling tourist trade in these areas often seriously affects the economy.

185 ACRE PARK

Mr. Bradley said that in donating the 185 acre park to the club, the Ferris family of Campbellford had handed the club a challenge, not only to its members, but to the people of the area, to maintain the property for the use of all, to remain in its natural state for the use of the public at large, and that it ought to be turned into a commercial enterprise. He pointed out that the park was not just for the use of club members, and the the club members realized this perhaps more than some others. It was the reason the public should solidly support the project by co-operating with the club in its efforts to develop and improve the property for the use of all.

The property represented much more to the community than many people first realized, he said, adding that industrialists, anxious to move from densely populated metropolitan areas looked for communities with well-planned recreational facilities and natural green belts, to ensure that employees had such facilities to take advantage of in their leisure time.

"The world is full of people who take — here is an opportunity for each of us to help give nature back to nature," he said. "The 185 - acre park would be a lasting influence on our children, and represented a valuable asset to the community in many ways," the speaker stated.

Mr. Bradley was introduced by Ralph Nuttall and thanked by Murray Locke.

During the business portion of the meeting, membership fees for 1964 were set at $2 for residents, $1 for noon residents and $3 for a family. A special student fee of $1 was established for the first time.

A letter to the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests, pointing out the results of a survey conducted by members of the rifle, trap and pistol clubs, most of whom are members of the Sportsmen's Club was read. The letter dealt with a survey made by members relative to the establishment of a controlled shooting range at the park, but no action could be taken as no answer has yet been received from the department. The matter will be discussed at the next meeting.

President William Moon, in addressing the group, praised the efforts of the 1963 executive, and outlined the large amount of time they devoted to the club often receiving little recognition.

Craig Whitton was appointed a chairman in charge of fishing activities, and Donald Free was appointed to take charge of the fishing committee.

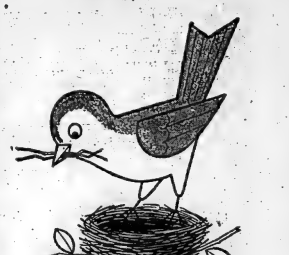
55-Year-Old Widow Feels Urge to Start New Career

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS — I tried carrying on our variety store after my husband died but ended up with a case of nerves. Now my son-in-law has taken over and I am happy to leave it with the young folks.

Life looked black until I got a wild idea. I'm 55. My special pleasure in the shop has always been meeting people. Our other interest was travel and we went many places in Europe.



Is there any chance of a woman of my age getting a position in connection with people travelling? So many older people travel now and could use help in decisions, shopping and someone to listen to their problems.

For the first time since being widowed I feel an interest in going on. I'm not really lonely. I have too many good memories and I'd like to help other people make theirs. — AN OLD DAY DREAMER.

DEAR DAY DREAMER — It's a lovely dream, and a practical one. There's a big room in travel and a place for travel-wise advisers. At 55 you are just right for a second career: you've been through the mill, can work with people, and have "been to see."

I am sending you the name of a travel organization which can egg you on. Let's hear how you make out.

Terrorists Bomb Saigon Theatre For Americans

Three Americans Die, Sixty Persons Injured

By MALCOLM W. BROWNE

SAIGON (AP)—Police seized a wounded rickshaw driver as a prime suspect today in a U.S. theatre bombing that killed three Americans including a marine captain cut down by debris as he shouted a warning.

The shattering blast Sunday wounded 31 other Americans and nine Vietnamese in the bloodiest terrorist attack to date on Americans in Saigon.

The marine captain saw a Vietnamese in white shirt and dark trousers dash into the theatre lobby and drop the bomb, which was wrapped in white cloth. The captain ran into the theatre shouting:

"Everyone get down! There's a bomb!"

The captain's warning saved many of the 500 persons inside from death but he himself fell through the flying debris.

GUARD SHOT

One of the dead was a military policeman shot while on guard outside the theatre. The body of the third American was so badly mangled identification was delayed.

"As soon as we got the warning," said Sgt. Lloyd B. Cogo of Caldwell, Idaho, "everyone jumped down or started moving my guys from the rear wall of the theatre."

Just as the orange flash of the explosion, and I saw debris falling from the ceiling. A lot of people were scrambling around under the seats. No one was screaming, but there was a lot of noise."

U.S. Charge d'Affaires Davis G. Noe met with Premier Nguyen Khanh to discuss better security measures for the nearly 16,000 Americans in Saigon. He said Khanh proposed a two-section council of six members to study counter measures aimed at improving security. Three U.S. security men were named on the council, which held its first meeting this afternoon.

Vietnamese officials were interrogating the possible involvement of police in the theatre bombing. One U.S. witness said he saw a bicycle a few minutes before the explosion.

The U.S. command in South Vietnam ordered security measures tightened to protect American personnel in the capital from lurking by the Communist Viet Cong. Feb. 1, two

Robarts Rapped By Labor

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP) The Ontario Federation of Labor has accused Premier Robarts of attempting to sabotage the Canada Pension Plan.

Federation Secretary - Treasurer Douglas Hamilton issued a strongly-worded statement during the weekend taking issue with the Ontario premier's letter to Prime Minister Pearson last week which included in its criticism the contention that the federal plan offered no indication of how it would be integrated with existing pension plans.

Issued at a federation education conference, the statement said the premier's criticism only added to confusion surrounding the plan.

The statement said Mr. Robarts' letter was a transparent attempt to sabotage the plan. It said Mr. Pearson has made it clear the federal plan would not require adjustment of private pension plans.

The prime minister included no less than seven paragraphs on the subject of plan integration, Mr. Hamilton said.

SEES MISINFORMATION

"Those who are talking about integration of pensions are either themselves misinformed or have deliberately set out to misinform the people, and in particular, employees and employees, who are involved in existing pension arrangements," he added.

Mr. Hamilton said the people of Ontario want constructive suggestions rather than rejections on such matters.

Two other labor officials at the conference accused labor movements of being asleep and out of pace with new developments.

Murray Cotterill, public relations director of the United Steelworkers of America (CLC) said:

"We haven't had one new idea in years. It is ridiculous to continue the same old way of problems today are vastly dif-

Historian Says Nazi Atrocities Natural Development in Germany

FRANKFURT (AP)A German historian told the Auschwitz trial today that Nazi atrocities against the Jews were a "natural, evolutionary development of German history."

Dr. Helmut Krausnick, 50, of the Munich Institute of Modern History, told West Germany's largest war crimes trial that "Adolf Hitler was not an accident but the result of centuries of anti-semitism in Germany."

The prosecution called Krausnick to the trial of 22 former SS elite guards and Nazi functionaries at Auschwitz concentration camp to tell what caused the Germans to support a government that tried to liquidate world Jewry.

Krausnick is a specialist on anti-semitism and director of the institute, a government-supported organization specializing in the history of national socialism.

Tracing the history of German anti-semitism from the Middle Ages, Krausnick said the Nazis were the first to make it a basic policy of government. He said Jews were forced to live ways intended to wipe out world Jewry, many other Germans, members of non-Aryan members of the Nazi party, were merely interested in shipping the Jews off to the east.

Commenting on the passivity of the mass of Germans toward the atrocities suffered by their Jewish neighbors, Krausnick said Germans had been conditioned by generations to believe they were innately superior to other nationalities, but primarily superior to Jews and the Slavs of eastern Europe.

Acid Test Coming Up For Govt.

By KEN KELLY

OTTAWA (CP) Parliament meets Tuesday with a changed executive and a slightly different mood from the post-election session of last May.

The session, which starts with the reading of the throne speech by Governor - General Vanier, will be the acid test of the new ministerial lineup and cabinet reorganization worked out by Prime Minister Pearson since the last session ended in December.

It also may see less attention from the opposition parties to the issues arising from last spring's election that brought the minority Liberal government to power.

The—Progressive Conservatives, fresh from efforts at their national convention to heal the party firmly on the comeback trail, are expected to spend more time on the "should-bes" of the legislative program than the "might-have-beens" of their losing election effort last year.

Although outnumbered 126 to 129 by the combined opposition parties, the Liberals are in no real danger of the kind of Commons defeat which would cause an election—always presuming the government national issue arises.

OPPOSE VOTE

Both the 17-member New Democratic and the 11-member Social Credit groups have taken public stands that an election now would be wrong and that there's need for action on or additions to the government's legislative plans.

However, the 96 Conservatives will be pressed to table substitute, a government-supported organization specializing in the history of national socialism.

The 13 - member Creditiste group, smarting from their failure to crack Liberal strongholds in the two Montreal byelections can be counted on to try to embarrass the government in the eyes of the Quebec voter.

Mr. Pearson faces Parliament with a realigned cabinet, minus two former warhorses—Lionel Chevrier and Azellus Denis—but with two new and younger ministers—Forestry Minister Sauve and Yvon Dupuis, minister without portfolio.

Port Credit Man Dies In 401 Crash

Vehicle Hits Overpass At Wallbridge Road

A Port Credit man — who may have fallen asleep driving Highway 401, died instantly this morning when his car wrecked itself against the Wallbridge Road overpass.

Police also surmise that 25-year-old Dugald Rasiscot could have been the victim of a heart seizure. A post mortem may give a clue to the cause of the mishap.

Tire marks in the snow-covered median charted an unerring course for a centre pillar supporting the overpass. The impact slewed the 1963 automobile back on the highway and scattered wreckage along the median.

Fierce Fighting At Two Points On Border

CP from Reuters-AP

ADDIS ABABA—Fierce fighting broke out at two points on the Ethiopian - Somali border Sunday, breaking a cease-fire agreement that went into effect at noon.

The Ethiopian defence ministry said fighting continued Sunday night at Dolo and Yefi.

Greek Centre Party Wins Solid Majority in Voting

ATHENS (AP)—Elder statesman George Papandreou will form a new Greek government backed by a solid majority in Parliament following his moderate Centre Union party's sweeping election victory.

The 76-year-old Papandreou was expected to appear at the Royal Palace Tuesday to accept King Paul's summons to form a new cabinet. It will be his third term as premier.

Nearly complete returns from the voting Sunday showed the Centre Union had won 175 to 180 seats in the 300-member single chamber Parliament, allowing Papandreou's party to rule with an absolute majority in the next four years.

The Centre Union cut sharply into the strength of the rightist National Radical Union and the pro-Communist United Democratic Left. About 4,500,000 persons out of 8,400,000 voted.

The Greeks returned to the polls for the second time in four months Nov. 3, the Centre Union posed out the Radical Union, then headed by former premier Constantine Caramanlis, but lacked 13 seats for a majority. Papandreou formed a tiles.

Secret War Is Waged For Land

By GEORGE McARTHUR

KHARTOUM (AP)A vicious, hit - and - run war is raging almost secretly over a parched wasteland in the southern Sudan nearly as big as France.

Generally backed by about 3,500,000 pagans, a handful of Christian-educated leaders are attempting to wrest three squalid provinces from Arab-ruled Sudan and create an African state of Azania.

Striking from brush and marshes, near-naked tribal warriors have isolated government outposts. In many places the only safe travel is by convoy.

Government reprisals have sent thousands seeking refuge across nearby frontiers. The jails are full.

The Sudan African National Union claims 10,000 Sudanese troops are tied down in three southern provinces, Equatoria, Upper Nile and Bahr al Gazzal. Conservative estimates say one third of Sudan's 18,000 - man army is engaged.

NEWS SCARCE

Government reticence and the inaccessibility of the area have served to keep news from seeping out, though serious fighting has been going on for more than a year.

The fighting—pitting Negro against Arab in open warfare—touches sensitive nerves not only in Sudan but in bordering Ethiopia, Kenya, Uganda and The Congo.

The leader of the southerners, a tall, nervous Dinka tribesman named William Deng, claims "we are looking for a peaceful settlement.

But in almost the same breath he adds that the southerners want independence and the only thing they are willing to negotiate is a self-determination plebiscite, which they are confident of winning overwhelmingly.

700 Surrounded By Greeks Near Town Of Polis

Situation Is Tense Says UN Observer

By JOHN EARLE

NICOSIA (Reuters) — One hundred British paratroopers headed for the southern Cyprus mining town of Polis today where 700 Turkish - Cypriots were reported to be surrounded by Greek-Cypriots.

A United Nations observer also made a separate trip to Polis.

A British military spokesman announcing the manoeuvre, said the troops were inside a school building, dispirited and short of food. Greeks were dug in 100 yards away.

There was no shooting overnight but the situation was tense, the spokesman said.

The UN observer, Lt.-Gen. Prem Singh Gyani of India, flew first to Kiima, the main administrative centre for western Cyprus, to pick up Greek- and Turkish - Cypriot district leaders, and then went on to Polis.

The British spokesman said Kiima was tense but otherwise the island today was generally quiet following a weekend which saw bloodshed threatened in intervention by Turkey and, finally, an appeal for peace by Cypriot President Makarios.

Some 17th British troop reinforcements headed here to bolster harassed British forces who have been keeping an uneasy peace on the stricken island.

Sunday night another ceasefire was negotiated at Ayios Theodoros where fighting between Greek- and Turkish-Cypriots broke out Sunday. A previous cease-fire negotiated by the British was broken.

In Sunday's fighting British military sources said one body was found, believed to be that of a Greek-Cypriot.

During the weekend there were reports of Turkish naval movements in the area off Cyprus. But this was interpreted as a threat by Turkey to use their right on intervention on the island conferred by agreements reached when the 1960 Cyprus constitution was drafted.

Turkey said Makarios' plea for peace was coupled with an assurance that the Greek Cypriots—representing about 80 per cent of the population of 500,000 — would fight "against any design of annexation."

In a radio broadcast Makarios said he did not object to a large military force on the island to keep the peace—under certain conditions.

He believed no military force could carry out its mission on Cyprus if Greek- and Turkish-Cypriots did not show a desire to live together in peace.

Ruby's Trial Opens

By REIMAN MORDY

DALLAS (AP)—Lawyers for Jack Ruby opened his murder trial today with a motion for a directed verdict of acquittal and Judge Joe B. Brown promptly overruled it.

The defence lawyers, Melvin Belli and Joe Tonahill, said they based the motion on the result of a neurological examination of Ruby conducted January 29-30.
